COX, MYERS NAMED TO FEDERAL POSTS

Weston Resident Named to Railroad Study Commission

WESTON -- MIT Professor, Charles A. Myers of Weston, has been appointed to a special 15-man emergency commission to investigate the dispute between railroads and operating unions over work rules and practices. The appointment was made by President Eisenhower.

The commission will study the long-standing dispute over featherbedding -- the practice of keeping extra men on jobs that the railroads claim are no longer necessary for efficient operation.

The railroads say that featherbedding costs them about $500 million annually; but the unions claim the extra men are necessary for safe operations.

The commission will be headed by Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell.

Prof. Myers has been on the MIT faculty for 21 years and has had considerable experience in labor relations mediations for the Federal Government.

He was a panel member of the National War Labor Board in Boston in 1944 and 1945; later became an industrial relations specialist for the State Dept.'s exchange program; and from 1957 to 1959 was a member of the Federal Advisory Council on employment security.

This week, Prof. Myers left for a conference on government, labor and management to be held next week in Lagos, Nigeria, Africa.

The conference is jointly sponsored by the Ford Foundation and the College in Ibadin, Nigeria. Participating nations include Nigeria, Ghana, Ivory Coast, Senegal, Togo, and the Republic of Mali.

Prof. Myers has made similar trips in the past -- last summer he and his wife spent several weeks

Wayland Selectman Resigns To Be Solicitor General

WAYLAND -- President-elect John F. Kennedy last week appointed Wayland Selectman Archibald Cox to the post of U. S. Solicitor General for the new administration.

Mr. Cox has been associated with the President-elect for some time. As a Royall professor of law at Harvard University, Mr. Cox has specialized in labor law, and was Mr. Kennedy's advisor on the labor reform bill of 1959.

During the recent campaign, he wrote several labor "position" speeches for Mr. Kennedy.

Because of his new appointment, Mr. Cox will resign from his post as Wayland Selectman, in a letter to Selectman Chairman Thomas F. Linnehan this week, he presented his plans for the resignation:

Dear Mr. Linnehan:

President-elect Kennedy has asked me to serve as Solicitor General of the United States in his administration. Presumably he will submit my name to the Senate shortly after his inauguration on Jan 20, 1961, and I would take office if and when confirmed.

Since my duties would take me to Washington, I could not continue to serve on the Board of Selectmen, even though my term does not expire until March, 1962. I am anxious to handle my resignation in a way which will be simplest and easiest for the town officials and in the best interests of the town.

For me to resign immediately would either create a vacancy or put the town to the trouble and expense of a special election. The simplest and least expensive way to choose a successor would be at the annual elections on March 6, 1961.

For me to delay announcing my resignation until later, however, might create a degree of uncertainty incompatible with a free and fair election. Accordingly, I have decided to resign, and do hereby resign effective Monday, March 6, 1961.

I am informed that this will permit those who desire to run for the office to circulate nomination papers in January and appear on the ballot in March.

May I say that it has been a real pleasure to serve with you both. I shall greatly miss town activities, but I draw much satisfaction from the knowledge that you will be there, and I sincerely hope that the town will continue to use your experience and wisdom in the office for a long time to come.

Sincerely yours,
Archibald Cox

Mr. Cox graduated from Harvard in 1934 and became a clerk for Judge Learned Hand of the Circuit Court of Appeals in New York. He later joined the Boston law firm of Ropes, Gray, Best, Coolidge and Rugg.

During World War II, he served on the National Defense Mediation Board staff and later joined the Solicitor General's office, which he

Sheltering Home Told To Resubmit Application

Selectmen Rule Shelter Permit Granted Illegally

WAYLAND -- Wayland Selectmen at a meeting Monday night declared the disputed cat shelter building permit at 302A Concord Rd. invalid and requested the Ellen M. Gifford Sheltering Home to submit a new application, complete with plans, specifications, and a Board of Health report.

The selectmen's action was taken after North Wayland residents proved to their satisfaction that the original building permit was granted without required information being submitted.

In revoking the building permit, the Board upheld the ruling Monday afternoon of Wayland Building inspector Homer MacDonald. The Board's statement said:

Statement

"Pursuant to a previous notice, a meeting of the Board of Selectmen was held at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 3, 1961. Present were Messrs. (Thomas) Linnehan, (Frank) Tarr, and (Archibald) Cox. Also Town Counsel (Frank) Kilburn.

"The chairman called the attention of the Board to the attached letter from the Board of Health to the building inspector dated Jan. 3, 1961.

The building inspector reported that he had revoked the building permit previously issued to the Ellen M. Gifford Sheltering Home Corp. on the ground that the permit was vitiated by a fundamental mistake, to wit that the necessary clearance on sewage disposal permit had not been obtained from the Board of Health as required by Section 4D of the building code.

"On motion of Mr. Tarr, second by Mr. Cox, the Board unanimously voted to ratify and confirm the action of the building inspector.

"On motion of Mr. Cox, second by Mr. Tarr, the Board unanimously voted to revoke said permit upon the ground stated by the building inspector."

Snpporters Praised

Upon learning of the revoking, Fred Cartier, 298 Concord Rd., one of the leading opponents of the cat shelter, said that his group wishes to thank everyone who helped in the fight against the shelter's installation.

"It was a long, hard fight," he said, "but it was worth it. Now, we hope everyone turns out for the special town meeting Wednesday night so that this thing can't happen again."

Although the fight against construction of the shelter had been carried on for several reasons, it was not until North Wayland residents and their attorneys discovered that the required building information was omitted that town officials were able to do anything.

Prior to that time, the building

Area Residents May Qualify for Social Security

Social Security District Manager Norman A. Keyes stated today that in day-to-day operations of the Waltham office, he and fellow employes still find area residents who do not realize that they may qualify at any age for social security disability cash benefits.

Mr. Keyes explained that under the new law signed by the President on September 13, 1960, many workers who become totally disabled under 65 years of age and certain of their dependents may be paid monthly cash disability benefits. Under the old law, no disability benefits were payable if the worker was under age 50.

To qualify for these benefits, Mr. Keyes said, the disabled worker must meet two conditions: (1) have social security credit for at least 5 years out of the 10 years just before he became disabled and (2) have a severe and long lasting disability which keeps him from doing any substantial work.

Cox, Myers Commended For Latest Appointments

Speaking for the residents of Weston and Wayland, The Town Crier this week wishes to congratulate and comment MIT Professor Charles A. Myers of Weston and Harvard Professor Archibald Cox on their recent appointments.

Their selection to important federal posts not only speaks well for them, but for the two towns which are proud to have them as residents.

Both have been active in national affairs for some time.

Prof. Myers has long been recognized as an expert in labor-management relations, and his appointment to the special 15-man commission to investigate railroad work rules and practices is a natural one.

Mr. Cox is also an authority on labor laws. In 1954 and again last spring, he helped arbitrate the wage issue between the brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the railroads. He was also one of President-elect Kennedy's chief advisors on labor affairs during the recent election campaign and wrote several of Mr. Kennedy's speeches.

Although his appointment as solicitor general for the new administration will require his resignation from the Wayland Board of Selectmen and a leave of absence from Harvard, he is still expected to keep his eye on local and state affairs.

As both take over their new posts within the next few days, The Town Crier joins area residents in wishing them good luck and God speed.

Zoning Amendment Would Safeguard Law's Purpose

Although it looks like the proposed cat shelter at 302A Concord Rd. in Wayland may not be finished, the danger of a similar problem in the future is not entirely eliminated.

Even now the Ellen M. Gifford Sheltering Home may still apply for a building permit if required plans and specifications are given, and Wayland Building Inspector Homer MacDonald would be required to grant it.

It seems to us that the lesson learned by North Wayland residents, who fought the shelter, should not be forgotten until final action is taken to eliminate all danger of a similar situation happening again.

The only way to do this is for Wayland citizens to approve the proposed zoning amendment at the special town meeting Wednesday night.

If the amendment is passed, charitable institutions will not be banned from the town; but a special permit for them will be required from the Board of Appeals. This step will allow just one more safeguard against undesirable institutions in the town.

In addition, the amendment would pinpoint responsibility for determining the acceptability of the permit. Town officials would no longer be accused of evading their duty over a similar issue.

For this reason, we urge all Wayland residents to appear at the special town meeting in the Junior High School gym Wednesday at 7:45 p.m. and vote on this measure.

Emerson Patients Have Brighter Christmas

To the Editor:

No one wants to spend Christmas in a hospital but of necessity there were some who were patients at Emerson on Christmas and have been patients this past week. In some instances there is much sadness connected with some of the individuals who are hospitalized but in general at Emerson, we try to make Christmas a happy time and we are helped immeasurably by the members of the hospital community; organizations and individuals from Acton, Boxborough, Carlisle, Concord, Lincoln, Bedford, Littleton, Maynard, Stow, Sudbury, Harvard and Wayland.

This year more people than ever have taken the time to bring some Christmas cheer to Emerson. Brownie, Cub Scout, Girl and Boy Scout troops have brought in trees, cookie trees, toys, tray favors, wreaths, paper stained glass windows, scrapbooks and many other articles for the children's ward and for the adult areas of the hospital. The Junior Aides and the Scouts have lifted their voices in song and brought pleasure to both hospital personnel and the patients.

Certainly, at Emerson, there is no lack of the true spirit of Christmas, and one feels that there is no lack of that spirit in the hospital community where so many have given of their time and effort to bring cheer and the spirit of the Christ Child to some less fortunate than they.

The Administrator Miss Elmina Snow, would like to thank all who did so much to make this Christmas such a pleasant one at the hospital, as well as those who do so much throughout the year - and wishes everyone in the community a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

- Elmina L. Snow,

Reaction of a cat shelter supporter.

Letters to the EDITOR

On Spelling Today

(Editor's note: the following letter was written in reply to an exchange of correspondence which appeared in the Crier of Dec. 22.)

Mr. W. Maxwell Griffin
The Wayland High School

Dear Mr. Griffin:

The letter addressed to you which Mrs. Louise Lawson of Weston released for publication in the December 22, 1960, Town Crier appears to me to constitute an entirely unwarranted criticism of your faculty's proficiency in the spelling and writing arts.

As you know I have a long association with the largest news service in the world. Proficiency in spelling and writing is a matter of importance to people in my profession. In recent years a large number of editors have become concerned at the apparent failure of the nation's elementary schools to turn out students who can spell.

If such a situation does exist (and I believe it does) it is no basis for unfair criticism of your faculty. Mrs. Lawson cites the title of a guidance department publication as an "example of poor spelling by the school authorities". I submit that the title in question properly falls into the category of proper names and as such may be spelled in any manner preferred by its authors.

A passage in a great book alludes to the responsibilities of those who would, "first cast the stone . . .". I commend it to the lady's attention and suggest that she direct her attention to a review of the play Pygmalion appearing in the current issue of the "Smoke Signal". I understand this publication is the Weston High School newspaper. This little gem of a review is attributed to a member of the English faculty at the Weston school.

I suggest to Mrs. Lawson that prolixity is no substitute for good writing nor do I think the term "snotty-nosed" is one which is in good taste for this type of publication.

Finally I suggest a look at the spelling of the obscure word, "Mellifluousness" in the headline over the review. Since this word does not appear in dictionaries of the desk type I had to refer to my copy of Webster's Unabridged. I found it in the Unabridged as the final reference. Of course it may have been a typo in the "Smoke Signal.

Since the original letter was sent to the Crier for publication I am sure you will understand why I am sending a copy of this effort to the editor of the newspaper. I beg your indulgence in that regard.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

From Indian Paths- Numbered Routes

There is an incorrect notion abroad that Massachusetts was all trackless forest, until our ancestors came, brought the spirit of progress, and all in a hurry, with surveyor's instruments developed our road system (which we find still inadequate).

The truth is that the "wilderness" here of colonial times was perfectly well known and familiar to its prehistoric inhabitants, though it appeared wild to the newly arrived village and town-born English. It was interlaced in all directions with Indian highways.

Take the prehistoric inhabitants of our part of the Sudbury Valley. Where would they have wanted to go, and how did they get there?

Sensible People

During these winter months, like sensible people, they stuck pretty close to home. About as far as they would want to go from the village wigwams would be to a pond, Heard's, or Cochituate or Nonesuch or Walden, to fish through the ice; or to the pine plains for kindling or candle wood.

For these there were well-worn local paths. Maybe, if the snow was deep enough to bog down the deer, they might put on snowshoes and head for some well-known deer run, hoping for some fresh meat for a change from corn, beans, dried berries and dried fish which they had stored (literally) in the cellar. Even then a path was needed so that the squaws could haul the meat home.

Salmon Spearing

When spring came, the local Indians were fortunate, for salmon came right up the rivers, and the falls at Saxonville on the Sudbury, and at Waltham and South Natick on the Charles were good spots to spear them. The local people might invite friends from other places not so well situated to come and share their bounty.

Perhaps, however, the local aborigines would follow the Nasheway Path which you call Rt. 117 north westward to the falls at Fitchburg. Perhaps they might even travel as you do over Rt. 2 as far west as the great falls on the Connecticut, now called Miller's and Turner's. This was a neutral meeting place where tribes from all directions came together, not only to fish, but for a week's fun and frolic.

To reach the other great fall at South Hadley, they would take Old Connecticut Path, shifting at Sturbridge, just as we do today, to the Bay Path through Brinfield and Palmer. More likely their destination would be the Merrimack's fall at Lowell.

Visit the Shore

Maybe during the summer, they might visit the shore for clams and lobsters. If Massachusetts Bay was their destination, Rt. 20 was even then well trodden, though only two or three feet wide. Or Narraganset Bay oysters might draw them over what we now call Rt. 126, through Medfield and the Blackstone Valley.

In fall deer hunting season the local Nipmucks might join with the rest of the tribe for a week's hunting in their deer pastures in Northern Worcester County, again by the Nasheway Path.

But, you say, you haven't mentioned canoes. Of course these people used canoes when they could: to Saxonville, for instance; to the North Billerica falls, to Fairhaven Bay for fresh water clams. Remember, however, that the rivers and ponds were frozen four months of the year, and in July, August and September many were too shallow and stony for a canoe. Often they didn't flow in the needed direction. So the Indians' narrow land routes led toward every quarter, often following the very rivers the canoes travelled.

If you doubt what I tell you about Indian highways, please ponder this; whence came these names, still in use after three and a half centuries: "Five Paths", "Old Connecticut Path," "Mohawk Trail," "Bay Path," "Nipmuck Trail," "Pequot Path" and many another?

NATURE AROUND US by Bill Ryder

The Hairy-Tailed Mole, A Solitary Creature

Finally after long speculation, I have found what makes the round piles of dirt in the field behind our house. These piles are about two inches high and as large as a foot in diameter.

On removing them I noted a hole about an inch round in the ground under the center of the pile. These piles were pushed up from underground by Moles, as they made their deeper tunnels.

The common mole in this area is the Hairy-tailed Mole (Brewer Mole). They are about six inches long, with a short pointed nose and the strangest looking front feet of any animal in this area. These feet are large, flat and spade-shaped with a heavy clawon each toe.

The Mole seems to swim through the ground, and when he is working near the surface he leaves a humped up tunnel in his wake.

The mole makes his nest deeper in the ground, pushing the dirt upward behind him to the surface. In April or May the young are born, and there are usually four to the litter.

Moles are solitary creatures, and there is usually only one adult to a series of runways through most of the year but in the spring you can sometimes see them on the surface in search of a mate.

Most animals have hair that grows slanting towards the tail - not the mole, his hair stands straight up, but is fine and short. This enables him to back up in his tunnel as well as go foreward.

The Mole's diet is bugs and worms which he encounters in his excavating work, and he probably does more good than harm when he gets in your lawn as he kills the larvae of many harmful insects.

Article 2: To see if the town will vote to authorize the Board of Selectmen to purchase, take by eminent domain, gift and/or other means, on behalf of the Town of Wayland, a drainage easement through and over certain land along Woodridge Rd. to provide drainage of surface water now flowing along Woodridge Rd. and onto Cochituate Rd.

Article 3: To see if the town will vote to authorize the Board of Selectmen to purchase, take by eminent domain, gift and/or other means, on behalf of the Town of Wayland, a drainage easement through and over certain land between Sears Rd. and Draper Rd.

Article 4: To see if the town will vote to amend the zoning by-laws by deleting therefrom and inserting an amendment to requirements for a special permit to erect charitable institutions in residential areas.

Article 5: To see if the town will vote to appropriate a sum of money for the purchase of two sidewalk tractors, together with plow equipment for use of the highway department.

Burned Boy Improving Again

WAYLAND -- Scott Kendall, the North Wayland boy, who was badly burned almost two months ago, has regained some of the ground lost last week.

His mother, Mrs. Delvin Kendall of Marshall Terrace, said this week that Scott's cold was slightly better and doctors were able to cover his back completely with new grafts.

She reported that the boy is in a "striker frame," which she described as something between a tea wagon and a rotisserie. It's a long padded bed designed to keep Scott from moving around too much and disturbing the recent skin grafts.

"He's on his tummy and can't see very much," she said, "but he's feeling better - and eating a little too."

A team of doctors is on hand to speed the skin grafting and to keep an eye on the boy at all times. He is in Massachusetts General Hospital.

completely either to become a trophy for somebody residing nearby or to be used as kindling or to be disposed of.

This, of course, was a thoughtless act by whomever committed it since the sign should have been rehung to balance off the entrance to our lovely neighborhood.

Be that as it may, I would have thought the Town of Wayland, with its great hoard of tax money could have expended the very few dollars necessary to produce a new sign and have it placed where it belongs so that residents and strangers entering Daymon Farms could be justly proud of the finished landscaping which this entrance should demonstrate.

It would be a wonderful New Year's resolution either by the person who purloined the sign or the Town of Wayland to right this anomoly in an otherwise beautifully kept residential showplace, Daymon Farms.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- The injured Pileated Woodpecker taken to Drumlin Farm on Dec. 4 by the Johnsons, Baker's Hill Rd., died on Dec. 7. Like most adult birds (particularly one with such a specialized diet), it would not eat, and even force-feeding by Ernest Eames, the sanctuary director, was not successful.

Another Ruffed Grouse survived a crash through a window - this time at the Pattersons on Conant Rd. Mrs. Patterson was able to pick up the bird and release it.

There are several theories on the cause of this rather common behavior of grouse during their so-called "crazy season." These birds are true "permanent residents" but when the young birds disperse in the fall to find their own territories, they are apt to fly wildly about, striking buildings, fences or windows, and usually killing themselves.

This may be due to an inherited urge to migrate or possibly an irritation caused by being heavily infested with internal parasites.

There are a few Purple Finches and Gold finches around, but no reports of Evening Grosbeaks have been received yet. The Western Tanager at the McMullins, Webster Rd., was still coming to their feeder for doughnuts on Dec. 14.

Mrs. Chandler on Silver Hill Rd. saw a bright male Bluebird in her yeard during the snowstorm on Dec. 12. A Flying Squirrel is a nightly visitor at the Hills' feeder on South Ave., undoubtedly the same one which they saw regularly last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fales, Merriam St., saw a Carolina Wren in their yard on Dec. 10, and on Dec. 15 it came to several of their feeders. Winter robins have been reported by Mrs. Thomas McFarlin, Legion Rd., and Charlotte Stevens, Warren Ave.

Mr. J. A. Hudson, Longmeadow Rd., has had two Bluebirds eating bittersweet berries, perhaps part of the group of five seen earlier on Baker's Hill Rd.

Wintering Song Sparrows have been seen by Mrs. Earle Foote, North Ave., and Mrs. Donald Davidson, Golden Ball Rd.; and Mrs. McFarline reports four White-throated Sparrows.

Mrs. C. F. Whittemore, Warren Place, is feeding a flock of 80 Mourning Doves, the largest flock in Weston since 70 reported in Jan. 1954 by the Bissetts, Pinecroft Rd. He has also seen 19 pheasants at one time (nine cocks and 10 hens), a Brown Thrasher (probably the same one that visited the Sabeans earlier), and an occasional Robin.

Two Meadowlarks were reported on the same day, Dec. 19, by Mrs. George A. Hoffman, Brook Rd., and Mrs. Douglas Nickerson, North Ave. These could very well be the same birds. It is interesting that Meadowlarks have been reported almost every winter from this area since Mrs. R. G. Eldridge, Brook Rd., saw eight in her yard in Jan. 1954.

Mrs. Earle Foote saw a very late Rusty Blackbird on Dec. 14; and Mrs. Donald Davidson saw two Pileated Woodpeckers flying over Golden Ball Rd. on Dec. 19.

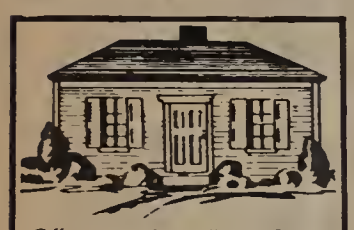
Chairman for 1961 Heart Fund Campaign Named for Weston

WESTON -- Ralph Woodworth Jr. of 51 Church St., last week was appointed general chairman of the 1961 Heart Fund campaign for Weston.

The announcement of Mr. Woodworth's appointment was made by John B. Hynes, 1961 state chairman and former mayor of Boston.

The Massachusetts Heart Assn.'s annual fund campaign will be held here and throughout the state during February -- Heart Month across the nation -- and will be highlighted by Heart Sunday on Feb. 26, when volunteers will canvass the homes in this and other communities.



This is Mr. Woodworth's second year of service as Weston's general chairman for the Heart Fund. A concert musician and teacher, he is organist and choir director at the Auburndale Congregational Church, and president of the Weston-Metropolitan Hammond Organ Club, Inc.

In announcing the appointment of the chairman, Mr. Hynes called for all-out, community-wide participation.

"Diseases of the heart and circulation," he said, constitute by far our foremost health problem. Heart disease accounts for more deaths, not only in the nation and state but in this community -- than all other causes combined.

"It is vital that we support as generously as possible the dedicated and imaginative attack being made upon this problem by the state and national heart associations. We must carry forward research programs that have already saved uncounted lives.

"We have come far -- but not far enough. The answer is research -- and we must make it possible through our help to the Heart Fund. I expect the campaign here to be extremely successful."

Old Wayside Inn Clock Greets 250th New Year

SUDBURY -- The 250-year-old grandfather clock at the historic Wayside Inn in Sudbury once again rang the old year out and the new year in.

The clock, which was brought to the Inn by Ezekial Howe, a colonel in Washington's Revolutionary Forces, this year sounded out the awaited hour for a new audience. The Young Adult Fellowship of the Ruggles Street Baptist Church of Boston sponsored a New Year's Eve party at the inn.

The climax of the evening was a Watch Nightservice in the Martha-Mary Chapel which is situated on the Wayside Inn grounds. At midnight the audience heard the actual amplified sound of the clock pealing out the time.

Highlighting the program was Steve Musto, sacred recording artist and program director of WPCA - TV in Philadelphia. The speaker at the service was Dr. James Forrester, recently appointed president of Gordon College.

Toy Drive Successful

BOSTON -- The 1960 Toys For Tots campaign was completed last week, and the co-sponsors - The Salvation Army Men's Center, the Shell Oil Co., and the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve reported a successful collection of toys and have expressed their appreciation for the gifts of toys by the general public.

The bad weather in the Boston area during the campaign, hampered both donations and pick-up of the toys; but the Santa Claus barrels at the Shell service stations continued to be filled, and somehow, the toys were picked up, in spite of the snow-filled streets.

The record of the number of toys donated is still incomplete, but it is hoped the total will be at least the same as in previous years.

French Club Organized

WAYLAND -- French students at Wayland High School have organized a new French Club. Membership in the organization is open to all interested French students.

Francis Rivers, language center head, said that the club hopes to have visiting lecturers and expects to make trips to museums and to foreign film showings. A committee is also studying a plan for a foreign student exchange program.

The club's initial project was a cake sale at the Co-op Friday, Dec. 16.

Wayland Campfire Girls, Bluebirds Have Busy Season

WAYLAND -- Wayland Bluebirds and Campfire girls had a busy Christmas season.

The girls made a trip to Brook Farm, a Lutheran orphanage in West Roxbury for a party with the children. They made felt pocketbooks and gingerbread men cookies for gifts.

A second group filled a gold-sprayed basket with gifts for little Scott Kendall, the North Wayland boy who was burned in a fire recently.

Another group went caroling in Cochituate, while another made holiday decorations for a nursing home.

A Bluebird group collected used toys which were wrapped in Bluebird colors and given to the Salvation Army; and Campfire group made gold and silver sprayed dried arrangements for a hospital.

The Wayland Campfire Girls Golden Jubilee candy sale was reported to be a big success. They more than surpassed their quota set by the Boston office.

Four groups, headed by Mrs. Phillip Gladu, Mrs. Gryan Matthews, Mrs. Fres Heinrich and Mrs. Charles Keelings, earned the gilt edged citation given when the group sells an average of 24 boxes per girl.

Famous Concord stage coaches and wagons, manufactured in New Hampshire's capital city, played vital roles from 1813 until the Civil War in transportation that opened vast western territories of the United States.

Cambridge School Students Leave for Holidays

WESTON -- "School's out" was the happy cry Friday, Dec. 16, when The Cambridge School of Weston sent 257 students from 16 states and five foreign countries home to enjoy the Christmas Season.

There was much scurrying to pack and make transportation connections to all parts of the country, including Texas, Florida, California and Oregon.

Vancouver, British Columbia and Bermuda could be easily reached, but students from Cairo, New Caledonia and Indonesia would spend the holidays with friends or relatives not so far away.

Twenty-three students don't have so far to go. Geoffrey Bartlett, Carl Brotman, Linda Dailey, Roberta Dailey, Jane Derbyshire, Jeffrey Fine, John Fitzpatrick, Polly Howells, Stephen Hurley, Duncan Peterson, Kit St. John, Hugh Stockmayer, Marianne von Hipple, John Whittenberger, Kerry Wolff and Geraldine Zorn live in Weston.

Florence Biscoe, Gary Charles, Roger Collard, Warren Davidson, Gerald Russell, Thomas Walther and Charles Woodard live in Wayland.

Most of the faculty and staff don't have far to go either, and actually outnumber the local students.

Weston residents include M. Adolphus Cheek, Jr., headmaster, and Mrs. Cheek, Mrs. Philip Bassett, Mr. and Mrs. Rene Biber, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Biermann, Claire Coleman, Mrs. Nathalie Coleman, Mrs. Francis Dailey, S. Howe Derbyshire, Sharon Dobbs.

Betsy Fisher, Louise Grant, John Gray, Helen Green, Paul Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. James Kapteyn, Mrs. Ruth Maguire, Philip Oliver, Mrs. Donald Reynolds, Joseph Schaaf, and George St. John Jr.

Allen Barker, Elizabeth Belcher, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berard and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Biscoe are residents of Wayland.

Los Angeles School Official Approves of Weston Schools

WESTON -- Following a visit to the Weston schools during a National Assn. of Social Studies Teachers conference in Boston Thanksgiving week, Robert W. Hillerby, upper grades supervisor of the Los Angeles, Cal., schools, wrote the following letter to Mrs. Marjorie Burrill, Weston elementary supervisor:

Dear Mrs. Burrill:

By far the high point of my trip East was the visit to Woodland School. The educational program I observed provides inspiration and encouragement for my work here in Los Angeles. The visit was an outstanding experience, and we owe it all to you and the Woodland staff! Please express my thanks to everyone concerned for making the day such a success.

To tell the truth, some of the work discussed at the convention was a bit depressing, since there seemed lack of an adequate understanding of elementary school social studies in its emphasis on creativity, social skills, artistic expression and many other strengths or aspects which have always seemed strengths to me. But such was certainly not the case at Woodland School.

As you may recall, I was really quite taken with your program as well as your plant, and have for that reason decided to concentrate on a description of your school for my report of the convention.

It will not be helpful for me to survey dull speeches and inept social studies methods; but if I can recapitulate the experiences and learning from my day in the Weston Public Schools, then I think the long journey to Boston will have been well worth the Board's expense.

Thanks again for your gracious hospitality. Actually my trip to Boston and the opportunity to see the historic and beautiful countryside, Plymouth included, was a thrilling experience which I will not soon forget, so please do not construe my bit of dissatisfaction with the convention leadership to mean any less value to my New England experience. I enjoyed Weston very much!

Robert W. Hillerby

inspector, the town counsel, the Board of Selectmen and the Board of Appeals had all denied jurisdiction in the matter, assuming that the permit was legal.

A New Tack

A new tack was taken last Thursday evening, however, when shelter opponents charged that the Wayland Building Inspector, Homer MacDonald had issued the permit illegally for the following reasons:

1. No sewerage disposal permit for the shelter was submitted from the Wayland Board of Health.

2. The permit application was not complete when the permit was granted.

Board of Appeals members -- Andrew R. Cay, George Bogren and Charles Cochran -- accepted all evidence in the case at the hearing, but ruled that they had no jurisdiction over the legality of the permit. They said they could only rule on zoning bylaw requirements for the building.

Although the opponents' attorneys, Charles W. Brennan and Edward M. Lembo, argued that the Board "has regulations governing both the procedure and application for permits to construct or alter sewerage disposal systems," the Board members maintained their ruling.

Usual Information

The day after the hearing, Building Inspector MacDonald told a Town Crier reporter that the permit was granted on the usual information submitted by all applicants.

He said that sewerage disposal plans had not been required by his office for several years, and that what he considered to be the usual application information had been accepted.

He did not deny that the permit was granted on less information than required by the zoning laws, but emphasized that it is standard procedure.

Following the reading of the brief to the Board, spokesmen for the 200 protesting citizens at the hearing presented additional testimony.

Begin Meetings

John M. Siergiej said that he had been assured by both Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Kilburn that a hearing would be held before the permit were granted. When the permit was granted without the hearing or notification of abutting residents, he said, the opponents began meetings with town officials.

"I was amazed at the runaround they gave us," he said. He reported Mr. Cay, the Board of Appeals member, refused to listen to his arguments because he might sit at the appeals hearing, and that Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Kilburn said they could do nothing after the permit was granted.

Mr. Siergiej said the Board of Selectmen also denied jurisdiction in the case and referred the opponents to the Board of Appeals. "Now the Board has ruled it has no jurisdiction. What are we supposed to do now?" he asked.

Limited Jurisdiction

Mr. Cay answered that the Board could rule only on the zoning bylaws. "You may not like it, and we may not like it," he said, "but we must work within the framework of statutes."

Louis Mitchell, 15 Red Barn Rd., also asked to be on the record as opposed to the shelter so that when he appeals his property evaluation assessment this year, he will have a record of his opposition. Mr. Mitchell was applauded.

After the opponents were heard, the Board asked Roland Gray, trustee for the sheltering home, to present his side.

Not Pertinent

Mr. Gray replied that he did not want to say anything. He said he did not bring evidence to refute any of the testimony and further did not think any of the arguments pertinent to the hearing.

When Mr. Cay asked about the provisions for a cat crematory, Mr. Gray answered that the Board of Health had not thought it necessary before the permit. He said he was not prepared to answer the question at the hearing.

When Attorney Lembo asked him if plans and specifications were submitted for the crematory, Mr. Gray said he did not think the question was pertinent. Mr. Lembo then asked the Board members if they thought the question should be answered.

The Board agreed that it should, and again submitted the question. Mr. Gray said he did not wish to answer. Mr. Lembo then testified that the plans were not submitted.

Sewerage Plan

Mr. Lembo then asked Mr. Gray if specifications for a sewerage disposal system were submitted. Mr. Gray again did not chose to answer, and Mr. Lembo testified that the plans were not part of the record.

When asked if his corporation planned to continue construction of the building against the building inspector's stop order, Mr. Gray replied that if his corporation continues construction on the house despite the injunction, any action by the town meeting Wednesday night will not affect his right to erect the structure. Mr. Cay corroborated his statement.

At this point, H. Michael Tannert of 312 Concord Rd. asked for a show of hands for all opposed to the cat shelter. Nearly every member of the audience raised his hand. The only hand shown in favor of the shelter was Mr. Gray's.

At the end of the hearing, the board promised to issue a ruling on the shelter before the town meeting Wednesday night.

In the meantime, however, Town Counsel Frank Kilburn learned that the shelter opponents had evidence that the permit was illegal, and he ruled that the Board of Selectmen could rule on such a claim.

The selectmen met Saturday afternoon to talk over the evidence, then held a formal hearing Monday evening to rule the permit illegal.

Under the present zoning bylaws, the sheltering home may submit the required forms and receive a legal permit. Only if the town accepts the proposed zoning amendment at Wednesday's special town meeting will the building inspector and the Board of Appeals be able to refuse the permit.

TOWN CRIER SALUTES WAYLAND HIGH SCHOOL

New Wayland High School Stirs Conversation At Conventions of Architects and Contractors

WAYLAND -- One of the chief topics of conversation at school architects' and contractors' conventions these days is the novel campus-style design of the new Wayland High School.

Because of its advanced plan, the school has recently been brought to their attention by two national magazines - Time Magazine and Architectural Forum. Both publications praised the school architects, The Architects Collaborative, for the imaginative design.

From the layman's viewpoint, however, the main features of the school are the collection of five flat-roofed buildings and the domed field house.

The plan provides for a variety of college-like learning spaces, grouped according to subject matter. The grouping includes the physical education center field house, the math and sciences center, the social studies and business center, the languages center, the arts center, and the administration building.

School officials are enthusiastic about the advanced school layout. They point out that the design allows space for both individual and group activities and study.

Each center has its own reference room, classrooms and conference areas. Two separate lecture rooms are also provided to seat 125 and 150 students respectively.

The lecture hall in the languages building is windowless and has an amphitheater-style seating arrangement for 150 students. The room may be used to show audio-visual aids, or for closed-circuit television productions from the school's still unfinished TV studio, or for demonstrations and lecturēs.

The 10 classrooms have large windows and fixed lighting units for better lighting, and large table-

Wayland High Plan for Education Outgrowth of Long, Detailed Study

By SALLY BILLIG
Crier School Editor

The unusual layout of Wayland's new high school is not the result of an imaginative architect spreading his wings. It is the outgrowth of a plan for education that has been developing in Wayland over the past few years.

Essentially, the building reflects one major aim - considered by both the School Committee and the School Dept. to be the goal of education at the high school level - namely, the ability to learn independently.

It was felt that only the individually responsible student would be propelled to a desire to investigate and to seek answers for himself. They came to the conclusion that the system should place a large share of the responsibility for accomplishment on the student, in order to develop self-directed individuals.

Methods Studied

As a result, the years preceding the actual construction was spent in developing techniques toward this end. Methods used in other schools throughout the nation were studied and evaluated and combined and altered.

In 1959, in the old building, Wayland had already begun to use their new techniques of team-teaching and large, medium and small groups.

The design of the new buildings embodies this philosophy and is an integral part of the teaching techniques used within its walls.

With the development of a program designed to call for the greatest amount of initiative each student can bring to his work, the conventional classroom of 25 students dealt with as a whole, proved to be a disadvantage.

Material is now presented and developed in groups of varying sizes, according to the type of material itself.

Large Groups

Large group meetings are used to present basic initial ideas which the entire grade must understand, in order to embark upon their de-

What the New School Means

WAYLAND -- When asked to summarize what the new high school means to the community, School Building Committee Chairman Allan Finlay made the following statement:

"In a sense, our new high school represents an important step forward by a whole community striving for the best in education for its children.

"We now have the tools. How well they are used will largely determine how successfully we achieve our ultimate goal.

"This is our challenge today and in the future."

Dr. Owen B. Kiernan, State Commissioner of Education, Will Be Main Speaker at Dedication

WAYLAND -- Dr. Owen B. Kiernan, commissioner of education for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, will be the main speaker at Wayland High School dedication ceremonies Sunday.

Dr. Kiernan was superintendent of schools for the Wayland-Sudbury-Sherborn Union from 1944 to 1951.

He was born in Randolph, Mass., on March 9, 1914, and is married to Esther Thorley Kiernan, former teacher in the Melrose public schools. The couple resides in Milton with their three children, Joan 18, Nancy 15, and John 12.

After receiving his bachelor of education degree at Bridgewater State College in 1935, Dr. Kiernan began teaching at the Sandwich, Mass., Elementary School. He became principal of the school before he moved to the Sandwich Junior-Senior High School as principal in 1938.

He received his master of education degree at Boston University in 1940 and from 1944 to 1951, he was superintendent of schools for the Wayland-Sudbury-Sherborn Union.

He received his doctor of education degree at Harvard University in 1950; his dissertation was in the field of school law. From 1951 to 1957, he was superintendent of the Milton Schools, and he became commissioner of education for the state on Sept. 1, 1957.

Dr. Kiernan has done additional graduate study in school law at Boston College and in educational administration at Columbia University. He also received an honorary LHD degree from Lesley College in 1956.

OWEN B. KIERNAN

In various capacities, he has served in many other local, state and national positions. These include being an instructor in educational administration at Northeastern University; an original member of the Massachusetts School Building Assistance Commission; a former member and chairman of the Massachusetts Board of Education and State Board of Vocational Education.

Chairman of the Massachusetts Board of Collegiate Authority; former member of the Massachusetts Board of Educational Television; trustee and former president of the Bridgewater State College Alumni Assn.; corporation member of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He belongs to Phi Delta Kappa, Iota Chapter of Harvard University; the American Assn. of School Administrators; the New England Superintendents Assn.; the Massachusetts Superintendents Assn.; and the Chief State School Officers Council.

Central Library and Additional Reference Rooms Aid Research

The library, located in the Arts Center, is a two-story room, with a large window-wall, a brick wall on one side and a panelled wall on the other.

It is in distinct contrast to the rest of the rooms in the school, which are, for the most part constructed of cement block.

The lower level is occupied by tables and chairs, and the librarians desk. Along the panelled wall is a staircase leading to the balcony, where the stacks of books are arranged in rows.

In each of the subject buildings, however, there is an area known as the reference or resource center. It is located in or near the geographical center of the buildings.

It is at one and the same time a branch of the library (stocked with books and printed material relevant to the subject area,) a study center with cubicles for individual work, and a reference and equipment center for tapes, films, records and other aids which the student or teacher might want.

Adajacent to the resource center are the staff offices. The proximity was planned so that the student may at any time go to the staff office and obtain whatever help he requires, while working in the center.

It is part of the plan that the responsible student will be able to retreat to this area to work on his own projects, to investigate material which is of interest to him, or to do assigned work.

New School Has Laboratories for Personal Training

The language laboratory, located in the Language Arts building, consists of 28 cubicles, each with its own set of headphones and a small mechanism that allows the student to switch to either record or play.

At the far end of the room is the master control unit, from which the teacher controls what the students listen to, and with which, through her headphone, she can monitor and speak to all the students individually.

The purpose of the language laboratory is to train the student to hear the language as it is properly spoken by a native, and to evaluate and correct his own efforts at imitation.

Three other laboratories are located in the math and science building, for students studying physics, biology and chemistry. A fourth area, the science shop, is for the construction of materials by the students, to be used in preparing their own experiments.

A greenhouse and small animal room extend beyond the building adjacent to the biology laboratory.

Building For Offices

The administration building houses, besides the administrative offices, the guidance department, (which sports the only carpet on the campus,) staff conference rooms, health offices, the kitchen and the cafeteria.

There is an intercom system connecting all rooms with the administrative offices, and with a communications unit in the staff office of each building.

Architects' Photos

All high school photographs were made available by courtesy of The Architects Collaborative, school architects.

Television Studio Will Originate Student Programs

One of the new building's most unusual features is the television studio, in the Arts Center building.

This is part of Wayland's plans for the future, and will be equipped for originating programs and student television productions. Educational TV programs from Boston's WGBH-TV will also be available.

Electrical facilities are in all classrooms, including the small group seminar rooms, for television receivers, and each of the two large group instruction rooms are wired for large-screen projection television machines to be suspended from the ceiling.

Broadcasts may also originate from the large group rooms, and the studio will be equipped for broadcasting from the little theater next door.

One of the proposed uses for the studio is the offering of advanced courses by television to high schools in adjacent towns, where the number of students prepared to take the course is not large enough to warrant a teacher on the staff and the necessary equipment, within the individual schools themselves.

This will result in one of the advantages of a regional high school, the gathering together of a sufficient number of students to be able to offer certain highly specialized courses.

New Arts Center Offers Students Many Activities

The only two-story building in the complex is the Arts Center.

Here are found the 400-seat little theater, a television studio, the central library, the industrial arts shop, the graphic arts and home arts rooms, ceramics and sculpture studios, music rooms, and a special educational workshop for slow learners.

Aside from scheduled periods in the various sections of the arts building for classes in home economics, shop, etc., each student's program includes time labeled simply Arts Center.

During this time the student may attend classes in any part of the building he wishes, from dramatics in the little theater, to sculpture in the upstairs studio.

There is no limit set for the length of time he may follow one interest before changing to another, but students are usually encouraged not to jump around on a weekly basis.

The platform of the little theater backs to an outdoor amphitheater, which will be used for outdoor graduation ceremonies and other performances. It will also serve to enlarge the seating capacity of the little theater itself, when used as a stage-in-the-round.

What Do We Dedicate? -- Buildings or Ourselves?

Pressing question: will expensive buildings such as the new Wayland and Weston high schools send forth better educated boys and girls?

Education always has been a relative matter, related to time and place. Would William Cullen Bryant, country boy, son of the Cummington village doctor, have imposed "Thanatopics" at 17, if he had been taking the bus daily to one of Western Massachusetts' modern regional high schools?

Would Nathaniel Bowditch have revolutionized sea navigation by publishing his "Practical Navigator" at 28, or been more accurate in the scores of thousands of calculations involved, if, instead of absorbing mathematics through every pore at the Salem Philosophical Library and seamanship on Salem vessels, he could have graduated from M.I.T.?

College Founder

Could Mary Lyon, fifth of seven children on the poor "little rock-bound farm" in Buckland, and struggling all her life against heavy odds to start Mt. Holyoke College, have accomplished more for the education of women if she could have had present-day scholorships, say, at Walnut Hill and Smith?

Would it have helped Clara Barton to found the Red Cross, if instead of walking down the hill to the little country school at North Oxford, a bus had picked her up and taken her to some immense Worcester High?

Was it the teachers and the school buildings; was it the family and community; or was it something in themselves that made of these Massachusetts boys and girls of a century ago, all but one from small towns, figures of history?

We can only guess.

Remember?

The first school that I attended was of wood with outside toilets. But the teachers taught. I can remember (gratefully) nearly every one. The high school building was new, and brick. Again, the teachers were superior. Many of the young people walked two miles each way: but they did that to go to church, dances, all sorts of functions, winter and summer.

Nobody thought it a special hardship. The boys played hockey on the ponds, not in the Boston Arena. They swam in the ponds in summer, not in tiled pools.

Now, the sanitary conditions normal for small schools in my childhood would not be tolerated: and what a hue and cry would arise if our high school youngsters had to walk from Cochituate or South Ave.! But today the homes of our communites are expensive, and even the poorest of them are furnished with luxuries unheard of a half century ago.

The present opulent school buildings in Weston and Wayland and their surroundings and equipment are but a reflection of our present opulent and expensive living habits.

Features the Same

Yet the basic features of education remain the same. They are the eager, imaginative, responsive minds of youngsters, and superior, imaginative, adequately prepared teachers.

Bryant now would be headed for Amherst College, Bowditch for Tech, Mary Lyon for Radcliffe, and Clara Barton for Simmons or the Yale School of Nursing.

As I observe the boys and girls of the towns served by The Town Crier, I have no doubt that from among them will come future leaders equal for their time to any that Massachusetts has produced in the past; and judging from those teachers whom I happen to know, I believe that they will receive the character training, the academic foundation, and the mental awakening to forward them surely to their goals.

Buildings are Tools

The buildings are tools, and like most modern tools, greatly improved, and expensive. But it is still the quality of the material and of the workmanship which give lasting value; it will always be so; with boys and girls, as with any other product of art and skill.

Boys and girls of Wayland and Weston, enjoy your splendid new schools; be proud of them; seize on every opportunity they offer you.

But the spark that will kindle your life into a glow of warmth and light and power must come from within your own soul.

Nuture that spark!

Field House Program for Dedication Set

Final arrangements have been completed for the Wayland High School dedication ceremony, to be held at the Field House, Sunday.

A general invitation has been extended to the entire town to attend the one-hour ceremony, which will begin at 2. and the open house which will follow.

The program, arranged by Mrs. L. William Bertelsen, will be as follows:

Invocation -- Rev. Frederick J. Hobbs, St. Zepherin's Church, Cochituate.

Welcome -- Allan R. Finlay, School Building Committee Chairman.

Dedication Address -- Dr. Owen B. Kiernan, Massachusetts commissioner of education

Presentation of Keys -- by Allan R. Finlay to John W. Arnold, chairman of the School Committee.

Benediction -- Rev. Dan Huntington Fenn, First Parish Unitarian Church, Wayland.

Several Musical selections will be presented by the Wayland High School Band, under the direction of Edmund Wright.

The Open House, from 3 to 5 will include tours through the six buildings with members of the high school faculty, the PTA and the student council serving as guides.

Wayland High School students will present the first issue of their school newspaper, The Chatterbox, in The Town Crier later this month. The newspaper will be written for and by the students at the high school.

like desks for each student. They seat up to 35 students.

For small group and individual work, 18 conference rooms are provided in the social studies, math and sciences, and languages centers. Large windows and fixed lights provide excellent lighting conditions for groups of up to 15 students who use them. Seating arrangement are either table-desks or oval conference tables.

Two educational areas - the physical education center and the arts center - both have space for specialized study.

The Physical education center provides not only for most indoor sports in its large gymnasium, but also for two exercise rooms and shower facilities. The bleachers in the gym will seat 750 persons, with additional space on the floor for chairs if needed. An athletic field is adjacent to the field house.

The arts center includes a well-stocked library with a reading room and desks for individual study; a television studio for closed-circuit broadcasts; a little theater which will seat 400; a music room for band, orchestra and choral groups; an industrial arts area; other areas for home economics, arts and crafts, and drafting; and three classrooms. The center also includes the school heating plant.

The administration building includes the school offices, health and guidance rooms, a staff room, a cafeteria which seats 300, and the kitchen. The cafeteria may be partitioned by folding dividers to make smaller areas for study halls and extra-curricular meeting rooms.

The school plant will cost an estimated $2,356,748 when completed. Although the state will reimburse the town for half the school's cost, two 20-year bond issues were approved in December 1959 by a town meeting vote of 598 to 89. These include a $1,175,000 issue at 3.5 per cent floated in 1959 and a $1,100,000 issue at 3.6 per cent in 1960.

The school is designed for 850 students; but this may be expanded at low cost to a 1,200-student capacity. The present enrollment is 570.

Although the buildings have been planned with various size classrooms to fit several needs, additional adaptability has been assured by the use of gypsum partitions, in 4 x 8 panels between some of the smaller conference rooms.

These panels could be ripped out overnight if an additional large space were needed. These same partitions can be reused at least twice and can be readily put up to divide a medium sized classroom into smaller sections.

School Committee Chairman Offers Views on School

WAYLAND -- To summarize his feelings on the dedication of the new Wayland High School, Wayland School Committee Chairman John W. Arnold issued the following statement:

"On Sunday, Jan. 8, the symbolic act of 'presenting the keys' climaxes several years of preparation in the creation of the new Wayland High School.

Completion of this project has been possible thanks to the cooperative efforts of our administrative and teaching staff, the architects, the contractor and the respective committees, but most of all to the people of Wayland for their support, interest and understanding.

"The future of our new high school can be successful and rewarding only with the continued support of the townspeople aiding the School Committee in its effort to offer the best possible educational program fitted to the individual needs of our young people.

"The ceremony is really a beginning which only time can measure a true value. The enthusiasm of our professional staff, the desire of our student body and the potential of this new facility, in my opinion, insures a promising future."

The Town Crier carries more news about Wayland High School activities than any other newspaper in the area. It is just one of the many ways The Town Crier serves the residents of Wayland and Weston.

tailed studies, in small groups. They are also used for visual presentations, which are done once, for the entire group, rather than repeatedly for numerous 25-student groups.

New lecture techniques are possible with the vue-graph, successor to the slide projector, making it possible to give each student as clear an understanding of what he is being taught as would be possible with the teacher standing directly over his desk.

There are two large lecture rooms, one seating 125 in the math and science building, and one seating 150 in the language building.

Medium Gronps

The medium group classroom resembles the school room somewhat as it used to be known. Here the subject is studied by a group of about 30 students, handling the portions of the material best suited to the general classroom approach.

The small group, or seminar or conference group, of approximately 12 to 15 students, affords the opportunity for each student to enter into discussion, ask questions, work on individual projects and develop the material with close supervision of his independent efforts by the teacher.

Team-teaching, used throughout the Wayland school system on all three levels, is a basic part of the high school program. Wayland's system uses elements of the technique developed in Newton, but adjusted to the rest of the program used here.

Team Leaders

A team-leader of a given subject is responsible for the organizing and coordinating of all the material and teaching done within his subject. In some cases, such as math and science, the departments are dual, because the material handled is inter-related and can be best presented by giving attention to the relationships.

Taking advantage of the different strengths within a faculty, the team teacher technique allows the member of the team best suited, to do the visual presentations to the large group, only once.

This results in freeing the rest of the team from the need to prepare the identical material and to present it several times, and allows them to use the time to prepare material for their medium and small groups.

Considerable preparation time is required to coordinate material, as a given student may go from teacher A in large group, to teacher B in medium and teacher C in small.

The particular attention paid to the quick and the slow in the small group class also requires preplanning, although the groups are organized, as far as is feasible, on a similar ability level.

YOUTH SYMPHONY PLAYERS -- District members of the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra are preparing for the orchestra's third concert season under conductor Marvin Rabin, associate professor of music at Boston University. District Students Selected for Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra's 1960-61 Season

BOSTON -- Several Weston and Wayland junior and senior high school students were recently selected to membership in the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra. The orchestra is under the direction of Marvin Rabin, associate professor of music at Boston University.

The students include Linwood Galeucia and Leaf Pearson of Wayland; and Edith Wypler, Louise Cutter, Erik Hoagland, Paula Toner, Carol McFarlin, and Richard Cutter of Weston.

Highlight of the orchestra's 1960-61 season will be a concert in New York Carnegie Hall on April 23. The program will be repeated at the orchestra's third annual concert at Boston's Jordan Hall on April 30.

The youth symphony is a joint project of the Boston University Arts Center and the Boston area schools. It is made up of 96 junior and senior high school players from 45 public, private and parochial schools stretching from Dover, N. H., to Fall River, Mass.

The Carnegie appearance will feature the world premiere of a composition for chorus and orchestra by the noted American composer, Norman Lockwood. The chorus for the occasion will be the Pilgrim Youth Chorus of the Congregational Church in Manhasset, L. I.

The Long Island and Boston youth groups have jointly commissioned this work, which will be repeated at the Jordan Hall concert.

A series of five children's concerts are also planned for the Boston area, beginning with a Feb. 5 appearance at Newton High School, sponsored by the All-Newton School of Music for its scholarship fund.

The symphony will also play for students in Wellesley, Needham, Lexington and the North Shore, with proceeds from each concert remaining in each community to strengthen the local school music program. On March 19 the group will travel to Schenectady, N. Y., for an additional out-of-state concert.

The youth orchestra members are selected by audition from students who apply with the recommendations of their school music directors. Soloists are drawn from the orchestra itself.

Auditions, generally held in the fall, will be moved up to spring this year so that orchestra members may attend a summer workshop in August at the University's Sargent Camp near Peterborough, N. H. The workshop is being organized as a week-long program of lessons, rehearsals and recreation.

District Elementary School Principals Form Organization

WESTON -- Principals of elementary schools in Wayland, Weston and Lincoln, have joined together in a semi-formal organization, which may have an ultimate effect on the role of the principal in Massachusetts.

At a meeting at the home of Walter Gleason, principal of the Country School in Weston, the educators decided that "the business of keeping up with the vast amount of new methods and materials in education, is complex enough to benefit by handling it cooperatively," according to Mr. Gleason.

The purpose of the new group will be to discuss and assess problems common to the group, to accept or reject possible solutions, and to present their findings, when they are of general interest, to the Massachusetts Elementary School Principals' Assn.

"We feel it is highly necessary to be in contact with other people in the profession, to be as effective in our own schools as possible," Mr. Gleason explained.

At the preliminary meeting last week, methods of evaluation of elementary schools in the participating towns was discussed, and a basis agreed upon.

The criteria will be two-fold. The capacity-achievement ratio, which compares the students' accomplishments with their abilities, will be one basis. A check list of facilities and methods used within the school - such as libraries, regular gym periods, auditoriums, psychiatric services, etc. - will form the second part.

Ideally, the first method of evaluation was considered most desirable. However, in the absence of adequate measuring instruments developed to date, to determine learning in such abstract areas as "learning to be a democratic person," the combination of criteria was considered preferable.

Present at the initial meeting were Royal Graves, Loker School; William Maxon, Claypit Hill School; and Walter Doucette, Cochituate School, in Wayland; Oliver Brown, Weston Elementary School; and Thomas McFarlin, senior principal of Elementary Schools in Weston.

The 10 participating principals will meet monthly.

Country Evening Concert Series Program Planned

WESTON -- The Country Evening Concert Series this week announced the program for the Paganini Quartet's Friday, Jan. 13 appearance in the Weston Country School auditorium.

The program will include Mozart's Quartet in D Major, K. 575; Debussy's Quartet in G, Opus 10; and Beethoven's Quartet in C Sharp Minor, Opus 131.

The Paganini Quartet is remarkable because the four quartet members use instruments made by the Italian master, Stradivarius, and all once owned by Paganini himself.

Other attractions in the Country Evening Concert Series' 10th anniversary season will include the Feb. 17 piano recital of Benno Moiseiwitsch and the March 10 appearance of soprano Adele Addison.

A few choice seats for the series are still available and may be reserved by calling Mrs. Reginald Elwell at TW 3-7361, Mrs. Campbell at TW 4-4402, or at Whelpley's in Weston Center. Tickets for single events go on sale Monday, Jan. 9.

CENSUS WORKERS -- Town Clerk Miss Leila Sears, explains the Wayland census procedure to census takers Mrs. Louise Keiling, Mrs. Kathrine Larson and Mrs. Avis McBay.

Weston and Wayland Census Takers Begin Rounds This Month

Town officials in both Wayland and Weston are preparing this week for the annual census. The Wayland census will be taken beginning this week by 10 specially trained residents; the Weston count is scheduled to get underway next week, with police officers making the rounds.

Every person over 20 years of age will be counted in the house-to-house canvass. The count will include all students away at college, all military personnel, all travelers abroad or anyone else who may be residing temporarily out of town.

The purpose of the census is to establish the legal residence of all citizens in the state. The data is used for setting up tax rolls, establishing voting registration, and providing proof of residence for future reference.

The questions include the name, age, address, occupation, and citizenship of the individual; and surprisingly, the number and sex of the dogs owned by the household. Wayland will also count the number of children the head of the household has; Weston does not include this item.

Census takers anticipate difficulty completing the census for two reasons: 1) some persons do not like to give their ages or often give inaccurate ones, and 2) others hide from the census takers so that they will not have to pay taxes.

Miss Leila Sears, Wayland town clerk, said this week that persons who give false ages or hide may actually hurt themselves more than they think.

She cited cases where persons tried to establish age and proof of residence for state public assistance and were unable to because they had given inaccurate information to the town census or had remained hidden from the census takers.

Registering information on persons who are away from their permanent residences is also important, she said. If a person is in the military service, he may be able to get state bonus if he can prove he was a state resident during his service career.

It is also necessary to determine permanent residence for voting purposes. "This is one of our major problems at election time," Miss Sears said. She explained that often citizens are not at home when the census taker calls and do not bother to return the simple census forms left or call the town clerk's office to give the information.

"We had several residents complain that they were not on the registration rolls last November," she said. "We had to explain that they had never notified us of their residence in the town."

Weston Executive Secretary J. Ward Carter also emphasized the importance of being counted in the census. He urged that persons should make sure the town gets all necessary information.

If homeowners are not at home when the uniformed policeman calls and are not contacted in person by Feb. 10, he said, they should call the town hall with the information.

Although Weston's census will be taken by uniformed policemen, Wayland census takers may be identified by a large white button with green lettering and a green town seal emblem.

Wayland census takers include Mrs. Katherine D. Larson, Mrs. Avis McBay, Mrs. Louise Keiling, Mrs. Rena Wheelock, Mrs. Janet Haynes, Mrs. Katherine Martin, Mrs. Carol O. Foster, and Ronald S. Campbell.

Wayland High Alumni Dump Varsity, 50-46, JV's, 30-18

by BOB SISAK

WAYLAND -- Wayland High School's old basketball pros proved they still had athletic abilities Friday night as they defeated the Wayland junior varsity, 30-18, and nipped the varsity, 50-46.

In the JV game, the Alumni, behind Spence Richardson's 12 points, outplayed the Wayland team in all but the fourth quarter. The third quarter, which might well be called "a comedy of errors", was a source of laughter to everyone in the stands as both teams got a bad case of fumbleitis.

The varsity game was more or less routine as far as excitement goes. As in the JV game, Wayland was outscored by the Alumni in all but the fourth quarter.

For a while, however, the game appeared to be a repeat of the Lexington game, with a tight score right down to the final seconds; but the Alumni pulled ahead to a 50-46 win.

High scorers for the varsity were Rick Greene and Eldon Goodhue of the varsity with 14 and 12 points respectively. Washek led the Alumni with 11.

Weston Girl Scouts Busy With Christmas Plans

WESTON -- Weston Girl Scouts and Brownies kept busy doing good deeds before Christmas.

Under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Littlehale and Mrs. Charles Jones, Troop 10 made wreaths for home decorations and toys and decorations for the Children's Division of the Metropolitan State Hospital.

Troop 22 with Mrs. Robert Stauffer and Mrs. Arthur Jones did a conservation service project at Camp Mary Day, prepared mantel decorations for the Scout House and put the camping equipment in shipshape order. They celebrated with a before-Christmas overnight followed by a tobogganing party.

Mrs. John Cole, Mrs. Albert O'Connel, Mrs. Howard Sticker and Mrs. Robert Young of the Weston Garden Club helped Troop 23 design and make everlasting wreaths of fall pine cones, berries and foliage. Last Friday they sang carols at the Weston Convalescent Home on North Ave.

Troop 19 was host to children from Boston who came with their counselor, Miss Millie McGowan of Morgan Memorial. A party was held for the children at the Scout House. The troop is led by Mrs. Allen Metcalf and Mrs. Frederick Woodside.

Mrs. Inglis Wetmore, who leads Troop 16, reports that most of the girls are working at the Waltham Hospital to complete their service requirements for senior rank.

The girls have been well received and Irene McLeod, who has already completed her first tour of 30 hours service, has been asked to do more service work in the hospital. The troop had a Christmas party at the Wetmores.

The Brownie troops prepared for Christmas with a variety of projects -- making clove apples for decorations, candle holders and wreaths.

Troop 13, led by MRS. Edwin Burtt and Mrs. William Ferguson, made cookies for the children at the Metropolitan State Hospital. They also sang carols at the Weston Convalescent Home.

On the northern end of Star Island on the Isles of Sheals off New Hampshire's coast is the tiny village of Gospert with its small church crowning the highest rock.

Horace Greeley, founder of the New York Herald Tribune in 1841, was born in Amherst, New Hampshire.

When the news of President Lincoln's Civil War call for 75,000 troops reached Concord, New Hampshire, the action was quick and positive. The First New Hampshire Volunteers was the first to reach the front in 1861 from any state, fully equipped with uniforms, arms, accoutrements, baggage, hospital and supply trains.

New Hampshire's famous "Blue Angels" -- highway trucks with two men and showing flashing blue lights -- got an early workout during the Autumn blizzard of Dec. 12, 1960. The "Blue Angels" assist motorists who experience mishaps on New Hampshire highways in the night-time during the winter.

Wayland Field House To Make Debut Jan. 8

WAYLAND -- A Jan. 8 debut is being planned for the Field House at Wayland High School, the last of the buildings to be completed in the six-structure complex.

Work is still being done in the cavernous, dome-shaped physical education plant, to ready it in time for the dedication ceremonies.

Moisture problems have been responsible for some of the delay. Although the basketball floor has been laid, the backstops have been returned for redesigning.

"At this point we're all champing at the bit," Principal William Max Griffin reports. "The commons doesn't give us quite the kind of room you need for a winter physical education program.

The field house will be used not only for basketball, but for all school assemblies, town meetings, indoor football and baseball practice, indoor track and field practice and calisthenics.

Based on current indications, the building will probably be ready for school use the day after the dedication or very shortly thereafter.

It begins to look as if the price of liberty is eternal vigilance and no ceiling on the national debt.

Police

Weston police reported a quiet week last week, despite heavy traffic over the New Years holiday. Chief Frank Shaw reported that Weston completed its second straight year without a fatal auto accident. The last vehicle death was on Dec. 20, 1958.

A few minor sliding accidents were reported last week because of the icy highway conditions, but no major damage or injuries were reported.

Chief Shaw this week cautioned all Weston residents to park their cars off the travelled part of the highway. He said that because of snow conditions during the past few weeks, many motorists have not been parking their cars next to the curb. He pointed out that such action could cause a serious accident.

Police were called to the Ash St. reservoir last Friday when two St. Bernard dogs fell through the ice. Although a passing Newtonville motorist managed to rescue one of the animals, the other drowned before police and firemen could get there. The dogs were owned by a South Ave. family.

Selectmen

The Board of Selectmen have been notified that the state Dept. of Public Works will hold a hearing on the relocation of Rt. 128 from the Wellesley-Newton line to one mile north of South Ave. in Weston at the Newton City Hall Wednesday, Jan. 18, at 2 p.m. Any Weston resident who opposed the relocation is invited to the hearing.

Planning Board

The Planning Board will hold a hearing on the subdivision of land west of Cliff Rd. and north of the Wellesley-Weston town line in the Town Hall Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. The subdivision will contain extensions of Westcliff Rd. and Hickory Rd. by the Pierce Estates.

Fire

Weston firemen were called last Wednesday to extinguish a food fire in an oven at 18 Wellesley St., last Friday to the Ash St. reservoir where a dog drowned; and last Saturday to investigate smoke at 454 Boston Post Rd.

One of the most enthusiastic subscribers to the newspaper, "Among The Clouds," printed daily on the summit of Mt. Washington in New Hampshire for years by Henry M. Burt and his son and grandson was Phineas T. Barnum, the circus magnate.

Weston League and PTA Plan Education Panel

WESTON -- The Weston League of Women Voters will hold a panel discussion on the crisis facing higher education in New England at a meeting in the Weston Country School Thursday, Jan. 12, at 8 p.m.

The meeting, which is open to all Weston residents, is sponsored by the League's Higher Education Study Committee under Chairman Mrs. Victor C. Harnish, and is being held jointly with the Weston High School PTA under Chairman Putnam Flint.

Mrs. Harnish states that statistics compiled by the New England Board of Higher Education show that the crisis in higher education is so critical that by 1962, 8,000 qualified applicants will be unable to gain admission to any college in the New England area due to insufficient facilities.

By 1967, 59,000 qualified applicants will be turned away; and by 1972, unless steps are taken to further increase publicly supported colleges, 90,000 qualified high school graduates in New England will find college doors barred to them.

The three speakers for the evening are Dr. Kevin P. Bunnell, acting executive secretary of the New England Board of Higher Education, Dr. Francis X. Guindon, assistant director of the Division of State Colleges, State Dept. of Education, and Walter M. Taylor, executive director of the Massachusetts Board of Regional Community Colleges.

Dr. Bunnell graduated from the University of Rochester in 1948. He received his master's degree from Harvard in 1951, and his doctor's degree in education from Columbia in 1958. Before coming with the New England Board of Higher Education in 1958 he was a research assistant at the Institute of Higher Education, Teacher's College, Columbia University. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, national education honorary society.

Dr. Guindon received his bachelor's degree from the University of Notre Dame in 1940, his master's from Massachusetts State Teacher's College, Bridgewater, in 1941. In 1949 he took his doctorate in education at Harvard University, Graduate School of Education.

Before coming with the Massachusetts Dept. of Education as assistant director of the Division of State Colleges, he served for two years as assistant professor and assistant dean of men at the Lowell State College.

Mr. Taylor graduated from Harvard in 1925, and took his master's degree in 1934 at Harvard University Graduate School of Education. He has also studied at Yale and the University of Chicago.

From 1946 to 1950 he was Chief Education Officer of the Far Eastern Command, at General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo. In 1948 and 1949 he taught at Keio University in Tokyo. Before coming with the Massachusetts Board of Regional Community Colleges he was director of Newton Junior College.

Moderator for the evening will be Mrs. Louise E. Fletcher, a resident of Needham, and active League member. Mrs. Fletcher, who graduated from Boston University in 1935, was state education chairman of the Massachusetts League of Woman Voters from 1951 to 1955, and is at present a member of the Massachusetts League Committee on Public Higher Education. She served as a member of ex-Governor Herter's Commission on State Teachers' Colleges.

A former registrar of Boston University School of Education, she is at present with the Office of Boston University Affairs as editor of bulletins. She is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma honor society for women in education.

Serving with Mrs. Harnish on the Weston's League's Study Committee on Higher Education are Mrs. Meade Hartwell, Mrs. Thomas S. Barrows, Mrs. J. Bruce Dougherty, Mrs. Dudley Hartung, and Mrs. Joseph Ashbrook.

The high school Parent-Teachers and Student Assn. are sponsoring the discussion. The public is invited.

MUSEUM ARTISTS -- Joseph Hodgson of Dedham, dean of the Boston Museum art school, points out portraiture in sculpture to Pam Dwinnell of Weston, Deborah W. Bonnet of Brookline, and Deborah Gannett of Wayland. The nine to 14-year-old art students will meet at the studio Saturdays for the young artists series.

Wayland Library Displays Books

WAYLAND -- In connection with the present display of books for family reading at the Wayland Public Library, town residents have been asked, "How long has it been since you and your family read together? How many of you have shared literature with your children?"

Literature begins for a child through listening to the songs and stories of a people. Mothers of yesterday told simple tales of family life while fathers told stories of daring and exploit!

"Let's Read Together - Books for Family Enjoyment" is a booklet consisting of more than 500 book titles compiled by a Special Committee of the American Library Assn. and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

These book titles are arranged in 24 subject areas and range from those for the youngest child to those for the 15-year-old. Each annotation gives a brief description and complete buying information-publication date, price and publisher.

This booklet was specifically designed to guide parents in choosing books for their children which will encourage individual reading pleasure and the sharing of reading experience. It would be an excellent addition to a library - both public and private.

For further information on ordering a copy, write : American Library Assn., 50 East Huron St., Chicago, Ill.

Museum Plans Art Courses For Children

BOSTON -- Several district children will attend three Saturday afternoon sessions on drawing and color, print-making and sculpture at the Museum of Fine Arts beginning Saturday, Jan. 14.

These sessions, called Studio Saturdays for Young Artists, are under the guidance of the Museum faculty and are for children nine to 14 years old, who are children or grandchildren of Museum members.

The youngsters will learn linoleum block printing and become acquainted with other printing methods. They will work in clay, either from a model or imagination. In the drawing and color course, they will concentrate on figure work.

Reservations must be received by Friday, Jan. 6, and should be mailed to Mrs. Christian A. Herter Jr., 11 Suffolk Rd., Chestnut Hill 67.

Temperatures on the peak of Mt. Washington in New Hampshire may vary 50 degrees from sun to shadow.

Heart Assn. Suggests 1961 Resolution

The Massachusetts Heart Association today urged the public to place this near the top of New Year's resolution lists:

"Resolved, that during 1961 I will do everything in my power to keep my weight at a reasonably normal level to help safeguard my heart and my health."

Insurance actuarial studies have shown there is a penalty attached to added weight so far as mortality is concerned. Overweight men experience a significantly higher mortality than those of average or less than average weight - and the greater the overweight, the higher the mortality.

Overweight women, too, have a higher mortality than those whose weight is close to average although they are not affected quite as seriously as men.

The Massachusetts Heart Association, which will conduct its annual Heart Fund campaign in February, urged Massachusetts residents to follow these rules:

1. Keep your weight at the best level for your age, sex and body structure. Your doctor knows your best weight.
2. Eat a varied, well-balanced diet.
3. Diet only under medical supervision. Never put yourself on a special diet without a doctor's approval.
4. If your doctor has put you on a diet - be strong. Don't make exceptions. Follow it exactly.
5. After your weight is back to normal, keep it that way.

On the town common in Amherst, New Hampshire, there is a somber granite rock, or block, in which there is a heavy iron ring as a reminder of stern and forgotten methods of punishment.

Weston Garden Club Has Busy Christmas Season

WESTON -- Mid all the Christmas rush, several members of the Country Garden Club of Weston contributed time and talent to brighten the holidays of the patients of The Waltham Hospital.

Mrs. William S. Gibson, Mrs. C. Bartlett Eddy, Mrs. Kenneth C. Farnsworth, Mrs. Chester H. Graves, Mrs. Robert F. McLeod, and Mrs. Henry E. Wile decorated the coffee shop to celebrate it's first birthday, placed wreaths and greens in the solariums of the new wing, and made a white wreath to grace the children's area.

The foyer and lobby of Weston's Woodland and Country Schools were decorated by Mrs. Robert E. Sullivan and Mrs. Donald M. King.

The Club's newly formed Junior Gardening Committee, under Mrs. Albert E. O'Connell, held two Christmas workshops at the Scout House, where some 25 Girl Scouts created Austrian Pine and cone wreaths under the guidance of Mrs. O'Connell, Mrs. B. Howard Spicker, Mrs. Robert E. Young, and Mrs. John M. Cole; and the leaders of Troop #23, Mrs. Edward S. Stritter, Mrs. Alfred F. Raynor Jr., Mrs. Henry W. Lingley, and Mrs. David Kingsbury.

So successful was this project that Mrs. O'Connell predicts even greater plans to enlarge work already being done with both boy and girl scouts, with club members helping in merit badge consultations, instructing in decorative arts, and promoting field trips for the junior gardeners.

WAYLAND TOWN HALL

Police

Wayland police answered the following calls last week:

Wednesday to 17 Damon St. where a boy had cut his hand. He was taken to Leonard Morse Hospital by the police cruiser.

Friday to Russell's railroad crossing on Rt. 20 where the warning lights and gates were operating continuously. Police directed traffic until an engine passed over the crossing and freed the switch. An auto-bus accident was reportedly caused by the traffic tie-up.

Saturday to Edgewood Rd. where a homeowner reported that someone had been shooting at his house. Police found a rifle slug embedded in an alumnium storm window frame. The investigation is continuing.

New Years Eve and morning police were busy directing highway department crews to icy highways areas for sanding. They also investigated firecracker complaints soon after midnight.

One man was lodged in the town lockup for the weekend on drunk charges. He was tried Monday.

Monday afternoon, police were called to 5 Matthews Dr. to take a man to the Leonard Morse Hospital.

Selectmen

The Board of Selectmen will hold a special meeting in the town hall Monday at 8 p.m.

All town offices are busy winding up 1960 business and preparing for both Wednesday's special town meeting and the regular town meeting next March.

Fire

Firemen answered the following calls last week:

Wednesday to 29 W. Plain St. for a lockout; to 18 Happy Hollow Rd. for an auto fire; and to 16 Lee Rd. where a heart attack victim was revived with a resuscitator.

Friday to stand by a gas leak at Sears and Gammon Rd. while gas company crews repaired a break.

Firemen also answered several calls to inspect water conditions in homes after the heavy rains Sunday. Only one cellar was pumped out -- at 246 Stonebridge Rd. where the heating system was endangered by high water.

Chief Francis Hartin reported that last year his department answered 414 calls -- 114 more than in 1959. He pointed out that although his department received more calls, the town reported the lowest fire loss in recent department history.

March of Dimes Opens Campaign

The Middlesex County chapter of the National Foundation is still in debt some $157,500 because of the 1955 polio epidemic, Chapter Chairman Donald M. Guiler of Lexington reported this week.

He said that more than $1,500,000 has been spent in the past five years to care for patients, including the 927 stricken in the 1955 epidemic.

"The 1961 Massachusetts New March of Dimes could be the most important campaign in recent years," Mr. Guiler said. "We must wipe the deficit slate clean and assure a fresh start in the National Foundation's unceasing fight against polio, birth defects and arthritis." The month-long campaign begins Jan. 1.

10,000 CARS DAILY ON 1 WESTON ROAD

Fight Boils Over Dumping 128 Cars on Slim Streets

WESTON -- Upwards of 10,000 cars daily on a narrow town road -- that's the prospect for Weston.

This is the latest information in a controversy that began with the state's move to widen Rte 128 and dump heavy traffic onto hazardous town roads.

One fact is certain: the state will build a new ramp off Rte. 128 for westbound traffic on Rte. 30.

The key to the situation: keeping any new ramp as close to the present Rte. 30 traffic circle site as possible. Otherwise, the danger increases for school bus riders.

At mid-week these were the developments:

1 -- Alternatives offered by Weston residents at the Jan. 18 hearing in Newton are being weighed by the Department of Public Works. A decision can be expected about March 20.

2 -- There will be no more public hearings. All discussions will be between DPW and local officials.

3 -- Any widening of River St. to accommodate heavier traffic would be done at town expense.

This has been the most controversial question facing local residents since the hair-pulling that attended the toll road hearings.

A DPW spokesman pointed out that today 10,000 cars use the off-ramp feeding directly into South Ave. (Rte. 30).

To give you an idea of what this means: 62,000 cars now use Rte. 128 at this point.

If the proposed slip ramp is fed into Summer St-River St. after 128 has been widened, he pointed out, the number is bound to go above 10,000, but by how much the spokesman wouldn't say.

But one thing is clear. It would mean that the narrow roads in this area would have to take this load.

The DPW maintains that the town would have to pay to widen any roads affected by this increase in traffic.

Usually, the state does not

DR. FREYMANN
Seeks Re-election

Fair Resigns Health Unit, 2 Announce

WAYLAND -- Norman G. Fair, for 11 years a member of the Board of Health, this week announced his resignation from the board, and simultaneously two others said they will run for the two vacancies this year.

Mr. Fair, who still has two years to go on his three-year term, will remain as agent of the board, a post he has held simultaneously with his board membership.

Dr. John G. Freymann announced that he will seek re-election to the board.

Richard Durant of Woodridge Rd., a Worcester banker, revealed that he will run for the post vacated by Mr. Fair.

In resigning, Mr. Fair said "it has become too complicated for me to serve in these two positions. My evenings are all taken up."

Originally, Mr. Fair added, he had felt it was useful in following up on board policies to hold the post of health agent.

He pointed to the campaign to raze "unfit dwellings" as one of the projects he had helped initiate and complete.

"Since both other members are doctors," said Mr. Durant, "I felt it would benefit the town to have someone from the business world as a member."

Mr. Durant, who has held no previous town office, works with the Guaranty Bank & Trust Co.

Claypit Principal, 2d Driver Hurt In 2-Car Crash

WAYLAND -- William E. Maxson, principal of the Claypit Hill School, was injured in a two-car collision on Plain Rd. Monday noon.

Both Mr. Maxson and the other driver, Mrs. Philip Awad of Parmenter Rd., Wayland, were taken to the hospital.

Mr. Maxson was treated at the office of Dr. James P. Burke in Wayland for cuts on the lips and then taken to Waltham Hospital for further examination. He was later discharged to his home, 68 Lunda

Wayland Cats Now Howling In Court-But May Prowl Again

WAYLAND --Scat! But the cats didn't scat. And won't.

The Case of the Charitable Cats is now finally in court--and the fur should begin to fly for sure in Superior Court about Feb. 6.

The issue: was the revocation of the permit valid, or did the shelter owners have the town legally treed?

Yesterday final pleadings in Town Counsel Frank Kilburn's bill in equity to call the whole thing off were scheduled in Superior Court. The next step is trial, in February.

Contrary to reports, no one is now adding to the shelter which has now reached window height.

The builders added a few touches after the permit was revoked, according to Roland Gray, president of the sheltering home corporation, but only to show that they did not accept the revocation as legal.

Mr. Gray argued this week that if the permit granted the Ellen M. Gifford shelter was illegal, then so were countless others granted under similar conditions in the past few years here.

He contended that the town's position that the permit was granted in good faith--but illegally because certain requirements were not carried out--was shaky.

Mr. Kilburn's legal move boils

Wayland Edges Weston In Field House Opening

WAYLAND -- The Wayland High Warriors launched their new Field House with a crucial 54-52 overtime victory over Weston High before a record crowd of more than 1000 last Saturday.

The victory, temporarily at least, gave them possession of first place in the Dual County League, with a 6-1 record.

It was Eldon Goodhue's pair of free throws in the overtime period that spelled victory.

After that the victors conducted a successful ball freeze to keep the visitors, who had led in the early periods from scoring.

The large crowd watched one of the closest games ever played between the two rivals. At the final buzzer, the score stood at 48-all, necessitating three-minute overtime period.

The fans on both sides gave the New Field House a resounding roar in the final minutes as they watched the underdog Wayland team triumph over a hard-driving Weston

Dr. Freymann, 38, in announcing his bid for re-election, said he considered the board's chief accomplishment in three years to be the establishment of a unified nursing service in Wayland.

"This means that the town's health care is not split among three nursing services, as in most towns...This provides a continuity of service and depth of understanding otherwise impossible."

He is a Harvard Medical School graduate and has postgraduate training at Massachusetts General Hospital and the Mayo Clinic in addition to U. S. Public Health Service posts. He is chairman of the health board and director of medical education at Memorial Hospital, Worcester.

Dr. David R. Corey is the third board member.

Weston Petition Has One Aim: Help-Not Eliminate-Teen Drivers

WESTON -- The young-driver petition being circulated here has only one purpose:

To promote careful study of the teen-age driver problem by the State Legislature in order to arrive at new legislation during 1961 aimed at reducing the number of accidents in this age group.

Inadvertently, the Town Crier indicated otherwise in last week's issue.

Those circulating the petition say that in spite of Registra Clement Riley's reluctance to change the laws regarding teen-age driving, there is an urgent need for such action.

In a nutshell, this is the reasoning:

They cite the findings of a report to the state legislature which shows that each year about one in every 10 licensed drivers in the 16-to-18 year age group has an accident involving bodily injuries. Similar figures for the age group 19-to-25 years are half this rate even though this older group averages more miles per driver.

The idea of eliminating night driving for 16-to-18 year old drivers is only one of the approaches being considered. The petition aims at governmental action immediately to protect the teen driver.

For those interested in supporting this program a copy of the petition may be signed at the Village Book Stall in Weston.

The Weston group working on this petition will welcome the support of Wayland residents.

First National Offers S&H Green Stamps

BOSTON -- First National Stores has begun distribution of S & H green stamps in Eastern Massachusetts, according to John L. MacNeil, executive vice president.

Mr. MacNeil said that 191 First National stores in this area began distribution Tuesday, largely as a result "of the success of S & H green stamps in our Hartford division." They are already being distributed by First National in Western Massachusetts.

"We chose the S & H plan because it is the oldest and by far the largest stamp plan," said Mr. MacNeil. "Throughout its 64 years of experience, The Sperry & Hutchinson Co. has an outstanding record of providing highest quality merchandise and service."

S&H headquarters in New England announced that it will build nine redemption centers here in addition to those located in Natick, Waltham, Worcester, Cambridge, Dorchester, Lowell and Lawrence.

Winter Carnival For Cochituate Scouts Planned

COCHITUATE -- A Winter Carnival for Boy Scouts of the Algonquin Council will be held Saturday Feb. 4, according to Bill Erwin who presided at the first 1961 meeting of the council. Feb 11 was fixed as an alternate date in case of bad weather.

Reports from unit leaders showed that growth, program and finances were "tops", according to Erwin and Harvey Newton, secretary, who assisted at the session.

Council leaders were invited to a genius program planned by Pack No. 1 for the Loker School, Monday, Jan. 30, at 7:15 p.m. The program includes many cub scientific projects.

Troop No. 1, it was announced, received its 36th charter, joining a select circle of perhaps three troops in the nation which have been in service continuously for such a period.

Phyllis Weaver Wins Legion Contest

WAYLAND -- A Wayland High senior was adjudged the winner of the American Legion Oratorical contest in this town last week.

The contest, held before approximately 300 upperclassmen and faculty in the Field House, was sponsored by Wayland Post No. 133 of the Legion.

Miss Phyliss Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterry Weaver of 49 Stonebridge Rd., was declared the victor in a three-way final and thus became eligible for the state and perhaps national finals later this year.

Following Miss Weaver were: Roy Flanders, senior and son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton L. Flanders of 3 Amery Rd. and Miss Susan Mohl, a junior and daughter of Mr. and Mr. J. J. Mohl of 9 High Rock Rd.

Frank Kilduff, commander of Post 133 presented the prizes, suitably inscribed Legion statuettes.

Miss Weaver's winning address, for which she received a high rating from all three judges, argued for the abolition of the present electoral college method.

Miss Weaver maintained that direct election of the president would be harmful but that substitution of a system advocated by Henry Cabot Lodge in 1949 would assure each candidate a proportionate share of each state's electoral votes and insure "the common people" of the vote.

Flanders argued that government had become too big a business and a threat to all that rivaled the Communist one. Miss Mohl sought a modern spirit more in line with the zeal shown by the American revolutionists if the constitution were to be preserved.

Judges for the contest were Commander Kilduff, James Reed of the faculty and Robert Moore of The Crier staff.

EDITORIAL

... But Let's Take No Chances

There's a certain it-had-to-come aspect to the proposed Weston invasion from Rte. 128. Yet this does not signify hopelessness. Something can be done.

We're referring, of course, to the proposed slip ramp (about a mile long) which would feed upwards of 10,000 cars daily into narrow town roads and endanger some 70 students who board school buses daily in this area.

The city -- and all its problems -- was bound to inch a bit closer to our rural hideaway. Weston residents are too sophisticated not to recognize that. Some variation of the present traffic circle is coming. There are just too many cars on the road. And no one would wish Rte. 128 to remain a modern cowpath at this point either.

Yet it does seem to us that the best change -- the best way to live with a bad situation -- would be for the state to choose one of the alternatives offered by Mr. Russell Cox. Preferably the one which would make double use of the toll road off-ramp or through use of the old ramp and special traffic signals.

Anything less than that not only imposes an undue burden on the town but, more important, endangers many of our school children in the Summer-River Sts. region now sought by the State for the ramp.

One other thing should be noted: The State would require the town to foot the bill for any widening of town roads necessitated by increased traffic. Usually the State does not funnel traffic from one major state highway to another through town roads. So, in a sense, Weston is getting "special treatment" it doesn't want.

With all this said, we are sure that the State Department of Public Works does not want to impose either an undue burden upon the town or to endanger its children. With sufficient interest shown by residents and officials in the weeks ahead, something we can live with may be worked out. Let no one get less through default.

Pardon US, Mr. Kennedy

Naturally, we're proud that our Selectman Archibald Cox has been chosen to be solicitor general of the United States, but we can't help wondering if President Kennedy knows what he has done to a quiet Republican suburb near his native Boston.

And although an upheaval in Wayland may be little more than a hiccup in a hurricane down in Washington, we think even a President should let others live up to his standards in these perilous times.

If he demands scrupulous attention to transition, where does this leave Wayland, and Mr. Cox - and his successor not yet chosen? Has Mr. Cox left detailed files or a written brief for his successor? Will he be able to run down here for board meetings, to sit at his successor's elbow, with pertinent yes and no nudges and occasional cloakroom conferences? And will his successor be able to pick up right in the middle of the Charitable Cat case which now appears to have more lives than a cat?

If Mr. Kennedy demands four-year service of his top aides, what of Mr. Cox who has more than a year to go on his contract with us?

And this sudden election. Does Mr. Kennedy realize that this year at town meeting voters must think twice to remember to vote twice for selectmen when their minds perhaps should be given undividedly to schools, shelters and such?

We wish President Kennedy, there on top of the heap, would give such matters a little thought now and then between frowning at the Communists and southern Democrats.

We have discovered a happy thought in all this, however. Wayland residents traveling to Washington will have a solicitor general to drop in on. And who knows, to impress friends in Virginia, he might be prevailed upon to escort us about the capitol for the afternoon. After all he can always leave Bobby in charge of the shop.

'Mellifluous' Obscure?

To the Editor:

Please enter the following letter in the Letters to the Editor section of The Town Crier at your convenience.

C. R. Woodsum
One Old Farm Rd.
Wayland, Mass.

Sir:

Note: In The American Everyday Dictionary I found: mellifluous, mellifluent, mellifluence, mellifluently, and mellifluously. I also found "mellifluous" in the next literature I read, The New Yorker, Dec. 10, 1960, page 202, col. A, paragraph 1. Obscurity?

D. G. Greenlie
232 Conant Rd., Weston

Ed. Note -- In case you wondered: Mellifluous means sweetly or smoothly flowing. Thank you and good night.

To the Editor:

As a writer member of the Weston School Liaison Committee, I would like to comment on your editorial concerning publication of Smoke Signal and Chatterbox.

I assume that The Town Crier is published to provide good local news coverage and make a profit. If my assumption is correct, it seems that a couple of things are obvious.

First, your paper is providing the students of two schools with an opportunity not enjoyed by many hundreds of thousands of pupils in other areas.

Second, because The Crier is a public newspaper, rather than a closed circuit high school paper, you automatically and immediately upgrade the editorial objectives of the students.

If the students working on the two papers are seriously interested in journalism, advertising or allied fields, there could be no better training ground than a commercial newspaper, edited ethically and operated for profit.

I believe you are providing both towns with a service and opportunity so valuable that a proper price tag could not be developed to cover its full value.

Sincerely,
Warren F. Randolph

Ed. Note -- Thank you. And we hope the students enjoy writing with us, as much as we enjoy having them try their wings.

To the Editor:

Your Town Crier issue of Jan. 19 headlines an article -- "3 Informed Citizens Attend School Budget Meetings". This story is not complete.

Like Supt. Anderson, a number of town citizens felt that there was a need for more informed participation in town meeting. Therefore, in the last two months we have tried to educate ourselves by attendance at town board and committee meetings. We have rotated the responsibility for attending among a group of 14 people, not just three, as your article might indicate. Furthermore, the 14 reside in all areas of Wayland.

We feel this is one way to exercise our responsibility.

Yours very truly,
JAMES D. WELLS

Ed. Note -- And so do we. We're sorry if we slighted 11 faithful diggers after facts. We'll make up for that. We want more facts ourselves.

CORRECTION -- "It stood out like a sore thumb -- my thumb," writes columnist Howard S. Russell. In his column last week, seems he put the Mexican War back in 1812. He really meant the War of 1812. Ed. note.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Keeping Warm Before The Modern Oil Era

How naturally we slip into easy ways, and forget completely the laborious methods of the past!

What boy nowadays would comprehend, if you suggested that sifting the ashes would save money. Yet this was one of the chores connected with heating the house with coal, only a few decades ago. He would rebel at economy connected with any such dirty job.

As for shoveling coal into a heater several times a day, as boys (or their mothers) used to do, he would want an automatic stoker right away. Now, oil, automatic blowers and thermostats have changed everything from the coal era.

Before Coal

But back before the days of coal, and still only about a century ago, the only fuel was wood. Its use still continued in part into my boyhood. My older brother was supposed each evening, to fill the wood basket beside the kitchen stove. Mother needed a quick fire to get father's breakfast. He ate at 6 a.m.

Brother sometimes forgot, as boys do still. One chilly night, after we boys were asleep, father hauled him out: "Go out to the woodshed and fill that basket for your mother," father commanded. Brother didn't forget again.

Immense Changes

The shift from wood to coal, and coal to oil, has brought immense changes to our cold New England, both indoors and out. The cellar coal bin, with the dirty black dust through the house that was the despair of the housewife, has departed. Mrs. Weston or Mrs. Wayland may now dry her white linen in the basement; and the rumpus room for the children is where the winter's coal was once piled.

But the most marked change in a century is outside, and seldom thought of. It is the great increase in our forests.

Up almost to a hundred years ago, the sole fuel for every purpose: heating factories, firing brick, fueling railway engines, as well as for all household uses, was wood, or charcoal made from wood. (Long since that, on our wedding trip in Florida, Mrs. Russell and I rode behind a wood-burning branch-line engine).

The amounts required were enormous. Immense areas in Southern New England were chopped almost clean of trees.

The Sandwich glass that our ladies now prize so highly was melted at the cost of denuding Cape Cod and Plymouth of trees. "No wood is left in the township," it was reported from one Cape town. "Our locomotives are sweeping away our forests by thousands and thousands of acres yearly." says a Boston magazine in 1848.

Cities like Boston hungrily burned the wood of the surrounding towns, though great quantities came in by sea. A single household might need 20 cords a year. Woodlots on the hills of Weston and Wayland and on Nobscot Mt. fed the furnaces of Waltham and Watertown. Cutting wood was what farmers did in winter. Cord wood, was a crop which might be harvested every 20 years; or, as often happened, cattle were turned in after cutting, and the land became pasture instead of forest.

Great Change

Modern fuel has wrought a great change. Now our woods grow and grow. Even with all the housing built in Weston and Wayland woodland areas in the past decade, I am confident that there are more trees here now than a century ago.

If, like me, you enjoy the woodlands, and have a feeling of respect for a handsome, well formed tree, you can feel thankful for the change in fuels: wood to coal; coal to oil, and, along with it to easier, simpler living: for boys, women, and everyone.

NATURE AROUND US by Bill Ryder

Let Your Curious Child Find Nature in Books, Too

We may not have Movie houses and bowling alleys in our towns, but we are well endowed with open land and water and all that goes with it.

Fortunately we have planning boards and organizations which are aware of the value of these natural areas and are doing what they can to make sure that when our towns reach their saturation points, there is still plenty of room left for the wild creatures.

Our children are only able to get a smattering of instruction on nature in the elementary grades due to the heavy schedule, and I think we as parents should try and fill this gap if the child shows the least bit of interest in these matters.

Lots of us come from areas where we were unable to observe nature, so naturally children's questions concerning it often go unanswered as we either do not care or know, and do not have the books in which to find the answer.

There are many books written on the flora and fauna of the Northeast, but for quick identification and a short story on each type the following are hard to beat. These books are part of the Peterson Field Guide Series, published by the Houghton-Mifflin Co. and can be obtained through the local bookstore. The ones I find most helpful are:

A Field Guide to the Birds by Roger Tory Peterson (the bird watcher's bible).

A Field guide to Shells by Percy A. Morris (especially good for small beachcombers).

A Field Guide to Mammals by Wm. H. Burt & R. P. Grossenheider (all mammals in North America included).

A Field Guide to Trees & Shrubs by George A. Petrides.

A Field Guide to Reptiles and Amphibians by Roger Conant (covers things you find under a wet rock and other things that crawl, leap and swim).

A Field Guide to the Wildflowers by Margaret McKenny & Roger Tory Peterson.

If you are curious about nature, or your children are, you can find most of the answers in the above books as they simplify identification and are well illustrated.

Children interested in nature and the sports that go with it are able to keep busy through all the year, and will more fully enjoy the good fortune that brought them to live in our town.

Editor Resigns

Richard Fralick, editor of the Town Crier since last Nov. 3, has resigned to become legislative correspondent of United Press International News Service in Harrisburg, Penna.

Pending the appointment of a permanent editor in February, Robert C. Moore of Sudbury is acting editor.

Mr. Fralick came to this paper after acting as city editor of the Daily Messenger in Homestead, Penna.

Just in passing: If you haven't read the editorial on "Suburbia" in last week's issue of "The Chatterbox" (Wayland High paper published with The Crier), do so. Anyone worried about youth's ability to write will find this a fine professional job, with a clear point of view. And a sense of humor: "Wayland is the bird-watching center of the world" -- indeed.

Ever watch them unloading a trailer at a supermarket? Those rollers are the secret to highway travel in the over-populated America of the near-future, if Westinghouse engineers are right. The idea: giant rollers capable of supporting something resembling a streamlined subway car. One track would connect Boston to New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburgh, Chicago and way stations.

Method: automatically load autos, about 10 to a train. After that: you'd be whizzed along at 150 mph to certain specified destinations. Sleep as you go, if you wish, or drop off for a drink in the lounge car. How else are you going to accommodate 100 million-plus cars in the seventies?

Rolling down to Miami might be fun, but Westinghouse'd better come up with something to get into Boston on time, if they want our vote.

Digging into Civil War lore, Weston Post 214 of the American Legin notes some oddities they'll probably make something of at their (Civil) War Dance March 3:

Ulysses S. Grant wasn't his real name at all. It was Hiram Ulysses but someone got his initials wrong on some luggage given him before leaving for West Point. Okay by him. Accept the change after all, what'd the boys at the Point make of H.U.G. Might have turned him to drink a lot sooner.

Residents of North Wayland were more than happy about Wayland High's victory over Weston, especially when they learned the victims were also known as the Wildcats.

Asked a fellow the other day if he's give us his idea of the "Cochituate" line. His reply: "Well, if there were a railroad track, we'd be on the other side of it."

Isn't it bad enough for Metropolitan Boston to have its splits, without such silly talk out here? What gives with this Cochituate vs. Wayland talk anyway?

Something About Birds

WESTON -- A female Hooded Merganser was seen at the Ash St. Reservoir on Jan. 14 by Mr. & Mrs. C. L. Smith, and again on Jan. 17 by Mrs. R. M. Hills. The first "white-winged" gulls of the season appeared at the Duck Feeding Area on Jan. 17 - two immature Icelands (Koe).

R. M. Verrill, Pelham Island Rd., Wayland, saw a Short-eared Owl there on Jan. 12. Rev. James L. Monks, S.J., reports that a Black-backed Three-toed Woodpecker has been seen at the north end of the Weston College Pond.

The Black-and-White Warbler is still present at the Rice's on Chestnut St. and it came for peanut butter as usual on Jan. 17 - the day after the snowstorm. Mrs. A. S. Reid, Pond Brook Circle, has been seeing a flock of 3 - 6 Meadowlarks in her yard since the first of the year.

Additional reports of Evening Grosbeaks continue to come in from Weston and Wayland. It would appear that the main arrival occurred between Jan. 3 and Jan. 6 in our area, and this is in agreement with observations at South Lincoln by Dr. W. H. Drury Jr., research director for the Mass. Audubon Society.

The largest flock of Purple Finches so far reported is 11 on Jan. 17 by Mrs. Levi Jennings, Glen Rd. Richard Stackpole, Wayland, saw a flock of five Field Sparrows recently. The Bissetts on Pinecroft Rd. have a wintering White-Throated Sprrow, and Mrs. W. E. Johnson, Pigeon Hill Rd., reports a Fox Sparrow. -- C.E.S.

$227.50 in Free Groceries

WESTON -- It was quite a haul -- $227.50 worth.

Mrs. Edward Stritter of 486 North Ave., Weston, swept through the Triple A Market here last Friday and emerged with that massive amount of groceries -- all for free.

Henry Acconcia, Triple A manager, just smiled. It was Mrs. Stritter's winnings on a drawing sponsored by Seabrook Farms, the nation's largest grower and packer of frozen foods.

"She's welcome to it," said Hand. "She really knew where she was going on that 15-minute trip." Mrs. Stritter had a trial run earlier to how she could best fill her shopper cart with merchandise.

Mrs. Stritter chose her favorite grocer for the prize haul, and Hank won the honor. Many of Triple A's customers were on hand to watch the affair despite the storm.

Weston Fights Move To Dump 128 Traffic

funnel ramp traffic through town roads from one state road to another, so precedents are hazy on this in the view of some. But to the DPW, it was a town matter. It planned no widening.

Police Chief Frank Shaw, at the Newton hearing, argued that the present Rte. 128 cloverleafs were too small, even when they were built and warned the DPW:

"To dump this traffic in ... will create an even bigger problem."

Weston residents and town officials told DPW officials at the Newton hearing that this increase was dangerous for approximately 70 school children who use eight school bus pickup spots along the mile route.

Russell Cox of Loring Rd., one of the protestors, told The Crier that even now these roads were barely adequate for residential traffic, let alone sufficient to accommodate heavier traffic.

He, like others at the hearing fearful for school children, offered three alternatives to the DPW proposal.

Briefly, the DPW wants to construct a slip (gradual) ramp for westbound traffic from Rte. 128 after it is doubled in width, and eliminate the traffic circle at Rte. 30. The new ramp would run along Summer and River Sts. The present ramp would be used for eastbound Rte. 30 traffic with a traffic signal.

What Cox proposed:

1--Adapt the DPW plan for present ramp but allow a turn for westbound traffic on a signal; eastbound with an arrow signal.

2--Use the toll road exit for both the toll road and westbound traffic on Rte. 30 by bringing an off ramp onto River St. between Norumbega and entrance to toll road.

3--Finally, in the vicinity of the River St. overpass, use a diagonal ramp off southbound lane of 128 into River Rd. at a point about a half mile north of Rte. 30.

The first two plans, says Cox, are the best from the town's point of view. Neither cuts into town roads.

But the essential thing, he says, is to keep the ramp as near to Rte. 30 as possible. About three-quarters of the school children live in the Loring Rd. area, so that any tie-in south of that point might ease the strain.

Seldom has a town shown such strength as Weston demonstrated at the Jan. 18 hearings.

School Supt. Anthony Brackett pointed out:

"The streets of Weston are narrow. They were designed to continue the rural character of the community...There are eight school bus stops in that neighborhood."

Cox argued that the slip ramp "seems to be the poorest selection from the standpoint of the neighborhood. I am surprised this state would even consider it."

William Tyler of Loring Rd.: "If you poll the audience here 90 percent will voice shock and horror at the place where this interchange is brought in."

Dr. John Wells of Kingsbury Lane: "Even with the present traffic, one has to know River Rd. to drive it.

"There are blind spots and I have seen accidents on it."

Robert Cook of Loring Rd.: "This is a very serious hazard to life, not merely dented fenders and 10 to 15 seconds' delay for motorists."

Actually, this project is the last of the widening of Rte. 128 north of Rte. 9 to meet 1960 conditions. The widening would extend northward 1.8 miles from the Newton-Wellesley line.

Because traffic increases 3 1/2 to 4 percent annually along Rte. 128, the DPW points out, heavier traffic requires spreading out of off-ramps.

The final determinant in this case probably will be how close to the present Rte. 30 cutoff can the new ramp be located and still be safe for Rte. 128 motorists, according to the DPW.

weekly report

Weston Town Hall

Snow may be a nuisance to tired householders, but it may prove tragic to some family if fire hydrants are not shoveled out, Fire Chief Maurice L. Upham announced this week. A few minutes delay in locating and shoveling out a hydrant, Chief Upham said, might mean the difference in life and death.

Firemen responded to an accidental alarm from the boys' dormitory at the Cambridge School last Friday at 7:30 p.m.

On Tuesday, they were called to 2 Lantern Lane at 8:57 a.m. but the report of smoke proved groundless.

On Tuesday, Jan 17, at 3:31 p.m. they were called to 217 Merriam St. where a broken hot water pipe caused considerable damage to the cellar.

The mayor of Quebec was in an accident with a Wayland man at 8:30 a.m. last Saturday on Rte. 128. Mayor Arisue Moria was taken to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital as was the Wayland man.

Last Friday, police made an ambulance call for a boy on Glen Rd. who had a jammed finger. He was taken to Newton-Wellesley.

At 1:28 a.m. on Saturday the driver of one car in a two-car crash on Conant Rd. was taken to Waltham Hospital with a leg injury.

Wildcats Compete For First Place

The Weston Wildcats have kept their "balance," as Coach Robert Carini calls it, and are competing for the top position in the Dual County League along with Wayland, Bedford, and Lynnfield.

The power of the Weston team is sparked by the combined efforts of the first five. The high scorer varies from game to game. Individual averages of points made per game differ by only six points.

Coach Carini is especially proud of the Wildcat defense which can easily shift from zone to man-to-man. Artie King, Roger Carney, and Eddie Perkins are picking up more rebounds than before. Buddy Foster and Eddie Perkins are responsible for holding down the scores of the opponents. The team's most dependable sub is Russ Reilly.

Statistics

Following is a summary of the Wildcat's records as of January 16. Statistics from the Bedford and Wayland games are not included.

Players	T.P.	A.P.G.

Junior Varsity

With the 3-1 record, the J-V's are tied with Lynnfield and Wayland for first place. According to Coach Jeremiah Kellett, the team's strength is its tight defense. The first string of the J-V squad includes Thad Hetherington, Kim McMullin, Chuck Scheurhoff, Dave Evans and John Hutcheson the center.

Mike Club Plans Trip

The Announcer's Club plans to take a trip in the middle of February to visit radio stations in order to learn about the technical aspects, the personalities, and the difficulties of announcing.

The stations that are to be visited are WNAC, a radio and T.V. station; WEEI, where they hope to see Tom Russell, who spins records between 5:30 and 10:00 a.m.; WORL, where Bill Givens, another friendly D.J. works.

22 used to be Terry Dunn but who is it now? The number belongs to Thad Hetherington who stuns his opponents as he leaps.

Past Writing Becomes Present News

by STEVE CURRIER

Tacked to the bulletin board in room 103 are pages from the BELLOWS FALLS INTELLIGENCER and the TAUNTON DAILEY GAZETTE dated 1824 and 1881.

Orange yarn in the display draws attention to the unusual articles on the yellow parchment. Many ads resemble those for Carter's Little Liver Pills. The reader can find remedies for everything from baldheads to frosted feet; some advertisers claimed that both ailments and many other incurables could be cured with the same pill or tonic.

Along the side of these ads for medicines, clothing and even drain pipes are serious articles about General Lafayette's travels, a complaint about grave robbing, notices for people with letters at the post office, and a story about the horrible Harpe brothers of Kentucky.

Many short items like the following taken from the TAUNTON DAILY GAZETTE July 25, 1881, fill-out the pages. "Thomas Butler of Bloomington, Ill. had his honeymoon spoiled by honeybees. He was so unfortunate as to accidently overturn a hive of bees late in the afternoon of his wedding day. The enraged insects stung him nearly to death, and at the last accounts he was in a dangerous condition."

These old papers were found in a series of Portfolios at the Troop 52 Scout House. These papers have been found to be a great amusement and an actual source to all who have read them.

Bellows Falls is a small town in Vermont about 30 to 40 miles from the border of Vermont and Massachusetts. Taunton is southeast of Boston.

BOY BOWLERS

A group of Weston High students headed by Joe Ewers, are recruiting boys to start a Weston-Waltham Bowling League. The group plans to bowl on Friday afternoons at a tenpin alley on Route 128.

Twenty boys are needed to make up four teams of five boys each. According to Joe, "Interest, not experience, is the only necessary qualification for becoming a member." The league will be able to bowl at reduced rates.

Interested readers should see Joe for more information or to add their names to the league list.

Accordion Plays on in New Role in Education

Everyone in Mr. Keene's biology classes know that the "Accordion" has been playing a large part in his course. One day all his students are sitting on the bleechers in the gym, another day they are in small discussion groups, and on other days they are in the regular class periods.

"The Accordion Plan attempts to create an atmosphere to bring about an improvement in learning. It allows the teachers to do what they know can be done in improving the school." This is the definition that Mr. Marsden, co-ordinator of the Accordion Plan, gives of Weston's new program.

In the years of high school, classes are the same day after day, the same periods, the same teachers, the same rooms and the same classmates. The Accordion Plan gives the teacher an opportunity to change these traditional classroom routines.

Next year students may find two or three teachers in his English course, one for the study of grammar, one for literature and one for compositions. He may find in his history course that he will have a lecture at 1:00 on Monday and a group discussion at 11:30 on Wednesday. In his science course he may find himself working as an individual on a project which interests him. There will be definite changes. Each part of the program will be molded around individual needs and abilities. Having a program like this increases the effectiveness of teaching.

New School

In the new high school the accordion will be playing more freely. Each department has a special workshop where group discussion and individual work can take place. A lecture hall and an auditorium will be available for mass communication.

Money for Perfection

Weston High School was awarded $100,000 for the exploration of higher learning by the Fund for the Advancement of Education, a part of the Ford Foundation. This money is used as the salaries for the teachers who are planning and perfecting this plan. Many teachers in the high school will spend the summer working on new courses of study and preparing special lectures. This program is not a trial by error experiment, but the result of careful planning by the faculty and administration for over a year.

This new plan, like all new plans, will take a lot of time, observation, and study before the results will be known or interpreted. The overall effects will not be seen clearly until the four years that it takes a class to travel through from freshmen to seniors are completed.

Storage Space Needed

The new Weston High School, due to be ready next year, will contain an auditorium with a capacity of six hundred and fifty people. It will be the largest auditorium in Weston. And yet, for all the uses that this room will be put to, there will be no storage rooms for storing props, scenery, and other materials for stage productions.

The auditorium, because of its size, will be in much demand by the various town organizations. Not only is the school play going to be performed there each year, but such organizations as the Friendly Society with their two annual productions and Scouting groups with their various special programs will want to use the auditorium also.

All of these programs would require large and bulky scenery, and props and costumes which could be easily broken or lost. There are no storage rooms to put these items in. Every modern, well equipped auditorium should have space for dressing and storage rooms. The new auditorium will double as music practice rooms, but props and costumes cannot be stored in these.

I'm sure everyone who saw the play, "Pygmalion," remembers the old red victrola with its hugh sound bell. All during the rehearsals and productions, the victrola, an old and valuable antique, was lying on the floor backstage, being kicked and tripped over. It stayed there because there was no other place to put it.

There is a lot of room on either side of the stage to install some small closets for props and costumes. Scenery, being tall but thin could easily be accommodated in a long but narrow closet, built along the back of the stage.

Such small closets would be relatively inexpensive to build now. Props not being used would be out of the way, not so likely to be broken or lost. Scenery would be easy to get at, but still out of the way when it wasn't wanted. All these items could be locked up to insure their safety.

The multitude of activities, from town meetings to concerts, lectures, and plays makes even more clear the need for enough storage space to put the props, microphones, cords, lamps, and other equipment in a safe place set aside for these purposes.

A Grimmy Tale

Introduction

For those English cats and chicks who are weary from reading Shakespeare's long-gone plays with conned plots, make this short scoop of Hans and Grit your Bedtime story.

HANS AND GRIT

Scoop has it that Hans and Grit, after their father left them in the woods, turned into juvenile delinquents who stole sweets from a house, and shoved an old woman into the oven. Let me clue you in.

Chapter 1

Like man, those two cut a trail on their pogos in nothing flat. They were afraid pops would beat them with a wet noodle. It was night before they reached the middle of the forest, so Hans took a telescope-type torch from his pocket and lighted it so they could case the scene. Their eyeballs popped, man. They were in a clearing next to a 'way-out pad. This pad was not made of candy and cake and ice-cream, but the yard was stacked full of hot dogs, Fritos and pizzas, and in the patio was a fountain with spigots of coke and all kinds of fizz water.

Chapter 2

Bugged, Hans and Grit walked toward the house. Grit thought the occupants would be sacking it that time of night, but Hans eyed a light so they eavesdropped. There were Martian spies in the pad who were plotting an easy way to capture Earth. Hans and Grit dug the scoop and dashed for their pogo sticks as the spies burst, roaring from the pad. But - too late. The outer space cats captured Hans and tied him like a mummy in chains. Grit however, managed to escape and hid in an empty pizza carton till the Martians gave up the search.

Chapter 3

She heard them offer to spare Hans life in exchange for his pogo stick. And she heard Hans refuse. That cat's out of it, she thought.

What's a pogo stick compared to living? But then, what's life without a pogo stick? Then this whizz kid had a brain storm. She found the Martian's flying saucer, dismantled it and fastened the rocket engine to her own pogo stick. She then entered the pad and told the Martians they could have her pogo if they would free Hans.

"Look, Chick," said the Martian with the most smarts, "like what good would one jump stick do? Like, there are six of us, man."

"You could stand on each other's shoulders," she said, as she calmly unchained Hans.

When the Martians made like a totem pole, Grit held the collapsible torch to the rocket she had fastened to the pogo stick, and sent the Martian spies into orbit.

"Lucky I majored in mechanics," she grinned, as she and Hans scooped up the last of the goodies to take to their pad where they threw a swingin' blast.

Ann Scans... Exodus

After spending eighty weeks on the best seller lists, EXODUS has finally made it to Hollywood. Most of the novel's impact is retained in the movie but the book (Paperback Bantam Book S1995, 75¢) leaves a longer impression on the reader. I have never read a more compelling and moving story.

Although the movie is long, it is well worth the four hours. "Exodus" is filled with action and emotion as in the book - neither are in any sense dull. The movie is definitely not for someone looking for light humorous enjoyment, nor is it for the romantically inclined, although these qualities are not missing.

"Exodus" is an excellent portrayal of the determination and hope of the Hebrews to find a country, a home of their own. It is a plea for peace and for respect of the Jewish people, whose culture has survived for more than two thousand years of persecution. "Exodus" teaches an important lesson. Perhaps Addison has expressed its theme best in this sentence. "A brother's suff'rings claim a brother's pity," Compassion is the primary force in this picture.

The movie is definitely pro-Semitic and therefore is not a realistic picture. However, this does not detract from it and it may not even be noticed by the unprejudiced viewer. The hatred of the Nazis and Nazi torture camps probably is universal. "Exodus" shows the emotions of the people most affected by that great wrong to mankind.

Sal Mineo is generally known as a teenage movie star, but he really has proved himself a capable actor in "Exodus." In an unforgettable scene he describes his life in a torture camp and his violent hatred of those who discriminate against his race.

In a few cases the casting doesn't seem to fit the characters as they were portrayed in the book. However, everyone's idea of a cast differs greatly. Paul Newman doesn't look like a Jew and he doesn't seem to be as commanding and determined as the book portrays Ari Ben Canaan, leader of the Israeli Underground.

The element which makes a work of art such as a book or movie a masterpiece is the identification of the audience with the work. "Exodus," unlike "The Ten Commandments," "Spartacus," and "Ben-Hur," has a modern setting and yet it also is religious in a sense. The movie is in color and has stereophonic sound. Both help to bring the viewer via armchair to beautiful Israel.

This Is Your Life

This young man, who has a smile to match the Mona Lisa, was born on January 7, 1943, in Waltham. He lived in a French Provincial house with a large backyard with swings and sandbox, until the family moved to Weston two years ago.

This enterprising boy in the fifth grade made and sold golf tees; he designed and made his own boat at twelve, and designed a hydroplane a year later. Never losing money on a deal, except once when he swallowed a quarter, it appears as if he'll be as successful in future life as he has been so far.

Two false front teeth, which rose a riot last year, and receiving a concussion from football, a sport he has entered into since the sandlot days, hasn't hindered his being a good talker and getting interested in something new. He can still eat his favorite foods spaghetti, steak, submarine sandwiches, pizza, and fried clams, and say "Oh what a bugaboo!" and "I kid you not."

Kasavubu and Bessie, his two kittens, his grey sweater, red vest, navy blazer, Nancy Law, and the color light mauve are his favorite things. He engages in hobbies such as skin-diving, listening on a short wave radio set in his room, (and sewing clam diggers).

Competion Keen For Girls' Team

Tryouts for the 1961 girls' basketball team began after vacation. Over fifty girls competed for the thirty-six positions on the varsity and junior varsity teams. Because of the large number of girls to be chosen from, three cuts were made.

10 Games

Ten games have been planned for this year's basketball team. In a game played on Tuesday, January 10, both Varsity and Junior Varsity were victorious over Ashland. Friday, January 13 turned out to be a lucky day for the Weston Varsity, who beat Concord by a very close score. The J.V.'s were not quite as lucky, and lost their game.

Teams

After many afternoons of eliminations thirteen seniors, eight juniors, seven sophomores, and eight freshmen were chosen. The managers are Janet Sullivan, Judy Jones, and Carolyn Geiger.

five.

Both teams were hampered throughout the game by poor shooting while Weston controlled the boards for long periods.

Bill Wilkinson got the home team off on the right foot in the overtime by racing in for a layup but Weston came right back with Ed Perkins making good on one of two free throws.

Wayland then relied on the freeze until Wilkinson again moved in for two more.

High scorers were Weston's Buddy Foster with 19 points and Wilkinson with 16.

Cambridge School Defeated

WESTON -- Too much Thompson contained The Cambridge School of Weston basketball Griffins, 39-30 Tuesday, Jan. 17, in a non-league game at French Gymnasium.

Executing a slow deliberate ball control offense and a tight defense, Thompson Academy slowly built-up steam to over-power the game Griffins with a third period well-integrated inside-outside attack.

The 4-4 first quarter indicated a defensive battle from the start, with the Griffin's usual rebounding strength offset by Thompson's aggressive play under the baskets.

Both teams found it necessary to shoot from the outside, with Weisberg and Glaser hitting with one-handers for Cambridge.

A cold Cambridge couldn't cope with the Academy's outside accuracy and rebound scoring as Thompson tore back in the third quarter to increase a 18-14 intermission lead to 11 points by the fourth stanza.

Cambridge lineup: - Glaser 11, Simpson 2, Corbett 7, Turner 0, Weisberg 6, Bond 2, Palmer 2.

Thompson Academy lineup - Harris 6, Patterson 10, Cohen 14, Ildefauso 7, Boudreau 0, Struthers 2.

Earlier, the Griffins opened the season with a romp over Cambridge Academy of Cambridge, 61-13, with John Simpson's 20 points high for the victors. Paul Glaser racked up 12.

But it was a raging fourth quarter that later gave the Griffins a narrow 41-38 win over Stow at French gymnasium.

The scores:

Cambridge School - Glaser 12, Corbett 4, Palmer 5, Ingersoll 1, Simpson 20, Berrien 3, Chase 1, Turner 6, Davidson 0, Weisberg 7, Pavlo 0, Merrill 0, Bond 2.

Cambridge Academy - Fiumara 3, Sherlock 0, Chapman 1, Partnoy 3, Lederman 6, Glickman 0.

Cambridge School lineup -- Glaser 3, Corbett 9, Palmer 4, Ingersol 0, Simpson 11, Turner 6, Weisberg 3, Bond 4.

Stow lineup -- Bamford 0, Zine 14, Washburn 2, Swanson 5, La Chance 6, Quinn 11.

Weston Downs Bedford, 55-47

WESTON -- Weston High maintained its first place position in the Dual County Basketball Legue last Tuesday by trouncing Bedford, 55-47.

Although trailing 31-27 at halftime, the Wildcats rallied to coast to an easy victory. Ed Perkins and Buddy Foster led with 16 each. Art King tallied 15 for the winners.

The decision gave Weston a 5-1 season mark.

WESTON -- Girl Scout Troop 28 was anxious to compliment France's gift to Weston, Annie Wiest -- but darned if she didn't turn the compliment on them.

"I am amazed. Simply amazed," said the 16-year-old Rombas exchange student as she listened to the youngsters singing -- in French -- some of her native songs with her.

"In my country we don't learn English until much later," she exclaimed. "These girls are marvellous. So young. But so French. I love it."

And it was clear that Annie did enjoy this sign of friendship at the tea the troop gave its mothers and Annie Tuesday, Jan. 17, at Scout House.

Annie, wearing her blue uniform, described scouting in France, and then joined in the songfest. The troop is under the direction of Mrs. Fisher Pearson and Mrs. Edward Martell, assisted by Mrs. Warren Dow.

Paul Dippolito Victor Over 41 In Weston Science Countdown

WESTON -- Paul Dippolito outlasted 42 of his eighth grade classmates to be named Weston Junior High School winner of Science Countdown 1961 in a contest held Wednesday, Jan. 18.

The win qualified the junior scientist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dippolito, 337 North Ave., to compete in a preliminary Middlesex County contest as part of the third annual Science Countdown sponsored jointly by the Lowell Institute of Technology and WBZ-TV. A written test slated for Feb. 1 will be submitted for judging with other tests taken by school winners throughout the county.

Earning second place honors in the local contest was Tom Heffernon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Heffernon, 91 Montvale Rd. Scoring third was Betty Ashbrook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ashbrook, 16 Summer St.

Weston semi-finalists included Steve Bromfield, Kathy Glover, Bob Lamantea, Steve Mallett, Angus McLane, and Tony Morse. Also competing in the semi-final round of questioning were Bill Phillips, Ellen Ruland, Bob Schuerhoff, and Russell Terkelson.

Cochituate PTA To Raise Funds For Playground

COCHITUATE -- The January meeting of the Cochituate School PTA drew a record 125 persons to a panel discussion program.

Although the psychologist member was unable to appear, the panel, consisting of a teacher, parent and school nurse, engaged in a give-and-take session with the attending parents which Moderator and Principal Walter Doucette termed "very stimulating and possibly the best meeting we've ever had."

The membership voted to establish a committee to raise money for playground equipment.

The attendance banner went to Miss Kessel's first grade.

A talk on the school budget by a representative of the school committee is planned for the February meeting. This will be open to all residents.

WATERTOWN -- Dr. Nels Ferre, professor of religion at Andover-Newton Seminary, will address the Family Hour of Evangelism for Methodist Churches of the Boston District at St. John's Methodist Church in Watertown Sunday at 7 p.m. Groups from the Weston Methodist Church will attend the meeting.

According to our informants, the home buyer today is looking for SPACE, CONVENIENCE, DESIGN, in general the things that allow him to pursue the "Good Life". Well I must say we find that quite interesting, and rewarding too, since this is precisely what we had in mind in creating the Deck House.

Now I don't mean to be presumptuous, however I do feel that a few minutes spent in reading our brochure, and perhaps a few more minutes to view the Model Home will quite likely be of real value to you. Why you might even decide then and there to buy one.

At any rate the fact to remember is that most of our homes are built on order with it's necessary 3 to 4 month building time. This does mean that your thoughts for housing should proceed your need for housing by a reasonable amount of time. In other words don't wait too long to see the DECK HOUSE.

Wayland Cats Howl in Court

down to this: having the court order the corporation tear down the structure and cease further efforts to build. If upheld, it would in effect, though not in fact, support the revocation move.

Whichever side wins the pending court suit, the other will appeal to the State Supreme Court. A final decision might then be a year off.

If the town lost, the builder could continue construction...at his own risk, pending a decision in the high court.

At any rate, this case has proved that the as-yet-non-existent cats are the hardest to put out since grandma's calico yanked the springs out of her prize horsehair sofa.

$66 RATE LOOMS FOR WESTON IN '61

ITEK APPOINTEE -- Joseph Condon of Wayland. Story, PAGE 8

Civic Association Fights To Hold Tax Levy at $60

WESTON -- About $66, that's the outlook for the 1961 tax rate here with the budget shakedown still in progress.

This represents a rise of about $5. No major expenditures are expected at the March town meeting.

But already this tentative figure is under fire from the Weston Civic Assn. It insists the present $60.80 rate be maintained.

And it objects to what it terms the 5-10-15 proposition: a 5 percent increase in population, 10 percent rise in students and a 15 percent boost in the budget.

Chairman Leonard Dowse of the town finance committee points out that previous commitments are expected to force about a $4 rise in the rate this year, even without new programs.

But to this the association replied after a meeting with town officials last week:

"The funds required to meet these committed expenditures must be met through elimination or reduction of less necessary budget items."

Already, the association maintained, only Boston and Manchester, among sizable communities, have higher per capita tax rates than Weston ($203).

And it maintained that town leaders are not squeezing enough fat from the budget requests "submitted by each town department -

Cluster Zoning: Group Eyes It for Weston

WESTON -- Can cluster zoning turn the trick and preserve the home-in-the-country atmosphere now rapidly disappearing as hard-pressed inner core suburbs fill up?

This was the question raised - but not answered pending further study at the annual meeting last week of the Weston Forest and Trail Assn.

Cluster zoning, a new concept being worked out in Sharon and other communities across the nation, groups houses in clusters in new developments.

Wayland Man Found Guilty in Dog Stabbing

WAYLAND -- David W. Powers 23, of Dudley Rd., Cochituate was found guilty of cruelty to an animal at a session of Framingham District Court last Saturday.

According to Wayland police, Powers stabbed a beagle with a hunting knife, apparently because the dog's barking annoyed him. The case was continued for disposition.

Woman Invades World of Town Constable

WAYLAND -- A woman has invaded the all-male world of the town constable.

Miss Phylis Butler of 64 Sycamore Rd. is competing for one of the seven posts at the March 6 election against her father, John P. of the same address and her brother, George J. of nearby Castle Rd.

Both male Butlers are constables, the father for several years.

A constable is not a busy office, but he or she may be called upon to serve a summons in a civil suit. Could be rough but, if elected, Miss Butler could always call upon her father or brother for assistance.

No one can recall when there hasn't been a Butler running for constable. But this will be the first time a male Butler will be in danger of losing out to a woman -- his daughter or sister.

5 Seek Selectman Posts In Busiest Wayland Election Race in Years

WAYLAND -- More than 40 candidates have filed intentions this week to make the March 6 town election one of the most contested in years.

A wave of resignations and dropouts has made for contests on the selectman, health and public welfare boards, among others, where there are usually routine races.

One of the strangest situations developed on the Redevelopment Authority with the closing of nominations Tuesday.

Here, only two persons filed for the four vacancies -- George V. Deverell of 163 School St., an incumbent appointee of this new board and John R. McEnroy of 20 Cottage Rd., active in town politics and former selectman.

Regarded as an important board when it was set up a year ago, it has nevertheless made the prospects for a sticker race highly likely.

Some town officials believed that many potential candidates may have held off feeling that the incumbents would run in this first election.

A sticker candidate need not file papers, according to Town Clerk Leila Sears. Miss Sears listed the requirement: just your name and address as it appears on the voting list must appear on the sticker.

U. S. Seeks 3200 Acres in Wayland To Save Marshes, Water Supply

WAYLAND -- The Federal government is ready to purchase 3200 acres of marshland in this and neighboring towns to preserve the wildlife refuge and protect the water supply in this area.

A plan for such a large scale purchase in the Sudbury Valley region was outlined here last week by State Natural Resources Commissioner Charles W. Foster.

The move depends upon action at the state level on legislation filed this week by his department and local interest.

Foster asked local residents to fight for these bills, since they affect the value of land in the Wayland sector.

All money would come from the Federal government after local approval is given.

Control of these lands would rest in a Federal agency.

What makes conservation big news to this region, as to many in the northeast, is the growing effort of suburban dwellers to protect their green areas.

Formerly the province of the wildlife enthusiasts, conservation in recent years has interested those in preserving the rural countryside -- and their water supply.

Right now, according to Secretary Allen Morgan of the Sudbury Valley Trustees Inc., the Federal government is dickering with Canada for the import of water from the Far North in the near future to ease this nation's growing water shortage.

Blacktopped suburbia and the absorption of watersheds like the Sudbury are among the prime causes of this growing shortage.

At the annual meeting of the trustees, Foster pointed out that:

--The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is ready to purchase or lease the marshes in question, from Stone Bridge in Wayland to South Great Rd., Lincoln.

--Purchase would not include high ground, nor endanger nearby property. Only recognized marshland would be taken for a wildlife preserve.

Morgan pointed out that within 25 years, it is expected that these marshes will be swallowed up as suburbia draws ever-bigger numbers from the city.

"Time is running out," said Morgan after the meeting. "With the destruction of the marshes, everyone in town will find that the beauty and convenience that makes our suburbs desirable will be gone."

Most wildlife refuges are much larger, running to 100,000 acres or more but the Sudbury marshes (only about 4500 acres in all) are important as the largest and virtually the last to exist in the Northeast which is being denuded of wildlife.

Support is needed for the state legislation in order that the Federal government can begin the takeover with funds at hand, Foster pointed out.

Mostly a private venture until now, a conservation commission is one of the boards which will be sought at the Wayland town meeting in March.

This would enable the town to purchase or otherwise act to protect whatever marshland it regarded vital.

The Sudbury Valley Trustees, begun in 1952, has purchased about

Wayland Students Just Too Much, Need Computer To Handle Them

WAYLAND -- The choice is simple: either the computer button, or the panic button.

And the computer stands to save this town time, taxes and tempers.

That's one reason Schools Supt. Edward Anderson is looking for a computer to take over some of the school department's work.

This computer could mean the difference between spending $8000 annually to schedule high school classes, or an expenditure in the hundreds.

But the issue is bigger than that one computer, according to Mr. Anderson who pointed out this week that:

"If automation is not brought into the schools soon, there just won't be enough human beings to provide the education we want for our youngsters."

This means that machines for teaching are no joke. It could mean

How Much Teen Drinking Wayland High PTA Topic

WAYLAND Teen-age drinking, driving, smoking and party-crashing...how far can it go?

Members of the Wayland High School PTA will discuss problems growing from these aspects of teen behavior with Richard Randlett of the high school faculty at a meeting next Monday at the high school.

Parents will have their choice of discussing these problems with Mr. Randlett or meeting with Julian Demeo of the faculty on further uses by townsfolk of facilities at the new school.

The session will get under way with a coffee hour at 7:30 p.m.

Schools Supt. Edward Anderson will discuss current trends in education in connection with the film, "And No Bells Rang". This film was made in and about a school system similar to Wayland's.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- The Western Tanager which has been coming daily to Mrs. K. A. McMullin's feeder on Webster Road since Dec. 3, 1960 (eating practically nothing but doughnuts) was not seen the day of the blizzard (Jan. 20) nor afterward. Mrs. McMullin says that the bird ate almost steadily all the day before (Jan. 19) and stayed at the feeder until late that afternoon.

A sequel to the story is that Mrs. Ruth Emery, Editor of the Records of New England Birds for the Massachusetts Audubon Society, received a call Jan. 23, from Mrs. Carol Cross, Monument St., Concord, saying that a Western Tanager had appeared at her feeder the morning after the blizzard (Jan. 21), and was still there - eating doughnuts which she had put out. From the similar coloration of the plumage, it seems quite likely that this is the Weston bird, but of course there is no way of being absolutely certain as it was not banded. Mrs. Cross has been able to take photographs of it at her window feeder.

A Common Redpoll was observed on Jan. 9 by Mrs. Frank S. Owen, Boston Post Rd. This is only the second one reported in Weston this winter -- a striking contrast to last winter when these birds appeared in numbers at almost every feeder in town. The invasion of Redpolls in 1959-60 was one of the greatest on record for this erratic species.

A Dickcissel was seen on Jan. 23 by M. Gardler of Newtonville, with a flock of House Sparrows in Mrs. H. P. Morton's yard on Chestnut Street; and Mrs. H. B. Atkins, King's Grant Road, saw a flock of 20-25 Snow Buntings in the open area near North Avenue, on Jan. 23. There were no reports of Snow Buntings in Weston during 1960.

Another Short-tailed Shrew eating seeds has been seen by A. L. Gates, Saddle Hill Road. -- C.E.S.

Committee members include Irving Pollitt, Mr. and Mrs. George Trotter, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Howard, Donald Fritz, Mr. and Mrs. George Keller, Harold Edwards, Norman Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Chamberlin, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pinkham, William Rowe and George A. Douglas.

Civil War Opening Observance Set

WESTON -- The first shot of the Civil War -- a 12-pound Confederate artillery shell -- plunged into Fort Sumter in the harbor at Charleston, S. C. on April 12, 1861. And within 48 hours -- in response to President Lincoln's call for volunteers -- Bay State troops including men from Weston and Wayland were heading towards Washington.

A month-long and town-wide observance of this start of the Civil War will commence Friday, March 3, with the Blue-and-Gray Centennial Ball to be held at the Town Hall from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Uncle Sam, your bank, and you

How this 20-year-old partnership helps keep America strong

Since May 1941, America's banks have sold nearly 2 billion separate U.S. Savings Bonds at no cost to the Government or the taxpayers.

Why have the nation's banks and bankers carried on this vast project of information, service, and issuance of U.S. Savings Bonds?

A winning team. For one reason, the Bond Program and the Banking business have grown together. Hand in hand, they've helped make Americans the saving-est people in the world. Another thing bankers are interested in: Bond dollars help keep America strong. A good reason for the banking business or any business to get behind the Bond program.

What you buy at the Bond window. Savings Bonds are guaranteed to grow: $18.75 becomes $25 in 7 years, 9 months, and grows to $36.25 in another 10 years. If they're lost or destroyed, the Treasury Department replaces them free. Buy and hold U.S. Savings Bonds—for the things you want, and the Peace to enjoy them.

Before It Costs More

Something for us to watch: Sen. Powers' proposal to repeal the 78th amendment to the state constitution to make it possible for gas taxes to be spent on other than highway projects . . . namely to clear up the mass transit snarl.

If, starting today, there were no more babies born in Greater Boston for the next decade, we might be inclined to shrug off the senator's latest gambit into the tax field.

You can always argue that Boston's traffic bees' nest, as bad as it is, can be borne. But what happens as population grows?

Obviously the need grows. And the cost. The cost will be greater than we have been accustomed to pay. So the question arises: do we want more highways? And could our tempers stand more?

Right now - although this is seldom mentioned - more super-highways are waiting on the outskirts of Boston, waiting to be pulled into the center - Rtes. 1, 2, 3, 28. And of course the Inner Belt also incomplete.

The next step is roughly like inviting your mother-in-law over for a few months. Not sure what'll happen. So nothing is being done.

It's not so easy to tear down in-town properties. Not like plowing through pastures or barbecue pits. Costly, too.

Also, it involves other factors. To place a new highway, you've got to consider what you're doing to the community. Maybe the community, whether Boston or Weston or Wayland, would like to plan differently.

That's why we're involved. We are still tied to Boston. And there's more of us out here every minute. The problem will never get any easier.

It might just be, while we're at a standstill, that this is a good time to examine whether the cost of rails or roads is greater. Or whether some combination of both can be worked out - and work started.

It seems that that's a good reason for following up on Sen. Powers' proposal. Just the arguing out of this proposition might give us the breakthrough we need in deciding which is best for the area - rails or roads.

If we fail to pay attention, the problem is going to grow. And with it the cost. And only those who don't mind taxes can afford that approach. Right?

Bits & Pieces...

All right, so we can't do anything about the weather either. But we have run across a few facts . . . if facts is an acceptable word to use in connection with this stuff they're passing off as weather these days.

Come to think of it, you may already have guessed this next bit: the U.S. Weather Bureau depends (get that - depends) on 12,000 persons who, even as me and thee, have their gripes, their hunches, their lumbago and whatnot.

Imagine. Storekeepers, lawyers, doctors, housewives. They're digging up our weather for us. (And don't say you wish they'd leave it buried. We already thought of that.)

They turn in reports that get blown up into official charts and eventually find their way onto the 11 o'clock news where they scare the devil out of us, if we haven't been good boys and girls.

And speaking of those reports. Whatever happened to the old-fashioned report that sounded something like this:

"Boston and vicinity will get 10 inches of snow, starting this afternoon at 4:10. Winds beginning at the crack of dawn will leave drifts of 12.2 feet along the following streets in East Boston, Chelsea and Revere: . . . "

Now, unless our ears are getting rusty, the weatherman sounds more like a henpecked husband who wouldn't dare say anything unless it's backed up with a dispatch case full of affidavits.

Today's reports are more apt to tell you that:

"A disturbance (whatever became of snowstorm or rain storm?) is noted in the Carolinas. If this should pass over the northeast corner of Boylston and Tremont between noon and 12:05 tomorrow, we may have some precipitation, perhaps in the form of snow. On the other hand, if . . . "

A report today with fewer than five "ifs" can't be taken seriously. Weathermen have been known to be put on notice for less.

But to be fair, you can't blame the Weather Bureau. Just remember those 12,000 wind-watchers.

Until some expert devises a computer to correlate a pain in the neck reported from lower North Carolina with two simultaneous reports of sinusitis in Upper Darby, Pa. and the Cochituate-Wayland line, there's bound to be some guesswork On the other hand . . .

And by the way - has anyone started to track down that fellow who said last December that a mild November meant a mild winter hereabouts in three cases out of four?

RELIGION AT 4: From a Christmas-card message we culled this gem about the four-year-old girl who was asked by the Sunday School teacher what the Lord said to the blind beggar sitting in the street:

SCHOOL QUIZZ: As automation moves into our schools, does it follow that our children brighten up, and all their answers become . . . automatic? Sorry we asked.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Guns Through The Winter Snows

If you had been a patriotic American here in the year 1776, you would have cheered all the winter's cold and snow. For by means of it, first through the Hudson Valley and the Berkshires, and finally over old Stone's Bridge, Connecticut Path and the Boston Post Rd., Colonel Knox's sleds and oxen were desperately hurrying from Fort Ticonderoga to Cambridge the great cannon which, in March, were to force the British to raise the siege of Boston and sail away.

And very likely your husband, son, or brother might have been drilling that winter as a member of Capt. Jonathan Fiske's Weston company, which would be part of the force sent with the guns to Dorchester Heights on March 4 as the culmination of the whole enterprise.

Green Mountain Boys

You will recall that less than a month after the Battle of Lexington, April 19, 1775, Ethan Allen and Benedict Arnold with 83 Green Mountain Boys hastened to Fort Ticonderoga, New York, and captured it from the astounded British garrison "in the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress." From its eminence on the height between Lake Champlain and Lake George, the hundred guns of the fort controlled the route from Canada to the Hudson Valley and New York.

Up to that time, Henry Knox had been a bookseller in Boston, a reader of books also, who studied every volume on military affairs, especially artillery, that he could lay his hands on. When General Washington arrived in Cambridge to command the Continental Army, short as it was of every kind of military supplies, especially cannon, Knox presented an idea to the General.

Knox's Plan

He suggested a plan for using the winter ice and snow to sled the Ticonderoga cannon the 300 miles from the head of Lake George to Cambridge, and convinced the hard-pressed leader of its feasibility. Washington entrusted the enterprise to him; and on Dec. 4, 1775, Knox reached the fort in Northern New York.

Getting 78 usable guns onto flat boats, he hurried them through thickening ice to the south end of the lake, where the town and all the motels are now. Then began a tremendous effort to team them overland south to Albany, crossing the frozen Mohawk River on the way.

At Albany, at the Hudson's edge, the gun train had to wait for that wide river to freeze solid and safe; but eventually they landed the guns safely on the east bank.

"Old" Albany Road

The main road from Albany to Boston, a rough saddle route then and for many years after, led south through Kinderhook and then through Hillsdale to Great Barrington over what is now smooth Route 23. Thence the oxen had to toil with the guns up across the steep Berkshire summits to Blandford, and then wrestle them over the much more dangerous downpitch of several miles to Woronoco in the Westfield River valley, where the paper mills are now, and on to Springfield.

Once more thick ice made possible the crossing of the wide Connecticut River. Then the drivers and their sleds resumed the toilsome journey over the Bay Path to Framingham.

Stone's Bridge Still Stands

Here is where our Stone's Bridge over the Sudbury River, recently saved from destruction by Representative James DeNormandie and the Mass. General Court, comes in. This rugged four arch stone structure, laid up with Keystones but without mortar, was the only bridge across the river stout enough to bear the weight of the great guns.

So over the shoulder of Nobscot Mt., across the old bridge, down Old Connecticut Path and the Boston Post Rd. Knox's teamsters, sleds and 80 oxen bore the guns to Cambridge, 300 miles from their starting point; in February 1776. How often the course of history has been set by the imagination and resolve of a single man!

At the Five Paths on Old Connecticut Path you will find a stone marker raised by the D.A.R. to commemorate the historic passage of Knox's cannon. The story of how they raised the siege of Boston, and of Captain Fiske's company will wait for a later issue.

NATURE AROUND US by Bill Ryder

It's Red's Day To Compete With The Weatherman

Hibernation is really quite a trick, and I'm sure that if we were capable of it there are times when we would go in a hole and pull it in after us, and stay there till the warm weather came.

During this time of year many of the occupants of the forests and streams are among those missing. Perhaps the most common hibernator in our area is the woodchuck, sometimes called the groundhog, and it just so happens that this is Groundhog Day.

On Feb. 2, the groundhog is supposed to come out of his hole, and see if the sun is shining. If it is, and he sees his own shadow, he scoots back down to bed for six more weeks of sack time.

I suppose this all started with the old belief that an open, warm February means a late cold spring - and old Mr. Groundhog is going to have to do some shoveling to get through to sunlight this time, so maybe we'll have an early spring.

We probably have all seen woodchucks, and are familiar with their burrows, with the pile of dirt at the entrance, usually found in the more open fields.

These animals are fat and chunky and are over two feet long, reddish-brown, and may weigh as much as five pounds.

They are strict vegetarians, and belong to the rodent family.

Young woodchucks are edible, but the older ones tend to be tough and stringy.

If you should ever have occasion to pick a woodchuck up - don't do it. They really know how to use their chisel-sharp teeth.

A Computer for Your Child

It almost takes a computer mind to grasp this: Wayland High needs a mechanical brain to help it give our youngsters the best in education.

Oh yes. it's come to that. Almost. But that's only the beginning, according to Mr. Edward Anderson, our forward-looking superintendent of schools.

He feels automation, not just in the records department, but also in the classroom, may be a must for topnotch education. Not in the distant future. But, as they say in Washington, the day before yesterday--that is, by 1965 at least.

It's just another of those things you can't keep up with. Good education requires good teachers. Good teachers are hard to find. A physics teacher? He left last week for a post as president of an electronics firm. And so it goes.

But good teachers become even harder to get when we send more and more students into the schools. That is, they just don't spread around. Unless, of course, we'd like to have 35-40 students in a class.

And so, just to carefully schedule the classes, Mr. Anderson now feels a half hour or so with a computer once a month or so might prove the answer.

That way, good minds are free to teach more, leave the planning to well-fed machines.

But Mr. Anderson's statement that machines may be the answer in the classroom, too, may startle you a bit more than computers in the office. Yet, he said, every bit of teaching you can turn over to machines may -- just may -- help good teachers keep the level up without raising the tax rate unduly.

And since town meeting is just around the corner, maybe one should mention the savings: It costs about $6000 now for high school class scheduling. Even at high rental rates, it would cost in the hundreds yearly with a computer.

For $80,000 the town could buy a good computer, set it up and rent its knowledge to others. That might save taxes too.

Jobless Aid Tops Income 3d Time

BOSTON -- Payments to Massachusetts jobless from the state's unemployment fund have exceeded fund income in each of the past three years, according to Antonio England, director of the Division of employment Security.

For the period, the excess over income was $91 million. The fund, financed by a quarterly payroll tax on employers, has a balance of approximately $215 million.

Seal Prizes, Races Feature Pack 71 Meeting

WAYLAND -- The highlight of this month's Cub Scout Pack 71 meeting was the Pinewood Derby first elimination trials. Each of the Cub Scouts had an opportunity to race his handmade car. Elimination races will be held at each meeting until a final winner is declared.

Results of the Christmas wreath sale were announced and three Cub Scouts were awarded prizes for their high sales records. The first prize, a flash camera, was awarded to Edward Ring. A compass was given to David Wellington as second prize. The third prize was won by John Martin who was presented with a cub scout ring.

An awards ceremony was held for recent achievements of the Cub Scouts. Peter Bradley received a Cub Scout's highest award, a Webelos Arrow of Light badge. A silver arrow on his Wolf badge was earned by John Martin.

Other awards were John Wellington, Lion badge; Steven Williams, two silver arrows on his Wolf badge; Peter Dicks, Wolf badge; David Charlton and Steven Johnston; assistant denner strips; Richard Hughes, Bobcat pin.

Den 6 entertained the Pack with a skit on South America.

Next month's meeting will be the annual Blue and Gold dinner on Feb. 16, at Claypit Hill School.

Scout Troop 1 Prepares for Jordan Show

WAYLAND -- Due to hazardous traveling conditions, the two-nighter camp-out at Camp Resolute had to be postponed. Currently the Scouts are preparing for the one-week display at Jordan Marsh (Shopper's World) starting next Monday.

On Saturday, Feb. 11, the Father and Sons Banquet will be held at the Cochituate School and the Troop has been completing plans for this event, also.

This Saturday the Explorer Post is sponsoring a Winter Carnival for the Scouts of Troop 1. The list and description of events distributed to the boys indicates a day-long activity, starting at 9 a.m. A hot lunch will be provided by the post, which is also providing a trophy to be inscribed with the name of the patrol and the name of the Scout amassing the greatest number of points.

Blue-Gold Dinner For Cub Pack 1

WAYLAND -- A Blue and Gold banquet for Cub Pack No. 1 will be held next Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria, according to Coburn Ellingwood.

Mrs. Blanche Hause's den won the honor flag for the second consecutive month at the pack meeting at the Happy Hollow School last Thursday. Five members of this den, John Breckenridge, Robert Carrier Coburn Ellingwood, Robert Hause and Richard Kline, were awarded Lion badges by Cubmaster Francis Morse. Other awards:

Mr. Johnson termed last year one of the busiest of the council and pointed out that the council now has 45 Scout troops, 46 Cub packs and 13 Explorer units. These groups are guided by 1435 adults.

A total of 42 men and boys from the council attended the jamboree in Colorado, while Scouts and Explorers last summer camped out in increasing numbers at Camp Quinapoxet and the newly acquired Camp Hidden Valley

Youth members of the council called on 30,000 area homes in the pre-election get-out-the-vote campaign.

Wayland Downs Bedford, 58-37

by BOB SISAK

Bedford came to Wayland with hopes of putting a second black mark on Wayland's record, but the Warriors proved themselves to be a winning team by defeating the Bedford team by 21 points.

Wayland came back from a three point deficit in the first period and charged ahead led by Bill Wilkenson's 13 points. Throughout the game the Black and Orange kept their lead as they trounced the discouraged Bedford five by a score of 58-37.

Coach Buzz Bower's defensive attack wreaked havoc as Eldon Goodhue held league high scorer Gerry Higson to only 8 points. Barry Parker did even better holding high-scoring Tom Mix to 6 points while racking up the game high of 16 points with a series of remarkable outside shots.

There was some fear in the Wayland fans' minds in the third quarter when the game's defensive ace, Eldon Goodhue was taken out because of an injury. However, the spunky Wayland hoopster came back to keep the Warriors' drive on the go.

Scoring honors went to Wayland's Barry Parker with 16 points and Bedford's Douglas with 12 points.

Wayland starting lineup: rf, Goodhue 9; lf, Parker 16; c, Paton 5; rg, Wilkenson 15; lg, Greene 11.

Substitutes: Bradord 0; Linnehan 0; Arnold 0; Porrell 2; Fahey 0.

Bedford starting lineup: rf, Mix 6; lf, Douglas 12; c, Higson 8; lg, Webber 1; rg, McGovern 6.

Cambridge 54-49 Victor

WESTON -- Simpson, Simpson everywhere . . . Riding in on an inspired defensive and offensive performance under the boards by leading scorer John Simpson, The Cambridge School bounced briskly back from two straight non-league defeats to slide by scrappy Bromfield School of Harvard 54-49, Tuesday, Jan. 26.

Although ahead from the start, a reoccurrence of passing and ball handling problems aggravated by lack of reserve, plagued the Griffins.

A 12-point spread at the start of the final quarter shrunk rapidly to five points.

John Simpson's 24 points were high. Capt. Steve Weisbert had 11.

Cambridge lineup -- Simpson, 24; Glaser 3; Corbett, 6; Weisbert 11; Bond 2; Palmer 0; Ingersoll 4; Berrian and Chase, 0; Turner 4.

Automation May Be Answer As Wayland Schools Fill Up

a difference on the tax rate. That's worth considering.

It could also mean a saving in tempers. What parent is going to like inferior teaching for his youngsters?

When this question comes up, that's when the panic button is apt to work overtime.

"Top flight teachers today are virtually impossible to find in certain subjects," the superintendent pointed out.

These include physics and mathematics especially. Industry draws them away with higher salaries, for the most part. But really good English instructors are hard to come by. Again higher pay elsewhere -- or stiff competition within the 12-15 school systems that Wayland competes with in this state alone.

The student bulge is cramming schools now but by 1965, the pressure will be excessive, according to Mr. Anderson. Time is running out. A solution is demanded.

"No one seems to grasp fully yet the implications," said the superintendent. "It's going to cost more money to educate our young.

"And scheduling alone, with our complicated, individualized classes in our high school takes up weeks of time by competent staff. We have to find a way to take the load off the personnel struggling with this problem."

That's why the Wayland public schools are looking for a computer to rent - at $50 to $150 an hour.

Even at this cost, however, the reduction in cost and time would be worth it.

It's easier to get an appointment with an idle industrial computer along Rte. 128 than it is to see your dentist.

Computers are busy very little of the time, and now that Wayland has the data on its high schoolers in hand, it would take only hours to do what took weeks before to accomplish. Only 24 hours notice needed, too.

It's not that computers are the answer, Mr. Anderson said, but the town must find out if they can help out in an increasingly complicated system.

By next fall, Mr. Anderson hopes the result of the first computer trials should be showing.

And for parents who wonder how a computer schedule is any better than any other, here's how it would work:

Because of individualized instruction, the teachers try to learn from a student's past performance and inclinations, what type of instruction in mathematics, for example, would be best for him.

And then--this is important--match him up with as many of similar minds and abilities as possible, the latter, according to Mr. Anderson, is the nub of good teaching.

More and more machines must invade the classroom--just to relieve the shortage of good teachers.

If a machine can get some ideas across in mathematics or chemistry or physics, this leaves teachers free to take it on from there.

There it is: first, television; next, computers; then, machines. But always a teacher -- and a good one.

Conquista Carpet Makes Hit at Megerdichian's

WALTHAM -- Arthur Megerdichian of 695 Main St., has several carpet "firsts" to offer area customers.

Mr. Megerdichian points out that there is a new carpet, just out, that combines several firsts in the field. The result is a rich-textured long-wearing carpet, with unusual coloration and color clarity -- named Conquista.

Conquista heralds the birth of a new acrylic carpet fiber, creslan, Mr. Megerdichian points out. It combines 80 percent acrylic and 20 percent modacrylic, and offers unusual characteristics of resilience, color clarity, superior appearance retention after cleaning, long wear life, as well as being mildewproof, mothproof and non-allergenic.

Holmes carpets have long held preeminence in color styling. Color consultant E. Helen Dunbar has made sure the colors look right in daylight, incandescent or fluorescent light - that they are unusual and keyed to current trends in other furnishings, thus making it easy to find fabrics, paints and wallpapers to blend.

Ten colors offered include canyon moss, desert lilac, vista blue, Tucson blue, oasis green, spring beige, Oak Creek beige, boulder beige and white mesa.

According to our informants, the home buyer today is looking for SPACE, CONVENIENCE, DESIGN, in general the things that allow him to pursue the "Good Life". Well I must say we find that quite interesting, and rewarding too, since this is precisely what we had in mind in creating the Deck House.

Now I don't mean to be presumptuous, however I do feel that a few minutes spent in reading our brochure, and perhaps a few more minutes to view the Model Home will quite likely be of real value to you. Why you might even decide then and there to buy one.

At any rate the fact to remember is that most of our homes are built on order with it's necessary 3 to 4 month building time. This does mean that your thoughts for housing should proceed your need for housing by a reasonable amount of time. In other words don't wait too long to see the DECK HOUSE.

Short Cuts for Bright Students Causes No Harm at U Mass

AMHERST -- Can college freshmen handle advanced work in certain subjects without first taking introductory courses? According to studies conducted at the University of Massachusetts, they can - and do.

Guidance Director William F. Field says that this year's first-semester grades, now being recorded, indicate that freshmen in the university's program for superior students are as successful in advanced work as others are in introductory work.

On the basis of high school records, and other tests, approximately one-third of the freshman class of 1750 students earned advanced placement in one or more courses. Participants in the program gained full credit for the courses waived as well as for successfully completed advanced courses.

Dr. Field said that there was little doubt about the effectiveness of the program. "These 1200 specialized placements represent opportunities for broader educational experience and speedier academic accomplishment.

"On the instructional side, the program helps to prevent needless suplication of effort. There is no need for instructors in basic courses to give attention to students who do not need such attention. The whole process thus makes for maturity in our educational approach."

Hoi polloi (pronounced hoi po-loi in English) is a Greek phrase in Latin letters. It literally means "the many" - applied to the masses, the multitude, the great majority.

GOING...GOING--Remains of barn burned by Wayland firemen on Cochituate Rd. set off burning house at foot of Sandy Burr Hill. Hundreds watched spectacle. (Bradford Photo)

'Twas Hot Time in Town And Not a Camera Lost

WAYLAND -- It was a hot time in the old town last Saturday for about 250 firemen, fire buffs, camera fans, children and sleepy parents.

By actual count there were at least three times as many cameras, special lenses, tripods and exposure meters than visiting firemen as the Wayland Fire Department demolished by fire the old house and barn adjacent to the Sandy Burr Country Club at Five Paths.

This condemned building was reduced to ashes much more cheaply - and usefully - by Chief Francis J. Hartin and his men than had the wreckers been called in.

For about 2 1/2 hours, the firemen and assorted camera bugs watched appreciatively as the buildings burned to the ground . . . at all times under control by the local department.

"Something like an old-fashioned election bonfire. Wonder who won?" one bystander kept quipping. No one told him.

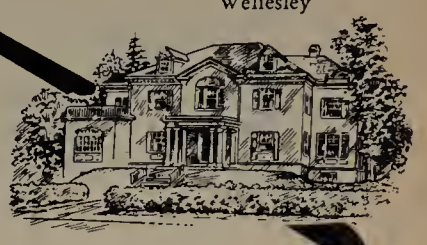
Chief Hartin's men set the fire in the attic on the east side - since there was a west wind - so that the building would burn slowly.

Although the affair was a lark for the newsmen and TV and amateur cameramen, it was a useful opportunity for firemen to study at leisure how a building burns.

Usually, firemen take their time on a job like this. It affords them a chance to train themselves in fire-fighting techniques. But because of the busy road, the whole affair was speeded up this time.

Traffic was detoured from Five Paths over Old Connecticut Path and at the other end at Rte. 20.

And if you're wondering how it was that all that spray didn't leave icy highways near the country club: the firemen and highway department crews sanded, salted and scraped like good housekeepers to leave it all as they found it, minus the two buildings.



For fire buffs: the first blaze was set in the barn at 9:15 a.m., the second in the attic at 9:55, and the burning was over by 11:30. And for housewives and others interested in cleanups: the housekeeping chores were over by 3:30 p.m.

Know how the word "news" originated? Popular etymology derives news from the initial letters of the names of the four cardinal points of the compass - North, East, West and South. But the theory lacks foundation. News is merely the plural of new.

Fair Housing Group Finds Progress Here

WAYLAND -- The effectiveness of the State's fair housing laws in changing people's attitudes about minority groups was stressed at the annual meeting of the Wayland Committee on Fair Housing Practices attended by 50 members last week.

Members of a panel cited examples of homeowners, brokers and developers being influenced to show their houses to non-whites because of the law. It was felt that they need this kind of supporting legislation to take an action which they know is really the right thing to do.

Testimony was presented that in Wayland and Natick property values have not depreciated in areas where a Negro family moved in. A representative of one of New England's largest developers stood up to state that his firm had been selling houses to Negroes and that next-door property values were holding up and houses were selling as well as ever.

Rev. Robert K. Jones Jr., minister of the Community Methodist Church in Cochituate, reviewed the position of the church on discrimination. He deplored the good church member who will refuse to perform a Christian act, like helping a Negro move into his neighborhood, because he thinks his pocketbook will be affected.

"What's the matter with us?" he asked. "Is no one willing any more to make a monetary sacrifice for a principle?"

Mrs. Melvin A. Cobb told of her experiences moving into Wayland and how she and her family were welcomed by the neighborhood. She pointed out that it just isn't necessarily true that "the neighbors won't stand for it."

Officers for 1961 elected were: Henry G. Pearson, chairman; Harold J. Hoge, vice chairman; Mrs. Anthony L. Alesi, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Ralph H. Robins, secretary-librarian; Edward C. Mendler, Miss Ena M. Tillson and Mrs. Benjamin W. Gary Jr. Membership in the committee stands at 100.

Tight Weston Budget Shapes Up

in its own interest."

To bring the budget into proper focus for the late-March town meeting, Chairman Homer Myers argued that town officials must do what towns with lower budgets do - namely "budget expenses in keeping with anticipated income" and cut some services.

Dowse questioned which services the association would want to cut.

Weston's budget picture might be summed up like this:

The school Board request for $1,260,000 in 1961 is greater than the entire town budget five years ago ($1,080,000). In that time, the budget itself has doubled, is expected to top $2 million this year.

Most of the increase, Dowse said, stems from teachers' pay increases effective last September and now coming into full bloom for the first time.

Also - a peak year in debt retirement, since the first big payment on high school bonds falls due. Debt retirement will cost $487,000 this year, up $112,000.

This is expected to account for $18 on the tax rate - $4 more than in 1960.

One caution: actually, when state allotments and other aid are taken into account, the effect on the tax rate is apt to be less.

Also - such outside aid has not yet been allotted. This could result in shaving the increase in the tax rate. But these figures will not be known immediately.

Like most growing towns, Dowse said, Weston's services keep spiraling, even-without so-called frills.

For example, the school budget has increased an average of 15 percent a year since 1957.

This year's requests are up 17 percent over 1960's expenditure.

Most of the cost goes to salaries, supervision and maintenance.

Beginning in 1957 when this outlay was $489,000 this rise has been 15, 20 and 15 percent annually. This year's $979,000 sought: 16 percent above 1960.

"If our population remained stable, like Belmont's," Dowse said, "we might be able to hold the line. But we're growing. So are expenditures. We try to hold them in check, while still giving the type of service people in Weston demand.

"Just in schools alone we must compete constantly for good teachers with 12-15 other first-rate school systems in this state. Let salaries lag, and so will our system."

Cluster Zoning Answer For Booming Suburbs?

Redevelopment Authority) explained the process.

For example, Bolan said, on a 100-acre development, about 50 houses might be clustered on 50 acres and the rest left in an undeveloped state.

The advantage? A saving in the amount of roads, water pipe and other utility lines. In addition, this undeveloped land could be left in woods or developed into picnic areas for the new homeowners.

Such laws, Bolan explained, are not mandatory. It's up to the developer. In effect, it brings back the common land that characterized early colonial towns.

The meeting, held jointly with the League of Women Voters of Weston, and Region 5B of the Massachusetts Federation of Planning Boards, drew attendance from Lincoln, Sudbury, Wayland, Wellesley, Natick, Marlboro, Acton, Southboro, Medfield, Newton, Belmont, Cambridge, and Beverly.

Among those present were, Rep. Donald J. Manning and Mrs. Manning, Rep. James DeNormandie, Commissioner Kathleen White of the National Historic Minute Man Park of Lincoln, Selectman Edward R. Langenbach, Town Counsel Grant M. Palmer Jr., Henry Wheeler and Seth Heywood, Planning Board, Mrs. Boardman Bump, School Committee, Dr. Robert J. MacMillan, Recreation Commission, Harold B. Willis Jr., Open Areas Committee, Dr. Carl C. Johnson, Town Forest Committee; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Coburn, and Mrs. Carol Thomas of Wayland, a director of the Massachusetts Federation of Planning Boards.

The following directors and officers were elected: directors: Mrs. E. K. Von Mertens, George F. F. Lombard, Mrs. Erlund Field, William A. Elliston, Mrs. Robert Haydock Jr. Treasurer was Miss Florence E. Freeman, and Clerk, Dr. Carl C. Johnson.

WAYLAND -- Where are they now?

Members of Wayland High School Class of 1951, planning a reunion in April, are seeking the addresses of the following classmates: Marilyn LeDrew, Keith Crandall, Kenneth Crandall, Madeline Snell, Barbara Benson and Delphine Turnbull.

Addresses can be forwarded to class president Ronald Wood of Griffin Rd., Westford or Arthur Tupper of 18 Mayflower Rd., Northboro.

400 acres in this region until now and served as the agency which alerted the town to the need to save its green areas.

"One of the difficulties," said Morgan, "is that people are apt to think of this as something for duck hunters.

"If we lose our water supply in this region or if we lose the open areas that make Wayland beautiful, we'll be in real trouble and it will cost real money to get out."

How To Beat Finance Costs Theme at Co-op

WAYLAND -- Ever wonder if carrying charges weren't getting you down?

To understand them, Mrs. Erna K. Carmichael, county extension agent, will demonstrate a method for determining the true annual interest rate in a talk on "Consumer Facts and Frauds" tonight at the Post Road Room of the Wayland Co-op.

The facts behind giveaways, unordered merchandise and other fraudulent gimmicks which every year cost the public millions of dollars will be explained by Mrs. Carmichael.

The program is the last in a series of four Extension Service meetings planned by Carol Ives, Co-op consumer advisor. For advance registration, call EL 8-7731.

New Petition Urges Curbs on Teen-Age Drivers

WESTON -- Three hundred signatures were obtained during the past two weeks on a petition to promote careful study of the teen-age driver problem.

A new petition is now in circulation backing two of the 20 bills that have been filed for action in the General Court. The two bills -- S-43 and H962 -- would require those under 18 to pass a driver education course before being licensed and would restrict this group to 7 to 7 driving hours.

The two bills will be given public hearing by the General Court early in February.

The November 1960 accident in which four Wellesley football players were killed has intensified statewide concern over the high percentage of teen-age drivers involved in motor accidents.

Since the Wellesley accident, there have been many articles in Massachusetts newspapers. One editorial pointed out that 10 percent of the 16-18 year old drivers had bodily injury accidents. This is twice as high a rate as in any other group. The editorial questioned seriously Registrar Riley's contention that the very young driver poses no particular highway problem.

Many Weston residents are actively interested in the petitions, which were prepared by an ad hoc committee composed of the following:

Mr. and Mrs. George Amadon, Dr. and Mrs. Arra Avakian, Dr. and Mrs. Carl Bartels, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Berry, Mr. and Mrs. George Bottjer, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brownell, Mrs. Boardman Bump, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Burtis, Mr. and Mrs. Mario Castillo, Mr. and Mrs. Putnam Flint, Miss Florence E. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley B. Hartung, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Heffernon, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Stauffer, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stritter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wareham.

About the only two things a child will share willingly are communicable diseases and his mother's age.

Sunday Shopping Day As Wayland Digs Out

No matter how you look at it, this is a hard winter.

At the height of last Saturday's gale, Thomas F. Linnehan, chairman and Frank Tarr, member of the Wayland Board of Selectmen, notified the grocery stores in the area that, due to the emergency created by the storm, the establishments might open on Sunday.

At noon, snow was piling and drifting across the town's main and secondary thoroughfares. According to the latest forecast at the time, no abatement of the storm was to be expected for another ten or eleven hours.

Realizing the hardship to Wayland families if they were unable to obtain weekend supplies, the selectmen notified Station WKOX in Framingham of their decision.

At regular intervals on Saturday, the station broadcast the announcement and, as a result, hosts of Wayland residents, snowbound on Saturday, skidded and plowed along to their favorite grocery stores on Sunday.

Ernest H. Damon, Wayland chief of police, followed emergency precautions on Saturday.

To better serve the community, the chief arranged for his cruisers to be at the station house on the alert for special duty.

As it turned out, no crisis developed as most Waylanders had taken measures aimed at keeping them indoors during the storm's fury.

In Weston, Frank O. Shaw, chief of police, reported that, in spite of the high winds, cold, and drifting snow which gave the Saturday storm its distinctive profile, there were no calls for rescue from stalled cars.

However, the Weston police squad took over as an emergency ambulance crew. Two youngsters were taken to the Waltham Hospital by police cruisers on Saturday and Sunday respectively. It also rushed two doctors to emergency cases.

Since the snow first began descending in mid-December, snow-fighting crews have been a familiar and welcome part of the landscape.

Norman E. Taylor, executive secretary of Wayland, points out that appropriations for snow removal have been insufficient. Last March, other than the editors mak-

Although this is his first candidacy for public office, Horvath has COOL POOL: Summer-time splashing is not the only enjoyment furnished by the back-yard pool of the Richard E. Bicknell's at 11 Timber Lane, Cochituate. Andy, the French Poodle approves of proceedings as the fine art of skatesmanship is practiced by wife Bette, daughter Susan, and son Brooks.

Keep Your Faucets On

WESTON -- Residents of Weston have been asked by their board of water commissioners to take certain precautions to prevent freezing of their water facilities.

The commissioners urge each home and bnsiness establishment to keep one cold-water outlet running continuously until it is announced that the emergency is over.

A trickle, no more than one pint a minute, is all that is required. This will cost no more than 10 cents a day, say the commissioners, and will not put too great a burden on pumping facilities.

Regis College To Begin $1.3 Million Student Union

WESTON -- "Construction of a $1,300,000 Student Center building on the Regis College campus in Weston will get underway in the Spring," according to Sister Mary Alice, president.

The new building is to be financed by a loan and by funds raised by Regis students, their parents and friends.

Regis College Alumnae association has pledged $100,000 within a year, as its share of the development of this new campus center.

The pledge represents the highest goal the alumnae has set for itself.

"The Student Center will be located close to the residence halls," Sister Alice said. "It will contain approximately 47,000 square feet of floor space, spread over a ground and a first floor, and will be of fireproof construction."

Completion of the new Student Center is expected in time for the opening of the Fall semester classes in September 1962.

Opened in 1927 on the 170 acres of the Morrison Estate, Regis College now has eight buldings.

College Hall, housing administrative offices and dormitories, was completed in 1930.

Cardinal O'Connell Hall, science building, rose in 1938. St. Joseph Hall, accommodating the Sister-Faculty, was dedicated in 1947.

A modern Regis College Library arose in 1955, followed the next year by Maria Hall, contemporary styled dormitory.

On the campus in 1927 were three buildings. They include Regis Hall, now used for art and music studios; the Business Building for secretarial work; and the Chaplain's residence.

Waltham Couple Injured in Weston Crash

WESTON -- A Waltham couple was seriously injured in a tree-car crash at the junction of Lexington St. and Rte. 117 Sunday, Jan. 29.

Mrs. Hollis sustained a broken right leg and Mr. Hollis had a broken left arm, broken knee and a gash on the chin.

Weston police took the couple to the hospital after the afternoon crash. The car was a total wreck.

Fire Department Not Connected With Fire 'Survey'

WESTON -- Townsfolk were cautioned by Fire Chief Maurice L. Upham this week that the Weston Fire Department is not associated in any way with a "fire prevention survey" a fire-alarm sales company claims it is conducting locally.

If householders have any questions on home fire safety and fire alarm products, the fire department will be happy to answer any and all calls, the chief promised.

SEAGOING RADAR, one of the largest ever to join the Navy, undergoes final test at Raytheon Company's Equipment Division facility at Wayland. Weston-Wayland Game Friday Could Decide League Winner

WESTON -- Tomorrow's Wayland-Weston basketball game here shapes up as the "big game" which may determine the Dual League winner.

Already Weston has clinched an invitation to the Tech Tourney, and a capacity crowd is expected.

As of Tuesday, both teams and Lynnfield High were deadlocked for first place with 8-2 records, and three games to go.

The Warriors come into French Gym tomorrow with a 54-52 win over their traditional rivals in their first game on their home court on Jan. 21.

Coach Bob Carini's Wildcats will be looking to even it up and perhaps drop Wayland from the running for the League title. Buddy Foster and Ed. Perkins, two top scorers on the home five are expected to lead the Wildcats' attack.

Eldon Goodhue and Lee Paton are the big threats in the visitors' attack.

Spectators will see three of the League's high-scorers: Foster, Goodhue and Paton. As of Tuesday their points were 167 for Foster (second in League) and 142 apiece for the two Warriors.

Unless the three-way tie is broken by next Tuesday, there will be a League playoff on Friday, Feb. 17.

Sen. Cutler Backs Fair Housing Bill

WESTON -- State Sen. Leslie B. Cutler spoke in favor of the Fair Housing Bill recently considered by the State Administration Committee, of which she is a member, she reported to constituents here this week.

The bill, introduced on the petition of Atty. Gen. McCormack, prohibits discrimination by real estate brokers or agents against persons because of their race, creed, color or national origin.

Also recorded in favor of this bill were the fair housing practices committees of Newton, Wellesley, Needham and Weston.

The only opposition came from the Real Estate Board.

The State Administration Committee reported this bill favorably with no dissenters.

The Public Health Committee, of which Sen. Cutler is also a member, recently heard a number of bills prohibiting fluoridation of water supplies.

"A distinguished list of medical and dental groups who were recorded against it and the recently-formed Massachusetts Citizens Committee for Public Dental Health, organized by Dr. Fred Stare of Needham, led the opposition," said Sen. Cutler.

All of the bills prohibiting fluoridation were put over until the next session of the legislature.

It's Your Tax Dollar

Weston is widely acknowledged to be a well-run town. Not one dollar slips out of its treasury without providing an affidavit in triplicate as to its eventual destination. Yet this year's town budget will very likely be twice what it was only five years ago.

Now look at one fact: last year's school budget was $1,072,000. In 1956, the entire town budget was $1,080,000. Almost identical.

In Weston, as in most towns, schools and their growing population are devouring the tax dollar. Even hold-the-line Weston's school budgets rise about 15 percent annually. Weston residents want - and get - the best that an efficient dollar can obtain.

But the moral of this story is this: If costs do - in fact must - rise as the towns are forced to create the services for growing populations that cities long ago constructed, then it behooves every taxpayer to take an interest in town expenditures - unless money burns a hole in his pocket.

Now is town meeting time. Now is the time to get informed.

You Can't Buy New Ones

You know how it is with that book you feel you must read. You never get around to it. Well, that's roughly equivalent to our thinking about the Sudbury Valley marshlands. Think about them? We'll do it. We'll do it. Just don't rush us. And then it's too late. They're gone.

Not something for the ordinary Wayland homeowner to consider? More fit for the wildlife buffs to fret over? Then, please read what Allen Morgan has to say on another page this week.

Maybe if some industry or developer came in tomorrow and blotted up these marshes, you'd be interested. Sorry - too late. There's no protection now. Yet, as Mr. Morgan puts it, the marshes do contribute to our land values, our uncrowded rural living, provide us with something we want for ourselves and our children.

Think about it.

Then act 1) at town meeting to set up a conservation commission and 2) at the state level to get legislation allowing the Federal government to take over protection of our valuable marshlands. That's a start. It could save you money.

For Wayland Water Dept.

To the Editor:

Three cheers for the Wayland Water Department. I am sure you would all join in with me should you ever experience turning on your water faucet and drawing a blank. A hurried call to Mr. Richardson and "Be right over" is the answer you get.

Despite the frigid, cold sub-zero weather, out the crew comes. How they manage to keep so cheerful and pleasant I will never know. After many, cold, weary hours, the pipes get thawed out, and if that doesn't work, you can be sure Mr. Richardson has another plan in mind. One way or another, water you get and how grateful you are.

Just wait! You, too, might be writing to the Crier to spread the good word "THREE CHEERS FOR THE WAYLAND WATER DEPARTMENT."

How Students Got Chance to Write

To the Editor:

One bit of information seems to me relevant concerning the Town Crier's generous offer to Wayland and Weston High Schools for publication of school journalism.

In Wayland some years ago it was the custom to have active curriculum study committees composed of both faculty members and interested and informed citizens. They met to consider in great detail the adequacy of the school's offerings in various departments. A productive committee on the sciences and mathematics published a report to the townspeople in November 1957.

Then, early in 1958, the School Committee appointed an English curriculum committee, including all members of the English faculty in junior and senior high schools, as well as eight citizens, several with interest and experience in journalism, publishing, or teaching. The group met alternate weeks for one school year, and at least monthly for a second year.

Members of the faculty provided full information on current teaching plans and practices. Outside speakers from the Harvard Graduate School of Education and from Newton High School provided several evenings of profitable instruction and suggestion.

Early in the exploratory discussion, members of the citizen group expressed the thought that more adequate means of publication might encourage Wayland High School students' interest in writing. One of the Committee members was Robert Schuette, then a member of the Board of Directors of the Town Crier, and now its publisher. Another was Henry G. Pearson, prominent in the founding and development of the Town Crier, and at that time its publisher. On Feb. 13, 1958, at the third meeting of the English Committee, Mr. Schuette and Mr. Pearson proposed that the Town Crier might assist in providing regular publication of school news and literary work, extending the privilege also to Weston High School.

It is often difficult for a town committee to point with pride at specific achievements resulting from its deliberations. This was particularly true of the English Committee which, except for an "interim report" drawn up in November 1958, simply passed out of existence, unlamented, unhonored, and unsung.

Members of the school administration expressed the feeling that the group's thoughts and interest had been worthwhile and that, indeed, most of the proposals had been incorporated in curriculum planning. There remains, now, this one observable result of committee discussion: the Town Crier pages devoted to school writing. It is rewarding to see that the students are handling the challenge capably.

What's The Difference?

To the Editor:

Might I suggest that there not be so much emphasis placed on Cochituate - Wayland difference - i.e., in separating its news. I'm new in Wayland (three years), and feel part of the "whole" town - not just Cochituate.

Mrs. Carol Neuendorffer

Ed Note -- Well, that's right to the point. But we're told too many people prefer it divided - period. No other side to it. Could be.

Bits & Pieces...

Those who are satisfied with the $1500 legislative pay raise delivered by the stork last fall can smugly ignore the Feb. 14th deadline.

The deadline is the last time any signatures protesting this grant-in-aid from the legislators to the legislators can be certified at the Wayland-Weston town halls.

For our part, we don't see why anyone should be excited about this post-election sleight-of-hand. What's an extra $168,000 a year among friends? There's bound to be enough in taxes to cover that.

A few - a handful - legislators apparently don't understand that most constituents would rather the lawmakers pocketed that cash in appreciation of their sterling service. That handful has renounced claim to the extra money.

But for those who are churlish enough to feel (1) that the legislature should have made itself the second-highest paid (after California, ahead of New York) before election, or (2) that their pay far exceeds their performance, you can contact the following persons for petitions . . . if you hurry:

--Lewis C. Orenbach of 22 Anthony Rd., Cochituate, at OL 3-6189 or CA 7-6190 (days).

--Alan Alford of North Rd., Sudbury at TWinoaks 7-8719 or LA 3-7979 (days).

But like the man said, we can't see why you'd want to do that.

Maybe you noticed this, too: Some boys caught inside a store in a neighboring town after closing hours when they set off the burglar alarm in the owner's house nearby. You see, teen-agers can be beaten. Old ideas are tricky. Probably the truth is TV crime shows haven't gone for such old-hat ideas as a burglar alarm recently. Yes, that's it.

We've found not a few local parents of Harvard students are beginning to put their foot down with Mr. Pusey. The tuition's really enough, they feel, without the added expense of having to commute to Washington two or three times weekly. This can be expensive even for a student in a two-car family.

As with the RB-47 fliers, Washington wouldn't let the reporters interview Ham, the chimpanzee who made that 5000 mph ride through space, but we have it on good authority that as he was streaking back to Florida on a 500 mph airplane, he told his airmates: "Lissen, if you guys won't get this crate on the road, I'll take over and show ya how muhself."

Before you end up kicking yourself for not making your opinion felt, why not take a look at "Decisions" an award-winning panel of experts discussing world affairs on Channel 2. The one tonight at 8 deals with "Deadlock Over Germany". And there will be more.

You can also join a discussion group locally, and make yourself better informed, perhaps find a new interest. If interested, call Mrs. Walter Palmer of 45 October Lane, Weston (TW 3-7950).

THOUGHT FOR TODAY: Snows may shut the schools, cancel PTAs, excuse you from work - but what happens to the hospital, Emerson Hospital, for instance? Cancel your operation? Skip your dietetic meal? Silly? Right. It doesn't close down. They must get through, even more than the mailman.

What then? Word we have from the hospital, familiar to many in this area, puts it this way: when voluntary and other help are snowed in, workers on the scene work the harder, sleep on mattresses . . . and somehow the ambulance makes it through with emergency and accident cases. Often, too, on these blizzard mornings, hospital aides are rolling out of bed at 2:30 or 3 a.m. to make sure they're on hand. Maybe that's worth one thought for today, or some day soon when that next snowfall begins.

NATURE AROUND US by Bill Ryder

Still More Deer Here Than During Colonial Days

In spite of the building boom in New England, there are more deer here now than there were in the days of the first settlers.

This may not be true in the areas near Boston, but in the farming area, the increase in food has increased the deer herd to such a point that some farmers have a problem.

The Virginia, or white-tailed, is the common type found here, and every year there are many reports of sightings in the Weston-Wayland area.

These deer travel mostly at night, and hide out in swampy areas or forests during the day, unless disturbed.

The buck deer weighs from 150 to 300 pounds, while the doe is smaller - from 100 to 150 pounds.

In the summer the deer are a reddish-brown color, and along about October they gray down quite a bit.

The fawns, which are born usually two at a time in the early summer, are reddish-brown, with white spots which they lose around five months later.

A buck's antlers are shed sometime between late December and March and the new antlers appear in a few weeks and reach their full size by late summer, all covered with a velvet like material.

In the fall, the Bucks rub off this velvet, and the new antlers are then hard and insensitive.

I never cease to wonder how an animal of the Deer's size can run through the woods so quietly, almost ghostlike in appearance - but the large, flag like tail is anything but natural camouflage.

Inside Africa Today Topic at First Parish

WAYLAND -- An inside story on Africa from one who has pioneered medical and relief activities there in recent years will be given at a special World Day of Prayer service at the First Parish Church Friday, Feb. 17, at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Moore recently returned from a second extended stay in Nigeria where in 1958 she set up in the village of Awo Omamma, a medical and relief project, which is now being administered by two natives with advanced degrees from American universities.

Mrs. Moore is noted for her ability to convey to others a vision of what can be done to help people help themselves.

All Wayland and Sudbury women are invited to the service. Coffee will be served in the vestry at 10.

Taking part in the service will be Rev. Dan Huntington Fenn of the First Parish Church, and representatives from the Trinitarian Congregational Church in Wayland and in Sudbury: First Parish, St. Elizabeth, Memorial Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian Churches. NEW TECHNIQUE -- This portrait-in-reverse was done by Ann Martin of Grade 8 in Weston Junior High.

New Weston Art Technique Makes Crayons Old Hat

Paper and crayons are no longer the only basic tools used in the art classes of the public schools. Creative projects featuring the use of an unlimited variety of materials and methods are being instituted today.

One highly interesting technique has been completed by the seventh and eighth grade students at Weston Junior High School.

Beginning with the selection of a basic face or animal illustration taken from a magazine. all details are eliminated. Single color illustrations are next drawn by the class members.

Unusual effects are then achieved by reversing the process and making dark objects light, while light backgrounds are darkened.

The pictures completed by Ann Martin and Tommy Thomas illustrate this unusual technique.

Morgan Memorial Seeks $2.5 Million

BOSTON -- Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries, largest private agency in New England serving the handicapped, has announced a $2.5 million building fund campaign to replace its antiquated structures in Boston's South End.

The big capital funds drive, the most ambitious program in its 66-year history, was announced by Vincent P. Clarke, president.

The new six-story structure of blue glass, trimmed with white concrete and red brick, will be located on a site near the present plant, facing Broadway and bounded by Porter and Corning Sts.

Morgan Memorial employs 450 handicapped persons in the reclaiming of clothing and household articles for resale. This idea began here and has spread to 125 United States cities and 17 foreign lands.

Weather? It's All in Mind And Wind, Fellow Here Says

WAYLAND (at 38 degrees above, with wind) -- Well now, you don't have to accept this but --

Fellow up north of here, in Bedford, insists:

We're not as cold as we -- think. It may be warmer than we -- think.

In other words, according to Maj. Abraham L. Ruiz, commander of the U. S. Air Force Weather Group at Hanscom Field, we just don't know how lucky we are, he -- thinks.

This Ruiz fellow has all the persistence of a door-to-door salesman with a foot, two elbows and a helmeted head inside the door.

He's got charts. And research. And -- thoughts.

"Responsibility for the false ideas of how cold it is can be charged up to the wind," says the major regarding us this week with a cold glance.

"In fact, " he insisted, "it's really not the cold that's so uncomfortable -- it's the wind."

Br-r-r-right thought that. But reaching into his windproof dispatch case, he brought up what he regards as the cold facts. A huge chart.

Now, if you've got your parka, mittens, youngsters' wool scarf and other impedimenta in place, listen to this:

A 10 mph wind at 38 degrees above has the same effect on human skin as a temperature of 27 below - with no wind!

"Cool, man, cool," the major purred triumphantly after unloading that -- thought.

We could feel our skin twitch and we reached for our skin lotion. At a quick estimate, we figured we had about 2000 square inches of skin exposed. We buttoned our tieless collar, too, as a precaution.

Maj. Ruiz advises one and all to give closer attention than usual to weather forecasts. Just remember -- a certain balance (or imbalance) of temperature and winds can make your epidermis crack.

Maj. Ruiz suggests: "The wind will blow away the normal layer of heat covering exposed skin and permit cold temperatures to react rather severely."

"Keep posted on the real culprit - the wind - and dress accordingly."

Now there's a -- thought. What do you -- think?

Weston Fifth Graders Star In Ford Fdn. Science Film

WESTON -- Woodland School fifth graders are the stars of three science movies being currently filmed by representatives of the Ford Foundation.

The classes are receiving combined science instruction from Chester L. Towne regular teacher of one of the participating groups, during the filming. Three lessons have been planned by Mr. Towne, and the movie personnel are shooting the series as these classes proceed normally. No advanced student preparation is involved.

The first film presents a straight lecture lesson by Mr. Towne. In the second film the students are shown conducting experiments and attempting to understand scientific concepts through the use of manipulative materials. Program material is then presented to the students and the final film shows their efforts to formulate laws by use of the inductive method.

The Ford Foundation selected the Weston school for this film as a result of the work done by the science curriculum committee last year.

The first part of the film was viewed by the Fourth Grade Study Committee at a Feb. 2 meeting.

Algonquin Recognition Dinner In Framingham on March 18

FRAMINGHAM -- The Committee for the Algonquin Council Scouters' Recognition Dinner was announced by chairman Carl Still. He said the plans for the dinner are practically completed for the greatest pot luck dinner get-together of all times. The dinner would be held in Lower Nevins Hall, Framingham Saturday March 18, at 6 p.m.

Information folders have been mailed to all Scouting Units in the Council, and the Committee urges all Units to make their reservations as early as possible. Tickets will be sold on a Unit basis for a table of ten, and each Unit can purchase as many tables as they wish. However, the hall can accommodate only 500 and the tickets have been placed on a "first come first served" basis.

The plan for the pot luck dinner calls for the unit bringing all their food, but the Council will provide the tables and chairs, plates, cups, coffee, ice cream and rubbish containers. Units will provide their own table decorations and all food on the basis of ten people to a table.

The Committee has planned for many recognitions during the evening's entertainment, and the Scouters will be recognized for their Training Awards, Eagle Court of Honor, Silver Beavers, and recognition for all Veteran Scouters, above and beyond ten year period.

Blanchard: Who Is He?

To the Editor:

Who is Ralph Blanchard? I first saw him at last years' town meeting. I was not impressed with him because he was handsome, not because he was an eloquent speaker because he is not, not because he was clever, or cunning, but because he seemed to care. He cares about his town as a whole, about how decisions made at a town meeting could effect all the people concerned, not just one group in any one section of town. This to me is the most important quality a man can have. It is a God given gift to be able to see beyond your own small position in life, to be able to think clearly on decisions concerning a town, a state, or a country of people.

This is why I'm campaigning for Ralph Blanchard for selectman and why I'm writing this letter.

Rombas Group Offers Assembly On Trips Abroad

WESTON -- The Weston Rombas Affiliation is bringing Carl Thomas of the Experiment in International Living of Putney, Vt., here for a special high school assembly next Thursday noon.

The local group explained that this is to acquaint the students with still another way of gaining the benefits of international living. The E. I. L. is a plan by which a person goes abroad not just to see a country but to learn to know its people by living with a family there.

W. R. A. feels that the "experiment" offers a good opportunity for students to spend the summer months abroad. It hopes that the town will continue the fruitful exchange between Weston and Rombas, France.

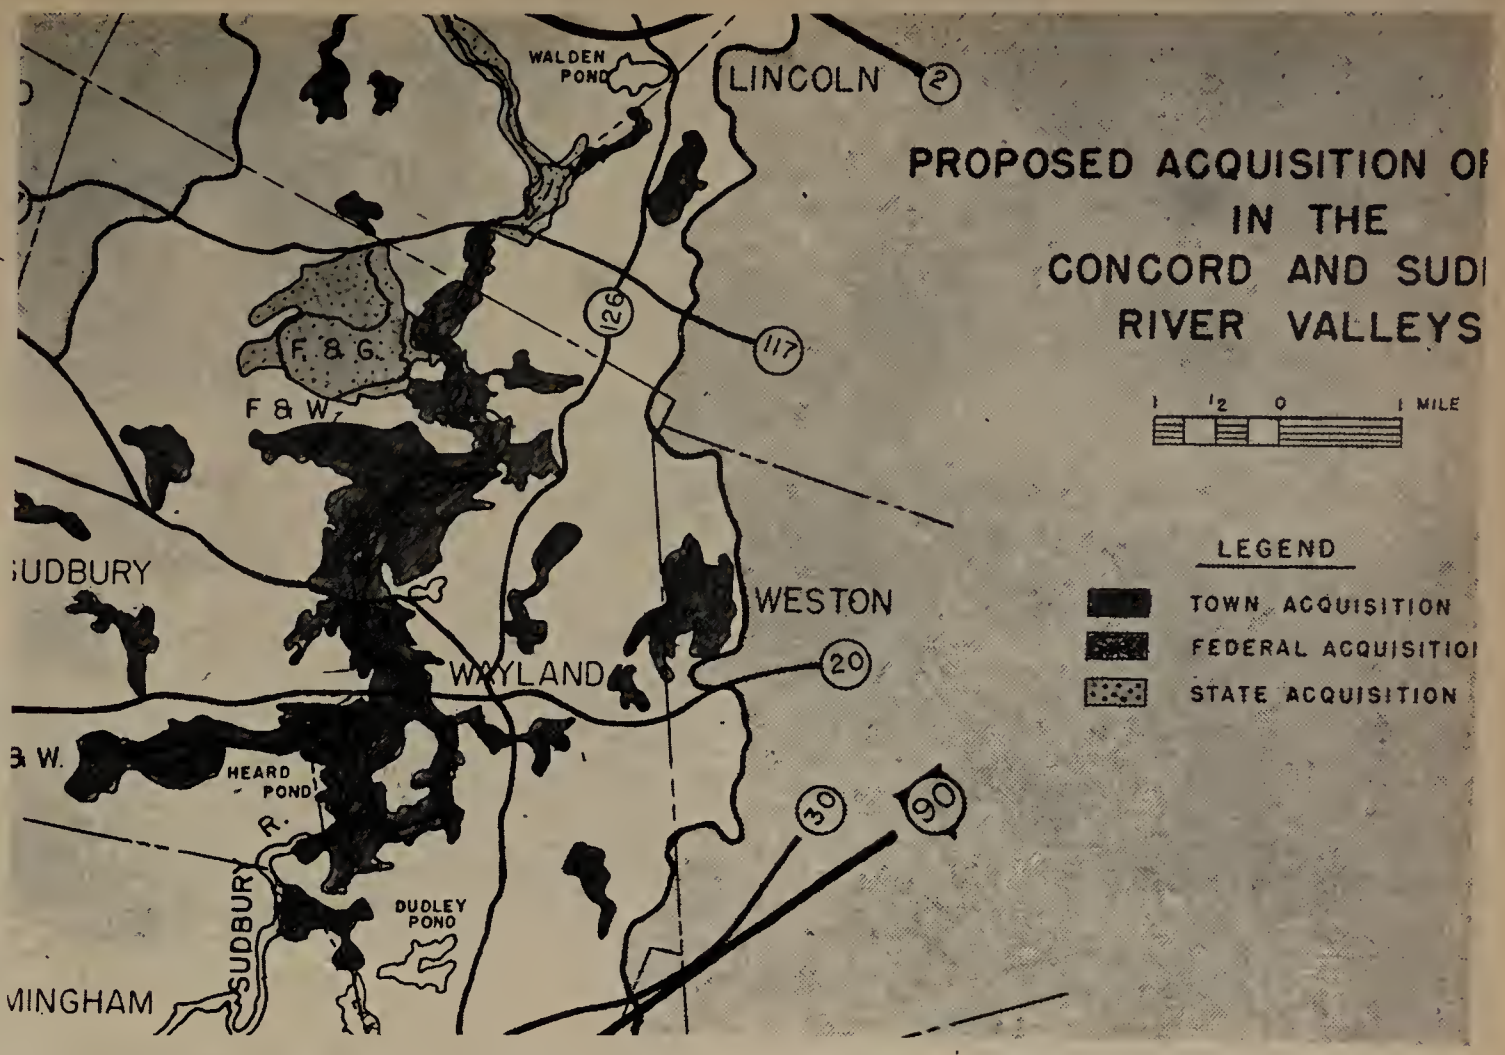
Boosters Find Aid To Weston Youth Worth It



WESTON -- Harold G. Travis, Chairman of the Scholarship Committee of the Weston Boosters Club, has sent the following report to The Town Crier:

For a great many years Weston Boosters, Inc., has awarded scholarship loans as a memorial to David A. Perry to graduates of Weston High School whose character, outstanding citizenship, sportsmanship and need are considered significant. At our recent Directors' Meeting the following letter was read from one of those recipients.

It is self-explanatory and most gratifying in illustrating not only the type of youth we have selected for this honor and assistance but also the conscience he displays in making it possible for us to help others in the future as he has been helped in the past.

Dear Mr. Travis:

Back in June of 1957 the Weston Boosters Club awarded me a David A. Perry Memorial Scholarship Loan and since then I have had it on my mind to fulfil my obligation and repay the trust you bestowed upon me at that time. I am enclosing a check in the amount of $50.00 as a first payment toward the $250.00 you trusted me with. "I wish to say thank you for two wonderful years at the college and for your kind trust in me.

Warning To Wayland: Save Marshes Now, or –

WAYLAND -- Of course you could blot up those marshlands along the Sudbury River.

And the easiest way to do it would be to invite some home or industrial developer in.

But then about the time the first house or suburban factory opened its doors most Wayland (or Weston or Sudbury) residents would realize -- too late -- the value of these lands.

That's the view of Allen Morgan, secretary of Sudbury Valley Trustees Inc.

"The marshes are realy something you buy when you purchase that home in the country," he says.

And if you ignore that, he adds, you're paying your mortgage off on a property that has less and less value.

"Why did you move to the country?" Morgan usually asks homeowners who haven't gotten around to thinking about the marshes.

Generally, they can answer that: to escape the crowded city, to have a place for their children to roam. And they've probably learned, as most suburbanites do, that observing wildlife is one of the pleasures youngsters take to when they're exposed to it.

"That's just what's in jeopardy when you leave the marshlands to take care of themselves," Morgan points out.

Once these open spaces are gone, or seriously reduced, you haven't got country any more. You have something worse: blacktopped suburbia.

No one knows how much these watery lands contribute to the local water supply, but it must be plenty.

That's another reason why Operation Blot Up could well be a blot on the whole region, he feels.

And that's why Sudbury Valley Trustees, Inc., was formed in 1952 to acquire by private purchase valuable marshlands along the Sudbury. So far they've taken about 400 acres of the 4000 acres available.

There's nowhere near enough private funds to buy up all these lands but in recent years, the state, under the prodding of Commissioner Charles H. W. Foster of the state Department of Natural Resources, has provided matching funds for any town interested in purchasing such lands for open space--ie., kept in an unused state.

At the March 8 town meeting, taxpayers can vote to set up a conservation commission which would then determine periodically what lands the town might buy, if it chose to.

And this year, the state legislature will act on a bill allowing the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service to acquire (or lease) and preserve about 3500 acres of marshes in this area -- from Stone Bridge, Wayland to South Great Rd. in Lincoln.

Improved land in the vicinity would not be threatened by this move, Morgan points out. Nor would any non-marsh property be taken. The government's purchase would be gradual...over many years.

"Twenty-five to 75 years ago, this state had several beautiful riverways," he says. "The Charels, Neponset, Mystic and Merrimack Rivers had extensive marshlands.

"Now they've been 'improved'. They have pollution. Hunting and fishing are out. No one cares to live near them. We'd be foolish to let that happen to us here."

Morgan says one industrial developer figured that he could dredge and fill, with modern methods, about 500 acres along the Neponset for about $1500 an acre. Roadside land here can go for about $5000 an acre, so it can be seen that cheap development of riverlands is now possible.

And cheap development, says Morgan, is inviting to industry... and large scale home developers.

Hunting, camping, skating and other forms of recreation are threatened with the extinction of marshlands, he argues.

Of course, Morgan says, plans for the Sudbury Valley have been made and pigeonholed periodically and discouragingly since the first one in 1644.

But now time is running out. Population growth alone dictates a raid on these lands for homes, as never before.

If the efforts to save the marshes fails this year, it may well mean driving the Porsche another 10 miles or more from Boston nightly to live in the rural atmosphere most suburbanites demand as much as their daily bread.

NIPPY NETTERS: It takes more than hip-deep snow drifts to stay basketball devotees from their appointed rebounds -- and tip-ins, and dribbles, and jump shots. Wayland High School '60 graduates Peter Riggs and Scott Bruce prove that where there's a will there's a way. (Bradford Photo)

3 Storms Cost Weston $15,600

ing up the Farmer's Almanac, few people would have forecast winter of such ferocity. Mr. Taylor estimates that since Jan. 1 cost of snow removal has been in the neighborhood of $9 - 10,000.

J. Ward Carter, executive secretary in Weston, put the figure compiled by the town highway department for snow removal beginning with the first storm in December at $15,672.

And the unusually generous supply of snow has made extra work for the fire departments. Chief Maurice L. Upham and a crew of his men have been busy digging fire-alarm boxes from beneath the drifts.

Wise citizens who beat the fire department to the punch and shoveled paths to the fire alarms came in for generous praise from the chief. He pointed out that while such actions on the part of these people were obviously a great help and time saver to the fire department, they were even more of a protection for the entire community.

Boston Edison Net Income $14,207,263

BOSTON -- President Charles F. Avila of Boston Edison Co. reports that the Company's net income in 1960 was $14,207,363, as compared with $12,968,302 in 1959.

After preferred dividends of $1,960,000 in 1960, the balance available for common shares was $12,247,363, or $4.10 a share. In 1959, the comparable balance was $11,008,302, or $3.69 a share.

Total operating revenues in 1960 were $124,261,824, as compared with $115,547,235 in 1959. Total kilowatt hour sales were 5.1 per cent ahead of 1959, with commercial sales increasing 7.5 per cent, residential 5.8 per cent and industrial 2.3 per cent.

Taxes assignable to operations, the largest item of expense, amounted to $33,336,170.

The company took a major step in the direction of residential load building with the announcement on May 9 of a rate for electric home heating. At year's end, 215 new electrically heated dwelling units in both single home and apartment house construction were completed, under construction, or planned.

On Dec. 21, the Edison system instantaneous peak load exceeded one million kilowatts for the first time.

The Company's annual report to stockholders, with details of 1960 operations, will be mailed on or about February 14.

MacDonald Heads Electric Checkup

WAYLAND -- Town Building Inspector Homer MacDonald directed the distribution of important electrical hazard questionnaires to all sixth graders in town schools.

This was part of Wayland's participation in National Electrical Week. The questionnaires are regularly sent to sixth graders, MacDonald said, so that at some time every pupil will bring one of these home for a household checkup. The questions point up possible hazards and MacDonald says householders should have repairs made on any weak spots.

How To Be Safe, Not Sorry When It Comes To Fires

From the committee on Fire Fighting in the Country (located in Waltham) come these hints about fire safety;

1 - In this snowy weather, could the fire department reach and use your farm pond in the case of fire? Is the road to the pond plowed out? Can you get through thick ice?

2 - Don't use the stove as a substitute for your clothes drier.

3 - Remember. Cold weather causes creosote. If you burn wood, keep pipes and flues clean.

4 - When the snow is on the ground is the safest time to burn outdoors.

5 - Don't do-it-yourself when heating equipment repairs are needed.

And one added thought: know the number of your fire department OL 3-4321 in the southern end of Wayland generally and EL 8-4321 elsewhere.

WARNING: Olympic subscribers in Wayland should be sure the telephone operator realizes you're calling from Wayland, if you notify her of a fire. She might think you were calling from Natick which shares the OLympic exchange. It has happened.

For Weston: TW 3-2323 reaches the fire department.

Now - get busy and tack these hints up where you'll see them.

The Griffins tired after a tough week of mid-year exams, and playing on a strange court for the first time this season were cold from the floor all afternoon, making only 13 field goals. Relying on defense, Cambridge plugged up Stow's driving offense, forcing them to shoot from the outside.

Slow Child Gets Boost in Wayland

By SALLY BILLIG

WAYLAND -- The outstanding quality a visitor to Room 101 at the Loker School is apt to notice, is that it doesn't seem different at all.

But this apparent averageness is only surface deep, and attests to the quality of education received by the students in the elementary school portion of Wayland's special class.

Part of a three-level program, which includes a junior and a senior high school group, these youngsters' learning ability is seriously limited, and in a class with their age-mates, they would meet with constant failure.

At present, admission to the special class usually comes only after several years of failure. By and large, these youngsters are usually ready to learn at nine. They usually reach the limit of their learning capacity about the end of their junior high years.

It is during this time span that the greatest effort is applied to teach as much of the basic skills as the student can learn.

In a program that frequently comes close to being a series of private lessons, Miss Jacqueline Durbin, special class elementary school teacher, presents reading, arithmetic, spelling and writing lessons to her class of 12, at various ability levels. While she is engaged with a group of one, two or three children, the rest work on assigned tasks. The length of the assignment and the level of the work is specifically directed at each individual child.

The rest of the program is involved with science, usually in terms of health and nature study; social studies, dealing with the world around them, and music, art and gym with the regular elementary school supervisors. Social behavior, and other factors affecting their relations with other children is especially stressed.

After six or seven years at the elementary level, or at approximately 13 years, these youngsters will move on to the junior high school group, which meets, along with the high school class.

Here, under the direction of Mrs. Marijane Raymond and William Frary, the learning of fundamentals continues as far as it is possible for each student, and their preparation for the complexities of the working world begins.

For some, the study of arithmetic takes the form of learning to recognize and count nickels and dimes. For others it means learning to fill out a bank deposit slip, or figure out a paycheck on an hourly basis.

Wherever possible, in the junior and senior high school groups which currently number 10 and 8 students respectively - academic material is slanted toward its practical uses.

Reading and language study may be done in terms of the Sears Roebuck catalog, with alphabetizing or handling a table of contents, among the lessons learned. Reading and language areas require the most specialized handling, as they are the least concrete, and by the very nature of retardation, the most difficult to learn.

One basic philosophy which stand out on all three levels is that of helping the student to strengthen himself in those areas where he can meet on common ground with the rest of his age-mates.

At the high school, the special classes meet with the rest of the school for assemblies, large demonstration type programs, and wherever, in classes such as arts and crafts or shop work, it is possible for them to gain from the experience.

Wayland's special class program started in 1954 in the high school, with the elementary unit at the Loker School opening the following year.

The faculty feel strongly that the facilities available and the cooperation given by the school committee make Wayland's program one of the most advanced in the state.

Wayland has some plans it would like to see developed:

Earlier admission of students on the basis of test results, to avoid the several years of failure which creates emotional difficulties that increase the child's learning problem.

Closer relations with an outside psychiatric service to augment the special skills of the teacher and the guidance department when they deem it necessary.

One major project in the works will help the student make his job adjustment. Known as distributive education, it will allow the student to work part-time and go to school part-time, thus teaching him to handle the specific problems and frustrations he meets.

According to Mr. Frary: "This has worked in some places and failed in some. We want to know why first. We'll start just as soon as we make sure the avenues we take are the proper ones."

ROLL 'EM! Gregory Wolfe, Wayland school committeeman and director of the Greater Boston Economic Study Committee, hands the 'policeman' card to Ernest H. Damon, chief of police, as WBZ-TV film producer Phil Galligan shoots sound-on-film sequence of Wayland townspeople. This sequence, shot against the background of Wayland's new senior high school, is part of the footage for WBZ-TV's program "Suburbia--Utopia or Myopia," the second of Channel 4's "Complex Community" series. The half-hour show will be televised Friday, Feb. 24 at 8 p.m. Also in the action at the high school are, left to right, Alan Zagoren, maintenance man with the Public Works Department; Francis J. Hartin, fire chief; Norman Taylor, executive secretary; and Nancy Haynes, school teacher.

Sticker Candidate In Wayland Redevelopment Race

WAYLAND -- Laurence S. Fordham, of 48 Sedgemeadow Rd., is the first sticker candidate to announce for the Wayland Redevelopment Authority.

Mr. Fordham, an attorney, told the Town Crier that he has "represented in legal matters, among others, the Brookline, Cambridge, and Medford Redevelopment Authorities" and that he has had considerable experience in redevelopment matters.

Chicago-born, Mr. Fordham, who received his law degree from Harvard Universiy in 1954, came to Wayland in 1957 after spending two years in private practice in Washington, D.C. Prior to that he had served one year as law clerk in Washington to Justice Sherman Minton.

"Wayland feels it needs a Redevelopment Authority and I feel I could make a worthwhile contribution and would be pleased to have the opportunity to serve the town in this way," says Mr. Fordham.

Paul D. Pontecorvo, Harvey L. Newton, and John T. Howard had been appointed last summer to serve on the Redevelopment Authority along with the member appointed by the state, A. William Rowe. The three interim members did not file nomination papers for the March 6 town elections.

Questioned as to whether they would file under sticker-candidacy procedure, Mr. Pontecorvo answered in the negative saying that he did not have the time available to give to the position.

Mr. Howard said he did not file for "purely personal reasons" which in no wise involved the authority itself and that he had no intention of becoming a sticker candidate.

Mr. Newton stated that he was out of town during the actual filing period although he had previously signed the papers with the understanding that they would be filed. Whether or not he would become a sticker candidate rested with decisions reached during a scheduled Feb. 14 meeting of the authority members, he said.

Wayland High Edges Past Weston, 46-45
Both Teams Heading For Tech Competition

WAYLAND -- The Wayland basketball team won its berth in the Tech Tourney by edging Weston in a 46-45 see-saw hoop contest, Feb. 10. The clincher was a 15 footer by Eldon Goodhue with 3 seconds of play remaining. This gives the Warriors their sixth straight trip to the Tourney and a first-place standing in the Dual County League.

The Weston junior varsity downed the Wayland JV's 40-37, by putting on a 21 point drive in the final period to capture the lead and the game. High scorers were Tony Bova of Wayland and Thad Hetherington of Weston. Both players logged 12 points apiece.

In the hard fought varsity game, both teams put on a great display of talent as the Wayland five led by a scant two points at the halfway mark. However, the Wildcats came back in the third quarter to gain a one point margin over the Warriors.

The final period was the real thriller, as both teams battled back and forth exchanging the lead with practically every basket. With Weston ahead 45-44 and only 6 seconds left to play, the Wayland team called time out to plan its strategy When play was resumed, a pass to Eldon Goodhue and his fifteen foot jump shot gave the whooping Warriors the lead, the game, and a trip to the Tech Tourney.

High scoring honors were shared by Wayland's Eldon Goodhue and Weston's Ed Perkins with 14 points apiece.

When asked what he thought of the game, Wayland coach Buzz Bowers said, "It was a great game. We had a lot of team effort and maybe a little luck." From Weston's Bob Carini: no comment.

Japan Revisited

Judging by the new books many authors are seeking to draw the readers' attention to the irresistible charms of Japan and the Japanese.

Two of the recent books were written by Allan Bosworth, a former captain in the U. S. Navy. "The Lovely World of Richie-san" tells of his return to Japan after the war and how through his acquaintance with Richie-san and her family he grew to admire the courage with which a proud but conquered people were endeavoring to adopt an utterly unknown way of life while at the same time he was greatly intrigued by their amusing efforts. This is a very refreshing book and as the Boston Post puts it, "Any one who doesn't fall in love with Richie-san just isn't human"

Allen Bosworth's "The Crows of Edwina Hill" is fiction pure and simple and good for many laughs. Doc Doolittle, always in hot water with his commanding officer of the Bustard, makes a frantic attempt to return in secret a bell which he stole from a Buddhist temple in Yokosuka at the end of the war.

The crows of Edwina Hill in Yokosuka becomes involved. (Note to parents. It seems unlikely that Doc Doolittle is in any way related to the great and good Doctor Doolittle who has a permanent home on a Village Book Stall shelf).

Of all the Americans who have gone back to Japan surely none has produced a more scholarly and delightful book than Oliver Statler's "Japanese Inn". This is a social history of a home which was transformed by its owner into an inn in the 16th century and has been run by the same family for four hundred years and twenty generations.

For the last twelve years Oliver Statler has loved this inn and its surroundings better than any other spot on earth. His descriptions of Minaquchi-ya often become poetic as, for example, "The dream-haunted calm of the old inn" while an entrancing strain of humor runs throughout the book. "Japanese Inn" is lavishly illustrated with woodblock prints from old masters, some amusing, others very lovely.

River District Medical Society Offers Public Service Program

NEWTON LOWER FALLS -- A new program of public service by the physicians of this area is now available to Weston and Wayland with the opening of a headquarters office of the Charles River District Medical Society.

Located at 1990 Washington St., Newton Lower Falls, the medical society office is in a building on the grounds of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital which for some years has been the headquarters of the Newton Visiting Nurse Assn. and the Newton Community Council.

The office will have abailable lists of qualified physicians in the various branches of medicine.

The district does not operate an emergency medical service since this can be done more effectively through the telephone answering services of local physicians and hospitals.

Part-time secretarial attendance and a 24-hour telephone answering service at WO 9-8314 will make the facilities of the office constantly available.

The Charles River District Medical Society is the official medical representative for its 675 physician members - all doctors practicing or resident in Newton, Waltham, Needham, Wellesley and Weston.

The local society is a component of the Massachusetts Medical Society and the American Medical Assn.

Among the officers and councilors of the society from Weston are Dr. William T. Van Huysen, president; Dr. Robert J. McMillan; and David H. Reid.

A Harrassed Motorist

There was a time when ownership of an automobile was a mark of ostentation, a status symbol. Today, it is the mark of a martyr.

Whenever governments need a bigger this or a longer that, legislative eyes turn unabashed toward the beleagured citizen bravely trying to keep up with increased auto insurance, heavy excise taxes, more expensive gasoline, and garage keepers that put an Arabian card-game dealer to shame.

Among the more brazen campaigns currently under consideration against the car owner is the one espoused by Patrick B. McGinnis, president of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

Mr. McGinnis' proposal is that every automobile be taxed $10 a year in order to buy up the entire MTA system. Truck owners may take a dim view of this suggestion, too, as the plan calls for a $50 yearly tax on each truck.

And now that Gov. John A. Volpe has lost the fight for a freeway into Boston and, joining forces with William F. Callahan, chairman of the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, in stumping for a toll road, residents of the Wayland-Weston-Cochituate area as well as those farther west may well be on the way to what the American Automobile Association calls "double taxation."

Robert S. Kretschmar, executive secretary of the Massachusetts AAA, in a letter to Sen. John E. Powers, president of the state senate, a powerful influence in the eventual disposition of the freeway-toll road controversy, pointed out that motorists in this part of the Commonwealth have paid enough in gasoline taxes to be granted a bit of relief in terms of a freeway from Weston into Boston or at least to the proposed Inner Belt system.

He stressed that current taxation plus the burden of tolls constitutes double taxation.

Then, too, the weather of late seems to have picked out the army of snow-shoveling motorists as a worthy object for harrassment.

A neighbor of ours who manages an establishment in Boston set his jaw, took a firm grasp of his steering wheel and slithered through to his place of business the Monday following the recent weekend storm. There was a parking lot for his staff and his customers behind the building, but whoever was to plow it out had not shown up.

So, our friend set his jaw, parked his car on a side street, took a firm grip on a shovel and scooped out enough room in his parking lot for a couple of cars or one large truck.

Then he went back to get his car and found it sporting a $50 ticket for parking.

"Dickens," he said pleasantly and drove back to the parking lot with room for a couple of cars or one large truck. He found it occupied by one large truck.

Our friend is a model citizen, mild of manner, gentle of speech, given to helping his neighbors, lending quiet counsel to Boy Scouts with poison ivy, and taking walks with his wife and family.

But the events of that dark Monday had taken their toll. The Goliath truck driver, after a brief objection, slunk off with his truck, no match for our friend who had been transfigured into a short, mustached fire-breathing David.

Enough suffering for one motorist for one day, you say? Not quite. The traffic at quitting time caused the usual 45-minute trip home to take three hours.

Now, then, how about a Secretary of Motorists . . .

Letters to the EDITOR

Weston's Tax Rate Defended

To the Editor:

The attack by the Weston Civic Assn. on the Weston Finance Committee, and in fact on the town departments in general, reported in your issue of Feb. 2, perhaps warrants comment from some citizen, who, while not especially financially minded, has as a member of the Planning Board for the last three years, had opportunity to acquire some firsthand knowledge of the towns management both past and present.

Any house-owner in considering his tax bill, must keep an eye on the value of his capital investment, i.e. his house and land. If his tax bill rises $50 a year, and the value of his property (say $20,000) rises 1/2% ($100) a year, he is not doing badly. If he claims this increase is merely inflation, then the same factor must inevitably be reflected in a rise in his tax bill. There is considerable evidence to suggest however, that the rise in capital values throughout the town over the last ten years has been greater than 1/2%, and greater than any inflationary factor; and may well be due to growing recognition of the town as a desirable place in which to invest in house property, in good schools, police, fire department etc., and in living amenities in general.

Weston is in fact recognised as specializing in residential housing of good type, with four zoning classifications ranging from small to large lot sizes. Such neighborhoods are becoming progressively harder to find as more and more areas around Boston become blighted by inept management, or by urban sprawl. This sprawl has caught many residential neighborhoods unprepared.

A valuable program in this respect has been that of the Town Forest, sponsored by the Selectmen and Planning Board in 1953, and strongly endorsed by the Finance Committee, then under the chairmanship of Mr. Edward R. Langenbach. This program, with the guidance of the Selectmen and Town Counsel, has progressed and matured into the comprehensive Green Belt and Open Areas program under the chairmanship of Mr. Stanley G. French, long-time member of the Finance Committee; and with support from the town's developers and real estate interests, is at the present time attracting interest throughout the state. In addition to the rise in property values resulting from this and other long range planning, the outlays made by the town over the last ten years are now represented by land that can be valued conservatively at four times the cost, with every prospect of continued appreciation along with values throughout the town, if the town's high standards of management are maintained. If, on the other hand, services are allowed to deteriorate, the story is likely to be different. A "saving" of $50 on one's tax bill, resulting in a loss of $100 on one's capital investment, would be a poor type of saving.

Important evidence of the Town's present financial desirability is given by the fact that new owners, building in the town during the last year, have "invested" in house value at one of the highest rates in the state. Likewise our credit rating with respect to borrowing is first class.

With things this way, wholesale criticism of the town's management, however vehemently expressed, should perhaps be taken with a grain or two of salt.

Letters to the Editor Are Always Welcome

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Through Two Centuries — A Pattern

How did old Wayland look two hundred years ago?

A remarkable citizen, James Sumner Draper, who was selectman, school committeeman, town librarian, farmer, surveyor and antiquarian a century since, gives us a clear idea through the detailed map which he built from the old Sudbury records. On it he shows the hills, plains, and ponds, the river and its wide-spreading marshes; every road and the date when it was authorized; all the bridges; every tavern, school, and dwelling; all as it must have been in the year 1776.

A Journey Back

Let's take the journey back with Mr. Draper through, now, almost two centuries. First, we have to get rid of a lot of things, many of which seem to us solid, permanent, even ancient.

Suppose we drive with him from his farm on the plain, and let him show us Wayland Center, or Sudbury Village as it was then, in 1776.

Looking westward, we have to blot out Raytheon and the Shopping Center, of course; the Junior High, the Catholic Church and every building on State Rd. West, as well as the highway itself. No, there is no bridge here across the Sudbury River; but further south a wooden cart bridge leads to three fertile farms on "The Island." One feature we need to add. A sixty-foot high sandy hill stretches west; to Bridle Point, where the Raytheon experimental tower now stands. Over it runs the Bridle Pt. Road, turning south through the present Russell farm to the Island.

At Wayland Center itself we must blot out all the present features, the big church, town office building, the white clapboard dwellings; the railroad and power line, of course. Even the Collins Market building was built by Mr. Draper himself as a town hall only in the last century, and the Drapers planted the great elms we have just so sadly seen removed.

Add Two Buildings

But on the west side of the road we add two public buildings north of the brook; a long, weathered meetinghouse, and a brick school house, both on the town's common, shadowed by a great sycamore tree. Opposite, where the town building now stands, is Col. Dan Curtis' tavern (Known earlier in this century as the Pequod House), and Elijah Bent's store.

Where do the people live? Most of them to the north and east: along Concord Rd., beginning with Dr. Robie's mansion; and then, thickly clustered under the warm south side of the bluff, along Bow Rd. and Old Sudbury Rd.; within easy distance of the meadows whence their hay came, and of the original church and burying ground. More scattered, farms reach northward to the schoolhouse near Castle Hill, and eastward along the Plain and the Weston Rd. to the town line.

The Training Field

One important feature we need to add, the Training Field, at the junction of Glezen Lane and the modern road of that name; but very much larger than the present bit of park land. We recall that for a century, beginning with King Philip's War in 1676, the New England colonies were almost constantly under the necessity of maintaining armed militia. Every town had its Train Band and its training field.

Three miles to the south lay another, smaller community of fertile farms with its school, along what are now Commonwealth Rd. and Loker St.; and Old Connecticut Path and Happy Hollow, also with its school, had been long settled. The four-arch stone bridge on Stonebridge Rd. was of almost equal importance with that which crossed the river at the north, leading to the West Parish, soon to take over the original town name of Sudbury.

A long settled, pleasant, prosperous village the East Parish was in 1776, its pastures fat with cattle and hogs, its meadows sweet with hay, and its fields yielding ample crops of corn and apples and turnips. For the grim shadow of war that lay over all in that year we shall need to turn elsewhere. Mr. Draper's painstaking map, however, shows us strikingly how the works of one century lay the physical pattern for all of those which follow.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Mink Are Endearing-- But Only To Other Mink

Most of the mink you see in fur coats these days come from mink ranches, and have much nicer fur than our native mink of the marshes. While the ranch Mink may run in color from a silver-grey mutation to black, the wild mink is dark brown, with a white area under the chin. These animals are very mean, and like their close cousins, the weasel, will sometimes kill for the joy of it.

The mink around here have a total length of about 24", and the males are somewhat larger than the females. These animals are equally at home on land or in the water, but usually prefer marshy areas, or the banks of streams. They are carnivorous, and eat everything from fish to muskrats, rabbits and birds.

A few years ago I was fishing in the Sudbury River and noticed a Black duck flying in circles close to the water. As I paddled down to where she was, I could see another Black duck moving towards the bank, with it's head down on the water at an unusual angle.

A mink had it by the neck and was trying to drag it into the reeds, I threw my paddle at the mink, and he dropped the duck and swam ashore. I picked up the duck (after paddling to it with my hands) and found it in fairly good shape, although the skin was torn on a portion of the neck. The duck recovered after awhile, and flew away - I hope to heal up.

Now this black duck weighed about twice as much as the mink, so you can see how powerful these little critters can be, and they are also very fast, as they can catch trout.

The mink also has scent glands, and while he lacks the range of the skunk, his odor is just as disagreeable. So you can see that mink are very unpleasant animals - and if I were a woman I'd stick to tweed.

Group Urges Teenage Auto Safety

WESTON -- The State legislative Committee on Highways and Motor Vehicles promised a "bill with teeth in it" to limit teenage drivers last week. The statement was made at a State House hearing where a Weston contingent presented a petition signed by 550 of which 245 were Weston signatures.

To obtain the signatures in less than a week, the Weston group had circulated 45 petitions backing two bills which would require 16-17 year olds to pass a driver-education course before being licensed and would restrict them to 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. driving.

In one case where a husband took the petition to his office and announced that it was available, employees lined up at the coffee break to sign it.

Weston citizens who attended the packed hearing on Feb. 7 were Miss Florence Freeman, Mrs. Mario Castillo, Mrs. Richard Berry, Mrs. Arthur Jones, Mrs. S. F. Burtis, Mrs. Robert Brush, Mrs. Arthur Olney, Mrs. Warner Wright, Mrs. Gilbert Garland, Mrs. Gordon Brownell, Mrs. Robert Stauffer, and Mr. and Mrs. John Heidt.

World Day of Prayer

WESTON -- The annual World Day of Prayer Service will be held at the First Baptist Church on February 17 at 10:30 a.m. The speaker will be Mr. Calvin Nagi, a student at Andover-Newton Theological Seminary.

WALTHAM -- The Social Security Administration is trying to locate certain widows, aged dependent parents and disable children 18 and over who are now eligible for social security payments. They are the survivors of workers who died after March 31, 1938 and before Jan. 1, 1940 after working under social security for at least 18 months.

Weston, Lincoln, Waltham Discuss Trash Facilities

Weston, Lincoln, and Waltham met Feb. 7 to discuss problems of mutual consideration.

First, attention was given to the possibility of building a road to extend from Winter Street in Waltham through Lincoln and Weston to connect with Route 117 near Merriam St.

It was decided that all parties were to petition the state Department of Public Works for a traffic study to determine the feasibility of such a road. This measure resulted from a proposal made by Rep. James DeNormandie of Lincoln.

A long standing problem in Waltham concerns the disposal of the town's combustible and uncombustible trash. The incinerator and dump at Woerd Avenue have certain limitations and Waltham has in the past suggested a joint arrangement with Weston for the disposal of trash at a site near the Massachusetts Broken Stone Co., in Weston.

However, the company evidenced little interest in selling and the town was not disposed toward taking the land through eminant domaine proceedings. At present, Weston's Kendal Green dump site is adequate for that town's handling of combustible and noncombustible materials.

Edward Dickson, chairman of the Weston Board of Selectmen, agreed that many years hence, if and when the Kendal site is no longer usable, some arrangement may be worked out with Waltham. Some such future agreement might involve Weston's using the Waltham incinerator for combustible materials and joint use of a Weston dump site for both towns.

However, before any serious consideration could be given to such a plan, Weston would have to embark upon a program of municipally-operated trash collection.

It is to be emphasized that this was merely a discussion of future possibilities. No commitment was involved. No date was considered.

Also discussed was the possibility of closing Lexington Street at the Waltham town line to through traffic. An alternate route running between Route 117 and Winter St., and involving Bear Hill Road and Second Avenue was considered.

IT WORKS! Mrs. Edwin G. Schneider of Old Sudbury Rd., Wayland listens to the transistor radio she won this week in connection with the voting for the Checker of the Year contest at the Wayland Co-op. Store manager Noble Morton made the presentation. Other Wayland winners (of $10 food certificates) included Mrs. Dan. H. Fenn of Cochituate Rd., and J. N. Zambone of 237 Old Connecticut Path.

Benno Moiseiwitsch: Friday At Weston Country School

WESTON -- Anticipation is mounting for the second of the Country Evening Concerts of the current 10th anniversary season. This will take place Friday, February 17, when pianist Benno Moiseiwitsch is presented in a program featuring the works of Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin and Moussorgsky.

Mr. Moiseiwitsch, who was born in Russia, has been a citizen of England since 1937. He has been decorated by his adopted government with the coveted order of Commander of the British Empire, and has received the highest honor English music can bestow, a life membership in the Royal Philharmonic Society.

Last August, shortly after his seventieth birthday, he celebrated his 100th solo appearance at London's famous "Prom" concerts, setting off what one critic called "the most thunderous ovation of the summer".

Remaining tickets for the concert, which takes place in the Weston Country School Auditorium at 8:30, may be obtained at Whelpley's in Weston Center, or by telephoning Mrs. Elwell at TW 3-7361.

Ushering at the concerts this season are Ann Bartel, Frances Hunt, Rhombas student Annie Weist, Edith Wypler, Jane Wypler, Deborah Wright and Suzanne Wright. Dutch Treat Dinner, so popular last year, is again available at the Weston Golf Club to concert-goers, whether they are members of the club or not.

Arrangements for this may be made by calling Dinner Chairman Mrs. George Bottjer, at TW 3-6748.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- Has anyone heard Great Horned Owls calling? They are our earliest nesters and eggs are usually laid in February. The commonest call is a series of five deep, soft notes - all on one pitch - and the sound carries for some distance.

Three Bobwhites continue to come for food at the Akers' on Love Lane; and another report of a male Black-backed Three-toed Woodpecker was received from Mrs. Donald Davidson, who had a very close look at one on Warren Avenue just off the Post Road on Feb. 7.

Meadowlarks have been seen again on North Avenue (Nickerson and Foote - Feb. 1), and also on Brook Road (Lindley).

The albino Evening Grosbeak is still present in Wayland (Teich); and Mrs. John Lingley, also Wayland, has seen one Common Redpoll. Slightly larger flocks of Purple Finches are being reported (14 by Mrs. Allan Green, Plain Rd); and some goldfinches are starting to show a little bright yellow - sure sign of approaching Spring in spite of all the snow and cold! -- C.E.S.

Candidates Night Scheduled

WAYLAND -- Candidates' Night, to be held on February 23 at 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre of Wayland High School, will give voters a chance to meet the candidates they must choose among at the forthcoming town election.

The sponsoring organization, the Wayland League of Women Voters, has issued invitations to all candidates for election. Of the more than forty candidates who have filed intentions, nineteen are running for contested office, including selectmen, school committee, park department, board of health and board of public welfare.

All office seekers have been asked to submit biographies to be printed in advance for distribution at the meeting. Therefore, the opening formal remarks of each candidate will be confined to important aspects of the office he seeks.

A question and answer period will follow. The audience will have a further opportunity to speak with the candidates informally at the coffee reception which will follow in the Commons.

Mrs. Howard Rounsefell is in charge of the reception and Mrs. James Flanagan, league president, will moderate the meeting.

Antiques Group Meeting

WESTON -- The Antiques Group of the Women's Community League will hold its next meeting Feb. 23 at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ray Palmer, 35 Hubbard Rd.

Mrs. Hubbard will show slides of china and glass from the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston.

Preparation for Decision

by ROY FLANDERS

The problems of the world belong to us. We are left with the power and the responsibility to solve them. How can we best meet this obligation?

There seems, to me, to be a triple process in which we must enroll our minds and energies. There is a definite balance between these three processes; without one, the other is useless.

The first is our academic studies. We are learning the history of the world and of our own country so that we may profit from the mistakes of the past; we are learning of the languages and cultures of other peoples for the purpose of understanding and open-mindedness, we are studying math and the sciences so as to physically benefit mankind and to keep America strong.

But we must do more than our daily studies; we must balance them with a fluid knowledge of current affairs. We can relate history to the times and conversely, the times to history. What use has knowledge if it cannot be utilized; if it cannot be taken from abstraction to application?

We have just witnessed a national presidential election; a change in administration and political philosophies. The policies of the U.S. are currently being altered and/or reinforced. We must remain abreast of the changes, examine the reasons for them, their results, and whether or not they are or will be beneficial to our nation. The individual should take it upon himself to analyze, formulate opinion and make that opinion heard.

Our right to individual opinion is a precious parcel which should, and must be preserved; to this I'm sure we all agree. The problem is are we doing our part in preserving it? Are we becoming so apathetic towards current problems that we no longer bother to stand up for our opinions? Did we even have opinions on many matters? I am afraid the truth is that we have let slide, these obligations to let our voice be heard. Don't whisper, SHOUT! Our voices will be heard.

These appear, to me, to be the three components of the participating citizen. He is able to understand the past and relate it to the future; he is informed. Most importantly, he must have the "guts" to stand up for his ideas. If any of these qualities is lacking, the citizen will fall by the wayside, and as he falls; so falls America.

New Frontier

I love exams,
I think they're fun;
I never study,
I never fail one --
(I'm the teacher!)

The toils and anxieties of the first semester are over and mid-year exams are worries of the past. We now have every opportunity for making the coming semester a success.

As time continues to pass, we are faced with two alternatives. We may either let it drift by in boredom, or we may spend it wisely to bring about the fulfillment of our future aims.

The future will come whether we are prepared for it or not, So . . . On your mark - Get set - GO! -- S.M.

Seniors to Homogenize Freshmen

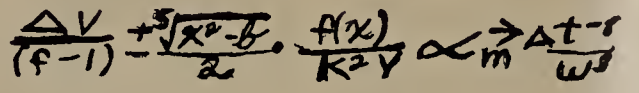
by ELIZABETH ANN WOODSUM

One of the most colorful and exciting events of the school year at Wayland High is the Freshman Initiation Dance. This year's dance, which was to be held on February 4, had to be postponed. Those of us who wielded snow shovels and scaled 7-foot drifts understand why! However, the "Frosh" need not become discouraged by this delay as it will give them extra time to prepare for the festivities.

Freshmen are reminded that they must comply with the requirements on the information sheet. Girls must wear men's bermuda shorts, pajama tops, long underwear, and rag belts. Girls should wash their hair the night before the dance and then just leave it. However it comes out, no matter how messy, don't set it! All make-up will be applied exclusively by members of the illustrious SENIOR CLASS. Girls must wear an overshoe and a sneaker.

Freshman boys will wear slacks, 5 inches above one knee and 5 inches below the other. (Measurements must be exact.) The feet will be wrapped in rags. (Boots can be worn to the doors of the field house.) Boys must wear a pillowcase for a shirt.

All lowly Freshmen must wear a sign reading as follows:



I, A MOST DESPICABLE, WRETCHED, PUNY, AND DETESTABLE FRESHMAN, HONOR THE GLORIOUS AND MAJESTIC SENIORS OF '61. I WILL FALL TO MY KNEES IN WORSHIP AT YOUR SLIGHTEST WHIM.

They must also memorize the passage and fall to their knees to recite it at the request of a noble SENIOR.

Some of the scheduled activities for the initiation are SENIOR makeup, chariot race, paw race, pie eating contest, tug of war, obstacle course, and blindfolded banquet. Freshmen will be presented with the traditional "beanies", and prizes will be given to the best sports. Any wretched Freshman not appearing at the initiation will suffer grave consequences. The dance will be held after the initiation ceremonies in the commons.

Howard Christie, Ted Langley, Barry Kurth and Bob Burke are shown working on individual projects in the science shop.

Wayland High students are given every opportunity by the Science Department to work on individual projects. In this day of increasing competition for admittance to good colleges, it is felt that this sort of individual learning is extremely important. The photograph shows a part of the Science Shop, which is a room set off exclusively for this purpose. The Science Shop is devoted primarily to Physics and Chemistry. Biology has its own area in the Greenhouse. Among the equipment in this area is an interferometer and a microwave generator, for use in the study of waves. There is also a simple analog computer and an oscilloscope, which are some of the basic tools of modern physics. In addition there is a large amount of equipment being used for specialized studies in chemistry.

Currently, there has been a great deal of interest on the part of many students in the building of electronic kits which will have an application in a projected Physics II course to be offered next year. In our school, Biology is offered in the ninth grade, Chemistry in the tenth and Physics in the eleventh. This leaves the Senior year open for advanced science courses which will also be offered in the fields of Chemistry and Biology. Activity is also building up in the construction of projects for the Science Fair, which is scheduled to be held on March 24 and 25. As a final note, there is an Amateur Radio Station which is nearing completion at the school. It is hoped that it will be on the air within a few more months.

Suspicion- Poison of The Mind

by GAYLE ZAGOREN

Do you trust your friends? Your wife? Your boss? Or do you feel that they are all plotting against you? Do you ever get the urge to expose them all? Do you lay awake at nights wondering when? (i.e. when your friends will drop you, when your wife will leave you, when your boss will fire you?) If you have answered 'yes' to these questions, I'm afraid I have bad news for you. Don't get excited, just sit down and take it easy. Comfy? Okay, here it is. Your mind is poisoned. You are suspicious.

Remember, I said not to get excited. Now lie down! Isn't that couch nice and restful? Just lie back and rest. That's a good boy.

Now, tell me about yourself. Let's start way back when you were a little boy. What? You were never a little boy? Oh come now - we must be honest. I see . . . let me get that down. You were young physically, but never had the chance for a childhood. Why was that?

Your mother loved the little boy next-door better than you? Your father wanted to get rid of you? Your sister was plotting to force you to run away? I see . . . as a result you had to be continually on the watch. Every minute, every hour, every day you had to be careful.

Didn't you have any little friends though? Oh, they were the inciters of the whole plot. They wanted to get possession of your family.

Well, lets skip the rest of that line and go straight into your problem. Now, why do you suspect your friends, your wife, your boss, even the man whom you see at the bus stop?

They, too, are plotting against you. Why? Because they hate to see you happy? Wouldn't that be the vow of small people, with no hearts, no feelings, and no perspective? All right then, if all these people are planning to get rid of you in one way or another, why haven't they done it? You've admitted that you don't think they have any feelings, right? So why would they wait? Why wouldn't they all do away with you? Why not now, this very day?

Ahhh! I've convinced you of their innocence. I'm so glad. Will you please step into the outer office and . . . What? No, no, I'm not going to kill you. Don't be silly, why would I . . . Hey! Put that knife down! Put it . . . Help! Help!

Bi-Phi-Chem

On Friday, the tenth of February, the members of the Bi-Phi-Chem Club witnessed a live demonstration in stereophonic sound. The Club's first field trip is scheduled for the last week in February.

Several committees have been formed to assist with the various activities concerning the Science Fair, to be held on the 24th and 25th of March.

The Bi-Phi-Chem Club is selling science study books. These are designed to aid students in many different areas of Biology, Chemistry and Physics. They are available at the Math-Science Reference Center for only 95 cents.

Sincere Appreciation

Brotherhood

Eldon Goodhue, co-captain of the basketball team, has been selected as the Wayland representative to the "Classmates Today-Neighbors Tomorrow" brotherhood program.

Eldon, accompanied by Mrs. Champagne will attend a brotherhood breakfast meeting at Northeastern University on Sunday, February 12, 1961. The guest speaker at this meeting will be Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Representatives to this program, selected for their demonstration of outstanding characteristics of brotherhood, will also attend district breakfasts in their honor. Eldon will breakfast at Sea and Surf on the 19th of February.

This program is co-sponsored by the Department of Massachusetts Jewish War Veterans of the U.S.A., and by the Northeastern Region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Art Service

Wayland High School has an Art Service Club, under the direction of Mrs. Jones. This group of industrious students is ready, willing and able to make posters and charts for faculty members, as well as civic or church groups of the town. You only need to give the necessary information to one of the following people, or Mrs. Jones, about two weeks in advance: Kathy Chaisson, Perry Hamilton, Margo Howard, Lynda Hiliman, Richard Kosgren, Joan Lucy, Sandra Riggiero, Lynn Russell, Nancy Siok, or Janet Stevens.

Dear Doc

Wayland High School is happy to announce the addition of an advice column to their newspaper, the Chatterbox. Here is one of the first letters which have come in.

Dear Dr. Chronos,

My problem may not seem too important but under the present circumstances at my house, I had better say good-bye to "Social Happiness". I am very intelligent and my parents think that I am God's intellectual gift to stimulating discussions. They are forever inviting "egghead" people over to stimulate my interests. I don't mind these sessions once in a while, but I would like to go out with people of my own choice. They think that the people I would choose as chums care only for sports, popularity, and are social status seekers.

What to do?

"Lorry"

Dear "Lorry",

Invite some of the people you desire as friends over to your home for a friendly get-together. Let your parents see for themselves how pleasant and courteous they can be. I'm sure they will at least see your point and I hope they realize it is your life. Although they may feel they have your best interests at heart, they perhaps are preventing you from enjoying your own youthful friendships.

Dr. Chronos.

Should Students Smoke?

Senior boy -- "It's fine. The school should have no authority outside of school, but they should have the power to prohibit smoking in school. This power is sufficient, if enforced."

Junior Girl -- "It isn't 'proper'. This especially applies to girls, who probably do this just to impress boys or to act older. My main objection to smoking is that teenagers are too young . . . A smoking room is just giving into something that shouldn't be done, even though it would be under restricted conditions . . . The school should have the power to prohibit and to punish by expulsion . . . The teenage smoking problem might be able to be solved by parents and by law (minors buying cigarettes)."

Freshman Boy -- "I don't smoke now, and I probably won't in the iuture. Smoking is up to the individual. If he has his parents' permission, it's okay. If people must smoke they should do it out of school, mainly to prevent the iactor of fire. Parents might be the solution to the problem. Smoking in a restricted area, with parents' permission would be all right."

* * *

Junior Boy -- "Today, smoking is not looked down upon. It is socially acceptable. I believe that a smoking room should be provided ior those students who smoke. I don't think this would disgrace our school in any way."

Junior Girl -- Smoking is no good, its just a follow the leader habit.

Freshman Girl -- Feels teenagers should not rush life. They should stick to things more suited for their age level, leave smoking for old men.

Senior boy -- Feels it is up to the person. Should not be allowed to smoke in school, if they find they have that freedom will find more trouble.

Senior Girl -- "I believe that smoking outside of school is the student's own business. However in school smoking should not be permitted. It is not a good influence on others, especially underclassmen, and it gives a bad impression of our school."

Junior Boy -- "I think the school should provide a smoking room for the students. The students who use this room would have to have their parents' permission, and they would be under supervision at all times. If the people of this town think smoking gives a bad impression, they should not permit the teachers to smoke in school either."

Mr. Lindsey -- Feels the school committee should make a policy and enforce it. He is greatly in favor of a student code. Feels smoking should be allowed in a policed smoking room, but only for juniors and seniors with parental permission. As there is no smoking permitted in the building now those caught smoking should be suspended.

Mr. Cotton -- Is terribly opposed to all smoking, anywhere - anytime. He feels it is a waste of money and time. Considers smoking a vice - is against all vices.

Fruitcakes Anyone?

The senior class still has some deluxe S.S. Pierce fruitcakes, selling at the retail price of $1.69. Stock up now for next year! Don't be caught at the last minute next Christmas without a fancy fruitcake!

Cuban Crisis Discussed

On January 19, 1961, in the Oval Room of the Sheraton Plaza Hotel, a press conference was held for the staff members of school newspapers. Among other schools, our own Wayland High was represented there. The discussion, of Castro and his regime, was led by Dean Barnes, the well known Assistant-Dean of Harvard. Dean Barnes is considered to be an authority on Castro as he was the official chaperone during Castro's tour of Boston.

When asked how he was treated on his own tour of Cuba, Dean Barnes stated that he was ignored and kept from seeing Castro at any time. Another question that was raised was what type of a man is Castro. Being a personal friend of his, Dean Barnes replied that Castro was a dynamic person and instinctively likeable. He also said that Castro is not the type of a man, whom he considered to be a typical tyrant.

When questioned as to how strong the anti-Castro movement is, Dean Barnes answered: At the beginning of the New Republic, when Castro first took powers, 80-90 percent of the population was pro-Castro, and 10 to 20 percent was against him. There is talk that the figures are now reversed, but Dean Barnes has serious doubts as to the validity of these statements. He does feel however, that the number of the anti-Castro forces is growing, and will continue to grow.

Another student asked what the change in the Cuban's individual life was after the revolution. Dean Barnes then answered that in the cities, life had grown worse. People who were used to imported products have to learn to get along without them now. As a whole, the standard of living in the city has declined. In the country there are some improved conditions, but more important than that is that there is now a breath of hope for the common people. They feel that they are finally working for something they think is good and for something they believe in. Dean Barnes concluded with the fact that this hope was of course the new regime of Castro's and only time will tell whether it is good or bad.

Down By the Old Mill Pond

On January 28, our (freshmen) held their first of many great social events of the year, a skating party at the Mill pond. The cheery atmosphere plus the combined efforts of both students and staff provided for music, fun and refreshments for all who attended.

Although the exact amount of profit has not been determined, we are sure that the proceeds from this party will contribute greatly to the organization and success of more, and increasingly better, freshman activities.

We would also like to thank sincerely all those who put in their time and effort to make this party a success.

The next event we are looking forward to with much eagerness is initiation !!!

Student To Be Public Official

Roy Flanders, president of the senior class, has been selected as Wayland High School's representative to Student Government Day in Boston.

Each representative will hold an office in the state government for a day. Governor Volpe will pick the names of the students for each office, from Governor to senate seats and legislative committees.

Food For the Fans

The concession sponsored by the senior class at the home basketball games has been welcome and profitable. The crew of hard-working seniors have been keeping the spectators nourished during the games. The concession has featured assorted doughnuts and sandwiches, candy, gum, potato chips, coffee and coke.

Wayland's Winning Secret Revealed

Watching a Wayland High School Basketball game one constantly hears the remarks of happy Wayland fans. What a team!

How does Wayland always manage to come up with such a talented basketball team? The answer to this question is simple. Most of the team at one time or anther has come up from the Junior Varsity, much as a professional graduates from his farm league.

Here is where Wayland talent is grown. As does the Varsity, the Junior Varsity always maintains the Wayland traditions. This year is no exception. The Jayvees boast a fine ten wins - four losses record, whipping Lynnfield, Weston, Concord, Acton-Boxborough, Holliston, twice, Bedford, twice, and losing only to Lincoln-Sudbury, twice, Lynnfield and Lexington. Two games remain with Weston and Acton-Boxborough.

The members of the Jayvee team include: Guards - Tony Bova, Mike Daly, Tom Irwin, Howard Christle.

Forwards - Larry Yorke, Bob Kent, Alan Peterson, Dennis Pelletier, Dave Flanders, Dick Muller.

Centers - Loring Nichols and Henry Plump.

Indians Triumph

Miss Mula's outstanding team has been on the triumphant warpath this year with four wins and two close loses. The team's spirit and strength is due to the driving ambition which each player holds with good sportsmanship.

Our goal is to receive the best record ever seen at Wayland High School. Our desire to achieve this record comes from the new and modern atmosphere which we are surrounded by at our new high school and also to make the school proud of their female atheletes. With hard practice and training we have fulfilled our goals.

Hustle, determination and Gail Hennigar has streaked our team victorious. Gail as high scorer has 84 points while Jane Twohey, tall and a good layup artist, has snagged 77.

The Junior Varsity, however, is not to be outdone. With three wins and two loses they trampled the Weston Junior Varsity 27 to 20. Tied with the Varsity for wins and losses) they are now striving for their final victory over Weston on January 10. Elaine Gustafson our battling Freshman tops the score winners with 55 points. Barbara Lowell holds second place with 45 points.

With driving eagerness and results our school has much to be proud of from the girl's victorious basketball team.

Team Members - Varsity: Peggy Dobbie, Jane Smith, Joy Kerr, Randy Johnson Gail McCusker, Alice Wilson, Marjorie McCann, Dorothy Clark, Jane Twohey, Gail Hennigar, Kathy Carr, Judy Parker Martha Collins and Patty Phillips.

New walks at Wayland High

BOSTON -- Clement A. Riley, registrar of Motor Vehicles, has announced that 1,633,000 sets of registration plates and certificates have been issued for the year 1961. This was an increase of 123,000 over the last plate year.

Notwithstanding this unprecedented volume of registrations, the Registry was able to process all of the 1,633,000 applications received during the past few months.

Odd Twists in Civil War Study

WESTON --Civil war buffs in Weston Legion Post 214 are digging into the fine print to get little known facts about the war between the states and the men who were involved. The cause of this surge of activity is due to the Post's "Blue and Gray Centennial Ball" scheduled for Mar. 3 and open to the public.

Here are some of their findings to date:

General Grant's surname of Ulysses S. was an alias. His true name was Hiriam Ulysses but the initials of U.S.G. were applied erroneously to a piece of luggage given him before leaving for West Point. Grant decided that they were more appropritate than H.U.G. under the circumstances.

The bombardment of Fort Sumter lasted for 34 hours and caused not one fatality. The only death occurred when Major Anderson, Commander of the fort and a native Kentuckian, fired a final salute to the flag. A charge of powder exploded and killed a gunner.

General Lee served as Superintendent of West Point Military Academy from 1852 through 1854. His last class later split their convictions, 23 went with the Union, 14 with the Confederacy.

Commander of the Union Army at the start of hostilities was General Winfield Scott. McClellan didn't get command until after the Battle of Bull Run.

Birds Really Need Our Help

The Massachusetts Audubon Society has announced that the protracted cold spell with the deep snow cover has created a real emergency for birds. Numbers of land birds reported frozen in New England has reached alarming proportions.

Food is fuel and the average bird must eat 20% of his weight both morning and late afternoon to withstand the rigors of this unusually bitter weather.

The Society suggests that twice as much food in twice as many feeding stations be kept daily. That feeding spots be well supplied early in the morning and late in the afternoon, and that they be kept clear of snow. Since corn is high in protein, small kernels can be scattered along with suet for smaller birds, and large coarse corn for larger birds such as pheasants. Other birds such as grosbeaks, gold and purple finches, nuthatches, etc. should be fed sunflower seeds.

If nothing else is available scatter doughnuts and bread, peanut butter mixed with seed and raisins and other fatty substances. But scatter them daily and in sufficient abundance.

Working Retirees May Still Get Social Security

District residents have been advised that they do not have to completely retire to draw social security benefits, and under recent changes in the social security law, many social security beneficiaries who work in 1961 and later years will have less of their benefits withheld.

As before, however, a person is considered retired if he or she is not earning more than $1,200 per year. A beneficiary who earns more than $1,200 loses only $1 of benefits for every $2 that he earns between $1,200 and $1,500. For every $1 of earnings above $1,500, he loses $1 of his benefits.

Under the rules in effect before 1961, a beneficiary who earned over $1,200 in a year would lose a whole month's benefit check for every $80, or fraction of $80 by which his earnings exceeded $1,200. So, if his earnings were over $2,080, he would lose all benefit checks for the year.

However, under both the old and the new rules, a beneficiary can be paid his full benefit check for any month in which he neither works for wages of more than $100 nor renders substantial services in self-employment. It does not matter how high his total earnings for the year may go, he will still be paid his checks for those months.

If a man age 65 or older, or a woman, age 62 or over, are still working part time, they may be entitled to social security benefits for some of the months in the calendar year.

If they are already getting social security benefits, they will get full information through the mail about the new rules so that they may plan for the work they may want to do in 1961.

If they are past retirement age, but have not yet applied for their social security benefits because their earnings are too high, they should get in touch with their social security office now. The new rules that go into effect in 1961 may make it possible for them to collect some benefits even though they are working.

For further information, write, telephone or visit the local social security office, 11 Spring St., Waltham, open daily Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Telephone TW 4-4890.

Isolation Booths Give Language Students Individual Instruction

By SALLY BILLIG

WAYLAND -- At a quick glance the room looks like a studio with 28 isolation booths. But the students sitting at their desks, hidden from their neighbors by two-foot high partitions, and listening intently on their headsets, hear not the $64,000 question, but the voice of their language teacher.

The language laboratory has become an intrinsic part of the modern language program in virtually all newly built high schools that can squeeze it into their budget. It marks the end of an emphasis on reading and translating, in favor of a listening-speaking approach.

The 28 students, not quite hermitically sealed-off from their neighbors, are practicing pronunciation. Each time the teacher speaks a word or phrase, he pauses long enough to allow the class to repeat it into their headset microphones, and then proceeds to the next phrase.

After a short period of this the teacher asks the students to turn their control switch from record to listen. Now each student hearing the playback of the tape he has just made, can compare his pronunciation with that of the teacher.

Up at the control desk, the teacher can turn the knob on 28 different dials to tune in each student individually, and to evaluate and correct his work by speaking to him directly through his headset.

Privacy Prevails

Two advantages appear here. The element of privacy allows the student to work at imitating the sound without inhibiting embarrassment; and each student spends the entire period in oral recitation, instead of the minute-or-less possible in most average-sized classes.

Standing on a platform beside the teacher's control desk is the master recording console with recording units for each of the 28 positions, plus room for expansion to 36.

This is the heart of the language laboratory, since in the tamper-proof remote control model used in Wayland High School, no equipment other than the headset and the listen-record switch is in the student's booth.

Here, as the program develops, lessons will be given almost entirely by master tapes, freeing the teacher to audit and correct each student several times during the period.

Multiple Copies

Multiple copies of each tape will be made, allowing the class to work on an individual tape basis, with each student working at his own level.

The sound of a variety of native voices is a key factor in the learning of a modern foreign language, and Wayland is planning to enlist the help of those of its residents who are qualified, in preparing tapes to add to those prepared by the teachers and commercial companies.

The tapes follow the texts used by the students, which present a combination of reading, grammar, vocabulary, verbs and conversation.

The French program at Wayland High School, like most of its courses, is presented in large, medium and small groups. Spanish, because of the small number of students involved, has only large and medium.

Once A Week

The large group, which meets once a week, is used for introducing cultural material and other large scale presentations, as well as assignments for the remainder of the week.

Medium classes, which meet twice a week, use the lab one day and have a regular classroom lesson on the other.

The small group follows through with the material handled on the other levels, with a strong emphasis on student participation.

A considerable amount of coordinated planning is required to keep such a program going, as the students are taught by different members of the department in different-sized classes. The teachers, who did the preliminary planning during the summer and on weekends, now meet during and after the school day.

Other Departments

While the language lab finds its greatest use in the modern language area, it is being used to advantage by other departments within the school.

Latin tapes were made last year to cover the entire text used, for extra drill and self-help by students outside their regular classroom time.

The English department plans to start using the lab this spring for grammar drills, speech improvement, oral recitation and student self-evaluation.

Perhaps the most surprising use has been by the business department. Stenography students use the equipment for dictation. With professionally prepared tapes that are correllated with the text, dictating at increasing speeds, the instructor is able to go from desk to desk checking and correcting the students.

Individual Instruction

The teacher may also work directly through the headset with an individual student, while the rest of the class continues uninterupted, following the tape.

The dream of all those connected with the language laboratory is the building of a tape library. Once this is established, students will be able to work independently, to study, to review, to do remedial work, or to catch up after an absence, at any time when the lab is not in scheduled use.

Weston Boy Praised By Harvard Coach

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. -- Versatility and hard work have combined to make Dave Crosby, Harvard University senior from Weston, a valuable member of the current Crimson hockey squad.

So far this season, Crosby has skated defense and left and right wings for head coach Cooney Weiland's sextet.

"He's a fine hockey player," Weiland comments, "and I'd have to say he's probably the best skater on the team."

The former Newton High School star has scored one goal and been credited with three assists this season, but his low point production is due in part to the fact that he was used mostly on defense during the first part of the year.

Cambridge School Downs Rivers 69-36

WESTON -- Aggressive rebounding by The Cambridge School forward line lead by Corbett, Turner and Simpson gave the basketball Griffins a 69-36 victory over Rivers Country Day, Tuesday, Feb. 7, at French Gymnasium. Practicing their usual tight defense and sparked by three steals from the pivot by Fred Corbett, Cambridge School scooted to a 36-23 intermission lead.

Rivers stayed close through the 16-13 first quarter as Feldman and Scott hit for double field goals, but couldn't keep up the pace as the Griffin's big men started to put on the pressure under both baskets. Cambridge School substituted freely in the 49-31 third quarter, returning the regulars to salt away the victory in the last eight minutes.

The Griffin's high scorer, John Simpson, was high man in the game with 24 points; Turner and Guard Jim Bond followed with 13 and 11 points respectively. Scott lead Rivers with 12 points.

The girl's edition of the basketball Griffins got into the act on the home court, Monday, Feb. 6 to defeat Saint Anne's of Arlington twice: varsity 28-22; JV 21-13.

CAMBRIDGE LINEUP -- Ingersoll 4; Simpson 24; Corbett 3; Turner 13; Weisberg 4; Bond 11; Glaser 6; Palmer 2; Berrian 0; Chase 2; Pavlo 0.

RIVERS LINEUP -- Hurlburt 0; Feldman 8; Chandler 3; Marosoff 4; Scott 12; Barry 0; Morrison 0; Jaffe 9.

Lectures Scheduled At Lexington School

LEXINGTON -- The Lexington Community Nursery School has invited the Boston Museum of Science to present two different one-hour lecturers on Monday, Feb. 20, (the first day of the school vacation) in the Lexington High School Audltorium.

The first lecture at 2 p.m. is entitled "Science Magic" with Mr. Laurence B. White Jr. from the Education Department of the Museum as speaker.

At 4:30 p.m., a talk entitled "Woodland Fears - Real or Imaginary" will be presented. The speaker is Gilbert E. Merrill, assistant director of the Education Department, who will discuss those creatures in New England with which people have associated foolish and unfounded fears. To help prove the points he wishes to make, Mr. Merrill will bring living examples of most of the creatures he will discuss. Admission will be 75 cents for each program. For further information call Mrs. Maynard Hufschmidt at VO 2-8819 or Mrs. Gordon Marshall VO 2-8312.

Ice: Enjoy it But Respect it

WAYLAND -- Dunbar Holmes of Draper Road, former Harvard varsity hockey player and now a week end coach of the Pee Wee Hockey League of Belmont, sends us the following timely pointers on ice safety:

Beginners and advanced hockey players should always have the back of their heads protected, but a heavy wool hat is better than nothing. Whatever you wear should be well secured to the head, since an unsecured headgear will fly off during a tumble.

Because of currents, there are likely to be weak spots on river Ice. Therefore, always skate rivers with someone else -- and both of you should carry a good length of rope with which to rescue the other should an accident occur.

When someone falls through the ice, use if possible, a ladder or large plank and a rope to rescue him.

Comfort note: To warm up cold toes, kneel on the ground.

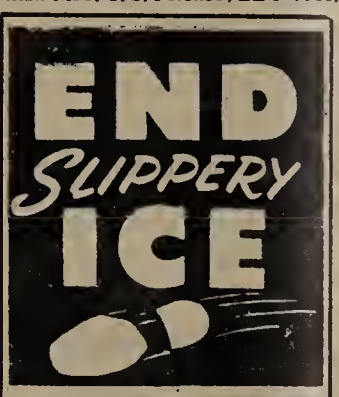
Diebetic Detection Program Announces Community Drive

WAYLAND -- The Wayland Sudbury Diabetic Detection Program announces a unique community drive which will neither ring doorbells nor solicit funds. Its goal is to search out unrecognized incidence of the diabetic condition of which there are a suspected one million cases nationally in addition to another million known cases.

In what may be a pioneer effort in Massachusetts because of the comprehensive nature of the tests to be offered, a testing center to serve residents of Wayland and Sudbury will be established at the Parmenter Health Center, Cochituate Road (Route 27), Wayland during the week of April 24-29.

All adults, children 14 and over only, or children of any age with diabetic backgrounds, are urged to avail themselves of this free detection service.

Co-sponsoring agencies are the Wayland and Sudbury Boards of Health and Medical Advisory Committees, Parmenter Health Center and the Sudbury Public Health Nursing Association. Persons requesting general information or wishing to assist the program are asked to contact Publicity Chairman Mrs. T. S. Pitcher, EL 8-7983.



Rombas Student In Visit To Weston Junior High

WESTON -- Miss Annie Wiest, the 1960-61 Weston exchange student from Rombas, recently visited the French Club and several of the seventh grade French classes at Weston Junior High School where she spoke to the students about the schools and customs in her native country.

Invited to the junior high by Mrs. Carolyn Sobel, seventh grade French teacher, Annie's visits have proved a unifying factor between the language departments of the junior and senior high schools.

Rivers Sextet Thumps Cambridge, 5-2

WESTON -- Competing in their first interscholastic hockey scrimmage, the Cambridge School lost 5 - 2 to Rivers Country Day at the Griffin's Studio Pond, Thursday, Feb. 2. Fighting all the way Cambridge School came back with goals by Dick Hanelin and John Lyons after Rivers had built up an early lead.

Cambridge School Seniors Are Awarded National Scholarship Honors

WESTON -- Steven Berrien and Juliet Rappaport, seniors at the Cambridge School of Weston have been named finalists in the 1960-61 competition of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation Program and have been awarded the program's certificates of merit.

The seniors distinguished themselves by their high scores on two college aptitude tests used in the National Merit Scholarship competition. About six-tenths of one per cent of the seniors in each state received the awards. A national total of 10,000 students were honored.

Over 550,000 students were tested in the 60-61 National Merit Scholarship competition which began last April. The test results have pared the competitors down to the 10,000 Finalists from which the Merit Scholars will be selected and announced this spring. They, and the colleges they have chosen will share in the several million dollars in Merit Scholarship funds to be offered by over 110 different organizations and individuals and by the Corporation itself. The winners are scheduled to be announced in April 1961.

At an earlier stage of the competition the names of all who had reached the semi-finals of the competition were published in a booklet which has been widely distributed to colleges, universities and other scholarship agencies for consideration of other scholarships offered outside of the Merit Program.

Previous experience indicates that the Finalists will be offered some $2.5 million worth of freshman-year scholarship assistance from these sources, in addition to the awards made to those selected as Merit Scholars.

"The Certificate of Merit winners, the top performers in the competition, constitute our country's most valuable single resource.", said John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. "Representing the best of each state in the Union they deserve the maximum recognition and encouragement of every citizen concerned with the future of America.

Building permits issued for the month of January were substantially higher in number and in total building costs than for the same period in 1960 in Weston.

Last year, permits for three new buildings and one alteration in January totaled $93,000. This year, seven permits composed of five new requests and two alterations add up to $148,000.

UNDER WAY--Surveyors are busy with the widening of Route 128 and, as part of the over-all program, they are doing the ground work on the proposed new ramp which is scheduled to handle westbound traffic from Route 128 onto Route 30 in Weston. Frank O. Shaw, Weston Police Chief, looks over plans with surveying team while Sgt. Lawrence Cugini directs traffic on the Route 30 bridge. The new exit will be off the present Turnpike exit several hundred yards north of the bridge.

Weston-State Agree On Road, Traffic Snarl In Feb. 15 Meeting

WESTON -- Citizen resistance to the prospect of Weston town roads being pressed into service as ramps for the state-operated Route 128 may be achieving results.

On Feb. 15, officials of the town met with Jack P. Ricciardi, Commissioner of Public Works, and were greeted with a more satisfactory plan for handling westbound traffic from 128 through Weston than the one originally offered by the state.

This alternate measure would call for the construction of a slip ramp from Route 128's southbound ramp onto the toll road connecting with River Road near the entrance to Norumbega Road.

As proposed, the new ramp would be in the vicinity of what was the old Route 128 exit 45 prior to the advent of the East-West Massachusetts Turnpike.

The solution agreed upon by the town officials and Mr. Ricciardi was one of two that the town itself had planned to present. If approved by the toll-road authority, the proposed ramp should be incorporated into the over-all planning of the DPW for the 128 widening project.

The controversy began with the prospect of the widening of Route 128 and the spreading out of exit ramps. Initially, the plan advocated by the state was for southbound traffic on Route 128 desiring to head west on Route 30 to be dumped onto Summer St. It would then follow Summer and Loring Streets or Summer and River Streets to Route 30.

Estimates by the DPW say that the number of cars using the originally proposed road system daily would number some 10 thousand. Weston police chief Frank O. Shaw, however, places his estimate at between five and 10 thousand.

Opponents of the plan - Weston residents and town officials - registered their protest at a Jan. 18 hearing before the DPW. It was pointed out to the department that the plan would work a hardship upon the residents of the streets involved as well as result in increased expense to the town. And, most important, it would create an extreme hazard for children.

Weston's police chief estimates that some 100 children in the residential areas involving Loring, River, and Summer Streets would be seriously endangered as they entered or alighted from school busses.

Chief Shaw, who attended the Feb. 15 meeting along with J. Ward Carter, executive secretary; Dr. Anthony Brackett, superintendent of schools; Charles H. Stimson Jr., town engineer; and selectmen Edward M. Dickson and Edward R. Langenbach stressed the fact that the initial plan would have involved widening of the town streets. The state would not pay for this. Thus, the necessary widening, along with additional policing functions, would have fallen to the town itself.

Also attending the meeting were residents of the Loring, Summer, River Streets area William B. Tyler, Russell Cox, Robert P. Cook and Alfred Dengler.

Record Budget Faces Wayland; Tops 1960 By $350,000

WAYLAND -- A record budget of $2,585,000 for Wayland's town meeting in March but the shortest warrant in many years - only 30 articles - faces voters in the next weeks.

This compounding of the bitter with the sweet was the town meeting picture offered by Robert M. Morgan, chairman of the Finance Committee, at a meeting on Feb. 20. The board of selectmen also was present at the Town House meeting.

The new budget, highest in the town's history, represents an increase of $350,000 over the previous year's budget. Mr. Morgan forecast that the tax rate will go up substantially though he would not indicate by how much.

He said the town has not received, though it expects momentarily, the so-called "cherry sheet" from the State Department of Corporations and Taxation which informs the selectmen how much the state is redistributing back to the town in state funds.

With this sheet in hand, the selectmen and the assessors can then formulate a rough estimate how much the next tax rate will go up.

A rough rule of thumb indicates that for every $23,000 the town appropriates at town meeting, the tax rate goes up one dollar.

The selectmen said that the town warrant was drastically reduced by insistence that articles be presented on time, that the articles be inclusive so as to cut down on number, Deadline for acceptance of articles, moreover, was promptly observed.

It was indicated that this warrant could easily be disposed of in one meeting instead of the multiple sessions required last year.

Virtually no surprise should be registered by residents to learn that the school budget is the largest single appropriation -- $1,375,000 or $238,000 more than 1960. This item is close to 50 per cent of the town's total budget.

With the inclusion of school debt plus interest, the total school appropriation reaches $308,000, or a substantial portion of the $350,000 excess of the total budget.

Mr. Morgan explained that the school debt will absorb all of the additional assessments that are expected from new buildings or residences built in town over the past year.

Of the approximately additional $35,000 that may be appropriated from other articles other than the school item, a single betterment project will take approximately two-thirds.

This is a street betterment article calling for improvement of Maguire Road, Charles, Grace

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Washington's Birthday And Colonial Snafu

That reminds us, not only that spring is on its welcome way, but that General George Washington both slept and ate here in Weston and Wayland, and more than once.

It also introduces us to a fascinating series of incidents which now would be designated as a glorious "snafu".

First, the local angles. In 1776, on his way to take command of the Continental Army, Washington, recently appointed by Congress commander of the American forces besieging Boston, rode across the river bridge on our Old Sudbury Rd., and stopped for dinner with his staff at the Baldwin Tavern. Long since burned, this stood just east of the bridge and the present golf course. (The Baldwins held the property well into the present century). Thence the cavalcade passed down the Post Rd. to Cambridge, where on July 2 Washington took over command under the famous elm.

Passed Over Our Highways

Once more, in 1789, thirteen years later, George Washington, since May 1 unanimous choice as chief executive of the United States under the newly adopted constitution, passed over our highways on his progress through the northern states. His journey was designed to bind up the wounds of Shay's Rebellion, and to manifest in his own venerated person the actuality of the new constitutional bond between the widely diverse states. This time, the President and his retinue stopped overnight in Weston at the Flagg Tavern, since burned; received the local dignitaries; kissed Hannah Gowen, a little girl who never forgot the event and sent ahead a letter to John Hancock. With this letter begins an intriguing series of events:

John Hancock was Governor of this Commonwealth, a former president of the Continental Congress, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and fully aware of his own importance. He had invited Washington to be his guest at his house on Beacon Hill, but the president had arranged his own lodgings, giving as the reason his intention not to discommode any private family in the course of his public tour. In his Weston letter, the President did accept the Governor's invitation to dinner next day.

Governor Hancock had notified President Washington that Lieutenant Governor Sam Adams and the Executive Council would escort him into Boston. They met the President at Cambridge. The first hitch occurred at the Roxbury-Boston line, on "the Neck." Here the Boston selectmen were drawn up to accompany the distinguished guest. The Executive Council insisted that this honor was their right.

Question of Precedence

President Washington waited on his horse in the chill, lowering October day while the question of precedence was fought out. Just as he was about to turn and seek another road into Boston, the momentous matter was resolved. In the President's own words: "At the entrance I was welcomed by the select men in a body. Then following the Lieutenant Governor and Council, preceded by the town corps, very handsomely dressed . . . we came to the (old) State House." Washington, in his old Continental uniform, reviewed a parade from the balcony and received the acclaim of the people; then went to his lodgings.

But a notable fact was that Governor Hancock was absent all this time. Though the President had accepted his dinner invitation the Governor failed to pay any preliminary courtesy call: he pleaded indisposition with the gout. But it was hinted to the President that, as Governor of the state, Washington owed him the first visit. The President had other ideas; and dined in his own quarters.

Second Thought

Next day the Governor had second and better thoughts, and sent the President a message that he would call even though his health was poor. Washington replied that he would welcome the call, but hoped that the Governor would not hazard his health. The call was made. The Governor, done up in flannel and borne by his servants, was greeted by the President of the United States.

A trivial contest of wills? Yet President Washington was fully aware that he was settling then and there the question of the supremacy of the nation over any individual state, even Massachusetts.

Have all our states yet learned this Washington's Birthday lesson?

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Bigs and Littles Highs and Lows

How many times have your children come to you with the weird type of question, that all children seem to dream up - probably hoping to put the old man on the spot?

Here's a few answers that will help you - provided of course you can get them to ask the right question.

The largest animal in the world is the Blue Whale. These mammals reach a length of about 108 feet, and weigh over 131 tons. Their young can weigh 7 tons at birth, and be as long as 25 feet.

The smallest animal is a type of Shrew found along the north Mediterranean coast - it has a body length of 1 1/2 inches.

There is the California Redwood tree - that has been measured at 364 feet, and is located in Humboldt State Park in California. Thats' supposed to be the World s tallest tree.

Then we have the highest point in the United States, Mount Whitney at 14,495 feet, while the lowest point is Death Valley in California at 282 feet below sea level.

Massachusetts had a record low temperature back in February 1943 of 30 degrees below zero out in Turner's Falls - and in 1911 Lawrence hit a hot point of 106 degrees on the fourth of July.

Of course if you have the right book these answers are easy and plentiful, and I wouldn't trade mine for anything.

House Kills Bill On Tension Lines

BOSTON -- On Feb. 16, the Massachusetts House of Representatives killed a bill which would have required all power-transmission lines to be strung underground in areas where their being above ground would interfere with "scenic or historical areas."

Rep. James DeNormandie (R) of Lincoln was sponsor of the bill which had much impetus from Wayland and Sudbury, communities confronted with the transmission-lines problem.

House Bill 2246 reads in part as follows:

An Act authorizing the department of public utilities to order that certain transmission lines be placed underground.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Chapter 25 of the General Laws is hereby amended by inserting after section 4A, as most recently amended by chapter 327 of the acts of 1953, the following new section: -

Section 4B. Upon request of the mayor of a city or the selectmen of a town for a public hearing relative to the placing underground of lines used by a public utility company for the transmission of electricity the department shall hold in said city or town a public hearing on such proposal. If, after a hearing, it is determined by the department that substantial damage would result to the scenic and historic qualities of an area by the placing of said transmission lines on the surface the department shall order said utility company to place said lines underground.

A person aggrieved by the decision of such department may appeal said decision in the manner provided by this chapter.

EDITORIAL

Let's Bolster Our Educational Television

Educational television in general and pioneering WGBH, Cambridge, in particular, qualify high on the list of a thinking man's video fare.

Commercial television occasionally makes a gesture to the more selective viewing audience with a superb news-and-analysis program or a thoroughly produced dramatic presentation, but the bread-and-butter programming is still a montage of lean cowpokes, smoking guns, and adolescent detectives.

So it is a privilege for the serious minded to contribute in a practical manner to the preservation and continuing progress of educational television. And it is satisfying to flip a switch and see the tangible result of such contributions in the first-rate programming of WGBH.

In addition to producing crack viewing for its local audience, Channel 2 contributes many programs to and receives in return the most worthwhile offerings of the entire Educational Television Network.

WGBH operates for an entire year on a budget that would scarcely get a commercially-produced spectacular off the ground. Roughly half of its necessary income, some $200,000, results from donations by listeners. To date, nearly $100,000 has been raised and the other $100,000 is still needed.

Unencumbered by the red tape of sponsorships, educational television frequently takes a crisp, direct approach. Recently, a group of scientists and laymen returned from a conference in the U.S.S.R. They felt a compelling urgency to share their observations with all Americans.

WGBH was called in and shortly the exciting "Report from Moscow, on Disarmament and World Security" was produced. It is still being programmed across the country in both its radio and televised form.

The discussants, highly respected men with something vital to report and educational television to do the job, made their report incisively and without fanfare. Three of the men now fill roles at the highest level of foreign-policy making. In fact, President John F. Kennedy had to hold the phone on an important call - Prof. Walter Rostow, now the president's special assistant for national-security affairs, was busy at WGBH during the filming of "Report from Moscow."

Other educators on the program now serving the government in vital assignments were Jerome Weisner, presidential assistant for science and technology, and Paul Doty, a member of the science advisory committee under both Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy.

Contributions can be made out to the WGBH Education Foundation at WGBH, Cambridge.

This is every man's opportunity to subscribe to and protect a precious area of freedom - communication through the licensed airwaves unfettered by commercialism and the distortion of pressure-group activity.

Letters To The Editor

Keep Marshland Control In Local Hands

To the Editor:

I strongly favor the preservation of the marshlands of Wayland and Sudbury but adamently oppose any sort of Federal (or even State) involvement in this project as a complete and, in the end, utter encroachment on the matters of operation and direction which should rest with the towns and the residents thereof.

At this moment, over one-third of all the land in these United States is owned, controlled, leased or operated by the Federal Government and if you include the land under state jurisdiction it is much more than one-third. This, in a Country which is supposed to be owned and operated by we taxpaying individuals!! The Federal Government never lets go of what it once gets its hands upon and only increases its control over what it already has. Even the most altruistic of people can see the result and ruin brought about by Federal intervention and control in area after area of the private sector of our economy from the individual income tax to the many involvements and red tape necessary to carry on a business.

An article in your February 2nd edition states that "All money for purchase of the 3200 acres of marshland would come from the federal government after local approval is given and control of these lands would rest in a federal agency." Just where does the federal government get its money in the first place? How nice! After this purchase we, as taxpayers own the marshlands much as "The People" of Russia share all of that "Peoples' Republic." Nuts !!!

With the money comes the control and who of us is to say that in the years to come the government would be content with the marshlands? They may very well want to branch out in all directions to create a large recreation area and park for the many federal employees who are living off our tax-paid pensions. Look to Washington for salvation . . .

Let's establish what is necessary at our "local level" to keep these useful and valuable marshlands from being turned into housing developments and, if absolutely necessary set up some sort of working agreement with the Fish and Wildlife Service (without the controls) but, for heavens sake, let's stop this ridiculous and unceasing march toward complete socialism whereby the federal government will own our land, our homes, our autos, our children, our schools, our doctors, the air we breath, the thoughts we think and finally the souls we are purported to still retain as the last semblance of individuality.

Civic Group Urges Wider Participation

To the Editor:

It has always been my understanding that democracy was at its best when its citizens took an active part in government. When a group of citizens raises its voice with the hope of inspiring others to join it in examining town government and making constructive criticism, then words like "vehement" should not be used to describe these actions.

As chairman of the membership committee of the Weston Civic Association, I invite every citizen of Weston to join this organization be it for the purpose of praising town officials for their work; making suggestions as to how to make government more efficient and hold the line on tax increases; spending more money for greater luxuries; or cutting down on unnecessary frills.

In other words, only by active participation by all of its citizens can the will of the majority be heard. This is democracy in its truest sense.

Objection Voiced To Hill Removal

To the Editor:

Last spring some 200 residents of Wayland attended a hearng before the Zoning Board of Appeals to voice their objection to the proposed removal of a hill from the Waters and Lee property on Oxbow Road, recently acquired by E. Robsham, a developer. They will be shocked to learn that last week the board, after taking the case under advisement for nine months, quietly granted the requested permit. The board is satisfied, writes Mr. Cay the secretary, that removal of 60,000 cubic yards of gravel will not be dangerous to the public health or safety of abutters and children along the roads. He further points out that the Planning Board and the Highway Commissioners have previously asserted that a dissecting road for the area would constitute a significant improvement over the existing dirt way which runs around the circumference of this land. They feel that the area would be developed compatibly with neighboring land by removing the curve in Oxbow Road.

Removal of the hill will involve a heavy gravel truck every half hour for approximately two years passing through thickly settled residential area, along a roadway which is less than 16 feet wide for the most part. It is difficult to understand how three competent zoning board members could have decided that this operation will not endanger the public health or safety, particularly in view of the fact that the town had previously, at considerable cost, obtained a decision against extension of the gravel operation formerly conducted on the property. The board, after all, does not claim that removal of the gravel is required for the proposed development or the dissecting road.

It appears from statements made at the various hearings involved that Mr. Robsham is being allowed to remove the gravel in payment for building the dissecting road, which seems desirable to the town as well as to him. This puts Wayland into the gravel business, and now prostitution of the countryside has become a public necessity even if a small number of neighbors stand to suffer minor detriment to their health and safety for two years. Actually Wayland's part in the business is not even a very profitable one because the Highway Commissioners could have built the dissecting road for less money than they are now proposing to spend in order to provide Mr. Robsham with town water and a suitable approach road for his mining operation.

The most disturbing aspect of the problem is the fact that our town planners apparently fail to realize that they are setting a precedent and embarking on a policy which will profoundly affect the future of our town long after the dust has settled and the roads have been repaired. I am referring to the policy of encouraging intensive land development and permitting methods of development which fail to respect any feature of the country-

Endorsement For Redevelopment Candidate

To the Editor:

I was very pleased to hear of the announced candidacy of Laurence S. Fordham for Wayland Redevelopment Authority.

I have known Mr. Fordham since the first week he moved to Wayland and he has expressed to me more than once his awareness of the importance of Redevelopment in a rapidly growing community such as Wayland. His legal training, experience, including his present position, and temperament make him highly qualified for the position.

I strongly recommend support of Laurence S. Fordham for Wayland Redevelopment Authority.

Flag Desired

To the Editor:

Inquiry, undocumented, discloses that the reason no flag was seen flying above the Newton-Waltham Bank in Weston last Memorial Day is because a last moment examination showed the flag to be in too poor condition to contend with the brisk Spring breezes. No records have been kept, and this account is based on the memory of one person.

Nevertheless, we may accept it as valid, I'd say. But why wasn't it explained that way to Austin Hale, World War One veteran, who was swift to lodge a complaint with the officers of the bank?

Everybody around here knows Austin Hale, publisher, printer and distributer of TIES, a kind of private newspaper for service men, veterans and associated persons. Mr. Hale has published over a thousand numbers of this unique paper, and has circulated - at his own expense - some forty or fifty thousand copies here and abroad.

Austin is known also in Wayland, principally in athletic circles where his inspiration on the diamond, the gridiron and the gymnasium is a matter of common knowledge among school boys, teachers and alumni. He is a stickler for what he considers right, especially in matters of patriotism. He informs me that when he took the bank to task for not displaying the flag on Memorial Day he was given assurance that their flag pole would never again stand bare on a national holiday. But when came Veteran's Day, Nov. 11, the pole once more stood bare. No fewer than six national holidays or days for a prescribed display of the Colors have passed since Memorial Day, and inquiry reveals that on some of those days, notably July 4, the flag was flown.

On other holidays, notably Veteran's Day, it was not. Mr. Hale, probably voicing the feelings of numerous other citizens, says he will be satisfied either if the flag is flown when it ought to be flown, or if the flag pole is removed. And that, I'd say, is a fair proposal.

And yet I look for better things, and soon. For instance, suppose we do some observing on Feb. 22 and see what we see. I venture to predict we'll see more than a flag pole over the bank. I think we'll see something fluttering beautiful in the winter breeze, something standing not only for national power and defiance, but for tranquility and good will in our own neighborhood, something that binds us together in one great American family, something very friendly and assuring, something Red and White and Blue.

The Engineer and The Community

WAYLAND -- This being National Engineers Week, the Town Crier dropped in on a member of the Weston-Wayland engineering community to ask a question or two. And where better to find top-drawer representatives of space-age engineering than at the radar-capped Raytheon plant in Wayland.

We spoke with an enthusiastic and articulate young executive who is an engineer-plus. The "plus" is marketing.

Harry Letaw Jr., who received his bachelors, masters, and doctorate degrees at the University of Florida, was an assistant professor of electrical engineering at the University of Illinois before joining Raytheon. Following three years of advanced systems work he was moved into marketing, an extremely vital area for any organization producing for such exacting governmental markets as radar and missile systems.

What, Mr. Letaw was asked, did he consider the special province of the engineer in a community - in what area could the engineer make his most helpful contribution?

"There are all sorts of engineers with all sorts of interests," he replied. "Some element of the engineering fraternity are to be found in most any useful community activity. I note, for instance that one of our group is directing a production at the local drama theater."

Perhaps, more than anything else, as a segment of the population, engineers are interested in education. Because of the nature of their work, engineers tend to do a good job of analyzing problems and present solutions in a logical manner, he observed.

Certainly with the splendid school systems to be found in Weston and Wayland there is an active part to be played by engineers as well as all serious members of the community in helping the school faculty and administration do the best job possible with the resources at hand.

For example, a few years ago, the Wayland system was planning a somewhat dramatic, long-range program in which each student would be able to learn and progress at his own rate of ability. This was an undertaking that required endless research and evaluation. Many engineers, including Mr. Letaw, served on citizens' committees that were of inestimable help in transforming an academic goal into a working program.

"But lets realize something important," stresses Mr. Letaw. "Engineers are interested in their youngsters getting a broad and varied education." Learning to comprehend and utilize words to express and communicate ideas makes the study of mathematics and science meaningful."

The community reflects the school system and the school system reflects the community. We are getting superior education for our children at a cost that is no higher than the per pupil national average. This, in a nutshell, might sum up the high degree of efficiency inherent in the handling of the budget and the close and interested watch our community - including its engineers - keeps on civic affairs.

Would Mr. Letaw favor the incorporation of a Lexington-type plan in the Wayland school system?

(The Lexington plan is a program in which engineers actually teach part time in the high school and a portion of their salary is paid by industry).

"No. While the program works well in school systems designed for it it is highly unrealistic to dump a bunch of engineers into school systems such as Wayland's or Weston's," says Mr. Letaw, a PTA member.

"We have top-grade teachers of scientific subjects in our schools, already. Rather than getting into the teaching profession, the engineer can best suscribe to the high level of the school system by seeing that the teachers receive the status and salary they deserve.

Theater Workshop Planned For Sudbury's Wayside Inn

SUDBURY -- The Community Theatre Division of the New England Theatre Conference will present on Sunday, Feb. 26 at 2:30 P. M. at the Wayside Inn a workshop entitled "The Role of the Director in the Community Theatre."

Also invited to serve on the panel are Mrs. Maryalice Thoma, a director with the Concord Players; Professor William Green of the Humanities Department of M.I.T. who directs for the M.I.T. Community Players; and Mr. John Berlenbach, director for the Quincy Community Players.

Dr. Rudd Speaks

WESTON -- On Wednesday evening Feb. 8, Dr. Leonie Rudd, Associate Professor of Education at Tufts University, gave a lecture to the parents, faculty and friends of the Meadowbrook School of Weston on modern mathematics in the elementary school curriculum. He stressed the binary method used in modern mathematics and elaborated on the Stanford University program for the gifted student. In explaining the new approaches to teaching mathematics Dr. Rudd said that all along, good teachers have been using most of the techniques without labeling them.

Program To Finance Foreign Student Visits

WESTON -- A group of foreign students was entertained recently in Weston homes under the sponsorship of the Foreign Student Hospitality Committee of the Women's Community League. The Community League has fostered these student visits for the past four years to help promote good will and better understanding among peoples of all nations.

They come from all continents and represent a wide range of interests and abilities. Although some of these visitors are college students in the teens, many are adults who have been sent to this country by their governments or employers to study for advanced degrees.

To help finance its work, the committee, for the past two years, has sponsored an international cooking school, a series of six lessons featuring the preparation of unusual, interesting and delicious dishes from many countries. This season's series will end on Thursday, March 9, with a demonstration of Italian cooking by Mrs. Domenic Barberio of West Newton, and her daughters, Mrs. Arthur Rossi and Mrs. Daniel Aquilino, both of Weston.

The lesson will be held in the Unitarian Parish Hall, beginning at 9:45 a.m. This will be followed by a luncheon served at 12:30. Everyone is cordially invited to attend the luncheon, the lesson, or both, but reservations must be made by March 1, with either Mrs. Robert Murkland, TW 3-0787 or Mrs. Albert Scott Jr., TW 3-4527.

Another student visitation is being planned for April 8, under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Mathews and Mrs. Arthur Tyler.

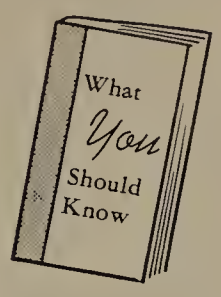
ENGAGED -- Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lovejoy, Jr. of Green's Farms, Westport, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Lois Ann Lovejoy, to Mr. Burdette Austin Johnson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of Weston, Mass.

Miss Lovejoy is a graduate of Abbot Academy, Andover, Mass., Vassar College, Class of 1955, and of the Katherine Gibbs School, New York. She is with Arthur D. Little, Inc., Cambridge, Mass.

The prospective bride is a granddaughter of Mr. Harry R. Sherwood of Westport, Conn., and the late Mrs. Sherwood, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lovejoy of Boston and New York.

Mr. Johnson, who served for two years with the Army, is a graduate of the Tilton School, Tilton, N. H., and attended the University of New Hampshire, where he was a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. His father is treasurer of the New England Gas and Electric Association.

He is a grandson of Mrs. J. Austin Johnson of Pictou, Nova Scotia, and the late Mr. Johnson, and of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond D. Richardson of St. Petersbury, Fla.



A June wedding is planned.

FIRE DEPT. OF WAYLAND

DESK MAN -- John Thorburn, 8 Valley View Rd., Cochituate, receives a fire call at the Wayland station. The desk is the nerve center for all fire department calls. Mr. Thorburn has been with the department since April. He is employed by a fire alarms system company.

Wayland Residents Get Top Protection At Very Low Cost

WAYLAND -- More fires but less fire loss.

That's the proud record of the town fire department in 1960, its best year in recent history.

And all this for less than two cents per person per day.

How come?

"Well," says Chief Francis J. Hartin, "it's all a matter of 24-hour protection for the first time."

Then he points out:

"We have some of the most dedicated men in the town working in the department. And our fire protection schedule is one of the finest in this area."

Chief Hartin explained that he has 33 call men, in addition to six regulars who work with him.

Since this is a story of how Wayland gets this thorough protection, Chief Hartin can tell it best:

"Too much credit cannot be given to these volunteers," Chief Hartin said. "They answer any emergency call, no matter what the weather, and this is important if we are to provide the best fire protection possible."

He added that many of the men are married and have families. "These men realize they have a responsibility not only to their families, but to their community as well," the chief said.

The chief explained that the six regular firemen usually handle fire station duties during the day at both the Wayland and Cochituate stations. If more men are needed for a fire or other emergency, he said, an audible alarm is sounded and every man available rushes to help.

At night, three call men are on duty at the Wayland station and two in Cochituate from 6 p.m. to 7 a.m. the next morning, he said. These men answer all regular calls, but may also sound an audible alarm.

"Thirty-two of the 40 men in the department participated in the night program last year," Chief Hartin said, "and the others were on hand to help whenever they could."

The system has been in operation for the past two years, and is credited with being one of the major reasons 1960's fire loss rate was so low.

Last year, the department answered 414 calls, of which 322 were "still alarms" handled by the men on duty, and 92 were box alarms answered by every available man. This compares with 300 calls in 1959 and 309 calls in 1958.

In 1955, Wayland had no regular firemen. All alarms were called to the Natick Fire Dept., which sounded the alarm and called all Wayland volunteers to the Wayland fire station. From there, they were dispatched to the fire.

In 1956, four regular men were added to the department for the first time. They worked eight hours a day for five days a week, but the town still did not have anyone on duty at night or on weekends. Since that time, the department has grown to include six regular men and 24-hour coverage, seven days a week.

"This system has its advantages," the chief said. "In 1955 when an alarm sounded, everyone answered; now, everyone is called out only if needed."

Chief Hartin explained that the two stations cover each other in most instances, but if a general alarm is sounded and all Wayland firemen answer, an elaborate mutual aid agreement with surrounding towns provides protection for the rest of Wayland.

Chief Hartin took pains to explain that the scheduling system is not the only reason for a low fire loss total last year, however.

He pointed out that the department has also embarked on a continuous fire prevention campaign. In addition to talks and an extensive inspection program, he cited the outdoor burning permits required by Wayland residents who want to burn papers, trash or leaves.

"The open-air burning permits are granted only under certain conditions, and only on the day the homeowner wants to burn," Chief Hartin said.

He explained that during the summer, weather conditions may be too dangerous to allow burning. Most requests are considered with this in mind, he said.

The permits are required for several reasons, the chief said. First, they make the public conscious of the dangers of fire; second, the fire tower watch in Sudbury may see the fire and the department would have to investigate if no information is known about it; third, many Wayland homes are surrounded by woods and can be easily destroyed if a forest fire starts; and fourth, the permits require that all fires be extinguished after dark. "People get uneasy," he said, when they see an unattended fire going at night."

"We didn't have a single serious brush fire this year," he said. "I think it's because these burning permits are required."

"The cost is surprisingly low, Chief Hartin observed. "I've found that the town is actually saving $40,000 a year."

The chief explained that to properly operate the two Wayland stations on a 24-hour basis would require 16 full-time men. At an annual salary of $5,000, the cost would be $90,000.

He said that under the present set-up, the six regular firemen receive $30,000 a year, and each of the 33 call men who work nights receive an average of $300 a year for 50 nights' work -- a total of nearly $10,000 more

The chief's salary, plus the amount paid to firemen who are called out on general alarms, makes a grand total of about $50,000.

"That's a saving of about $40,000," he concluded. "And the town gets the same protection it would have with 16 full-time firemen.

Chief Hartin said the actual cost, based on the 1960 budget was 1.84 cents per day per person.

In 1958, fire loss was $56,875, in 1959, $45,775. and in 1960, an amazingly low $11,751. Despite necessary increases in costs due to better coverage of increased population the requested increase in the fire department budget will only be $1,380. in 1961.

"The average person doesn't think much of two cents," he said, "but the citizens of Wayland -- for less than two cents per day per person -- receive the services of 40 firefighters, four pumping engines, one ladder truck, one forest fire truck, one utility truck, the chief's car, plus a fire alarm system which covers the major portion of the town with 160 street boxes on a 24-hour a day basis for 365 days a year."

"I just hope Wayland homeowners appreciate these facts at the March town meeting," Chief Hartin concluded.

Budget

Streets, Gage and Pleasant Street extension, west of Parkland Drive. Of this estimated $26,000 item, the town will get back approximately half of this amount under the betterment laws.

A slight increase in all town budgets is indicated in the two and one-half percent wage increase for all town employees. This increase is called for by the Personnel Department in the wage and salary classification plan authorized by state legislation.

Three town employees, the Police and Fire Chiefs and the Highway Superintendent, however, would receive a five per cent increase under current proposals.

The water department, Mr. Morgan said, is in an excellent state of self support and is planning to install larger diameter mains on Old Connecticut Path between State Road East and Rice Road, and on Draper Road, the latter to cover new residential development.

Another article calls for the town to appropriate $5,650 to match the county and state in completing Chapter 90 highway construction on Commonwealth Road East from Oak Street to the Natick line.

One of the most controversial articles will be one calling for the legislature to compel the Boston Edison Company to place its proposed high tension across the Sudbury River marshes underground. The measure calls for authority to enable the selectmen to petition the legislature, for authority to use town counsel, and positive measures to assure passage. A final proposal calls for the town to appropriate funds to carry out these proposals.

It is understood that the Finance Committee has approved the first three suggestions, but not the money. It is indicated, however, that if Wayland wishes to join Sudbury and other towns to fight overhead lines, the Finance Committee may be prepared to contribute a substantial fund which a number of towns could build up by cooperative effort to resolve the high tension line situation.

Another article which is bound to develop voter response is a petition to rezone the south side of Old Commonwealth Road East from a single family to a limited commercial area.

Another article calls for the setting up of a Conservation Committee to enable the town to avail itself of state aid to purchase swamp and wetlands for natural resource development.

Snow removal costs, Mr. Morgan said, have amounted to $7,000 and are well under the total appropriation. But he indicated that the next few weeks could, of course change this situation.

Roads

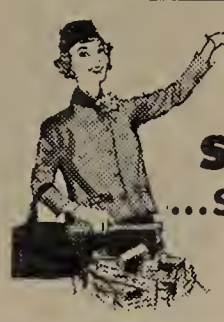
phere is fighting a losing battle against traffic-count statistics, observes the police chief. Between 80 and 90,000 vehicles move through the town daily, traffic counts show. This includes the Route 128 flow.



Route 20 carried over 15,000 cars daily in 1960 and projected figures, based upon an increase of 1,000 a year, have the route handling 16,000 vehicles throughout 1961.

side that can profitably be removed to accommodate the maximum possible number of dwellings. In this age in which land values dwarf the cost of earth moving, such a policy cannot fail but turn out countryside of gravel drumlins into a desolate and barren plain. Instead of successfully weathering these critical years of population onslought, we shall succumb to it. Sherbourne, for example, has avoided the pressure of wholesale development simply by not providing town water. It is very probable that the Waters and Lee tract would not have been divided into minimum lots if town water had not been available nearby.

But perhaps those of us who are still desperately clinging to acres of wilderness are wrong in assuming that we can count on our planning and zoning boards to ensure development compatible with our surroundings. Perhaps "country living" has become a mere phrase, and we are destined to become the victims of our greed for the superficial comforts and ostentations of the city. Perhaps we actually do want our town planners to level all our hills and straighten all our roads and fill our schools to overflowing before they are finished. But if we don't, it is high time we let our planning, zoning and highway officials know about it and select their successors and future selectmen with more care.

Gilbert C. Stevens Candidate For Park Commission

WAYLAND -- Gilbert C. Stevens, 40, of 190 Plain St., Cochituate, announces his candidacy for the three-year term for Wayland Park Commissioner.

Because of his extensive administrative work with youth, Mr. Stevens feels qualified to serve with the Park Commission. He feels he would be particularly valuable in helping solve the town bathing beach problems along with the larger problems facing the board.

Mr. Stevens was the first American Red Cross swimming instructor at the Wayland town beach at Lake Cochituate. He has worked with the Parks and Recreation Department for the city of Ft. Lauderdale, Florida.

He was the first to start the annual Georgia A. A. U. Indoor swim meets while employed as Swimming Director. Mr. Stevens also has been awarded the W. S. B., radio station 5 star final award for saving a boys life.

Prior to working with boys and girls Mr. Stevens spent one year in Bermuda on defense work and also has been associated with the Pennsylvania Railroad and Robert Gair Co.

Mr. Stevens is now associated with the Star Market Co., in Wellesley.

Mr. Stevens has had his "Long Distance Swimming Club" a special event, published in the Boys' Club of America monthly Program Service package and has also served on Boys' Clubs of America National Committee on aquatics.

Candidates' Statement Of Qualifications, Aims

WAYLAND -- In the Feb. 16 issue, candidates for public office in the March 6 Wayland elections were asked to submit for publication a brief statement of their qualifications and goals. By deadline time for the Feb. 23 edition, the following statements had been received:

Selectmen

RALPH S. BLANCHARD, JR.

My goal if elected Selectman will be to put to use for the townspeople as a whole the experience gained in working with people as a teacher and as a member of various professional committees at all levels. I would try to obtain better co-operation among the various boards regarding more efficient purchasing of basic materials and supplies.

In picking men for the appointed boards, I would use the newspaper requesting applications and thus make better use of the vast potential of manpower which exists in our town. In summary, I will do my best for the townspeople as a whole.

ROBERT H. CHARNOCK

I intend that the Board of Selectmen should become the leading governmental agency in Wayland, as such a board should be in any town. Planning and cooperation among boards and departments and the execution of the articles voted in town meetings can not be done successfully unless the selectmen act decisively and with despatch.

This board, which is the executive branch of town government, has great responsibilities and duties to perform during the continued growth decade ahead so as to provide the town with the good government it needs, which can not be excessive in size or cost.

GEORGE K. LEWIS

My goal in the position of selectman will be to work toward an effective policy and decision-making board, setting the general tone of town government. I would hope to strengthen further the position of the executive secretary.

A further goal would be to bring about maximum cooperation and efficient operation between all town boards. Wayland is currently well on the way to becoming a desirable residential suburb in which to live. It constantly faces the dangers, however, of becoming too restrictive on the one hand or of desperately seeking rapid industrial or commercial growth on the other.

My goal would be to maintain a healthy balance between the two.

Board of Public Welfare

THEODORE R. MAGOUN

The Board of Public Welfare requires sensitivity to the people's needs, financial judgment, integrity, and a willingness to serve. I feel that my experience as a member of the Wayland Finance Committee, as Chairman of several Town study committees, as president, director, and fund vice-chairman of the Wayland Community Chest, and as chairman of the Cochituate Branch Chapter Red Cross qualifies me to fulfill the obligations of the office.

DOMINIC L. BARTHOLOMEW

It is my intent to carry out the duties of the Department of Public Welfare to the best interest of the town and its residents. My knowledge of the functions and operations of the Welfare Department during my tenure on the Finance Committee clearly illustrates the importance of the post, since if improperly administrated it could become a financial burden to the town of Wayland.

School Committee

JOHN W. ARNOLD

As a member of the Wayland School Committee for the past four years, I have had the pleasure of a small part in the dynamic growth of the School Department, both in program development and the addition of new space.

Continued curriculum improvement, efficient management, and fulfillment of the expressions of the Town in regard to its public schools should be the goal of all who see this office. I sincerely endorse such a program and would be both privileged and honored to continue in this service, if the voters so desire.

DONALD J. PRYOR

To decide how much should be spent on education, one would have to consider the merits of the individual expenditures. However, it should be borne in mind that any money spent, in the past, or to be spent on unnecessary items will not be available when it is needed for the important aspects of education.

Aside from the expense problem, I believe public schools should not be held primarily responsible for the development of student behavior generally assigned to the home, church, and community.

JOHN B. WILSON

My deepest outside interest is civic affairs, particularly the field of education. I believe that this interest, tempered by my experience in business management and on other town committees can be translated effectively into action on the school committee that will lead to the quality of education the citizens of Wayland want at a price that can be borne by the tax base.

JOHN B. GREGORY

As a parent with four children in the Wayland Schools and one graduate, now at Amherst, I am deeply interested that the remarkable progress of the school system be continued.

The people of Wayland have shown great foresight in making the schools as outstanding as they are.

I should like to serve on the School Committee in order to participate in their continued development. Seventeen years in Wayland and long association with the schools by serving on kindergarten, Science Curriculum and Science Fair Committees, and President H.S.P.T.A. has already given me a good working knowledge. I feel I can make a worthwhile contribution and would welcome the challenge.

Public Library Trustees

GEORGE G. BOGREN

There are no controversial issues involved in the election of Library Trustees in 1961. The goals remain as always - to maintain in the library a repository of all the knowledge and culture that man has recorded, where every citizen, young or old may inform or entertain himself.

Special quarters and reading material are provided for children.

The number of books available to smaller libraries like Wayland's could be enlarged by the recent act of the legislature creating regional exchange facilities.

CANDIDATE'S NIGHT

WAYLAND -- Candidates' Night will be held this evening in the Little Theatre of the Wayland High School at 8 p.m., sponsored by the LVW.

Park Commissioner

FRANK S. TARR

Maintain present level of department spending.

Make necessary additions and changes to paid working personnel to obtain maximum efficiencies.

Provide and maintain additional areas for skating, hockey, skiing, etc.

Survey present Town Beach for need for additional facilities, such as float with diving tower, fireplaces and children's playground equipment.

Endeavor to meet with federal, state and local agencies to obtain data on modernized programs for recreation and maintainence. (These meetings are held during the daytime hours and held at different places in the Commonwealth).

Work jointly with other Town departments and officials in making unified progress in behalf of the Town.

JOSEPH P. HORVATH

After expending considerable time attending various Town Committee Meetings as an interested citizen, it became apparent that the Park Department was at best a marginal operation. Further investigation revealed that the department over spent an element of its budget and demonstrated an inability to fully discharge is responsibilities.

It is my firm conviction that the Board of Park Commissioners requires a member with a fresh outlook, willing to give generously of his time to assist the incumbents in discharging their present obligations, and keep pace with the growing needs of the town.

With this in mind, I am seeking the office of Park Commissioner.

GILBERT C. STEVENS

As a candidate for Park Commissioner I would like the opportunity to serve the town as a member of the board. First of all I would listen and evaluate the meetings of this board. Second I would offer any suggestions to improve the park and recreation facilities of the town.

Because the children of the town are our main concern I would like to work, through the schools, as much as possible and help form a good, healthful, year round successful recreation program for both young and old.

With ten years experience in recreation work I would appreciate serving you.

FREDERICK PERRY

To coordinate various recreational activities to a degree that would increase the benefits to persons utilizing the facilities.

To accommodate more people and promote greater use of present facilities, will require considerable thought as to where our money can be most wisely spent. To this end I am committed.

Areas requiring serious thought and proper programming are the bathing beach, town buildings, school grounds, and playgrounds.

The ability to get along with others, and produce results, I have learned through years of experience as a construction supervisor.

Redevelopment Authority

LAURENCE S. FORDHAM

The establishment of the Wayland Redevelopment Authority is both a challenge to and an opportunity for the town.

The first step will be the selection of an outstanding redevelopment planner who will prepare a preliminary plan that will qualify the town for federal planning funds. With the aid of such funds, a comprehensive redevelopment plan should be prepared for the improvement of blighted and substandard areas in the town. This should be followed by the selection of an outstanding redeveloper and effectuation of the program.

If elected, I would do my utmost to carry out the town's redevelopment program. I have been a resident of Wayland since February, 1960.

Tree Warden

JOHN ERIC NELSON

I am a candidate for tree warden for the town of Wayland because: I have a great interest in the trees of the town; because I have been in close contact with this department as moth superintendent since 1950. I will work in cooperation with property owners and persons interested in the welfare of our trees, as the beauty of the town depends largely upon well kept and healthy trees.

Moderator

ROGER STOKEY

My goal as moderator is to see that the town meeting continues as the cornerstone of local government. In particular it is my duty to see that the questions voters wish properly to raise are raised, that any voter who wishes parliamentary assistance gets it, and above all that the issues before the meeting are handled clearly and fairly.

HEARING TIPS

by George Hanna

Certified Master Acoustician and Registered Optician

Do You Know . .

There are approximately twenty million people in the United States who are hard of hearing and only about two million wear hearing aids. However, because of latest innovations in eyeglass and behind-the-ear aids, persons today are being fitted at the rate of nearly one thousand a day.

Do you have a hearing problem? Then write or call for a free booklet, "How To Regain Your Hearing." There's no obligation whatsoever. Hanna Hearing Aid Service, 18 Chestnut Street, Natick: OL 3-2777.

Weston's Library Popular With Residents Undergoing Program of 'Space Lifting'

by HARRY PATTERSON

WESTON -- The Weston Public Library is in the process of having its space lifted. That is to say, the interior is being remodeled so that more books and reading and work areas will be available without expanding the building itself.

It's all part of a long range plan which contemplates an addition, a few years hence, which will nearly double the building's size and allow for the housing, in stacks, of fifty thousand volumes.

Weston, by the way, uses its library more than twice as much as the average town of its size. Over eighty percent of its population are eighty percent of its population are registered borrowers, as compared with the national average of thirty to thirty-five percent.

The work underway involves, among other things, installation of enough new steel shelving in the main floor stack room to accommodate the adult books previously stored in the basement, thus putting the entire adult collection on the main floor.

The main floor reading room is being divided into two "bays", one for adult readers and the other, nearer the entrance, for a study and reference area, principally for young people. Downstairs, the children's room is being enlarged.

The trustees' room, located above the present main floor alcove, will become the librarian's office; and on the basement floor an office will be provided for the use of the children's librarian.

What was the dead-storage area in the basement is being remodelled for the use of the staff, which has grown substantially in recent years. This area will provide a work and lounge room, a Pullman kitchen, two new toilets, and an all-purpose room.

Heating and lighting on the main floor are being revamped and improved, and of course the operation involves a great deal of new plumbing, painting and other work.

The contemplated ultimate enlargement of the plant might add a new wing parallel to the present reading room, thus making the library a U-shaped structure.

The trustees and staff of the library hope that the town will not be too inconvenienced by the noise, upheaval and confusion which are a necessary part of the alterations now taking place. It may even be necessary to close the library altogether at intervals.

The trustees also wish to express their thanks to the many high school students who turned out to help with emptying the downstairs stack room - a task which they accomplished in what must have been record time.

Sturbridge Village Needs Yankee Barn --Got One Around?

STURB RIDGE, MASS. --Seen any picturesque old Yankee barns lately?

The curators of Old Sturbridge Village, the New England country town of the early 1800's are looking for such a structure -- a genuine antique built prior to 1840.

The building, a one story barn or shed of pegged frame construction, with attic, should be approximately 25 by 40 feet at the ground level with roughly 1000 square feet of floor space. The outside walls may be painted or weathered boards.

If you have such a building lying idle in the back yard, or on the north forty, the Sturbridge curators would like to see it. It should be sound enough to be moved and used at the Village. Communications may be addressed to the Curator, Old Sturbridge Village, Sturbridge, Mass.

DIRECTOR -- Robert E. Slater of 12 Columbine Road, Weston, has been elected a Director and a Senior vice president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Slater, who has been vice president, accounting and auditing at the John Hancock since 1956, was one of six officers elevated to the newly-created position of senior vice president by the John Hancock board of directors. According to Byron K. Elliott, president and chief executive officer of the John Hancock, their election completed an internal reorganization that has been under way in the Company for three years.

TV Show Featuring Wayland On Air Tomorrow Evening

WAYLAND--"Suburbia - Utopia or Myopia," a detailed report of Massachusetts' suburban explosion, and featuring in part the town of Wayland, will be the second program in WBZ-TV's year-long public affairs series, "The Complex Community," to be televised Friday, Feb. 24 at 8 P.M. on Channel 4.

The program will examine suburbia -- from its pleasantries to its problems, from its politics to its parties -- concentrating on those metropolitan fringe communities approximately 10 to 20 miles from downtown Boston. Thirty of these communities around Greater Boston showed a population increase of 50% or more during the Fifties.

WBZ-TV newswoman Betty Adams will narrate "Suburbia - Utopia or Myopia," which will include on-location interviews with Professor Maurice R. Stein, Brandeis University sociologist; Professor Martin Myerson, Director of the Harvard-M.I.T. Joint Center for Urban Studies; Dr. Donald C. Klein, Harvard and Massachusetts General Hospital psychologist, and Executive Director of the Human Relations Service of Wellesley; Robert Morgan, Vice-President of the Boston Five Cent Savings Bank and Chairman of the Wayland Finance Committee; Mrs. Robert Page, former Chairman of the Wayland League of Women Voters' Metropolitan Planning Committee; Dr. Robert C. Wood, Associate Professor of Economics at M.I.T., a member of the Harvard-M.I.T. Joint Center for Urban Studies and author of "Suburbia: It's People and Their Politics;" and Gregory Wolfe, Director of the Greater Boston Economic Study Committee.

The 12 "Complex Community" programs are televised once a month in prime evening time. The series is sponsored by The Sperry and Hutchinson Company, distributors of S. & H. Green Stamps.

WBZ-TV Assistant Program Manager Win Baker is executive producer of the series; Public Affairs Director Ron Little is producer; film producer Phil Galligan is cameraman and filmeditor. Writers are Harry Durning, editorial research writer, and Mel Bernstein, staff documentary writer.

File Tax Forms Early

BOSTON -- Some 35 million taxpayers can help speed up payment of their share of the more than $4 billion in Federal tax refunds due them by filing their 1960 income tax returns now.

Mortimer M. Caplin, the new United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue, released the statement today shortly after he was sworn in to office. He said, "We want very much to pay out these refunds as rapidly as possible to help stimulate the nation's economy during this period of economical slack.

Civil War Jottings From Legionnaires

WESTON -- In the first great battle of the Civil War - Bull Run, 1861 - the nearby farm of Wilmer McLean at Manassas Junction was overrun by both the Union and Confederate armies. McLean had enough - he sold his farm and relocated further south, not far from Cold Harbor in Virginia.

And four years later, when General Lee surrendered his forces to General U. S. Grant, they closed hostilities by signing papers in the farm of - Wilmer McLean at Appommotox Courthouse. Thus McLean's property was the scene of both the first and last struggles of the war - and several hundred miles apart!

The first Union troops going into battle did so to the stirring strains of "Dixie" - and "John Brown's Body" was originally a Rebel marching song! The Johnnie Rebs appropriated "Dixie" to their own use after whipping the Yankees at Bull Run...and story has it the Federals took over "John Brown" as they moved to recapture Harper's Ferry.

Archdeacon To Conduct Lenten Service

WAYLAND -- The Rev. George O. Ekwall, Archdeacon of Lowell of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts, will conduct the second Lenten service of the Wayland Episcopal Mission at 7:30 tonight Feb. 23, at Claypit Hill School.

Coffee and desert will be served prior to the service.

The first Lenten service, held at Wayland High School last Thursday, was attended by more than 90 persons. The response of the group was most enthusiastic, according to the executive committee.

There will be six more Thursday evening services, including tonight's, and next week's service will be held at the Cochituate School. The remainder of the services will be in the Commons of Wayland High School.

Budget Discussion Night To Be Held March 2 By LWV

WAYLAND -- Discuss the Budget Night, to be held on March 2 at 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre of the High School, will give residents of Wayland an opportunity to learn how their money will be spent in the town.

The increasing complexity and number of budget items that must be voted upon at Town Meeting, make it desirable for townspeople to take a preliminary look at the budget in an informal atmosphere where questions and answers can be encouraged.

To provide this broad understanding of the town budget and fiscal policies, the Wayland League of Women Voters, which is sponsoring Budget Night, has invited town officials to explain budget items relating to their departments. Selectmen, the Executive Secretary, the Superintendent of Schools, Town Treasurer and members of the Finance and School Committee are among those asked to participate in this program .

Garden, Lawn Suggestions Offered

Poor soil is something most gardeners have to contend with. Soils often vary considerably from one part of a property to another as well as between different locations. So, you may have good soil and poor soil on the same property. A good garden soil should be relatively fine textured, yet not sticky when moist.

There are many definitions of good soil, but basically the soil should provide both good drainage to take care of excess water and water holding capacity to hold the water and nutrients required to support plant growth. Light or sandy soils tend to lack water holding capacity, while heavy or clayey soils tend to lack good drainage. Good garden soils fall between these two extremes and have the characteristics of both extreme soil types.

Few soils are ideal. Most garden soils fall to one side or the other of ideal, and need improving for better garden results. Regardless of whether the soil is too light or too heavy, the one thing that you can do to improve your soil is to add organic matter. Organic matter will open up clay soils and allow for better aeration and drainage. The same organic matter will hold water and nutrients in a sandy soil.

This organic matter might be animal manures, peat moss or peat humus, old sawdust, hay or straw, shredded sugar cane, shredded bark and compost. A gardener will generally use whatever organic material is most readily available. Compost from the home compost pile is often the easiest source of organic matter.

Organic matter should be mixed thoroughly into the soil. This is easy for potting soil where the soil can be turned for complete mixing. For gardens, the organic material should be applied on the soil surface and either spaded or rototilled in. The organic matter serves primarily to improve soil texture and adds very little in the way of nutrients. Organic matter should not be used in place of fertilizer, but to increase the benefits of the fertilizer by improving drainage and water holding capacity of the soil.

Weston Man Named

WESTON -- Professor John D. Glover of 400 Concord Rd., has been named to the Board of Directors of Investors Capital Exchange Fund, Inc., it has been announced by the Boston-based Fund.

Moiseiwitsch Performance

Weston -- Benno Moiseiwitsch, one of the remaining giants of the traditional school of concert pianists, played to a full house at the Country Evening Concert on Feb. 17.

Mr. Moiseiwitsch, a majestic figure at the piano, moved commandingly through the brilliance of Beethoven framing its message of stern beauty and never victimized by the note of ponderousness that occasionally creeps into the Beethoven of a less-demanding artist.

His Schumann was all that could ever be asked of Schumann and the works of Chopin received the caress of understanding that belies the strength of that composer's creations.

Moussorgsky's stories came alive in a rich and familiar retelling at the touch of Mr. Moiseiwitsch.

There may not be many of the great Romanticists left, but a night's listening to Mr. Moiseiwitsch confirms the fact that we are all Romanticists inherently despite the availability of crisp, mathematically contrived modernism.

Hay Ride Planned By Club

COCHITUATE -- The Couples Club of the Community Methodist Church are holding their monthly meeting on Friday evening, Feb. 24. All couples interested in going on an old-fashioned hayride are invited to meet at the church at 7 p.m.

Last month an enthusiastic group of about fifteen couples attended a bowling party, and some interesting meetings are being planned for the coming months. Square dancing will be held this year in March.

Plans, also, are underway for the annual Talent Show to be presented in May. This promises to be the highlight of the year under the capable direction of Lincoln Hatch and Mrs. Norman Cochran.

ELECTED -- Ruben Guenthner, electronic engineer and project scientist at Hanscom Air Force Base, is the newly elected president of the trustees of the Community Methodist Church (Cochituate). Mr. Ruben replaces Warren Hayes, as trustee of the local Methodist Church. Ruben is a member of Sigma Tau and a Lay Speaker in the Methodist Church. Other new officers are John Vaughan, treasurer of the trustees, and John Bryant, secretary of the trustees.

Pioneer Girls Hold Meeting

WAYLAND -- The Pioneer Girls of the Trinitarian Congregational Church held a dinner meeting on Friday, Feb. 17th. Miss Mildred McConnell, District Representative of the Pioneer Girls in New England, was the speaker for the evening.

A film "Pioneer Girls in Action" was shown. Pioneer Girls, which was first organized at Wheaton College in 1941, now numbers more than 60,000 girls in 2,000 clubs across the country and abroad.

New Level Reached By Weston Scholarship Fund

WESTON -- Programs undertaken by Weston's American Legion Post 214 during 1960 with the aid of increasing the Post Educational Fund reached a climax recently when Post Treasurer John Kempster presented Mr. Edward Dickson chairman of the Educational Fund Committee with a check that raised the Fund over the $2,000 mark.

This money is used exclusively to assist graduates from Weston High School in obtaining higher education. During the five years since its inception, approximately $1,000 has been awarded as outright grants and an equal amount has been raised and allocated to the Fund.

Maintaining momentum for this community program, the Post currently is co-operating with county historical societies in celebrating the Civil War Centennial. Store window displays of muskets, uniforms, flags and documents are visible in the shopping areas, and on March 3 the Centennial receives its formal opening at a Blue and Gray Ball being planned for the Town Hall.

All proceeds realized from this event are earmarked for the Educational Fund with the hopes that by next fall grants can be expanded to include more students.

At DeCordova Museum

LINCOLN -- A promising new talent and an artist long prominent in New England are sharing honors with thirty-one Latin American draughtsmen in three new exhibitions which opened at the DeCordova Museum in lincoln on Sunday, Feb. 12.

On exhibit will be paintings and gouaches by Cynthia Bloom, recent paintings by Lawrence Kupferman, and a group of drawings from eleven Latin American countries. All three exhibits will be on view through March 12.

WESTON TOWN HALL

POLICE

Tuesday afternoon, ambulance call to Weston nurseries where a man was injured in a fall from the roof. He was hospitalized in Newton-Wellesley hospital.

It was an unusually quiet week for the police department with little more exciting activity to report than a few lost dogs.

FIRE

Wednesday morning, rescued a dog from a brook on Spring Road.

Friday afternoon, faulty dishwasher on Ware Street.

Saturday morning, oil-tank leak on Pigeon Hill Road.

SELECTMEN

The selectmen met on Tuesday, Feb. 14 and discussed probable subjects for the town warrent and also decided upon Monday, March 27 as town-meeting date. Last registration date for voters is therefore Tuesday, March 7.

In addition, the board worked on the annual report of the selectmen and wrote a letter to the town which will go out before the budget hearing.

What flower is lazy? The Massachusetts Audubon Society says the Indian Pipe has lost its green leaves and become waxy-white and, clammy because it was too lazy to manufacture its own food.

STEPHEN HENRY WHITE

KENNETH RUSSELL GRAY

Cochituate Lads In Training

FRAMINGHAM -- Kenneth Russell Gray, son of Mrs. Robert H. Bower of 14 Ridgefield Rd, and Stephen Henry White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. White of 30 Wallace Rd., Cochituate are now undergoing recruit training as "buddies" in the Navy, at Great Lakes, Ill.

Gray is a 1960 graduate of Wayland High School, and prior to enlistment was employed by the Co-Op Inc., of Wayland.

White attended Wayland High School and prior to his enlistment was employed by Purity Foods Inc. of Saxonville.

Gray enlisted directly into the Naval Air training program while White was processed into the Seaman training program. Both Gray and White entered the Navy from the Navy Recruiting Office located at the Framingham Post Office. Upon completion of recruit training, they will receive 14 days leave prior to reporting to their duty station.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- The female Hooded Merganser was still in the Ash Street Reservoir lagoon on Jan. 28 (C. E. Smith). A Red-shouldered Hawk was seen by P. Olander near Hallett Hill Road on Jan. 28, and Rough-legged Hawks in Wayland by R. Stackpole. Another large flock of pheasants (25) is being fed by Mr. & Mrs. C. P. Gorely, Jr., Boston Post Road; and Mrs. D. Davidson, Golden Ball Road, has seen the only wintering Flicker so far reported (Jan. 28).

The Tufted Titmouse on Westland Road is still visiting feeders at the Gilmans, Weatherbees and Dees, and has also been seen by Mrs. R. A. Rawding. There have been very few winter Robins, but Father Monks saw one recently on the Weston College grounds.

The Weston bird list for 1960 totals 142 species -- the most outstanding being Horned Grebe, Snowy Owl, Black-backed Three-toed Woodpecker, Western Kingbird (first record), Carolina Wren, Mockingbird, Tufted Titmouse, Hooded Warbler, Western Tanager (second record), Cardinal, Hoary Redpoll, and Oregon Junco.

A most amazing "yard bird" is a male Wood Duck reported by Paul Kelly, Summer Street. It comes to eat cracked corn and millet, and as Mr. Kelly lives very close to the duck feeding area on the Charles River, it is quite likely that this is the same Wood Duck which Mr. Koe has been seeing there since last fall. Mr. Kelly also reports 15 purple finches, 13 goldfinches, 4 field sparrows and one grackle.

Mrs. Edward Briggs, Boston Post Road, saw 75 Canada geese in "V" formation flying low towards the southeast on Feb. 12. These were probably wintering birds moving around in search of food, and not true spring migrants - but a fine sight to see in any case.

On the few "warm" sunny days recently, a little song from purple finches and tree sparrows has been heard, and chicadees are giving their spring "fee-bee" whistle almost every day now.

A second supplement to the Annotated List of Weston Birds is available. If you would like a copy, please send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Mrs. Charles L. Smith, 75 Westland Rd., Weston 93.

Is a Bald Eagle really bald? The Massachusetts Audubon Society says the head of a mature Bald Eagle is covered with white feathers. At a distance the white head, looks bald, thus deceiving careless observers.

John B. Wilson, School Committee Candidate

I am a nine-year resident of Wayland and the father of four children. From 1957 to 1960, I served on the Finance Committee and was that committee's representative on the School Building Committee for the same period. In June 1960 I was appointed to a vacancy on the School Committee.

My deepest outside interest is civic affairs, particularly in the field of education. I believe that this interest, tempered by experience in business management and other known committees can be translated effectively into action on the School Committee that will lead to the quality of education the citizens of Wayland want at the price that can be borne by the tax base.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY

To Fight Heart Disease

THROUGH YOUR HEART FUND

These are the facts:

IN MASSACHUSETTS

300,000 persons have diseases of the heart and blood vessels.

More than 23,000 die each year!

Through your Heart Fund, more progress has been made toward victory over heart disease in the past 10 years than in all the history of medicine. Many of these advances were made possible in Massachusetts, through funds contributed here.

HEART FUNDS HERE PIONEERED:

— In Open-Heart Surgery
— In Prevention and Control of Rheumatic Fever
— In Advanced Therapy for High Blood Pressure
— In Protection of Heart Cases
. . . and much more.

BUT —

The basic causes of cardiovascular disease must be discovered before the onslaught of heart disease can be checked.

THE HEART FUND IS YOUR BEST WEAPON AGAINST HEART DISEASE. NEARLY HALF OF ALL ITS INCOME GOES DIRECTLY TO RESEARCH.

THE FUTURE DEPENDS ON YOU...

Women instinctively rally to help their neighbors whenever heart trouble strikes close to home. But sympathy alone is not enough. That is why so many women are serving today as Heart Fund Volunteers.

Achievement awards were presented by David Gabriel: Lion badge - Steven Pollitt and David Gabriel Jr.; Bear - Steven Goodhue, Harry Owens, Tommy Gardiner, Robert Norcross, Michael Walsh, Chris Woodcock and John Emery; Wolf - Ken Ekegren, Allen Graves and John Rockwell; Gold arrows - Michael Walsh, Robert Havis, and Steven Goodhue; Silver arrows - Jimmy Smith, Bruce Merrill, Peter Stillman and Steven Goodhue; Bobcat pins - Edward Murphy, Robert Salomon, Tod Brown, Frank Libby and Paul Tomasello; Denner stripes - Robert Norcross, Allen Graves, Chris Woodcock and Dave Campen; Ass't denner - Bill Gombos.

Fred Hardenbrook of Wayland, Director of the Children's Museum warned the Cubs "parents are hard to train" as he entrusted his eager helpers with live turtles and reptiles which they took through the audience as all enjoyed Mr. Hardenbrook's interesting and informative talk.

PACK 52

WESTON -- The air was filled with magic at the Weston Methodist Church Parish House, Feb. 9, for the annual blue and gold dinner of the Cub Scouts, mothers, and fathers of Pack 52. Mr. Lawrence White of the Museum of Science entertained for the evening with a program of science magic.

The tables were very attractively decorated in the blue and gold theme, with centerpieces, place mats and place cards made by the Cubs assisted by their Den Mothers: Mrs. Howard MacCleave, Mrs. John J. Duffy, Mrs. Fred Ruland, Mrs. John W. Kuipers and Mrs. James Hanney.

The invocation was given by Rev. Alan Moore of the Weston Methodist Church. A catered beef pot pie dinner was served by the fathers of the Cub Scouts.

Thanks were given by John Kempster, treasurer, to Howard MacCleave, Packmaster and Mrs. MacCleave for their effort in making the evening such a grand success. Melvin Rand, cubmaster ran the "kitchen brigade" as did Joseph Hughes who helped stage the adventerous evening.

WAYLAND -- 150 persons attended the Blue and Gold Banquet of Cub Pack 1, Wayland, which was held on Feb. 8 in the Wayland High School cafeteria. Each Den had its own table, for which the Den provided unusual and original centerpieces and decorations. The largest table was that of Mrs. MacDonald's Den 4, which seated 30 cubs and guests. This won for them the Attendance flag.

Advancement badges were awarded as follows: Robert Hause - silver arrow; Jack Sorenson - Bear; Thomas Muchmor, Chris Pleim, and John Osmond - Wolf badges; Roger Leavitt - Wolf and gold arrow; Philip Spokowski - 2 silver arrows; David Spokowski - Wolf, gold and silver arrows; William Dix, Dean Wilson, and Weston Keys - silver arrows; Steven Williams - 4 silver arrows; Timothy Kingsbury and John Griffin - silver arrows; David Weaver - gold arrow; Herbert Cutler - Wolf and gold arrow, and Scott Rossborough - silver arrow.

Blue and Gold corsages were given, in recognition of their all important contribution to the success of the pack, to Den Mothers Mrs. Anne Pleim, Mrs. Jane Griffin, Mrs. Gwendolyn MacDonald, Mrs. Edith Schaefer, Mrs. Marylen Small, Mrs. Blanche Hause, and Mrs. Sally Billig. The work of Webelos leaders Mr. Edward Lucas and Mr. John Whitehouse was recognized by a round of applause. Five boys have advanced into the Webelos den and were presented with their shoulder patches - Bradford Bean, David Boyles, Robert Hause, "Dick" Kline, and Scott Rossborough.

TOTEM POLE--Paper, a couple of tin cans and paint, along with a good deal of creativity and hard work was the highlight of the table occupied by Den 4 at the Blue and Gold banquet. Bottle caps for eyes, and flash bulbs for toes helped make this miniature totem pole a real individual.

Local Coaches Eye Tech Tourney

Weston

WESTON -- Bob Carini, coach of the Weston High School basketball team is looking forward to the opening of the Tech Tourney at Boston Garden.

"We haven't been in the tourney since 1959 and I feel we should do a good job this year," says the coach. We're stronger than most people think we are. Despite our loss to Wayland, I feel we're as good defensively as we are offensively," he observes.

Weston finished the season with an 10-4 record.

What might be termed the highlight of the season for Mr. Carini came last Tuesday, Feb. 14.

"It was very satisfying to beat Lynnfield after having been beaten by that team by 17 points earlier in the season.

Weston handled Lynnfield rather soundly in the rematch, coming out the long end of a 64-49 score.

Class D competition is scheduled to begin in the Tech Tourney next Tuesday.

Wayland

Coach Charles (Buzz) Bowers of the Wayland Warriors finished up with a 12-2 record for the regular season and can look for some fine competition in the upcoming tourney.

Wayland's 1-3-1 defense, developed to a high level under Coach Bowers, can be counted upon to disturb those teams unused to offensing against this defense.

In the past season, only Lynnfield and Bedford were able to do an outstanding job against it and both of those teams used the 1-3-1 defense themselves in so doing.

Eldon Goodhue stands out as a potential scoring threat if it is possible for any one man to stand out in such a well balanced offense as Wayland is capable of fielding.

There seems little doubt that the most exciting moment of the entire season came in the next-to-last game when Wayland pulled a squeaker out of the fire and edged past a fired-up Weston team, 46-45.

EVERYONE LOVES A BASKETBALL GAME as this shot of the crowd at the recent Wayland vs. Acton-Boxboro game shows. Wayland won 61-51 and clinched its sixth straight Dual League Championship. The game completed Wayland's regular season schedule.

Griffins Edge Lancaster Five

WESTON -- Overcoming a sluggish first half, the Cambridge School Griffins took control of the backboards and squeaked by Lancaster High 44-43, on Monday, Feb. 13. at French Gymnasium to win the League Championship with a record of 6-0.

Using a collapsing defense to contain Griffin high scorer, John Simpson, under the bucket, Lancaster led 26-17 at intermission. Cambridge suddenly came to life in the third period to tie 26-all on a jumper by Rick Turner with just three minutes elapsed in the period. From that point the lead sea-sawed back and forth, never more than a two-point difference, until Cambridge pulled ahead 44-41 on two foul shots by Paul Glaser with 30 seconds to go.

Glaser came off the bench to make six points in the last three minutes for all his points and the margin of difference. Captain Steve Weisberg and Jim Bond led the second half team metamorphosis with outside shooting to open it up for the rebounding of Simpson, Corbett and Turner. Simpson led the Griffin scorers with 14 points; Conklin was high man in the game with 24.

CAMBRIDGE: Glaser 6, Simpson 14, Corbett 2, Turner 7, Weisberg 9, Bond 6.

LANCASTER: Conklin 24, S. Amelotte 0, C. Amelotte 6, Howalik 9, Bailey 2.

New Booklet Reports Study

BOSTON -- The impact of urban renewal projects on small business is summarized in a publication now available at the Boston Regional Office of the Small Business Administration.

Edward J. Stewart, SBA Regional Director for this area, said this week that the summary is a condensation of a small business management research study, "The Impact of Dislocation from Urban Renewal Areas on Small Business," prepared by the University of Connecticut under a grant from the Small Business Administration.

The report said urban redevelopment and urban renewal programs now embrace 661 projects throughout the nation affecting nearly 100,000 firms, most of which are small businesses. By 1970, the report estimated, at least 50,000 more firms will be dislocated under the public improvement programs.

The report's conclusions and proposals are based on detailed analyses of the experience of businesses dislocated as a result of urban renewal projects in Hartford and New Haven, Conn. However, supplemental information on firms in relocation projects in 11 other cities and reports from redevelopment agencies across the country were said to have corroborated the conclusion that the representative of the pattern of experience in the United States.

The study, first to be issued under the SBA grants for small business research, concludes that of the nearly 25 per cent of the dislocated firms that go out of business, some are submarginal and substandard and could not exist in any area or in any circumstances other than those of a slum area.

It is pointed out, however, that more than 75 per cent of the dislocated businesses relocate successfully, and 85 per cent of these show increased profits within a year.

Businesses which come under urban renewal programs should make every effort to keep fully informed of developments and avail themselves of financial and technical assistance offered under the program, the report advised.

Under the Housing Act, a $3,000 maximum may be allowed to compensate for moving and relocation costs. The average allowance, the study shows, is about $1,500 per business.

A business which is faced with moving under these programs can increase its chance of successful relocation, the report said, by following the study's four recommendations:

Work closely with redevelopment authorities and ignore rumors; carefully re-evaluate location and space needs; utilize available financial and technical assistance when needed, and prepare to act independently, if necessary.

A bargain these days is anything that's only slightly overpriced.

Weston and Wayland Executive Secretaries Support Government Employed by Two Towns

(EDITOR's NOTE: The following article is printed with the permission of the Worcester Evening Gazette. It is one of a series of stories the paper has published on town government in Massachusetts.)

Suburban towns have boomed and the reverberations are shaking the underpinnings of Town Hall. The once solid foundations of local administration are cracking under the strain.

Towns are looking for means to shore up shaky financial and administrative structures. Some have done it by streamlining the superstructure while maintaining the traditional New Englend town government at the base.

They are the nine towns in Massachusetts which had adopted a form of government employing an executive secretary to the board of selectmen. The secretary carries the load of day-to-day administration. He is a housekeeper and warden, troubleshooter and public relations man. He is the workhorse of the administration.

Voters Adopt System

Voters must approve hiring of an executive secretary. They do this by voting acceptance of a state statute which allows appointment of an executive secretary to "act by and for the Selectmen in any matter which they may assign to him relating to the administration of the affairs of the town."

Executive secretaries, like town managers, do not come cheap. The town of Wayland, which has had an executive secretary since 1957, pays an annual salary of $8,215 to start and $10,563 after five years.

Its neighboring town of Weston pays $12,500 a year to J. Ward Carter, executive secretary since 1949. Mr. Carter is hired on a one-year contract and Norman E. Taylor in Wayland, for three years.

Moderate Position

Mr. Carter thinks that the executive secretary is a good answer for the town which wants to arrive at a moderate point between straight selectman government and the more high powered charters of town and city managers.

Mr. Carter defines his position as an agent of the selectmen, but available to all other town boards. He is also secretary of the finance committee and responsible for the financial books of the town.

He says he is chiefly an administrative officer. "I am no policy maker. I do not make final decisions," Mr. Carter said. He makes recommendations.

Cooperation a Must

He looks upon himself as a unifying influence upon the diverse town boards. He provides continuity between succeeding elected committees.

Mr. Carter cautions that to be effective, an executive secretary must have cooperation from the community and town officials. "An executive secretary cannot crack heads together" to get a job done, he said. He also acts as an unofficial ambassador of good will.

Mr. Taylor, in Wayland, considers his prime function as a liaison between elected boards and departments, "getting one to help the other."

The study committee which recommended executive-secretary government in Wayland, argued that residents often find town government inefficient and frustrating because no single official has authority to take decisive action. Mr. Taylor's presence in town hall eight hours a day remedied this.

Six Main Jobs

His other duties include:

1. Preparing agenda's for selectman's meetings.
2. Issuance of licenses and permits, subject to selectman's approval in controversial cases.
3. Approval of routine bills in his capacity as town accountant.
4. Routine appointments, also subject to approval by selectmen.
5. Expediting requests and complaints for selectmen.
6. Manager of a 12-girl office staff.

Advocates of executive-secretary type of administration as opposed to town manager government say it elicits a wider interest and participation on the part of the voters and enables the people to maintain greater control of town affairs.

Proponents of town manager-selectmen and executive secretary forms of government agree that an administrative head is essential to free selectmen of burdomsome duties so that they may concentrate on major decisions.

Flowers

A series of small, intimate gardens, designed and executed by the garden clubs of the Women's Exhibitions Committee, will be one of the highlights of the long-awaited New England Spring Flower Show, to be held at Wonderland Park on Route 1A in Revere, Mass., from Saturday, March 11 through Sunday, March 19.

Robins Arrive-- Let's Feed Them

SOUTH LINCOLN -- The Massachusetts Audubon Society reports that birds have been very scarce since last week's blizzard. With the deep snow cover on the ground, the public is urged to give the birds a helping hand by supplying them with food.

Robins are being reported from many places in the state. They seem to be subsisting on dried apples.

A Black-backed Three-toed Woodpecker and a Short-eared Owl were observed in Wayland. 6 Bluebirds were seen in Lexington and a Northern Shrike was present in West Acton.

The Mockingbird is still present in the Arnold Arboretum in Jamaica Plain.

A Saw-whet Owl was reported from Marblehead, while a Northern Shrike and a Pigeon Hawk were seen in Gloucester.

Dickcissels were sighted in Canton and a Hermit Thrush was present in Milton.

For up-to-the-minute news of birds call "The Voice of Audubon" KEnmore 6-4050.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society says the Swamp Buttercup is very similar to the first flowers on earth which appeared as the dinosaurs vanished.

INSIDE this inferno men were driving frightened cattle to safety.

RESCUED COW GIVES WIDE BERTH TO PHOTOGRAPHER

Business As Usual At Mainstone Farm After Fire Loss

WAYLAND -- Some 50 cows lumbered out of the blazing Mainstone Farm barn to disappear across the road in a fog-shrowded pasture, a chill sanctuary from the flames and smoke.

These were prize cattle, part of the oldest Gurnsey herd still extant in the United States. Some of them could point with pride to their lineal ancestory, the bull Jasper and his mates Pearl, Pearl 2nd, Topaz, and Jewel. These bovine ancients, purchased at a fair on the British island of Jersey in June 1871 for the Mainstone Farm on Old Connecticut Path made up the first Gurnsey herd in Massachusetts, and the second in the entire United States.

At 2:45 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 23, George Paquette, foreman of the Mainstone Farm, returned from his lunch period and noting the smell of smoke in the barn made a rapid investigation. He found part of the hay in the second story loft engulfed in flames.

After phoning the Wayland fire department, Mr. Paquette rushed back to the barn and, using a tractor and the assistance of volunteers drove all of the cattle which were on the ground floor to safety. Eight young heifers in a basement area perished. The path over which Mr. Paquette would have driven them was blocked by blazing timbers from a portion of the roof which had given way.

A calf, frightened at the prospect of an excursion into the mysterious out-of-doors on spindly, unpredictable legs, was carried through the smoke-filled barn door.

Then came the warning cry - "here comes Sid."

Sid, the prize Gurnsey bull, exploded enormously through the door. Firemen and onlookers scrambled unceremoniously to places of relative safety behind trees and the ever-widening circle of firefighting apparatus as the animal dropped to his forelegs and rubbed a burned shoulder into the muddy snow. He pawed the ground and snorted. Then he headed off

Services For Nathaniel Hamlen

WAYLAND -- Funeral services were held Tuesday, Feb. 28 for Nathaniel Hamlen Jr., 20, of Wayland who was in a fatal accident on Route 125 in North Andover, Feb. 24.

Also killed in the crash when Mr. Hamlen's car and a truck collided in heavy fog was Mr. Hamlen's companion 19-year old Nancy Foster Wilson of Washington. They were returning from a social engagement in Boston to Bradford Junior College in Haverhill where Miss Wilson was a student.

Mr. Hamlen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Hamlen of 83 Old Connecticut Path, attended the Meadowbrook School in Weston, the Fenn School in Concord and graduated from St. Mark's School, Southboro, where he was a member of the hockey, baseball, and football teams. He studied at Middlebury College in Middlebury, Vt., and was a student at Boston University at the time of the accident.

Mr. Hamlen had two brothers, Devens, 19, now attending Bowdoin College and James, 15, at St. Mark's School.

Funeral services were held at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Weston.

Discussion: Weston School Budget

WESTON -- Weston's School Committee will present the proposed 1961 School Budget in the Country School auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 7.

Purpose of the meeting, according to Mrs. Boardman Bump, chairman, is "to acquaint our citizens with an overall picture of the school financial situation and details of the 1961 budget prior to the Town Meeting. It is hoped that this meeting will permit more detailed discussion than is practical or possible at the town meeting."

There will be a hearing on the overall town budget at the town hall on March 13.

Budget Hearing Tonight

WAYLAND -- At 8 p.m. tonight, March 2, the League of Women Voters presents its discuss-the-budget program at the Little Theater of the High School. This is to be a preliminary look at the budget in an informal atmosphere. Questions can be directed at town officials who will attend in order to explain the budget items covering their departments.

Kiwanis Collecting $5,000 To Aid Scott Kendall

WAYLAND -- A committee has been appointed by the Kiwanis Club of Wayland to raise at least $5,000 to help the family of young Scott Kendall defray pyramiding medical expenses. The four-year-old boy was badly burned last November in a fire at a neighbor's house. Scott entered the hospital on Nov. 15 and by Feb. 14 the bills had amounted to $9,200 - and this figure does not include doctor's fees.

Donations may be made by check to the Newton-Waltham Bank in Cochituate, made out to the Scott Kendall Fund, according to Walter N. O'Connell of N. Main St., Cochituate, and Frank A. Smith, of Sylvan Way, Wayland, Kiwanis committeemen.

Pointing out that such donations are tax deductible, the Kiwanis Club invites other organizations to join them in heading up this worthy cause.

Weston, Wayland Win Tech Debut

Both the Weston Wildcats and the Wayland Warriors emerged unscathed from their first encounter in the 1961 Eastern Mass. Basketball Tournament played Tuesday, Feb. 28. Weston edged Story High of Georgetown Cape Ann League champion 68-61. Wayland playing in its sixth straight tournament, rolled over Sacred Heart of Cambridge, 62-41.

On Friday, March 3, Weston will meet Dennis-Yarmouth at Needham High School while Wayland tangles with Bridgewater on the same court at 8:30.

Weston last qualified for the Tech tourney two years ago but was eliminated by Bourne in the first round. Wayland, Dual County League champion the past six years, last won the Tech Class D title in 1958.

Perkins and Foster led the Weston scoring with 19 and 17 points respectfully. Goodhue tallied 24 points and Paton 21 for the Wayland team.

Redevelopment Authority Defined

WAYLAND -- If there were anything agreed upon unanimously at the League of Women voters' candidates' night, Thursday Feb. 23, at the high school, it was that the powers and responsibilities of a redevelopment authority are underatood but little by the Wayland citizenry.

To this end, Leila Sears, the town clerk, has made available to the Town Crier notes pertaining to the formation of the authority at the April 6, 1960 town meeting:

"Article 19. To see if the town will vote to determine if there is need for a Redevelopment Authority to engage in urban renewal and land assembly and redevelopment projects and that it is in the public interest that such an authority be organized in the town, and will appropriate a sum of money for the use of the authority in developing plans and a program.

"Duly seconded, Mr. L. William Bertelsen offered the following motion: That the town hereby determine that there is a need for a Redevelopment Authority in the town for the purpose of engaging in urban renewal and land assembly and redevelopment projects, and that it is in the public interest that such an authority be organized in the town; and that the town appropriate and assess the sum of $2,000 for the use of the authority in developing a plan and a program for submission to the town.

"Mr. Bertelsen, representing the Planning Board, which had proposed inclusion of this article, offered a clarification of the effect of this motion and acceptance of the law relating to an urban redevelopment authority: This would constitute an initial step toward creation of a redevelopment authority in the town. This would be a new, continuing town board, authorized to engage in various projects, (e.g., taking of sub-standard properties and tax-title land, where there was a need for assembling parcels into larger parcels) along lines which have long been engaged in by the town in a piece-meal and disorganized fashion.

"Not only could the authority undertake this work in a more orderly way, but by its so doing, it would qualify the receipt of federal money, possibly up to 2/3 3/4 of the cost of the work.

"This board would consist of five (5) members, four of which would initially be appointed by the selectmen, but thereafter be elected at the annual town election; the 5th member to be appointed by the State Housing Authority.

"The moderator amplified these remarks regarding the legal effect of accepting this statute:

1. Pointing out that, at the next annual town election (following acceptance), the four elective positions would be filled by giving the person receiving the highest number of votes the 5-year term; the next would receive a 4-year term; the next a 2-year term, and then the 1-year term, the 3-year term being appointed by the State Housing Authority.

2. That it is not required, under this law, that the town approve a specific project which the authority proposes to carry out, as such. However, as a practical matter, any such project will require funds; and any amount not covered by federal funds would have to be provided by vote of the town."

de Suze To Speak At Weston Men's Ladies' Night

Redevelopment Candidates

WAYLAND -- Hugh P. Taylor, 57 Bent Ave., has announced his candidacy for the Redevelopment Authority. In his statement, he says:

"Although I am a relatively new citizen of Wayland (Sept. 1959) I was surprised at the lack of information and contradictory interpretations of the power and purpose of this board, both by the voters and candidates for this and other town offices.

"It is however obvious that if the citizens of Wayland are to evaluate the impact of the changes that can be brought about by a board having the power represented by this authority, they must be competently informed.

"My qualifications for the position I seek are:

(1) A serious interest in the town I have chosen to establish my home, and, more importantly a desire to be a good neighbor to my fellow town citizens.

(2) I am a registered professional engineer in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and consequently in a position by training and profession to understand and evaluate the technical aspects of any proposed plan."

Hugh P. Taylor

Mr. Taylor, a 1951 graduate of Clarkson College at Potsdam, N.Y. with a degree in electrical engineering, is director of special projects at the Ewen Knight Corp. in Natick. He is a native of Bloomfield, N. J., is married and has a 28-month-old son.

Harvey C. Newton

WAYLAND -- Harvey C. Newton of 22 Pemberton Rd. Cochituate has announced that he is a write-in candidate for the Redevelopment Authority in the March 6 town election.

Mr. Newton's siuation is unique in that he was one of the original members appointed by the selectmen to the board last summer. However, due to an administrative oversight, his candidacy papers were not filed in time for his name to appear on the ballot.

It is to be pointed out that Mr. Newton is a "write-in" candidate, not a "sticker" candidate. In other words, the voter will actually have to "write-in" Mr. Newton's name and correct address on the ballot rather than paste on a sticker.

Mr. Newton has served on the Wayland School Committee and on the Recreation Advisory Committee.

Dan A. Morris

WAYLAND -- Dan A. Morris, 14 Lundy Lane, Wayland, has announced his candidacy as a sticker candidate for the Wayland Redevelopment Authority. Mr. Morris is sales manager of the James T. Treffey Real Estate organization. He has lived in Wayland since 1958.

"I feel that by the nature of my work I have a wide and incisive understanding of real estate values in Wayland. As a Realtor I fully appreciate the detrimental effect that substandard housing can have on our community.

"I expect to be a home owner in Wayland the rest of my life and feel, like every resident, a personal stake in the growth and development of our community."

Mr. Morris studied mechanical engineering for three years at Arlington State College, in Arlington, Tex., and one year at the University of Texas at Austin.

Informed Voters Vital To Good Regional Planning

Wherever one turns he is confronted with one of the salient facts of life in the United States, namely that the long-cherished secession of suburbia from the core city is about to become past history. WBZ's splendid documentary on the subject last Friday, called "Surbia: Utopia or Myopia?" summed up the picture in a forthright and tidy manner.

On Thursday, Wayland's League of Women Voters faced the issue squarely. In presenting it's candidates night, the league asked candidates for the selectmen posts to address themselves to the question of how better regional cooperation can be encouraged among neighboring towns. Remarks of the candidates were to the point and mirrored the situation as it applies to every suburban town in general and every Wayland home in particular.

Unfortunately, of the 5,000 voters who might have been at the Thursday meeting at the high school, people whose way of life is inextricably involved in such phenomena as regional planning and urban redevelopment, only about 150 attended the program.

Town-meeting government, our precious New England heritage, can only function as an effective machine reflecting the well-informed will of the majority if that majority takes the time to be well informed.

Perhaps there are fewer conflicting events scheduled for tonight and the response to the league's discuss-the-budget night at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater of the high school will be better attended.

ATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Honking Of Wild Geese Herald Coming of Spring

Probably the most exciting sign of Spring to me is watching a gaggle of Canada Geese as they wing their way overhead to the breeding grounds in Canada. These geese sound like a pack of Fox Hounds as they pass over, and if you listen carefully you can hear them even though they may be flying over four thousand feet up.

Sometimes a flight will stop in the Sudbury marshes to rest and feed overnight. Some have even been known to stay here to raise their brood.

But most go on to the Muskeg marshes of Canada where they mate and raise their young - then fly back South in the fall. Geese, unlike other members of the web-footed tribe, mate for life - true monogamists I am told.

All winter long there has been a gaggle of about one hundred Canada geese spending their nights in the river back of Heard's pond. I think they are a local bunch that hail from over Framingham way.

These Canada Geese are large birds, and weigh from nine to twelve pounds, and are grey with a white fanny, black head and neck and a white patch under the head and behind the eyes.

The January count by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service showed these geese were up about 43 per cent over last year in the Atlantic flyway, but the news for this summer's breeding season is not so hot, as they have had little snow or rain in the Canadian nesting grounds and the pot holes necessary for nesting birds are dry. So lets hope for a rainy spring up there.

I noted on Washington's birthday that small bunches of Black Ducks and American Goldeneyes are beginning to show up in the Marsh - so spring can't be far away.

Letters to the EDITOR

Way To Relieve World Tensions

To the Editor:

We believe that there is one step to reduce world tensions which our government could take immediately. We could follow the Golden Rule by giving food to starving China from our enormous surplus.

This could be done through the International Red Cross to avoid letting food become a political weapon. There are religious, ethical and political reasons why we should keep human beings from dying of hunger, whatever their form of government.

In a world where so many have-not countries need calories, many Americans drink Metrecal and we are hated for our abundance.

For the sake of our children we should invest more in the love we believe can overcome fear and hate which now threatens politically and physically to blow up the world.

Rep. Manning Explains Vote On Billboards

To the Editor:

Since taking office as representative of the 7th Middlesex District, I have received many inquiries concerning various bills. I would like to use the medium of your publication to explain my stand on these bills.

House Bill #1372 - An act granting the Board of Selectmen the final authority in the issuance of billboard permits, etc. (Rep. Manning recorded in favor).

House Bill #1045 - An act prohibiting billboards, etc. within 660 ft. of limited access ways (recorded in favor).

House Bill #1046 - an act enabling cities and towns to further regulate billboards, etc. and compelling the outdoor advertising authority to hold public hearings before granting permits. (recorded in favor).

In general, I am an advocate of home rule and I felt compelled to vote for these bills giving the selectment the authority I believe is rightfully theirs.

Donald J. Manning, Repr.
7th Middlesex District.

Endorsement For Harvey C. Newton

To the Editor:

The Redevelopment Authority created by vote of the 1960 Town Meeting, can wield a beneficial power (in the elimination of sub-standard housing) in our town. It is important that the members be practical, informed citizens aware of conditions peculiar to Wayland.

I wish to endorse Harvey C. Newton, a write-in candidate for this authority. He was a member of the original Authority, but inadvertently neglected to file nomination papers. He has held important office and he knows Wayland and its needs. He will be an asset to the Authority.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

How Town Meetings Came Into Being

They say that our New England town meeting is unique. How then did it get its start?

If you read the pundits, you learn that the roots of local self-government reach back into the dim beginnings of the Aryan peoples: that Hindus, and until recent decades, European Russians, distant Aryan relatives of ours, chose their village officials and regulated local affairs, with which the reigning rajah or czar had little to do. From ancient Germanic origins came the common-field agricultural system, of which our New England town commons remain the present day evidence.

Most authorities find town government's nearer origin in the customs of Old England. There the township or manor, later the parish, chose its own local officers, was largely self governing. The folks met in the church to consider the various problems of the common lands, the common herd, maintaining the highways, the parish poor, resisting encroachment on ancient privileges.

Through these local bodies, Elizabeth and her successors collected taxes and governed the realm. Our town by-laws go back to the Danish invaders of England, whose word for town was "by". (Ashby, Scrooby).

No Great Change

So it marked no great change in custom when the Pilgrims on the Mayflower in Provincetown Harbor drew up and signed their compact beginning "In the name of God Amen." The much more numerous Puritans who settled Salem, Boston, Watertown and Dorchester a decade later began at once, under the watchful eye of the colony's magistrates, to meet and to lay out town plans for the new land; with house lots, strips of meadow, common grazing fields and woodlands, all according to English customs; and to regulate the town's cattle, hogs and timber; even the distance of houses from the street.

Soon it became onerous for everybody to meet so frequently, and townsmen, later to be called select men, were chosen to watch over the town's interests between meetings.

Specific Authorization

As the colony rapidly grew, the General Court began to give specific authorization for the settlement of new areas. These towns were laid out with definite bounds, by committees especially charged by the legislature with this duty. Families to constitute each town were chosen. The town's freemen drew up a plan for the village and its land allotment, and a minister was called. The General Court recognized the new town by naming it, later by incorporation.

The town's freemen chose necessary officers such as they had known in the towns and parishes of Old England, and by the same titles: one or more constables, surveyors of highways, town clerk, pound keeper and others.

Taxes on Property

The General Court now began to lay taxes on property to be collected through the town governments, so assessors or "raters" were needed. With taxes to pay, the towns demanded representation in the General Court, Watertown taking the lead; each town was accorded two deputies as a result. These not long after became a separate lower house, now the House of Representatives.

In 1641 the General Court, under the prodding of deputies jealous for the ancient rights of the people, enacted a "Body of Liberties", a Magna Carta for Massachusetts, based chiefly on the English Common Law and the Bible's admonitions.

Precious Liberty

One of these precious liberties, forerunners of our United States constitution's Bill of Rights, is the crux of our present study. It provides that "Every man ... free or not free" may "come to any publique Court, Councel, or Towne meeting, and either by speech or writeing move any lawfull, seasonable and materiall question or present any necessary motion ... so it be done in convenient time due order and respective manner."

So that is why in this day, three centuries later, you will still be able to do exactly these things at your coming town meeting.

Never permit this right which your forefathers gained to be taken from you, or even to be lightly valued!

A Proclamation

WHEREAS, the year one thousand nine hundred and sixty-one represents the one hundredth anniversary of the commencement of hostilities in the American Civil War, and

WHEREAS, from this bloody and costly conflict the United States of America finally emerged a stronger, more enduring Nation than might otherwise have been the case, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has joined its sister states in suggesting that all Americans suitably commemmorate the observance of this Centennial year.

Between 1861 and 1865 many men of Weston carried arms in answer to the call to defend the Union. Weston blood was shed and Weston lives were lost on Civil War battlegrounds from First Manassas and Bull Run to the final stillness at Appommatox.

So it seems especially appropriate that this Town pause - and remember.

NOW THEREFORE, we, the members of Weston's Board of Selectmen, do proclaim the month of March, 1961 as a period for suitable observance of the American Civil War Centennial. We do urge the residents of Weston to support and participate in the exercises and activities which will mark this historic Centennial year.

Wayland LWV Candidates' Night

WAYLAND -- With customary precision in planning and format, the League of Women Voters on Thursday, Feb. 23 presented the 1961 Candidates' Night at the high school. Specific questions were prepared by the league for discussion by the candidates.

SELECTMEN

RALPH S. BLANCHARD JR., 41 Bent Ave., running for a three-year term, said it was necessary to get better cooperation among town boards before entering into cooperative arrangements with other towns. He said it would be wise to look over the town for specific locations of possible new industries and suggested that a new zoning map be prepared and promulgated to the townspeople.

Mr. Blanchard said that there might be alternate plans for growth of the town which might be presented and voted upon by the citizenry. He said he was not in favor of urban redevelopment because it involved low-cost housing.

ROBERT H. CHARNOCK, 18 Orchard Lane, running for a three year term, said that cooperation and planning with other towns is a must and said that as a selectman he would suggest looking into Governor Volpe's proposals for regional planning.

As an incumbent member of the planning board, Mr. Charnock said he wanted an article in the warrant to develop the Sand Hill industrial area near the dump in a joint venture with the town of Sudbury. Selectmen should cooperate with the Committee to Study Town Government.

Concerning the control and planning for growth, he said that it is a fact that must be accepted. Observing that Wayland cannot prohibit population growth or prevent people from moving into the area and that projections indicate the eventual point of population saturation is around 18,000.

Long-range planning involves the cooperation and understanding of all departments of the government, he stressed.

Mr. Charnock fully approves of urban redevelopment for Wayland. He said, however, that the town does not have control over the plans of the Redevelopment Authority except as the selectmen may approve or disapprove of them.

GEORGE K. LEWIS, 182 Concord Rd., running for a one-year term, said that many town departments already have arrangements for intertown cooperation. He suggested that boards of selectmen and planning boards work harder at cooperation and that it would be a worthwhile step forward to set up regional planning councils.

He raised the question of whether Wayland and other similiar areas are sincerely interested in cooperating with Boston.

Mr. Lewis averred that so far as industrial expansion is concerned, the pattern is already established. Wayland is a residential town with a few limited commercial centers. It might, he said, accept more limited industrial expansion after serious study.

In terms of long-range planning, he saw no major capital expenditures except for schools in the next 25 years.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WELFARE

THEODORE R. MAGOUN, 8 Eden Road, running for a three-year term, said it is vital to remember that the board's job is simply an administrative one. It has no control over funds. A professional, the welfare agent has this authority and is thus involved with the financing of old-age assistance, aid to dependent children, etc. While the administrative functions of the board may expand somewhat in the future, it is in the realm of the agent's operation where the greatest advances will be made, observed Mr. Magoun.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

JOHN W. ARNOLD, 164 West Plain St., running for three years as a candidate for re-election, said he is in favor of kindergartens but that the town has always voted them down as being too expensive. He was not in favor of adding more foreign languages to the curriculum but suggested a better job could be done with the languages already taught.

He was not in favor of increasing adult education, getting greater variety into the curriculum, expanding the varsity sports program. More classrooms are a genuine need and the most important area for expansion is in guidance, he said.

The superintendant is doing a first-rate job and his salary increases are rational, observed Mr. Arnold.

JOHN B. GREGORY, 19 Concord Rd., running for a three-year term said more grammar-school rooms are a must, that guidance should be greatly emphasized and that more consistant communication among parents, pupils, and the guidance department should be attempted.

Mr. Gregory was in favor of more intramural sports and a better job of present language courses rather than the introduction of new languages. He saw no immediate need for greater subject-matter variety but thought it important to continue adult education.

Praising the superintendent, he said this salary is in line, that at $14,000 it was far short of Newton's $19,000.

DONALD V. PRYOR, 50 Red Barn Rd., running for a three-year term, stressed the importance of plant increase and the need for more classrooms. He saw great importance in the continuance of the library, favored more intramural sports such as tennis and boxing and wanted to hold the line on the number of guidance teachers.

JOHN B. WILSON, 213 Old Connecticut Path, running for a two-year term, stressed the fact that a good school system should be run on the same basis as a good business and that dependable judgment was a vital attribute for a school committeeman.

ASSESSOR

FERN A. TAYLOR, 73 Edgewood Rd., running for a three-year term, said that the prime responsibility for an assessor is to keep equalization in assessment. Assessing should be handled by a long-time resident, one who has grown with the town, he said.

TRUSTEES OF PUBLIC LIBRARY

GEORGE G. BOGREN, 145 West Plain St., running for a three-year term, said that the trustees must cooperate with the school library. They must also make more use of available state aid to libraries, he stated.

BOARD OF HEALTH

RICHARD DURANT, 69 Woodridge Rd., running for a two-year term said he was in favor of utilizing the Framingham Mental Health Center pointing out that it would cost the town 50 cents per pupil for a child placed at the center compared with $400 per pupil for the same period in the Wayland schools.

Mr. Durant said we do not need an incinerator but that we might work out a cooperative arrangement with with Sudbury for an incinerator.

PARK COMMISSION

FRANK S. TARR, 205 West Plain St., running for a three-year term said he will back a town forest and conservation but was against federal government management of the marshlands. He was in favor of Wayland's purchasing of the marshlands.

JOSEPH P. HORVATH, 242 Concord Rd., running for a three-year term, said he was in favor of a town forest and pointed out that the Harris report provides for purchase of town-forest land as the town grows. Concerning the marshland issue, he said that if the government charter were good for the town he was in favor of it.

He felt that a conservation commission was necessary to implement state-town functions.

GILBERT C. STEVENS, 190 West Plain St., said that the town should look ahead to the time when land will be at a higher premium and take immediate steps to purchase land for the recreational facilities of young children.

PLANNING BOARD

ALLEN H. MORGAN, 114 Cochituate Rd. running for a two-year term, said the board's duties included controlling the town's growth to preserve rural nature. He was in favor of the federal government taking over the marshlands, pointing out that only 40 per cent of the area would be open to hunters and that they would be chosen by lots.

REDEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY

GEORGE V. DEVERELL, 163 School St., indicated that he hoped when the board is finally voted in rather than serving as an interim body that procedures for carrying out the work of the authority will get underway. It must determine who is to be its consultant, what area it is to operate in, and what work is to be done.

LAURENCE S. FORDHAM, 48 Sedgemeadow Rd., said that one area of Redevelopment Authority responsibility is to marshall public opinion for fulfillment of a particular project. He stated that such an authority does not necessarily mean public housing nor does it involve leveling and building from the ground up. Such an authority must move slowly, he said, and consider both the interests of the town and the individuals involved.

CLERK

LEILA SEARS, 187 Pelham Island Rd., candidate for re-election running for a one-year term, said that the position called for accuracy, completeness, and fairness.

CONSTABLE

JAMES E. GARVEY, 9 Corman Lane, running for a one-year term, said he would carry out the assignments of constable to the best of his ability.

MOUNTAINS AHEAD
Martha Ferguson McKneown

Many months drag wearily by before the travelers who set out from Independence on the Oregon Trail catch their first glimpse of mountains ahead.

Mrs. McKneown knows well whereof she writes for her grandfather actually made this same harrowing journey in a covered wagon. For this reason the latest novel of the western trek has a ring of authenticity.

There are no savage attacks by Indians, no deaths from starvation. The reader's interest lies not so much in the ever increasing hardshps as in the persons who suffer them.

The author has the magic gift of ability to draw each character as a human being whose individuality unfolds, for good or for evil, during the terrible ten months.

Wayland HS Vacation Cancelled

WAYLAND -- The severity of the winter and the delayed opening of Wayland High School leaves high school students three days short of the minimum requirement of 180 days of school, announces Dr. Edward J. Anderson, Superintendent of schools.

In order to assure high standards in the high school the School Committee has cancelled the scheduled spring vacation for high school students. School for grades 9-12 will therefore be held April 17, 18, 20, 21, with no school on the 19th - Patriots Day. The elementary schools and the junior high school will have their spring vacation as scheduled.

THE GRAVE OF THE TWIN HILLS
Bowen Hosford

This is a novel in the excellent series of new books in which the plot is laid in Japan. Alton Burrage, an airman in World War II, returns to Japan as a newspaper correspondent carrying in his heart intense hatred of the "Japs".

The Author has written a poignant and engrossing story of Alton's inward struggle between his inability to forgive and his love for Amiko. Whether or not he acquires the power to forgive depends largely on how the mystery of the grave on the Twin Hills is solved.

There is something for everyone in this superb book - a book strangely inspiring because endowed with wisdom, interest and exceedingly great understanding of modern problems. One is left with the conviction that he, too, can find his way out of the impasse to creativity.

Fire

at a determined lope towards town.

Finally, Mr. Paquette was able literally "to take the bull by the horns" and coax him into the pasture with the rest of the herd.

By this time, the residents of the house next to the burning barn, Mrs. Catherine Bunnell and her two young children, had managed to get away. Firemen played their hoses over the house which had begun to smoke.

Wayland's fire department directed by Chief Francis J. Hartin was on the job within minutes of its alarm at 2:54 and Weston rushed its Company I to the scene after being requested by the Wayland department at 3:07. But even at this early period it was obvious that the hugh barn would be all but a total loss. Early estimates placed the damage at $100,000.

More recent estimates by Chief Hartin place the damage in the neighborhood of $60-70,000 based upon replacement costs.

Neighbors, including Frank W. Kilburn, town counsel, were quick to offer space in their barns for the now homeless cattle.

Walter Pratt, spokesman for the Mainstone Farm marketing operation points out that due to the quick action of the Weston and Wayland fire departments, the farm store on Rice Road was not damaged and business will continue as usual.

He also reports that home deliveries of the Mainstone Farm products will continue.

Milking equipment and other farm machinery on the lower floor of the barn did not feel the full brunt of the flames and may be subject to partial salvage.

Engine Four from Wayland Center under the direction of Chief Francis J. Hartin, set up the first line to protect the farm house and store in close proximity to the barn. The second line was set up by Engine Five from Cochituate at the rear of the barn and managed to save the silos. Also involved in this operation was Engine One from Weston and Engine Three from Cochituate.

There were no injuries among the fire fighters. After the blaze was confined, the firemen worked at removing the smouldering hay from the barn and placing it in areas where it could be extinguished. Five men remained at the scene overnight putting out the spot fires that occurred. This practice was continued throughout Friday and the "all-out" was sounded at 3:43 p.m. on the 24th.

This was the first major structural fire since Dec. 1959 for the Wayland department. The Mansion Inn fire in March 1956 was the last general alarm.

Chief Hartin was particularly gratified with the operation of the new aerial ladder truck in its first test under "combat conditions." A hose mounted atop the ladder gives the operating firemen a higher degree of accuracy than can be found when using ground based streams of water.

The cooperative plan under which the fire departments of Weston, Sudbury, Natick, and Wayland cover one another when one or more departments are engaged in battling a serious fire worked perfectly, said the chief. As the Mainstone fire required the presence of the entire Wayland department, one Sudbury engine covered the Wayland headquarters and one Natick engine covered the Cochituate firehouse.

Chief Hartin also expresses appreciation to the Red Cross unit headed by Mr. Willard Dik, Mrs. Emily Blair, and Mrs. John Dunning, all Wayland residents.

As Wayland firemen were enroute to the farm an alarm was rung in from a box on Old Sudbury Rd. Since this was on the way to Wayland station, the Sudbury engine took the call and found this to be a false alarm.

At 9:43 p.m., another box, at Old Connecticut Path and Pine Ridge Rd. was rung in. One Wayland piece had returned to Cochituate, by this time so both the Wayland and Sudbury engines responded. This, too, proved to be a false alarm. Wayland police also checked the area and an investigation of these two untimely alarms continues.

Chief Hartin has been joined in an investigation of the cause of the blaze by Lt. Detective Peter McCauley and Howard Elliott of the State Fire Marshal's office. They have not been able to determine a cause immediately. Several possibilities are being checked.

SUDBURY -- Next meeting of the Sudbury Valley Smith College Club will be held on March 7 at the home of Mrs. Jay Tiffin, 10 Maple Lane, Framingham where Mrs. Lawrence Clampitt of Wayland will report on the Alumni Council.

Letters To The Editor

Property Deterioration In Weston

To the Editor,

In his recent letter to the "Town Crier", Dr. William A. Elliston stated that, "there is every prospect of a continued appreciation along with value throughout the town, if the town's high standards of management are maintained."

Dr. Elliston's own picturesque Weston home, with the two other old New England houses nearby on South Avenue, has been a much admired and beloved landmark for years in Weston.

However, nearby on South Avenue the town has allowed a deplorable example of property deterioration to exist evidently without making any attempt to rectify it.

The non-resident owners of Pine Brook Club have been allowed to dam the Weston Brook into ponds in order to water their greens. Residents below the dam now have a mass of polluted slime and silt rather than the clear, free running stream.

Ware Street, formerly a pretty, quiet country lane is now a depository for piles of stone and unused Christmass trees.

Not only has the owner of corner property been allowed to take almost five years to build a house, but he has not been prohibited from making his property a parking lot for trucks and contractor's machinery not allowed in other parts of Weston.

Is it too much to ask the authorities to make sure that all residents maintain their property so as not to lessen the value of their neighbor's holdings, for which the highest taxes are assessed by the same authorities?

Mrs. Reynold Ronci
15 Ware Street

Selectman Offers Goals

To the Editor:

At this time of the year the duties of the selectmen are very strenuous, therefore, the Feb. 16 deadline for your requested 100-word reason for seeking office of Selectman passed without a word from me.

As your selectman my chief aims are as follows: to be a real Town Father---leader of a group with favoritism toward none. Prompt efficient service to all the people of Wayland. All decisions to be made fairly and independently after deliberation, according to statutes and town by-laws. Citizens appearing before Town Boards should be heard and respected.

Efficient operation of all Town Departments. Appointments to Town Boards to be made according to ability and willingness to work. Continue to scrutinize spending to help keep tax rate down.

This is a period of transition from a small country town to a modern suburb. The many changes that must be made will be carried out in such a way that harmony will exist in all Town Departments and Wayland will be a beautiful town in which to live.

Thomas F. Linnehan
Chairman Board of Selectmen

Civic Association Discussed Taxes, Real Estate Value

To the Editor:

We are most appreciative of Dr. Elliston's interest in the Weston Civic Association and the state of affairs in Weston regarding taxes and property valuation.

However, we feel the doctor has missed the point. Our point is that we believe that the "wishes" of the people have been misinterpreted by our conscientious town officials. The peculiarity in government seems to be that expenses are determined first and then income is "created" thru the tax-levying powers of the Town.

To be specific. Dr. Elliston describes a situation in which he says you must take into account the increased valuation of your property in relation to the increased taxes. We believe you must then ask the question of: "How much more would your house be worth, if there had been no tax increase?" After all, part of the desirability of a town as a place to live, is based on the tax rate and the property assessment.

We believe many of Weston's residents share our concern over the spiraling tax rate, the enormous debt burden allowed only by emergency approval, (Weston's debt is currently three times the normal legal limit allowed town's by State law), the unparalleled school operating costs, and the mounting pressures for further expenditures for all Town departments.

While the value of the individual homes built in the town during the past year has gone up, the number of homes being built, has then steadily declined each year since 1955. Concurrently there has been a steady rise in the number of homes for sale till today. We are advised there are more listings than ever before and at prices that are no longer premium.

WALTHAM NURSING HOME

" 24 Hour Nursing Care "

TW 3-6944

91 Summer Street

The Waltham Nursing Home, formerly the residence of Congressman Luce, is an immaculate home which offers 24-hour professional nursing care. Located at 91 Summer Street it rates highly with the State Dept. of Public Health and with the doctors who care for its patients. Being one of the few well established nursing homes around since its beginning in 1948, its ownership has remained within the same family.

Unlike a great many nursing homes throughout the state, the Waltham Nursing Home is unique. Every one of its patients, regardless of their condition, is of a desirable type. When one enters its front doors there is a clean and pleasant atmosphere about. There is not that institutional look that is usually expected. In passing through the corridors and looking into various rooms one does not see sickness and discomfort, but rather friendly and happy faces. Those patients are given excellent nursing care and are kept clean and comfortable at all times, whether they are convalescing, aged, diabetic, or post operative.

Many things make the Waltham Nursing Home one of the very best of its kind because it is immaculately clean and free from odors, the care is kind and professional, there is excellent food and along with every maximum safety requirement, everyone is happy. If you would like, please visit us, inspect our facilities, have a friendly chat with the nurses and patients or inquire of your doctor who is our best reference.

To the Editor:

For the Wayland Redevelopment Authority, I urge the election of Mr. George V. Deverell, Mr. Harvey C. Newton, and Mr. Lawrence S. Fordham.

Mr. Newton and Mr. Deverell have long personal knowledge of the Town, and long records of Town service. They have served with me during the first half-year of the Authority, and I have been impressed by their judgment, and their insistence that the new tool called "urban renewal" be used cautiously and only in the interests of the residents of those areas which may be helped by it.

I believe Mr. Fordham's legal training and specific experience in other communities would be of great help to the Town.

Other candidates may also be good; the election of these three is particularly important to produce a well-balanced board. I regret that I cannot continue on the Authority, and ask that my name not be written in.

Fathers-Sons Night In Cochituate

WAYLAND --One hundred Boy Scouts and their dads enjoyed a fathers-and-sons night on Saturday, Feb. 11 at the Cochituate School

The lads and dads viewed "Long Trail" slides by Arthur Straffus. Mr. Straffus and his son Arthur Jr. were hikers during last year's mountain trek.

Robert Charnock Endorsement

To the Editor:

In a growing suburb such as Wayland, strong, experienced and efficient leadership in the Executive Branch of our local government is a must. The Board of Selectmen play a key role in helping to solve the increasing problems besetting our community. Robert H. Charnock has the background as proven by his capable handling of Planning Board responsibilities and by his work on the Committee to Study Town Government.

These qualifications together with his broad business experience make him an ideal choice for Wayland's Board of Selectmen.

ELATION runs riot as Buddy Foster and Eddie Perkins are lifted aloft by Weston rooters following the Wildcat's 56-47 victory over the highly touted West Bridgewater hoopsters. This was the semifinal game of the Class D Eastern Massachusetts Interscholastic Basketball Tournament March 6.

Weston In Final Of Tech Tourney With Strong Bridgewater

WESTON -- "We might just surprise a few people," said Bob Carini, coach of the Weston Wildcats a week before the Eastern Mass. Interscholastic Basketball Tournament began. And his forecast has proved accurate.

In the Class D semifinal played Monday at Boston Garden, the Wildcats downed favorite WestBridgewater, 56-47. The Weston effort snipped West Bridgewater's impressive 22-game winning streak.

Key to the Weston victory was its steel-nerved accuracy from the foul line. The Dual County League representative converted 10 successive foul shots. They tallied for 12 of 13 free throws in the fourth-period sprint that turned into a gallop.

Bud Foster led an inspired offensive drive that complemented the rebounding performance of Ed Perkins, the captain. This combination dampened a late-period surge by the West Bridgewater squad.

At the fourth-quarter mark, West Bridgewater led 43-33, largely on the performance of Ron Broman, the 6-foot, 3-inch brother of the Brown University basketball captain who was the game's high scorer with 20 points.

Foster, Perkins, and King scored 18, 14, and 11 respectively, for the winning team. Weston will meet Bridgewater in the final Class D competition on Friday. Bridgewater downed Wayland 68-48 in its second game of the Eastern Mass. campaign and handed a sound lacing to Lynnfield in its semifinal round.

Weston can look for a busy session against Bridgewater's three P's -- Steve Pivacek, Steve Prophett, and Paul Pallatroni. In beating Lynnfield, these three tallied 22, 21 and 10 points respectively for a resounding 53 points.

Weston made it to the final by downing Story of Georgetown in

Weston LWV To Sponsor Budget-Hearing

WESTON -- Weston's League of Women Voters is sponsoring a buffet supper on Monday night, March 13 at 7 p.m. in the Lower Town Hall. The supper will precede the Budget Hearing to be held in the Town Hall by Weston Selectmen at 8 p.m. the same evening. All Weston voters are invited, and those planning to attend the supper should telephone Mrs. Gordon L. Brownell, CE 5-4130.

According to Mrs. Hoyt Ecker, president of the Weston League, almost every article on the agenda of a town meeting is related to the Town Budget. With the Weston Town Meeting scheduled for Monday night, March 27, those who attend the March 13 Budget Hearing will be much better prepared to exercise their vote intelligently at the Town Meeting.

Turn Off The Faucets!

WESTON -- In view of the long period of mild weather the Water Department of the town of Weston announces that it is no longer necessary to keep water running in homes to prevent service-line freezeup as previously requested.

Wayland Eyes School Budget At LWV Night

WAYLAND -- Wayland's school budget outpaced all topics by the sell-known "country mile" at the League of Women Voters annual town budget discussion on March 2 at the new Senior High School.

The discussion, which was the League's fourth annual event in this field, was preceded by a casserole supper in the new cafeteria provided by Wayland League members. Then all adjourned to the nearby Little Theater where the discussion was conducted under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Flanagan, president of the League.

The League's meeting was open to the public and its importance was underlined by the fact that several members of the Board of Selectmen, the School Committee, and the Finance Committee were on hand to answer questions. Town

Weston, Wayland Burglaries Solved

WAYLAND -- Cases of school burglaries in Weston and Wayland appear closed with the apprehension of two Maine men by the Wayland and Sudbury police during the morning of Feb. 28.

Alphie J. Gagnon, 23, and Maynard L. Bragnon 20, of Ashland, Me., admitted the local breaks along with those in Maine, Meridan, Conn., and in Waltham, Sudbury, Framingham, Maynard, Hudson, Natick, Marlboro, Needham and Ashland.

Officer Val White of the Sudbury police, alone in his cruiser, noted the car driven by Gagnon and Bragnon moving slowly along Route 20 in Sudbury with one tail-light not operating. He called the Wayland police for reinforcement and a cruiser manned by Wayland Officers John Phylis and John Brady met the Sudbury cruiser and the suspicious auto at Wayland Motors on Route 20.

While the Sudbury officer and officer Phylis questioned the men, officer Brady found a crowbar and other burgular tools in the rear of the car. The suspects were taken into custody.

Frank O. Shaw, Weston chief of police, said the men broke into the

Weston Rotarians Plan Annual Speech Contest

FOURTEEN Weston High School seniors recently gave five-minute talks on "What are the greatest influences on a teen ager's morals?" before the student body. Given the subject on which they were to speak just one half hour before assembly time, the students then decided what they would say and how they would say it.

Five top winners, selected by Speech majors at Simmons College, will appear before the Weston Rotary Club on April 27. The club, which sponsors the contest each year, will give $250 for first prize, $100 for second prize. The other three will receive money for books.

Redevelopment Authority To Begin Operations

WAYLAND -- A. William Rowe, state-appointed member of the Wayland Redevelopment Authority, says he feels the ground-work for the authority has been done solidly over the past year and that it is "ready to get to work."

At the last meeting of the interim board on Feb. 13, the authority selected Morton D. Braun of Lincoln and the firm of which he is a partner, Planning and Renewal Associates of Cambridge, as the professional planner to be retained by the authority.

Federal Funds

No specific project has been officially decided upon to date. However, the Dudley Pond area is under consideration, asserts Mr. Rowe.

Work previously accomplished by the town such as the putting in of roads would count towards its share of the financial contribution for the project. Therefore, it is likely that most or all of the cost would be footed by the federal and state government.

When the board meets again, it will have its members which were chosen at the March 6 election.

Briefly, the history of the authority is as follows:

On April 6, 1960 the authority was created under Article 19 of the town warrant. Mr. Rowe was appointed by the state for a three-year term on May 25 and took office June 1.

On Aug. 18, he was requested by the board of selectmen to organize the authority with the members appointed by the board on Aug. 17. The first meeting of the new authority was well on Sept. 14.

Received Certificate

Organization was complete and the proper papers filed with the State Housing Board and the office of the Secretary of State and the authority received its certificate on Oct. 4.

Mr. Rowe is high in his appraisal of the organization headed by Mr. Braun. As the planner for the city of Malden Mr. Braun was able to get the program organized and approval from the federal government within 30 days, observes Mr. Rowe. He adds that it is vital to engage a planner who has the know-how to achieve quick results in dealing with governmental agencies.

Workers Thanked By Heart Fund

WAYLAND -- Congratulations and gratitude were offered to Wayland 1961 Heart Fund volunteers today by Kenneth M. Blair general chairman of the February drive.

Credit for the success of the drive chairman Blair declared, is due to the volunteer workers, including Mrs. Kenneth M. Blair, Sedgemeadow Rd., Heart Sunday Chairman; William Cahill, 20 Wimbletan Circle, Merchants Chairman; Jackson Turner, West Newton Savings Bank, Treasurer; and Mrs. Henry M. Doane, 41 Lincoln Rd., Advance Gifts Chairman.

District captains, vitally important in Heart's volunteer organization, were:

Mrs. Donald Robertson, Mrs. Paul Moorehead, Mrs. Kenneth Scott, Mrs. Batten, Mrs. Robert Kenyon, Mrs. Calvin Chamberlain, Mrs. Theodore Musto, Mrs. Charles Campbell, Mrs. Edward Halloran, Mrs. Leslie Caulfield, Mrs. William Hammond, Mrs. James Graham, Mrs. Joseph Save, Mrs. Thomas Miller, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Clinton Lee and Mrs. Christopher Van Curan.

On Feb. 22, 1909, President Theodore Roosevelt reviewed the Great White Fleet at Hampton Roads, Va., upon its return from a world cruise.

"CONTEMPORARY TRENDS in Modern Painting" written by Nello Ponente was recently presented to the Weston Public Library by the Weston Arts and Crafts Association. The book was purchased with funds from sales at one of the association's three exhibitions. Left to right: Mrs. George Ingram Jr., secretary of the association; Mrs. Gustave J. Dammin of the association; Grant M. Palmer Jr., library trustee; and Miss Jeannett Favreau, librarian.

Wayland Election Results

KEVIN WHITE, Mass. Secretary of State, visited Wayland during the March 6 elections. Speaking with Miss Leila Sears, town clerk, Mr. White said:

I am here today primarily in the capacity of an observer. Technically, it is the responsibility of the Secretary of State office to supervise and report all elections held within the Commonwealth. I am endeavoring along with members of my staff, to study and witness on the scene the operational functioning of election day procedures. Conducting the elections is but a small part of the multiple duties and responsibilities of a town clerk. The relationship between my office and that of the town clerk has traditionally been a close one. It is my hope that we will have an opportunity to review administrative problems and procedures to the end that both our offices may render the most efficient service possible to the public. (Fink Photo)

WAYLAND -- With only about one-half of the registered voters turning out for the March 6 elections, all candidates for re-election were returned to office with one exception.

In the Park Department contest, Frank S. Tarr, an incumbent selectman, was defeated by political newcomer Joseph P. Horvath, 906 - 823. At the selectman level, incumbent Thomas Francis Linnehan edged past Robert H. Charnock by 21 votes, 1,013 to 992.

What might have been an interesting story in the constable contest failed to develop as Miss Phylis Butler, competing for one of the seven posts against her father, John P. Butler and her brother George J. Butler came out as low woman on the vote-getting totem pole.

Precinct One turned out 1,447 voters and Precinct Two, 1,188 for a total of 2,635. There were 5,340 voters eligible.

Disposition of Marshlands

Many-Faceted Proposition

While there is much to be said against over-reliance on the federal government there are many factors to consider in contemplating the best way in which to preserve the Sudbury Valley marshlands.

The local communities have not acted: the first "study" of the problem, with "recommendations" for action was made prior to the year 1700 and there have been dozens since. All have been approved, filed and forgotten at the state and community level. Only five years ago the state legislature approved of the plan and directed the Department of Natural Resources to acquire the marshes - but then refused to appropriate any funds.

As a practical matter, with the fiscal problems faced by the local communities and the Commonwealth, it is not realistic to expect Wayland or any other town to add several dollars to its tax rate over several years to purchase this marshland. There are at least eight different communities involved, and past experience has demonstrated repeatedly that in any such regional program requiring overall action transcending town boundaries, a higher level of governmental action is needed if anything is to be accomplished.

Ownership by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service will not bring "ruin"! Anyone doubting this is invited to visit the Great Meadows National Wildlife Refuge in Concord, Mass., to see for themselves. Nor will the purchase be financed by our general taxes: special taxes (initiated at the request of sportsmen) on waterfowl-hunting licenses and equipment are used exclusively for the purchase of such wildlife refuges and cannot legally be used for any other purpose.

As one of the most important freshwater marshes remaining in the northeast, the importance of the Sudbury-Concord marshes transcends state boundaries.

It also should be emphatically pointed out that the object here is reservation of habitat - to keep the valley floor as it is. There are many ways in which this may be done, and the Fish and Wildlife Service, traditionally defer to the wishes of the present owners in this regard. Some of these ways are:

Purchase of "development rights" - i.e., the marshes can never be filled, but the title may remain with and be conveyed by an individual owner;

Agreement not to fill, and guarantee "first refusal" to the Wildlife Service if it is ever to be sold;

Outright purchase at its fair market value.

As a practical matter, it is understood that if the necessary legal authorization is granted, the process of acquisition will be a gradual one over a considerable period of years, as various tracts come on the market or whose purchase can be readily negotiated. However, they will be authorized to take any portion by eminent domain if an owner seeks to destroy its wildlife value and use it in a manner which will thwart the overall objectives of the Refuge.

We need only to look at the valleys of the Neponset, Charles and Mystic Rivers to see what happens eventually. With land selling on Route 128 at up to $40,000 per acre, time is running out!

We need only to look at the valleys of the Neponset, Charles and Mystic Rivers to see what happens when time runs out before the affected communities arrive at a concerted program of river-valley preservation.

Letters to the EDITOR

Who Pays The Cost?

To the Editor:

The problem of the so called "Slip ramp" from Rte 128 on the south side of town raises a serius consideration.

Who pays for the increased expense for widening roads and providing services resulting from the actions of a non-town agency on the borders of the town - be it state roads or a large corporation operating on recently rezoned land which requires that roads be widened.

Should the citizens of a town bear the expense? What recourse do we have when the state thrusts part of its Rte. 128 widening pro gram expense upon us or a large corporation dumps greatly increased traffic on our narrow residential roads? It seems that there might be a definite parallel in principle between the Loring Rd. and Lexington St. problems.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- D. B. Maher, S.J., sends some interestng reports of birds seen on the Weston College grounds - a flock of Snow Buntings on Feb. 3, a wintering Hermit Thrush on Feb. 14 - 15, a flock of Cowbirds on Feb. 19, and a pair of Green-winged Teal circling the frozen pond, also on Feb. 19.

A female Common Merganser was seen with the Hooded on the Ash Street Reservoir (Smith, Feb. 15), and there was an immature Glaucous Gull at the Duck Feeding Area on Feb. 21 - the first this winter (Koe and Smith). It was seen again on the 22nd by H. T. Wiggin.

An adult Red-shouldered Hawk, sitting in a tree near the Route 30 - 128 interchange, was seen Feb. 16 by Mrs. R. P. Emery; and Mrs. B. S. Kelleigh, formerly of Wayland, now living in South Lincoln, saw a Pileated Woodpecker near Farrar's Pond on Feb. 21.

A Saw-whet Owl was found dead Feb. 20 by R. O. Burns at the Dumaines on Newton St. There are only three previous Weston records - 1944 (Fales), 1948 (Smith), and 1950 (Maddock).

Mrs. C. E. Hardy, Oak St., who first reported the Reeves' Pheasant in Nov., has been seeing an entirely dark-brown pheasant, with Ring-necks and about the same size. Dark-plumaged (melanistic) Ring-necks are reported occasionally, according to Dr. A. J. Meyerriecks, Mass. Audubon Society.

Mrs. D. Foster, Church St., had a large flock of Goldfinches (35-40) at her feeder on Feb. 18; and Mrs. F. C. Dumaine, Newton St., had Redpolls there recently.

Another report of Snow Buntings comes from Miss Charlotte Paine, Highland St., who first saw them about three weeks ago. Although the flock is now reduced, she saw as many as 35. Mrs. R. P. Emery, who compiles the Records of N.E. Birds for Mass. Audubon, says that there has been an unusual number of inland Snow Bunting reports this winter.

Mourning Doves were first heard calling on Feb. 16 (Smith), a few grackles have been reported, and Redwings are due any time now!

The first Weston Red-winged Blackbird was reported by Mrs. D. Davidson, Golden Ball Rd. on Feb. 26, with the second seen by R. M. Hills on Feb. 27 at the Weston Golf Course, and the third

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Roots Of Town Government Tap British Sources

Yes, indeed, as we briefly noted in this column last week, most of our town offices go back to Old England.

Moderators, to start at the top of the list, had been chosen by congregations in the old country before Massachusetts Bay was settled in 1620 and 1630; so it was natural for the congregations to do the same when they set up towns in New England. And if you think that a moderator's firm hand was not needed, you have only to delve into old town records. One discord succeeds another there.

To make town meeting legal, a constable had to call it; and still does. Constables today are well down in the list of town officers, but the Lord High Constable of England was once preceded only by the King himself.

Selectmen

How about the executive officers of our towns, the selectmen. Again we go back to the vils, towns, boroughs and parishes of England. Today we scarcely appreciate the role of the church in the old town. Said England's famous Lord Chief Justice, Sir Edward Coke, "It cannot be a town in law unless it hath or in past time hath had a church." Town and parish were often one. In England often the elected vestry of the parish supervised local affairs.

In New England each of the new towns promptly chose an executive board, at first unnamed: "the five men", or "the seven men", or "the townsmen", and after a couple of decades called them "Selectmen".

In 1634 in one town "It was ordered that they shall meet every first Monday in a month", and in many towns they still do. Today the number of selectmen in Massachusetts towns remains three, five, or seven.

Haywards

Dorchester, home of the first tax-supported public school, chose three "school overseers" or "wardens" in 1645, forerunner of our school committees. Whether this too may have had a counterpart in Old England I cannot say; but English towns had been choosing wardens for many purposes for generations. Among these, for instance, were haywards; nothing at all to do with hay, but rather about hedges. In Massachusetts, with fences replacing hedges, they became fence-viewers; still on our town list.

If affairs were to be conducted in due order, someone must keep records. So each New England town almost at once picked a "Towne Clark", or a "Recorder", and there is one still in your town hall today; but he has come to spell his title differently. His office of keeping births, deaths, transfers of property and notes of meetings was merely a duplicate of duties across the Atlantic.

Taxes, Taxes, Taxes

Crossing the sea did not do away with local taxation. That required bringing across the office of "Lister" or "Assessor", to value property. Right away tax money (or goods) began to come in, and the "Townes Tresurer" became necessary, (often a selectman).

With the town plan laid out, including highways, houselots, and distant fields, another traditional English officer was promptly installed, the Highway Surveyor. His title is still to be found in all but the largest New England towns. His duty was "to see the highways and streete be kept cleare and in repair for the year following". Back at least as far as Henry VIII, the duty of the office had been "to see that every man repairs the highway over against his own tenement".

Pound-Keepers

The Sealer (or Overseer) of Weights and Measures is another anciant town official, brought, along with his scale, weights, and round pecks and bushels, straight from Great Britain.

But "the time would fail me to tell of" the pound-keepers, (still elected into this century), the many reeves, measurers and surveyors of this, that, and the other: of leather, meat, fish, casks, bricks, wood and lumber, tobacco and other commodities, chosen at one time or another in our towns. Some of their functions are still local; more have been assumed by state or nation. Some are obsolescent.

Does all this sound archaic? We have been a long, long time a-growing! Think of what the new African states must improvise - in a few minutes, as, in history, time is measured!

The roots of what we term self-government strike very, very deep.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

A Trip to Plum Island

Last week, four of us played hookey and took a trip to the Federal Fish and Wildlife preserve on Plum Island in Newbury, Mass. This was my first trip there, and it was well worth the hour-and-a-quarter ride.

At this time of year the water fowl and shore birds are starting their trips North, and this preserve is one of their coastal resting places.

As you approach Plum Island over the causeway, you can see hundreds of small cottages, hot dog stands and beer joints -- this is all crowded on private land at the North end of the island.

But take a turn to the south at the end of the causeway, and you enter the Preserve area. The dirt road runs down the sand dunes, with the Parker River on the right, and the Atlantic Ocean on the left.

The only buildings out there are the Fish and Wildlife quarters and a small polio camp. The place seems to be well picked-up, and is left pretty much in its natural state with the addition of fields planted to bird-food crops and a couple of elevated bird-watching houses.

I wonder what would have happened to this area in time if it had not been purchased as a preserve?

There was one area where we could see a line of Canada Geese, Black Ducks and a few other types -- and this line seemed to go on for a half mile. From the top of the dunes we looked out to sea and saw four or five different kinds of Sea Ducks and The Purple Sandpipers and Horned Larks were back also.

This probably was old stuff to the real "dyed-in-the-wool" bird-watchers, but to an amateur it all made a pretty worth while day. We may have played hookey -- but it was one of those days they'll never be able to take away from us.

P.S. There is a Snow Goose in with the Canada Geese up back of Hurd's Pond at this writing.

Mr. Perry is survived by his wife, Doris O. Perry; his mother Mrs. J. B. Perry; a daughter, Mrs. Diane O. Matthews of Needham, and a son, John B. Perry of Sudbury.

After World War 11, at the request of the War Department, he was in charge of appraisals of German industrial plants for war reparation, and was one of a committee of five in the same operation in Japan. Before joining Jackson and Moreland in 1920 he worked on financial and economic studies for public utilities.

Dr. Wood's Lecture in Weston For Combined Women's Group

(Here is a synopsis of the talk by Dr. Robert C. Wood of MIT before the combined meeting of the Women's Community League of Weston and the Weston League of Women Voters, March 6.)

WESTON -- Dr. Wood treated the problem of today's urban growth by discussing the decline of the city as a physical, social, economic and political entity. He pointed out that formerly the city, with its emphasis on business and industry was to American people an integral part of their way of life.

Under pressure of population growth, the influence of technology, and with the changing expectations of the nation, the classic city model underwent increasing stress until after World War II it was completely shattered.

The most obvious change was physical, the resultant "sprawl" or "black top culture." Another important change was that in metropolitan areas, like has sought out like and persons with similar jobs, income, and styles of living have tended to congregate in separate municipalities.

Ideology Disappearing

The economic emphasis has turned to consumption. The urban ideology has disappeared, the city today being not the hub of an urban universe, but the receptacle for whatever the suburbs do not want.

The consequences of these changes were noted, the first being a breakdown in communication between classes and groups in the urban region, minority groups in cities grasping for political control and suburban communities working feverishly to perfect their legal barriers of zoning laws, building codes and master plans. Secondly, Dr. Wood noted the new role of governments, local governments maneuvering to take care of their own, while the professional administrator of the public authorities, state boards, commissions, etc. go forward with development in piecemeal fashion - here a highway, there a slum clearance program. The result is stop and start development, waste of resources.

For the future, Dr. Wood predicted a slow change. A set of governing arrangements will gradually evolve, neither wholly public nor private in character. We are seeing the prototypes of these organizations today in area development divisions of consulting firms, urban extension programs, etc. These new arrangements, while having their defects, will provide much needed talent to consideration of urban problems and will encourage cooperation and experimentation.

Finally, Dr. Wood predicted that while we will not disintegrate into chaos, we will not build an urban civilization with the form and cultural character that we ourselves remember.

WALTHAM NURSING HOME

" 24 Hour Nursing Care "

TW 3-6944

91 Summer Street

Tha Waltham Nursing Home, formerly the residence of Congressman Luce, is an immaculate home which offers 24-hour professional nursing care. Located at 91 Summer Street it rates highly with the State Dept. of Public Health and with the doctors who care for its patients. Being one of the few well established nursing homes around since its beginning in 1948, its ownership has remained within the same family.

Unlike a great many nursing homes throughout the state, the Waltham Nursing Home is unique. Every one of its patients, regardless of their condition, is of a desirable type. When one enters its front doors there is a clean and pleasant atmosphere about. There is not that institutional look that is usually expected. In passing through the corridors and looking into various rooms one does not see sickness and discomfort, but rather friendly and happy faces. Those patients are given excellent nursing care and are kept clean and comfortable at all times, whether they are convalescing, aged, diabetic, or post operative.

Many things make the Waltham Nursing Home one of the very best of its kind because it is immaculately clean and free from odors, the care is kind and professional, there is excellent food and along with every maximum safety requirement, everyone is happy. If you would like, please visit us, inspect our facilities, have a friendly chat with the nurses and patients or inquire of your doctor who is our best reference.

At the present time, the core committee serving as a planning board, consists of members having scores from 36 to 40 points.

office of the principal at Weston High School on the morning of Dec. 15 and took $1,183 from the safe. A window was broken to gain admittance and the safe was opened by a sledge hammer.

The two entered Wayland High School by breaking a window on Jan. 4. According to officer Edward Burke of the Wayland police, a safe was smashed and the men made off with $302. Damage to the building amounted to $500.

On the same date, the Happy Hollow school suffered $1,000 damage as the thieves tried for a sizable haul but managed to find but $25.

They were arraigned in Superior Court in Cambridge on March 8.

Budget

officials also were seated in the audience for the same purpose.

They appeared to welcome the opportunity to discuss budget issues and expressed regret that the meeting was not better attended. Residents who inform themselves at the budget meeting, it was pointed out, generally do not need to take up time at the town meeting and delay its proceedings.

In the big beautiful building which is part of the cause of the record budget, residents learned, that the school budget is $1,375,000, or nearly half of the record $2,585,000 town budget to be voted on March 8 at town meeting.

The prospects for school costs becoming smaller in the immediate future are not good. As Robert Morgan, chairman of the Finance Committee pointed out, the school budget is "a reflection of what the town wants." He pointed out that general government expenses for the town are down. The school budget mirrors the fact that the town is growing, he said.

In terms of children already born, school department statistics forecast that 324 children will enter the system next year, 355 the following year, 273 and 331 in successive years. This is an average of over 11 classrooms of entering children based on the 25 children - per - teacher ratio in Wayland.

Wayland is facing a general 10 per cent annual increase in school population.

Biggest item in the school budget is teachers' salaries, it was explained. Average annual teacher salary is now $5,600 compared with $2,600 a decade ago.

The town's $422 cost-per-pupil for the school year measures up to nearby communities, as well as national costs, it was learned. The median cost for 25 top school systems in the state stands at $419. The average cost median is $391.

Whether it is worth these costs is indicated by the fact that 73 per cent of children now graduated from Wayland's schools go on to higher institutions of learning, as compared with 40 to 45 per cent less than 10 years ago.

School budget reductions could be effected in less school bus service, less community use of school buildings and continuance of the present policy of no kindergartens, Mr. Morgan said. But Wayland is a school bus town, he pointed out. Opinion at the meeting also held that reduction of school building use would severely limit many valuable and useful school functions as well as town activities.

Bound to raise some controversy in the health budget is an item of $1,300 for the town's share of a mental-health clinic at Framingham. An initial item, based on a cost of 50 cents a pupil, the mental health clinic is a district operation.

Discussion centered around the question of whether or not this is an item of private or public concern. Statistics show that up to one-third of children entering school may have mental problems. Detection of this fact, proponents argue, catches problems in incipient stages and, perhaps more unhappily, traces them back to homes where the juvenile trait may have started.

Snow-removal costs, it was estimated, may be upped by approximately $7,000, as compared with the $15,000 now allocated for these costs.

The meeting learned that the town's welfare costs were considerably lowered by the removal of sub-standard houses on town ponds. In many cases, welfare recipients were living in these dilapitated and under-standard dwellings.

The town's cash position was held good and it may be depended upon for borrowings to enlarge the planned Claypit and Loker School additions, it was also learned.

MRS. ROBERT HOSKINS of Weston and Ginnie, Walter, and Frank perch on the corral fence at Camelback Inn on the Arizona desert near Phoenix, where they are sharing a winter holiday. The youngsters are participating in the popular Hopalong College program for vacationing 4 to 12 year olds.

Something About Birds

by W. R. Koe on Feb. 28 at the Duck Feeding Area.

Mr. Koe also reports an unusual number of Great Black-backed Gulls on Feb. 28 -- 8-9 adults and 14-15 immatures. He saw two Iceland Gulls on Feb. 24, and the Glaucous Gull appeared again on Feb. 28. Ever since the first so-called "white-winged" gulls were seen there in March 1947 (C.E. Smith), the Duck Feeding Area has become one of the few nearby inland areas where Iceland, Glaucous, and occasionally Kumlien's Gulls may be seen regularly in winter, providing an excellent close-range view.

Mrs. J. H. Lawson saw two male Common Mergansers at the Ash St. Reservoir on Feb. 24, pairs of Black Ducks are beginning to appear on open water of ponds and brooks, and a few Wood Ducks should arrive soon.

A Great Blue Heron was seen on Feb. 23 at the Charles River where Route 128 crosses (P. Gardent). This was probably a winterer, as migrants usually do not appear until the second week of March.

Mrs. T. H. Batey, Silver Hill Rd. has been seeing three Ruffed Grouse eating buds in one of her apple trees; and a Screech Owl was heard giving its "spring call" for several hours on the evenings of Feb. 27 and 28 (C. E. Smith).

Wayland Garden Club Holds Conservation Meeting

WAYLAND -- The Massachusetts Audubon Society presented "A Conservation Program for Massachusetts" at the Feb. 28 meeting of the Wayland Garden Club. The meeting was held at the Congregational Church at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. W. Floyd Wilkinson was tea chairman assisted by Mrs. John Dunning, Mrs. Donald Ewing, Mrs. Dunbar Holmes, Mrs. Mrs. Richard Patch and Mrs. Harold Smith.

Weston Police Force Alert To Latest Methods

WESTON -- "Even though Weston is generally thought of as a quiet, residential community, the police department must be prepared for anything unexpected."

Frank O. Shaw, under whose administration as chief the Weston police force is taking important steps towards becoming one of the state's better trained and alert law enforcement organizations, takes this view of his work:

"Better training of police officers at the local level is a firm foundation for more effective cooperation among all levels of law enforcement."

Practical manifestation of this theory is to be found in the training and refresher courses undertaken by the Weston police unit. Monday night, the subject was weapons.

Other classes cover motor - vehicle law, criminal law, patrol procedures, station record - management and procedure, report writing, fingerprinting, and first aid.

The chief is anxious for all of his 12 regulars and 6 reservists to take as many of the courses in police work offered by state and federal agencies as possible. He himself has trained at the Worcester Police Academy, attended the Massachusetts State Police School for Local Officers, and the FBI School of Police Administration.

"People always expect emergencies and tragedy to strike somewhere else or to someone else," observes Chief Shaw. "But a police force can't operate on that premise. Weston lies under an aircraft route to Logan Airport and is not far from the landing patterns at Bedford."

On March 8, the chief and Sgt. Harold L. Lingley will attend a course in Bedford given by the United States Air Force dealing with the handling of crowds, rescue and safety operations. At a later date, the same course will be given to the other members of the department by Chief Shaw and Sergeant Lingley.

National 4-H Club Week In Weston, Wayland

WAYLAND -- During National 4 H Club Week, the Town Crier would like to pay tribute to The Wayland 4 H Horse Club, one of the first clubs of its kind in the country. It was founded ten years ago in response to a need for a program to interest young people in good horsemanship and stable management. Membership is open to all boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 21 who either own a horse or pony or have full access to the use of one.

The program stresses riding improvement, care and control of the horse, safety in the stable and on the roads and trails, and stable management.

In the fall the Wayland Club puts on its Gymkhana, a small horse show, which features the 4 H fitting-and-showing contest and games played on horseback. In the spring, it joins with Weston in sponsoring a horse show which has become widely know. The third major event is the 20-mile competitive trail ride which takes place in early November.

During the club year, riding meetings are held when weather permits. In the winter, talks are given by a local vet on the common diseases and unsoundness of the horse, and by a local blacksmith on the care of the feet.

Surprise inspection of the member's stable, horse, tack, and records are made monthly by club leaders.

The members of the Wayland club are: Carol Bigwood, Sandy Cain, Mildred Capello, Phyllis Cox, Leslie Cutler, Susan Cutler, Susan Finlay, Sheila Foster, Karen Freeman, Polly Hammond, Kathy Hocking, Judy Santamaria, Elsie Schneider, and Mindy Sibley.

The leaders are Mrs. John P. Sibley, Mrs. Roger E. Ela, and Mrs. Archibald Cox.

ELSIE SCHNEIDER, president of the 4-H riding organization, riding Sonny.

WESTON -- 4-H Club members from Wayland and Weston will be joining more than 1 1/4 million boys and girls in celebrating National 4-H Club Week, March 4-11.

4-H Club work is an educational program for boys and girls 9 - 21. Club members carry on one or more of the several projects offered and are under the guidance of adult leaders. Leaders in the community give freely of their time and talent so that boys and girls may have the benefit and training provided through 4-H. Without these public spirited men and women it would be impossible to conduct a successful 4-H program.

The following are 4-H leaders in Wayland for 1961, and included are the projects which they are leading:

Clothing - Mrs. D. A. Donahue, 60 Dean Rd.

Garden - Mrs. William Goetz, Lincoln Rd. and Mrs. D. D. Robertson, Gray Birch Lane.

Horse - Mrs. John Sibley, Glezen Lane; Mrs. Archibald Cox, Glezen Lane and Mrs. Roger Ela, Shaw Drive.

The leaders in Weston are as follows:

Horse - Mrs. Robert Crockett, 2 Ripley Lane; Mrs. Frank Carter Jr., 751 Boston Post Rd.; Mrs. Carl Johnson, 83 Concord Rd. and Mrs. Edward Rayner, 823 Boston Post Rd.

Weston Group Cites School Expenses

WESTON -- At the Feb. 23 meeting of the Weston Civic Association, Arthur Sperry, moderator, revealed that the latest (1959) Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Education Annual Report listed Weston as having the highest cost per high school student of any town in the Commonwealth.

The cost per high school student in Weston, according to the report, is $717.00 per year. According to Mr. James Gahan, chairman of the School Committee, Belmont, the comparable figure for Belmont is $540.00. Besides Mr. Gahan, the other discussion panel leaders were Mrs. Philip Frank, of the School Committee of Framingham, and Mr. Arthur Johns, Chairman of the School Committee, Winchester.

While a number of factors bear on the high cost per pupil, Mr. Sperry indicated that the apparent reason for Weston's high cost per high school pupil is in large measure due to the low ratio of teacher to pupil. The data presented shows that there are an average of only 11.3 pupils per teacher in the Weston High School, compared with around 30 pupils per teacher in Framingham, and about 24 to 25 pupils per teacher in Winchester and Belmont.

In respect to teachers' salaries, Weston and Framingham were at the top of all towns in Eastern Massachusetts with an average salary of $6,900. Other towns are not far behind. According to Mr. Johns, the average in Winchester is $6,500, and Mr. Gahan asserted that the average figure for Belmont is near the same figure.

Charts prepared by Arthur Sperry from data published in the Massachusetts Annual Report showed that at $343 per pupil, Weston's grade school costs were in the upper fourth price bracket. The figures quoted for high school and grade school costs encompass only salaries and operating expenses. Capital school expenditures were not included.

Troop One Holds Feb. Meeting

WAYLAND - The February meeting of the Troop Committee was held at the Scout House, Sunday evening, February 19th.

Among the items discussed were the presentation of a new flag and the burning of the 48-star flag currently used by the Troop. Tentatively, June 14th was the date selected.

The Troop has received verification of its site-reservation at Camp Resolute for the week of July 9-15.

The district-sponsored recognition dinner, to be held on March 18th at Lower Nevins Hall in Framingham, was discussed especially because of the unique plan outlined for this year's edition of an annual event. Publicity for the Dinner was planned so that friends and parents could plan to attend this unusually unique activity. Mrs. George S. Brown, wife of Scoutmaster Brown, has agreed to serve as Chairman of the local reservation committee.

Robert Hawes, Committee Treasurer, submitted his resignation because his absence from the community is increasing as a result of his business activity. Harold Dod, Committee Camping and Activities Coordinator, accepted the nomination and was elected to serve as Treasurer.

Long-range plans for an Old Timers' Dinner were considered.

First Wayland Meeting Handles Four Articles In 30-Item Warrant

WAYLAND -- The first session of town meeting on Wednesday, March 8, approved only four articles in the 30-item warrant but managed to get by the traditionally sticky one -- the town budget, No. 4 -- before adjournment.

The second session was held in the field house of the new Senior High School on Wednesday, March 15. (As the Town Crier was being printed Wednesday, the March 15 meeting will be covered in the March 23 issue). The first session was not held in the field house, according to an explanation of the selectmen, because they were not sure whether the building would be finished in time for town meeting.

The new field house will be needed for future town meetings judging from the attendance at the first session. Despite a storm, the meeting was well attended, filling up the gymnasium hall, bleachers, and space in the rear. An overflow meeting was held in the adjoining cafeteria.

It was hopefully estimated that the March 15 meeting should dispose of the warrant. One article having to do with controversial business zoning on Commonwealth Avenue East in Cochituate, it is understood will be recommended to be passed over. However, old hands at town meetings say one never can tell what article the voters will fasten onto and shake.

The selectmen have worked diligently this year to keep the warrant within manageable proportions. Protracted town meeting sessions, according to a knowledgeable source, are endangering the popular open form and are leading to pressures for representative type meetings in order to get the town's business accomplished without delays.

The total town budget announced by Robert Morgan, chairman of the Finance Committee, is $2,585,268 or an increase of $365,474 over the previous year's budget. When asked the "perennial question" regarding the tax rate, Mr. Morgan said he thought it would jump $5 but would not reach $10.

Nevertheless, mood of budget cutting was in the air. Aware that they can do little about the whopping school budget, the voters tried to prune some items in the remainder of the budget but were not very successful.

Their biggest success was registered when an item to appropriate $3,000 for the new Urban Renewal Authority was turned

Weston Elections, Meeting

WESTON -- Voters are reminded that March 27 is the date for town meeting and town elections. Polls are open from 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.

No Action Now On Pond Area Authority Says

WAYLAND -- At the regular monthly meeting of the Wayland Redevelopment Authority March 13 the authority advised that it does not have any plans at this time to do anything in the Dudley Pond area or in any other area of the town.

A planner has not as yet been hired, the authority states, although Morton B. Braun of Planning and Renewal Associates, Lincoln, was interviewed at the March 13 meeting. Currently, the authority intends to study various areas in the town to determine what action, if any, is appropriate or desirable in the best interests of the people in the area affected.

The authority intends to keep the citizens fully advised of all its actions and wishes to invite any citizen of the town to attend its meetings. These are held at the town office building on the first Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m.

Several citizens attended the meeting, most of them members of the newly formed Wayland Civic Assn., and including its vice president Clifford A. Goodnow. They attended as private citizens, however, and not as an official delegation of the civic group. A spokesman said it was felt that certain areas of misunderstanding concerning the authority's plans had been cleared up.

Wayland Girl Killed By Car

WAYLAND -- Susan Confrey, 14, of 3 Pemberton Rd., Cochituate, died at Leonard Morse Hospital March 11 after being hit by an automobile while walking with three companions on East Commonwealth Rd., Cochituate earlier in the day.

The car, driven by Lawrence J. Finneran, 33, of 274 Union St., Ashland, was traveling west on Route 30, and according to police reports it struck the Confrey girl throwing her some 40 feet.

Inspector Francis Bracken of the Framingham branch of the Registry of Motor Vehicles, Ernest H. Damon, chief of the Wayland police, and George Driscoll, Wayland police officer, carried out the official investigation.

Arraigned in Framingham district court March 13, Mr. Finneran pleaded not guilty to charges of manslaughter, driving so as to endanger lives and safety of the public, and speeding. The case was continued until March 27 and probation officer surety of $500 was set by Judge Louis W. Farley.

Walking with the Confrey girl when she was struck were Maureen Carroll, 14, of 23 Old Tavern Rd., Barbara Kane, 14, of West Plain St., and Nellie Revell, 14, of Pemberton Rd. She was the daughter of Philip M. Confrey, a Wellesley mailman, and Frances M. Confrey, a nurse at Leonard Morse Hospital, but who was not on duty at the time the injured girl was brought in.

School Budget Gets Hearing In Weston

WESTON -- Weston's $1,213,400 school budget came up for public discussion in the Country School auditorium on March 7 at 8 p.m. Chairmanned by Mrs. Boardman Bump, the school committee utilized slide projections and other visual aids in an analysis of the proposed budgetary expenditures in terms of pupil growth, educational needs, and staff increases.

A questioner raised the proposition that a school budget could be written by first ascertaining how much money is at hand and then allotting this amount proportionately to the several budgetary areas. While the discussion evolving from this query was complex, the majority feeling seemed to indicate that such a budgetary philosophy could not provide the community with the caliber of education it demands.

At the outset, the school committee addressed itself to two questions: One, is the town being asked for too much money or two, is it not being asked for enough.

The presentation of data that followed prompted a member of the audience to announce that he felt the majority concurred in his opinion. This was that the statistics indicated a genuine need for the amount asked and that an even more impressive sum might have been forthcoming from the town had the school committee requested it.

At this point, Mrs. Bump adjourned the meeting.

Weston Last of Local Teams In EMass Hoop Tourney

WESTON--Weston High School's surprising basketball Wildcats, who barely made the Eastern Massachusetts Tournament under the 65 per cent qualifying rule with an 11-4 regular season mark, were the last of the area teams to be eliminated. And it took Bridgewater, last year's tourney champion to down the dark-horse Weston squad.

In the final of Class D competition March 10 at Boston Garden, Weston stayed within a point of Bridgewater until the final 30 seconds of the second period. With the score 21-22, Bridgewater's Paul Pallatroni arched a one-hander from the right corner that began a surge for the Bridgewater team that pushed them to a five-point edge by half time.

Stars for the game which ended at a decisive 57-39 were Pallatroni and Dave Messaline for Bridgewater five. Between them, they tallied 39 points. Artie King with 12 points and Ed Perkins with 11 were the point leaders for the scrappy Weston team.

Weston experienced an obvious letdown after the semifinal heat of the tourney in which they upset undefeated West Bridgewater 56-47, a team which had beaten Bridgewater twice during the regular season.

Coached by Bob Carini, the Weston squad dumped Story High of Georgetown 68-61 to open their tournament campaign and then edged Dennis-Yarmouth Regional 38-37 for the privilege of meeting West Bridgewater in the semi-final.

Bridgewater earned its chance at the final with Weston and its third Tech crown by downing three Dual County League teams: Lincoln-Sudbury Regional, 64-42;

Cancelling Schools, A Thankless Duty

If we had a column called "Thankless Duties" we would give high priority to the chore of calling off school because of weather conditions, a truly thankless duty that falls to the school superintendent.

Both Weston and Wayland cancelled schools last Thursday. A decision to close our public schools is no arbitrary matter. Both Dr. Anthony Brackett and Edward J. Anderson were pondering the picture as presented long before daybreak - icy roads, deep slush, and every evidence that more of the same was expected throughout the day.

Weather bureaus were phoned, as well as school-bus drivers living outside the Weston-Wayland area, police departments and highway officials - all this around 5 o'clock in the dark, damp morning. Nor is it uncommon for the superintendents to take to the road themselves and check the driving conditions.

All reports on Thursday were negative and so the order went out to cancel schools. During the day, the weather bypassed the weather bureau's predictions and by late afternoon strong possibilities existed that crocuses and the vernal equinox might show up this year after all. New England weather - may not be the only reason school superintendents get gray - but it helps.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Timberdoodles Have Flights of Fancy

Before many days the woodcock flight will be on as these strange looking birds move from their winter grounds in the deep south to the summer nesting grounds in New England and points north.

The woodcock is a night-feeding bird about the size of a very large robin, and is also an excellent game bird. They have good protective coloration, being a rich mottled brown, and will sit, until almost stepped on, before taking off in an erratic flight through and over the trees.

Timberdoodles

As the woodcock feeds almost exclusively on worms, nature has provided him with a long bill that has a flexible upper mandible for grabbing underground worms. While his bill is deep in the ground probing he can still keep a lookout for his enemies, as his eyes are placed well up on his head, much higher than most birds.

These "timberdoodles", as they are sometimes called, frequent marshy areas, and other places where the ground is soft and rich enough to drill for their dinner.

As in the human race, the males like to show off a bit to attract the females. The male woodcock does this by going into a courtship flight around sunset in the springtime. He will fly in a large spiral up two or three hundred feet in the air, his wings making a whistling sound, then down he comes making intermittent whistles, and lands next to the hen he is courting, etc., etc.

might check open fields that are close to swampy areas along about sunset. Sit quietly 'til after dark and listen, facing the sunset, and you might see as well as hear the "timberdoodle" having flights of fancy.

The noise he makes while on the ground however, is anyting but pretty, as it sounds like a small "Bronx cheer."

Letters to the EDITOR

Road Widening Is Urged

To the Editor:

On file at the Weston Police Department is an automobile accident report submitted by Officer Healey of the Weston Police. It describes a recent accident on Lincoln Rd. between Rte. 117 and the Lincoln town line. The statement which I wish to call to your attention is that the road in this area is not wide enough to permit the passing of autos going in opposite directions. The width of the road was a major contributing factor to the cause of the accident.

The Lincoln Planning Report prepared by Messrs. Braun and Elliott several years ago specifically recommended this section of the road be widened.

The road is heavily traveled by Weston and Lincoln residents and continues to be an extremely dangerous passing area.

In order to bring pressure to have this road widened I hope that all Weston and Lincoln residents who use this road will lend support by contacting their respective selectmen.

Helpers Needed For WaCo Teams

To the Editor:

About this time of year it has been customary to begin to organize the spring and summer WaCo baseball program for the boys and girls of Wayland.

This has been a growing program over the past seven years. Last year hundreds of boys played baseball and almost a hundred girls played softball.

This program is entirely conducted by volunteer workers. As the program expands the need becomes more pressing to enlist men and women to conduct the various phases of the program, which range from the Little Nippers Leagues (ages 8 - 10) through the Babe Ruth and Prep Leagues for boys up to 18, as well as girls softball.

We are holding our first organizational meeting Sunday, March 19, at 2 p.m. in the Cochituate Fire House. It is my earnest hope that this year we can attract new blood to work with us. This group is not and has never been a closed corporation! We want and welcome new faces. There is a particular need for people to work with the older boys and also for volunteers to work in the girls' softball program.

William M. Young
Acting Commissioner
WaCo Program.

Appreciation For Coverage

To the Editor:

As a private citizen (not even a member of the League of Women Voters!) I want to thank you for the excellent coverage you gave each candidate for office in our town elections. Reporting on Candidates' Night was very good, and all the additional stories you did on the various office-seekers was most helpful to all of us who went to the polls.

If any voters felt they were not sufficiently well-informed on candidates' backgrounds and qualifications, it certainly was not the fault of The Town Crier.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

March 17, 1776 Was A Memorable Day

You might infer that March 17 is only a day for shamrock and the wearing of the green: but hereabouts it is also the day when in 1776, the proud army and fleet of Great Britain bowed to Geroge Washington and his militia, ended their occupation of Boston, and sailed away - for good.

Rebellious Boston, you will recall, had been garrisoned by British troops since 1768. By 1776, they numbered 8,000 men. Since Bunker Hill, in the previous year, Washington had come north to take command of the patriot New England forces. Patiently he trained his troops, and began systematically to invest the town, stationing them everywhere to the north and west.

Dorchester

To the south of Boston town, across the river and the marshes from Cambridge, rose Dorchester Heights. It overlooked the town and the harbor entrance at Castle Island, but was unfortified.

After Col. Knox had dragged the guns east from Ticonderoga over the snow, his sleds finally crossing the Sudbury River and heading down the Post Rd. through Weston to Cambridge, Washington was able to act. He had accumulated some powder, and now he had badly needed artillery.

Weston Militia

The Council for Massachusetts ordered five regiments of militia from nearby towns to assemble. Among them was the Third Middlesex, which included Major Samuel Lamson and a company of 51 men from Weston.

On the night of March 3, Washington began a cannonade, the British answering. The following evening, as soon as dark fell, while the guns boomed again, the Weston company and 750 other militia men and many volunteers, together with 300 oxcarts filled with bales of pressed hay, crowbars, spades and other tools, headed across the frozen marshes toward Dorchester Heights.

It had been a mild winter: the frost was only 18 inches deep. The men soon were throwing up earth works with a will, and setting cannon behind them, while the oxcarts came and went with materials. Fog lay below over harbor and lowland, but above they worked swiftly by a bright moon. British sentries on ships and in the town took no notice. At three o'clock other fresh troops moved in and took up the work.

When dawn came, and General Gage's officers turned their surprised spyglasses southward, there were the redoubts on the hill: their guns looking down on town and harbor. Gage swore that it must have taken 12,000 men to do it all. Yet the job had been accomplished between dark and dawn by a couple of thousand of farmers in the militia companies from Weston and other towns nearby.

The fleet commander told General Gage that not a ship of his was safe from those guns. Gage ordered 2,500 men to attack next day. But one of our wild southerly storms came up with heavy rain.

Transports Stymied

The transports couldn't land the troops. After still another night, an attack like Bunker Hill's was foolhardy. The place was too strong. Moreover, Washington by now had secured the road across the Neck from Roxbury. The British were penned from every side, their sea exit commanded by the guns on the hill.

So, to save their army, on March 17, 1776, the British sailed away. A hundred and twenty ships, bearing 8,000 troops and 1,200 disappointed local Tories stretched in a line from the North End to Nantasket, on their way to Nova Scotia; and the British never returned. Washington let them go; they had warned that they would burn the town if the evacuation was molested.

Left Behind

They left no only the Castle on the island commanding the harbor entrance, but 250 cannon, and 150 horses, along with many thousands of bushels of grain and foods, as well as war supplies of all kinds.

The Weston company, the job done, was sent home. It had marched 28 miles. Many of its members served in the Continental Army afterward.

They and the other New England troops were given the credit by their modest general. Said Washington: "At first, they were a band of undisciplined husbandmen, but it is, under God, to their bravery and attention to duty that I am indebted for that success. "That success" gave the Continental Congress courage to publish the Declaration of Independence in the following July.

So, not only in South Boston, but in The Crier's domain, there is good reason to take note of March 17.

School Committee Urges 'No' Vote On Equal Pay for Teachers

To the Voters of Weston:

The voters of the Town of Weston will be asked to vote on the following referendum at the Town election on March 27.

"Shall the provisions of section forty of chapter seventy-one of the General Laws, relative to equal pay for men and women teachers be in force in this town?"

It is the unanimous recommendation of the School Committee that the referendum be rejected, and that the Town vote 'NO'.

The pertinent section of the law reads as follows:

"Women teachers employed in the same grades and doing the same type of work with the same preparation and training as men teachers shall be paid at the same rate as men teachers. Such equal pay shall not be effected by reducing the pay of men teachers. The provisions of this section relative to equal pay for men and women teachers shall be in force in any city or town which accepts or has accepted provisions relative to equal pay for men and women teachers in any manner from time to time provided by law."

The main concern of the School Committee with reference to the forthcoming referendum on Equal Pay for Men and Women Teachers is the preservation of the Merit Plan in the determination of teachers' salaries.

Weston is one of a small but increasing number of communities which has adopted this system of rewarding teachers on the basis of excellence of teaching rather than on years of service alone. The Committee has been advised by counsel that a "Yes" vote on equal pay might raise serious question about the operation of the Merit Plan.

In order to avoid any chance of jeopardizing the plan the Committee recommends a 'NO' vote at the polls.

Weston Developer Aids In Forest-Trail Goals

WESTON-- A 13-acre parcel of land owned by the Christopher Lawrence Estates in Weston has been given to the Weston Forest and Trail Association. The area will be used primarily by residents and members of the association for horseback riding, nature walks, hiking, and other such outdoor activities which depend upon the retention of natural habitat.

By accumulating excess acreage as a central open area around which their houses are located, the developers have put into action some of the principals of "cluster zoning," a comparatively recent concept to which much attention is currently being paid in planning circles.

The site under development, a pastoral area of hills, trees, valleys, brooks, springs, and meadows, is located on Route 30 some 2 1/2 miles west of Route 128.

Weston's conservation group, the forest-and-trail organization spearheaded by Dr. William A. Elliston and Stanley G. French, now in its sixth year, actively invites the donation of green areas to preserve such as that given by Warren McNamara of 871 Worcester Turnpike and his Christopher Lawrence Estates organization.

Land Desired

In addition to the land from the Lawrence development, the association has, in recent months, received donations of acreage from the following:

Coburn Meadows - Approximately 3/4 of an acre by Explorer Post 28 of the Boy Scouts of Weston, by a purchase from the Boston and Maine Railroad. Funds were raised by members of the post and their predecessors. This includes a piece of higher ground, with a rocky ledge rising from Stony Brook.

Trail

Westland Road This area consists of a trail stretching virtually from Merriam Street to the western boundary of the new Cherry Brook Road development donated by Mrs. Fannie E. Woodbury, Westland Rd.; Winthrop W. and Clifford F. Harrington Jr., Lexington; and Allan R. Finlay, et al, realtors of Wayland. In addition, Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Saunders of Westland Road are donating a third of an acre bordering the trail easement.

Pine Street - Highland Street - Easements have been provided by the Warren McNamara group giving access to Highland and Pine Streets at points convenient for future trail linkages. Subsequent to this, an easement for a trail has been given by Mr. and Mrs. James Robbins of Highland Street, as a step towards providing extension to the Highland Town Forest.

Westcliff Road - Glen Road - Easements for a trail along the western property line have been given by Morrison and Moor, et al developers of the Peirce Estate.

Access

Thus, trail access to Glen Road near the entrance to the Briarcliff Estate has been provided. It is hoped that this will lead to linkage with a trail leading to the new high school on Wellesley St.

In addition to acquisition of land by the Weston Forest and Trail Association, the town has acquired some 48 acres off Sudbury Road from the Ogilvie family to be used as part of the town forest. Mixed woodlands and a first-rate trail system are outstanding characteristics of this area.

Discourage trespassers, keep outbuildings securely locked, use lights on buildings at night, and have a good watchdog. The number of fires from trespassers increase each year.

"Empty" gasoline or L. P. gas containers should be treated with as much or more care as when full. Even small quantities of gas vapor, when mixed with air, are explosive.

Regis Student Awarded Wilson Fellowship

WESTON--Judith Mary Oloskey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julian J. Oloskey of 78 Antwerp St., Brighton Mass., has been awarded the coveted National Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Award for graduate study in Slavic philosophy. Miss Oloskey was graduated from Mount Saint Joseph Academy first in her class and won a four year scholarship to Regis College.

She will graduate from Regis College in June, 1961, with concentration in English literature and Russian. She holds membership in Alpha Lambda Delta and Delta Epsilon Sigma. Miss Oloskey plans to teach on the college level.

Dr. Anthony Brackett On Evaluation Committee

WESTON -- Dr. Anthony Brackett, superintendent of schools, will be chairman of the committee on administration for the overall evaluation of Brookline High School carried out by the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools Mar. 14, 15 and 16.

Each member high school in New England is requird to be evaluated by this accrediting organization once every ten years. This procedure is less than ten years old and it is expected that the Weston school will be scheduled for evaluation within the next two or three years or shortly after it moves into its new building.

Wayland will be subject to evaluation by the NEACSC during the 1961-62 school year. Actually, Wayland had considered evaluating procedures some four years ago but decided to wait until the new high school was in operation.

Books to Read

THE BIG FAMILY
Vina Delmar

In 1794 an ambitious "soap-boiler" in New York married a wealthy girl. This brilliant novel traces the resulting Slidell "family" down to 1919 and to read it is to become acquainted with great events and remarkable men.

We journey to Japan with Commodore Perry; witness the only mutiny in our navy's history; are on the "Trent" when that "Affair" all but leads to England's recognition of the Confederacy.

We spend months at the court of Napoleon III; are enchanted with the builder of the Belmont Race Track, and dumbfounded by that shrewd rascal, John Slidell Jr.

With the exception of the first and last sections (see page 375) this extraordinary book is true to history.

THE NEW POLITICS
Edmund Stillman and William Pfaff

Without doubt one of the most amazing and powerful of our new books is this summing up of America's position at ". . . the End of the Postwar World". Whether or not the reader concurs in the non-partisan though controversial findings of the writers, he cannot fail to be impressed and awe-struck. After a close look at the world since 1945, the authors present an altogether new procedure for our country in "the World to be Made", a procedure we owe that world if convinced that "the United States has a colossal draft on fortune and is not meeting it".

FROM EVEREST TO THE SOUTH POLE
George Lowe

In April Sir Edmund Hilary begins another assault on a Himalayan mountain. For his own sake, may George Lowe be with him! The two explorers first met on a mountain in New Zealand. Since then they have had many adventures together including the conquest of Mt. Everest and the Trans-Antarctic Expedition. Mr. Lowe being the official photographer. Judging by this outstanding adventure book, Mr. Lowe is an ideal companion - vigorous, full of fun, thoughtful of others and deeply sensitive to natural beauty.

Town Meeting

down. Significantly, this item was rejected when a motion to remove it from the budget was seconded by Mr. Morgan. Rejection followed considerable argument on the floor mingled with apparent apprehension on the part of some voters in the Cochituate area as to the authority's plans in the Dudley Pond area.

Motions to eliminate a new item of $1,300 for town participation in a mental health clinic in Framingham and to cut out an item of $2,550 for radio receivers in Highway Department trucks were turned down.

The snow removal cost was set at $29,000 and approved with the hope on the part of the highway department that this would meet the remaining costs of the year.

The town adopted a recommendation in the Planning Board report approving the state-sponsored plan to acquire marshes and wetlands along the Sudbury River Valley. (Sudbury also has taken similar action in its town meeting, it is learned).

A resolution honoring J. Sidney Stone for his long service to the town was passed by a rising vote of thanks. Mr. Stone later got the floor to thank the townspeople for their action.

The School Building Committee reported that a school census now indicates that additional rooms will be required in the Claypit Hill and Loker Schools by September, 1962. A special town meeting is planned later this year to proceed with plans for addition to these schools. (The current warrant also has an article for land purchase in the Claypit Hill School area to pave the way for the proposed school expansion).

The Committee on Town Government recommended, among other items, that the town should have a "public works" department to consolidate the functions of the park, cemetery, tree warden and highway departments. It also recommended preparation of a capital budget by the town to keep it as a permanent feature. The current finance committee has been preparing a capital budget of its own volition, a practice that might be neglected by future committees, the town government report said.

Twelve foreign students now studying at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University, were guests of Wayland and viewed the proceedings from the stage.

ELDON AND LEE stand ready to receive ball after Barry's outstanding rebound play.

Basketball Windup

Last November I casually asked Barry Parker, first string forward on Wayland's Varsity Basketball team how he expected the team to do this season. "We're really going to go!" was his confident answer.

Now as I look back over the season I find that Barry's prediction was, if anything, an understatement. Officially, they finished with an impressive 12 - 4 record. Only two of those four losses were league games, the other two being losses to Concord and Lexington.

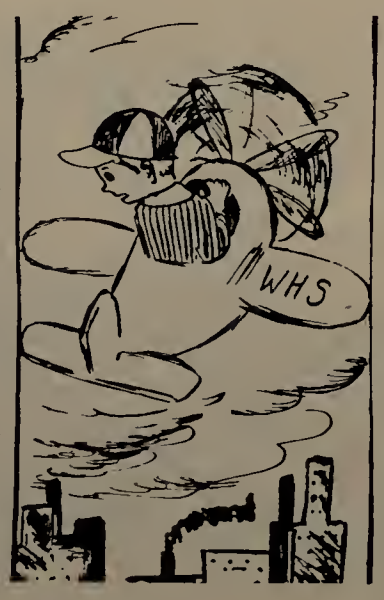
I asked Co-captain Rick Greene to sum up the season. This is what he answered:

"We had a very spirited team this year. We lacked height, but we made up for it in speed. We played possession ball, capitalizing on the fast break. In one or more games each one of the starting five was the high scorer."

When asked which game he considered the most memorable, Rick quickly answered:

"Of course that would be the "2nd Weston Game." You will remember that this was the cliff-hanging game when Eldon Goodhue scored the winning basket in the last 3 seconds!

"The most heartbreaking game, Rick went on, was the one in Lexington when we lost by one point in sudden death overtime. The best played games were the home game with Lynnfield and the first Tech Tourney game with Sacred Heart of Cambridge."



Speaking of the Tech Tourney you will remember that this is the fifth straight year Wayland has competed. They were only stopped by a terrific Bridgewater team. I also asked Coach Bowers to sum up the season. He termed it:

". . . A most successful season. I am proud of the way the team played."

Plane Facts

Do you look at an airplane and say to yourself, "Oh no, you'd never get me up in one of those things!" Or are you the type who boards an airliner with memories of past air disasters and that uneasy gnaw at your insides? Perhaps you get into a plane with no more thought about it than you would getting into a car to drive Johnny to school in the morning. If you are this type of person, don't bother to read this unless you just feel like killing a little time. This is just for people who don't like the idea of traveling around by air. The purpose of this article is to make you perhaps feel better about flying.

If anyone has tried to persuade you to fly before, probably the first thing he has come out with is, "Well, flying is safer than cars, statistics prove it." This is a good point and authorities in the field of aviation have stressed it in many ways. But, does it make you actually feel any better about flying? Probably not. You still feel uneasy about it. Before we go into what might help you feel better, let's try to find out why you feel uncomfortable.

To begin with, you are likely not to feel very confident when you think how high those things go up. If you are just plain afraid of heights, it would be better if you are introduced to flight in one of the bigger airliners. As long as you don't look straight down you won't experience that weird suspended feeling common to most new passengers. If, however, you have overcome the fear of heights, you may be worried more by the possibility of something going wrong while you're way up there. If you are, good, it's perfectly normal and everybody is concerned about it, especially the pilot and ground crews. They all want to make sure nothing goes wrong. After all, who likes to be blamed for the death of forty or fifty people? You should not really be more concerned about it than you would be getting into your car to drive downtown. "In altitude there is safety." Most pilots are taught this and it is why all flight training is done at rela tively high altitudes; in case the student makes a mistake, he has plenty of time to correct for it. This is a good thing for passengers to remember too. If anything should go wrong, (and it undeniably does now and again) the higher the airplane is up, the more time there is to correct for what is wrong. As proof of this, just think of all the bad crashes you know about. Nearly all of them were during take offs and landings when the plane wa close to the ground. Today's airplanes don't start into vicious tailspins or plummet down the minute something goes wrong. Today's planes can fly safely without one of those four engines, or two engines. Even if all the engines quit (which is practically unheard of except with single engine planes - and they can fly nicely in a shallow glide without engines anyway) the plan can glide in for a forced landing. The idea of a forced landing should not scare you either. As long as the plane is kept under control to the point of contact with the ground - whether it be in the form of rocks, trees or water, you have a good chance of walking away from it. Besides, according to a reliable source, only 6% of all fatal accidents are caused by engine failures and of these, all were caused by loss of control too close to the ground.

The fact remains, however, that there are some very tragic airplane accidents and it is well known by authorities that loss of control was the cause of over 90% of all crashes. At this point, it may seem to you that airplanes are pretty tricky things to keep under control, but ask any one you know who has flown a plane and he will tell you that although it is difficult to learn, once learned, it is easier to fly a plane safely than to drive a car down route 128.

Almost all of the crashes you hear about are pretty grim. The newspapers print it in big letters in the "headlines" the minute the story of an air crash comes in. And why not? It sells the papers. However, it does not help aviation. There are often accidents you never hear about which occur anywhere within a twenty mile radius. Minor accidents do not sell papers and thus you don't hear of them when no one is hurt. The trouble is that although airplane accidents can't even approach the number of car accidents, you only hear of the worst one, and are apt to come to the conclusion that all plane accidents result in injury and death - and it just isn't so!

Bad weather often worries people when it comes to flying. But before it actually gets dangerous, the visibility has to be cut down to below three miles. This happens during foggy days and during heavy rain and snow. Planes not equipped with the proper instruments stay on the ground on days like that. Of course, every now and then a pilot thinks he can outsmart the weather and tries to take off without the right instruments. These men usually never come back. All airlines have the proper instruments, however, and therefore, weather doesn't bother them much. It is no good trying to hide the fact that instruments go "haywire" once in a great while and that bad crashes have resulted from it, but this is not too apt to continue with the development of newer and more accurate instruments.

Airplanes are not dangerous but their pilots can make them so. How can you be sure of getting a good pilot? The airline pilots are the tops in the field. Light plane commercial pilots are also top pilots; the Federal Aviation Agency insists on it.

The idea of the light plane probably has always been out of the question as far as your flying is concerned. Light planes (except in extreme weather condition) are as safe if not safer than the airliners - and that's pretty safe. Even if they do look like flimsy kites, don't let any one tell you that they're dangerous. Light planes are rugged and can stand a lot more banging around than they are ever apt to encounter during flight. If you see a light plane sitting out on the ramp which is to be used for those two dollar rides, you can be sure that the Federal Aviation Agency has gone over it with a fine tooth comb. No one tries to fool the FAA either because inspectors make spot checks on all airports to check the equipment. If a plane is found in bad condition, its license is suspended until it is put back into flying condition again. Trying to get away with flying an unlicensed plane is too great a risk for any pilot. Sure, it may hold up for a while, but sooner or later something is bound to happen if it is not in shape to be licensed and the pilot knows it. Therefore if you were to consider a ride in a light plane offered by a commercial pilot, you could be sure it's safe.

Come to think of it, that's not a bad idea! Pick yourself a nice clear calm day and head for one of the local airports and take a ride in one of those two seaters (or a four seater if one is available and take a companion along). After the first flight, you can bet your boots that you'll be trying to find excuses to get out to the airport again!

An Idea to Consider

As your representatives in school government, we have looked into the possibility of a student court. It is only an idea which we want you to consider. In the near future you will be presented with a master plan of organization for the student court which you may either accept or reject by your vote.

The council appreciates he case against the student court, but the research we have done on the subject convinces us that the possibilities of success far outweigh those of failure.

You are concerned as to how the jury should be chosen and as to the methods of arresting and bringing cases to court. We are concerned with these problems, also, along with many others. We feel, however, that workable solutions can be, and will be found.

Before we present a plan to you which we feel will be sucessful, we are going to consider more carefully the student court organizations of other schools. We have made an appointment to attend a student trial at Brookline High School within the next week. This should give us a better insight into the practical application of a student court.

We hope that you will consider both sides of the question seriously and give us your suggestions. If you vote against it, no more thought will be given to the idea by the council. If you vote for it, we will all work together toward making it a success. We realize that if established, the court will still need improvement, additions, and changes, but someone must take the first step.

Drama Scholarship?

These past few weeks, a number of students at Wayland High, in association with several instructors from Boston University, have been working very hard on a full scale production of Rogers and Hammerstein's "South Pacific". These students have given up their study periods, afternoons and weekends so that they might present a top-notch production for you to enjoy, without charge.

Now this is fine; the participating students are receiving valuable experience in the theatre, and the "spectators" will have an enjoyable afternoon or evening watching the play. However, I think an even greater benefit can be derived from the work of the involved students: that being to give the money to the Scholarship Fund.

If an admission price is charged, you are required by law to pay a "royalty", somewhere around $75 for each performance which the school would pay. The "Little Theatre" seats approximately 300 people. Assuming only 250 persons attend each of the four shows, $.50 per individual brings in $125.00, or $500.00 for four shows. (This $.50 admission is a minimum!)

I am sure that the members of the cast would receive more pleasure out of the performance if they knew their effort was going to help a deserving student. Perhaps the scholarship could be given to a student interested in Drama or some other field of the Arts. It would be the first "Drama Scholarship" the school has had and would also encourage more students to become interested in the theatre and areas connected with the theatre.

Junior Prom Underway

Although the Junior Prom is three months away, the class of '62 has started making plans for this gala event. Friday June 2, has been set as the date. The Juniors are really going all out to make this prom the most exciting and colorful in Wayland High School's history. A dinner dance has been suggested and is now under consideration. Now is the time to get to know that cute girl in your French class, boys. Three months is shorter than you think.

The following have been elected by the class to head the Prom's committees:

REFRESHMENT -- Sue Campbell and Marcia Howard.

ENTERTAINMENT -- Ken Kane, Eric Kather, Sue Sawyer and Barb Lowell.

ADVERTISEMENT--Dee Clark, Dick Muller, Allan Arnold and Jim Kleinkauf.

ACCESSORIES -- Marge McCann, Jan Fredrickson, Priscilla Coyne and Dug Seery.

DECORATIONS -- Pat Osmond, Dot Cardellichio, Paula Martineau, Ken Houghton, John Benjamin, Sue Mohl and Jerome Guenthner.

Checks and Balances

I believe the Student Court will be for the good of the students and will become part of our school life, if the student body and the student council make a moral code. This moral code will be the constitution of the Student Court. It will be the basis of all cases brought up in the Student Court.

I believe that after this moral code has been in use, all additional laws that will be made, should be made by the student council and approved by Mr. Demeo By using this system we will be using a system of checks and balances: the Student Council makes the laws, Mr. Demeo approves the laws, and the Student Court enforces the laws.

Dear Doc

Dear Doctor Chronos,

Our son won a stereo console a few months ago. Since then, he has taken to the idea that it is his and his alone. We must ask him for permission to use the machine when entertaining, or just for our own private use. It is embarrassing to ask him in front of friends when they would like to hear a certain record. How can we curb this attitude of his?

Where were you when he started it? You should never have let him continue his idea. As soon as it "popped up", you should have stopped it. The solution is fairly simple. Has he ever asked YOU for permission to use the T.V., the phone, or the radio, in the years that you have had these items? I doubt it. Well, now would be a good time to start. I'm sure he wouldn't like to ask permission for use of these things when his friends are over. Good Luck.

What's your problem? Student's may leave their letters in the "Chatterbox Box" located in R 11. No real names will be used in the paper, nor are they necessary.

South Pacific

Two Wayland High School Drama Classes will be presenting Rodgers and Hammerstein's South Pacific, March 22 - 25. Curtain time for the production will be 8:00 P.M. The student actors and actresses have been rehearsing for approximately six weeks under the direction of Mrs. Elinor Fisher and three Co-Workers: Mr. Edward Belliveau, Mr. Francis McLellan, and Miss Barbara Newhouse. These teachers are all from B.U., and are the associates of Mr. Robert Frazer, who is the head of the Wayland High School Drama Department.

The members of the show in order of appearance are as follows: Agnes McCann, Joseph Porrell, Gary Longtine, Meredith Hatch, James Henderson, Valerie Costa, David Porrell, Steve Garry, Eldon Goodhue, David Large, Barry Parker, Betty Turner, Marjorie McCann, Judith Mosedale, Eric Jones, Bill McElwee, Lamar LeMonte, Rhonda Polk, Laura Campbell, Judith Walsh, Janet O'Leary, Pat Turner, Barry Baker, Karen Eckler, Larry Smith, Ronald Foley, Robert Barker, Richard Muller, Larry York, Elinor Baldwin, Sally Barrett, Priscilla Coyne, Janice Fredrickson, Ann Fritts, Carolyn Sherwood, Susan Williamson, Virginia Moulton, Dale Ferguson, Bob Billig, Dave Charnock, Peter Fink, Edward Langely, Leith MacArthur, Stephan Rowan, Bill Searcy.

The Stage Managers are: Dianne Tuscher, Bob Kent, and Robert Travers.

The Pianist is: Peter Neuendorffer.

This production is the first to be presented at the New High School and there will be no admission charge. South Pacific is a gift to the town, so to speak, because of their generosity in the building of such a fine theater.

The staff of The Chatterbox wishes the cast of South Pacific much success.

Add Another Name

Sometime during the summer of 1960, Wayland High School added another name to the growing roster of new "educators" for the 1960-1961 school season. The name, Mr Regis; place of appointment, the new Math-Science Center, Chemistry department.

Upon entering your first class with Mr. Regis, you are immediately confronted with the humor and personality of a real comic, one who really enjoys his precious time. His first words were, and I quote, "are there any Latin students in this class?" "Yes" replied several students. "Then tell me the meaning of Regis in Latin," says he. "King", answers a poor unsuspecting pupil. "Make sure you remember that and we'll get along fine." "Great guns", we thought, "could he be another Mr. T?".

Our fears were soon destined to become things of the past. As shown in the following report, Mr. Regis is quite a personality.

Graduating from St. Clemens Military Academy, he entered Boston University, then Harvard University. In both colleges he majored in Chemistry and Physics. Graduating from these two top-notch schools, he took his first teaching position in Dedham, Mass. Having the natural "leader instince", he was Vice-president of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity. Other intellectual honors include: being a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Secretary of the American Chemistry Society, and head of the W.H.S. Bi-Phi-Chem Club. In spite of the obvious social obligations these activities demand, he received his Masters and is now working on the ultimate goal of all educators, a Ph. D.

Among his interests and hobbies may be listed the following: announcing for radio stations, running a summer camp (once), golfing, STEREO (played extremely loud), collecting Sport coats and T-birds, munching (food-between classes), and taking vacations (uneventful ones to Miami). Also in his part-time he is an Assistant Registrar at Boston University. When asked to comment on the school and systems it uses, he said that it was a "magnificent" structure with unlimited academic opportunities. Although it is not the ultimate in Secondary education, we have taken a giant step towards that goal. As for comments on the students, he had four words: basic, unique, and fundamental.

In closing, yours truly asked Mr. K (K for King), what did he hope to achieve in his life. His answer, "to live long enough to see Liz Woodsum complete an experiment in Chem Lab, without any accidents."

The Case Against the Student Court

by SUZANNE CROWELL

There are two areas in which a student court will prove not possible. One is practical detail, and the other, theoretical problem.

The first insurmountable hurdle is the court's operation. The initial phase will be the report of an offender by a "fellow" student (not a paid professional policeman, as one would expect). This privilege will not be handled with equal maturity by everyone. After reporting a member of a tightly knit group, this group may well be watching and waiting for the chance to catch such a reporter doing something himself. Revenge will surely follow, in the form of false or unreasonable charges. This school should not be torn apart by such personality conflicts! The purpose will then by the achievement of a deterrent value by making examples of a few; yet a regard for the individual demands every court be dedicated to justice rather than prevention.

The second phase will be the trial itself. It is said it will parallel the courts of our town, states and country. The required witnesses then will have to be established in court as having sound moral character. This attempted defamation won't help Wayland High. Students have also been informed the court will be trying violations of a student conduct code. The faculty must and will reserve its rights to absolute control in the classroom. This leaves halls, grounds, and rest rooms. What offenses? Smoking, destruction of school property. Patrol of these will be much more efficient and sensible when done by a paid adult. Furthermore, while a school administration has every right to regulate smoking, dress, etc.; a democracy does not. Such a government operates not only by majority rule, but by protection of the individual as well.

The last phase is the sentence and punishment of the convicted. We are told it will fit the individual and not the stereotype. Yet, it has already been pointed out that such individual treatment will result in claims of foul play and further destroy any sense of unity we already possess as a student body. Such sentencing may not affect the jury's decision but it will affect the attitude of students who receive different punishments for the same crime. If our court is patterned after the "outside" its judges and juries can not know dependents personally. In school this cannot possibly be the case. Such a condition will affect verdict, sentencing, and friendships. One of the featured punishments will probably be the public embarassment and sentencing of some child in front of the school. This is a good deterrent, but it is hardly justice; perhaps, more like persecution? A student criminal will be further embittered against authority, possibly someday society as a whole. It is all too evident these complex problems cannot be solved among ourselves.

A last point on this subject; if the administration automatically backs up court decisions there will not be appeal, yet if it doesn't there is no reason for a court. The former condition will force the immaturity and ignorance of one's peers upon him for a final decision, lacking in redress.

The theoretical difficulty is one large unsolvable question: what can we learn from this pseudo-democratic institution, whose existence, as an ideal court is impossible? It has already been pointed out that the administration must have jurisdiction over the court, that an effective, desirable student patrol system cannot be found, that complex difficulties in punishment and rehabilitation not taken care of by the guidance department cannot be shouldered by students and that such a court will create rifts, attempts for "revenge" and split the student body. Our school is a dictatorship, and yet it is far more just than an inexperienced, immature and possibly irresponsible court can be. Offenders shouldn't be experimental animals while their fellow students attempt to administer justice without benefit of law school. With these considerations, there is no need for a court, no gains from one, no administration work load can be removed and, "lest we forget" the purpose of a school, nothing to be learned, except that it can't be done.

Local Boys Receive Hockey Awards

WESTON -- Wayne Osmond of 59 Montvale Rd., Weston, has been presented the "most valuable to his team" award for his recent service in the pee-wee hockey season. He is now playing with the all-star team called the Belmont Bantams, champion for the third consecutive year of the Greater Boston Bantam Hockey League.

The Osmond boy was top scorer in the 200-player Pee Wee League and is a center with the Belmont All-Star team.

The Bantams, chosen from the Belmont Hill Pee Wee hockey program, recently won over Princeton, N.J., and face Scarboro, Toronto, Sunday, March 19 at Boston College, and Montmorency, Quebec at Lynn on March 18.

Scott Parrot is Belmont Hill Pee Wee Hockey director.

Two other youngsters, Richard Turner and Chris Rowan, both of Draper Road, Wayland, received "most valuable" and "most improved" among the team awards for their action in the 1960-61 season. Young Rowan is an alternate on the Belmont Bantams.

Harvard Coach Praises Weston Hockey Players

CAMBRIDGE -- Two prominent contributors to the success of Harvard University's hockey team this season were Weston residents Dave Crosby and Bill Beckett.

Crosby, a senior, split the season between defense and the second line, and played well at both positions. Recognized as the fastest skater on the team, Crosby was burdened with hard luck this year. "He came close to scoring a lot of goals," head coach Cooney Weiland points out. "He was just missing." The fact that the former Newton high star missed five games also hurt his scoring total. Crosby totaled 22 goals and 16 assists in his three varsity seasons.

Beckett, a junior, was also plagued by hard luck this year, suffering three injuries and missing six games. Still, he managed 5 goals and 9 assists on Harvard's high scoring first line. "He's a good all around hockey player," Weiland asserts, "and he knows what he's doing with the puck at all times."

In succession, Beckett suffered a broken wrist, a sever hip cut, and a cut over his right eye. "He's got a lot of spunk," Weiland adds. "You can tell that by watching him play."

Cambridge School Offers 'Our American Cousin'

The play will be produced and directed by Whitney Haley. It is the play which Abraham Lincoln was viewing on the night on which he was shot. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Two ambulance calls and one accident represented the extent of the Weston Police Department's investigative activities reported for the week.

Shortly after midnight of Sunday, March 12 a car driven by Robert H. McCullough Jr., of 34 Sheelock Rd., Waltham failed to negotiate a curve on Highland Street. Mr. Mc Collough and his five passengers were taken to the Waltham Hospital with minor injuries.

On Thursday, March 9, a call to the Police Department brought an ambulance to the home of Donna Gordon, 7, of 130 Old Colony Rd., who had been bitten by a pet monkey. The girl was taken to the Newton Wellesley Hospital for treatment.

Stanley Cullen of 87 Brook Rd., 57, was taken to Waltham Hospital during the morning of March 13 after having sustained a back injury in a fall at his home.

A leather wallet containing a sum of money has been turned in to the Weston Police and the owner may claim it by making proper identification.

On Tuesday, March 14, around 10 a.m. on Route 128 close to the Waltham line, a rug truck slid into the rear of a fuel oil truck and caused some 800 gallons of fuel oil to spread over the highway. Neither Robert H. Needham, 116 Pine St., Needham, driver of the rug truck nor the oil truck operator, David Grant, 212 Commercial St. Weymouth was injured.

SELECTMEN

In addition to preparing for budget hearings, the selectmen held hearings March 11 on the laying out of several private ways as public ways. These included Beaver Rd., part of King's Grant Rd., Indian Hill Rd., part of Bay State Rd., Laurel Rd., and Sears Rd.

The board wishes to remind Weston voters that the polling hours on March 27 are 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. The polls are closing an hour earlier than in some previous years.

Also, the selectmen, wish to remind Weston citizens that dogs must be licensed on or before April 1. Licenses are now available and application cards may be picked up at the town clerk's office. They may be mailed into the clerk's office along with the fee. The license will then be mailed to the owner. Fees shown on the application state that a female dog requires a $5 fee and a spayed female or male, $2.

FIRE

Weston firemen responded to a call at 10:16 a.m. March 14 to wash down some 800 gallons of feul oil which had spilled onto Route 128 during a two-truck collision caused by Tuesday's icy highway.

Wednesday, March 8, the department assisted in putting out small transformer fires and removing electric wires that had fallen onto an automobile as the result of an accident on Conant Road near the railroad bridge.

On March 10 the department investigated a lock-out at 107 Love Lane and on March 11 a lock-in at 4 Bryden Road.

WAYLAND TOWN HALL

SELECTMEN

Wayland's board of selectmen met March 13 to organize after the recent elections. Thomas F. Linnehan was elected chairman, Frank S. Tarr, clerk. Water Commissioner George K. Lewis, is the third member of the board. Regular meetings will begin Monday, March 20.

PLANNING BOARD

At the March 13 meeting of the planning board a request for subdivision of the Owens property on Plain Road was discussed with the owner.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Wayland's school committee met March 13 to organize. Gregory B. Wolfe was elected chairman and John W. Arnold, vice chairman.

FIRE

It was a relatively quiet week for the fire department. Actually, two smoke investigations sufficed for the week's report. At the Mainstone Farm, scene of hugh barn fire on Feb. 23, some hay began to smoulder on March 8. Rain beat the firemen to the scene and doused whatever heat was in the process of being generated.

There was a smoke investigation at 198 Commonwealth Road East on March 10. One piece of apparatus was sent out but no fire was discovered.

POLICE

Police officers were particularly busy this past week. Two investigations involved serious auto-pedestrian situations, one of which was a fatality. Another inquiry is concerned with a possible murder.

On Saturday, March 11, fourteen-year-old Susan Confrey of 14 Pemberton Road, Cochituate, was struck by a car driven by Laurence J. Finneran of 274 Union St., Ashland as she and three companions walked along Route 30. Taken to Leonard Morse Hospital, the girl died later that night.

The driver was held on multiple charges which included manslaughter, speeding, and driving so as to endanger. Investigation was under the direction of Francis Bracken of the Dept. of Motor Vehicles in Framingham, Ernest H. Damon, chief of the Wayland police, and George Driscoll, officer.

Officer Driscoll also investigated an accident on Cochituate Road at Winthrop Rd. on Thursday, March 9, in which Joanna Pratt, of 4 Cole Rd., Wayland was struck by a car operated by Miss Ann A. Gallagher of 22 Mayberry Rd., Maynard. The child was released from Leonard Morse Hospital the following day with a leg fracture.

Two cars were stolen from the Red Coach Grill early Sunday morning. One belonged to John Collins, a cook , of Arlington and the second to Mrs. Mary Budreau, a waitress, of Natick. Both cars were recovered, one in Hudson and the other in Boylston.

The latter, taken to the state police barracks at Holden contained blood stains and it is thought a murder may be involved.

Earlier in the week, separate minor accidents were investigated by the Wayland police. On Tuesday, March 7, a car driven by Charles G. Fink on Woodridge Rd.; on Wednesday, March 8, a collision between David L. Fye and a town sand truck and also on Wednesday an accident in which Jessie L. Colman of Natick skidded into an electric pole on Route 30.

"Cannonball" Baker, famous auto racer, drove an eight-cylinder Graham cabrlolet roadster up Mt. Washington in New Hampshire in 13 minutes, 26 seconds on July 31, 1928.

Esther L. Buckley

WAYLAND -- A Solemn Mass of Requiem was celebrated March 8 at St. Patrick's Church, Natick for Miss Esther L. Buckley, 71, who died at her home at 128 West Commonwealth Rd., Wayland.

Born in Natick, she had moved to Wayland nine years ago. She was a former member of St. Patrick's Sodality in Natick.

She leaves a sister, Mrs. Arthur B. Fair of Natick; and two brothers, Edward J. of Natick and Arthur V. of New Milford, Conn.

Rev. Clarence N. Blais, S.J.

WESTON -- Funeral services were held March 4 in the Weston College Chapel with the Office of the Dead and a Solemn High Mass for Rev. Clarence N. Blais, S.J., treasuer of the College, who died March 1 in Boston City Hospital.

Father Blais is survived by two sisters. Mrs. Raymond LeFave of Central Falls and Mrs. Winston Hamblett of Rehoboth.

He attended Shadowbrook, the Jesuit novitiate at Lenox, and was ordained to the priesthood at Weston College in 1944. After thre more years of study, he became a teacher of physics and mathematics at Boston College High School, remaining there from 1947 to 1952 when he went to Weston on the physics faculty.

Father Blais was assigned the duty of college treasurer, a full-time post, in 1953.

His special interest was work with the deaf. While teaching in Boston, he was in charge of a center for the deaf and did work with the Guild of Hard of Hearing, conducting special monthly services during which he preached in sign language.

Conant Bridge Is Discussed

WESTON -- A new prospect is on the horizon for the controversial Conant Road bridge, it was disclosed at the budget hearing in the Town Hall, March 13.

Repairs will be made this year to make the bridge, limited since last fall to six-ton loads, passable for loads up to 15 tons.

Costs of $6,000 will be borne by the town, if the town meeting approves.

A study was proposed to determine whether the road should be relocated and/or the bridge completely rebuilt in the near future to handle traffic needs.

This much has been accomplished so far, according to Selectman Douglas Mercer, through lengthy negotiations between the selectmen and the Boston & Maine Railroad. After the initial repairs are made, the cost of all future repairs would be shared equally by the B & M and the town, Mr. Mercer reported.

Among other complications caused by the railroad's sudden decision last fall to limit loads to six tons has been the refusal of firemen to trust their trucks on the bridge during fire runs.

By the census of 1810, East Sudbury (Wayland) had 824 inhabitants.

Rombas Students Write Letters Of Appreciation

WESTON -- Carter Bottjer, now a student in Rombas, France under the student-exchange program carried on between the towns of Rombas, France and Weston, writes that she was deeply moved by the reception held for her recently in the French town.

"The fact that this occasion is the biggest thing which takes place at the college all year added to the joy. It was then I fully realized the greatness of the Weston Rombas Affiliation and how much it counts to the people here in Rombas. -- to all the people not only in Rombas, but from the towns surrounding, also.

"Over a thousand people came to the reception to welcome me, and I feel each of them was truly interested in what this reception represents -- the tie between two towns, two countries, two peoples."

Tad Crawford writes that had his year at Rombas had no effect on his present academic pursuits and future plans, it would still have been one of the most worthwhile experiences of his life.

"I like to think that my year in France broadened my understanding of the forces affecting relations between nations. Certainly my introduction to French culture and society has proven invaluable.

"I entered Princeton with advanced standing in French. I am quite sure that I probably would not have been accepted in the first place had I not spent a year in France...I have taken five upperclass courses in French and plan to take two or three more."

burns in a mishap last November, has been gratifying.

In the first 12 days of the drive, over $400 came into the banks earmarked for the Scott Kendall Fund.

Within six days after the initial announcement of the drive on March 2 by this publication, over $100 had been deposited by Wayland citizens at the Cochituate branch of the Newton-Waltham bank. Both the Cochituate branch and the Wayland branch are now accepting contributions for the Scott Kendall Fund.

Under the direction of Frank A. Smith and Walter O'Connell, the Kiwanis club has sent the following letter to all residents:

"Dear Neighbor: We would like to take you back to November 15, 1960 when Scott Kendall of Wayland, age 5, the youngest in a family of four children, met with an unfortunate accident, resulting in third degree burns which covered thirty-five percent of his body. Since the accident, Scott has been in the Massachusetts General Hospital undergoing a series of skin graft operations and specialized medical attention.

"The mounting medical expenses incurred in this case have caused the Wayland Kiwanis Club to take an active interest in the recovery of Scott Kendall.

"The Kiwanis Club would like to ask your assistance in making a donation to the community-wide Scott Kendall Fund. Realizing that such an accident is a potential in any home, and having investigated the financial circumstances involved, we feel that this is a civic responsibility and have established a goal of five thousand dollars to assist Scott to a speedy recovery.

"We are enclosing, for your convenience, a self-addressed envelope for your contribution. Please make checks payable to Scott Kendall Fund. Mail to the Newton-Waltham Bank of Wayland or Cochituate.

We thank you very much for your generous contribution as 'A THOUGHT FOR SCOTT'."

Such donations are tax deductible, points out the club. Other organizations join with the Kiwanis in keeping this cause rolling.

Parkland Bills Filed In State Legislature

BOSTON -- At least five bills were filed with the Massachusetts legislature this year, requesting the Commonwealth to relinquish its control over various park land.

Perhaps the most notable of these was the bill petitioning release of certain park land in Cambridge. This bill won approval in both the House and the Senate but the possibility of a veto by the Governor still remains.

Another bill H1256 which would have released to the City of Lawrence certain park Land, known as Den Rock Park was rejected by the Legislature on January 19, 1961. Two other bills H 1779 and H1780 concerning land in the City of Boston were also "killed".

Not all park land bills were defeated however.

House bill #1785, authorized the City of Malden to convey certain park land to persons designated by the council and mayor. This bill was favorably acted upon by both the House and the Senate and was signed by the Governor on March 2, 1961.

Representative, Donald J. Manning representing the 7th Middlesex district voted against each one of these bills. Questioned about his stand, Mr. Manning, an advocate of home rule, stated that he feels that park land is somewhat unique and that control of this land should remain with the Legislature and not with well-intentioned but sometimes overly tax-conscious municiple officials. "This is the only way preservation of park land can be ensured," he stated.

Each year in the United States, motorists log about 700 billion miles. That's some 70 per cent above what we were doing 10 years ago.

Conservation Lectures Planned

LINCOLN -- as part of the Massachusetts Audubon Society's concerted action in conservation education, a new series of lectures will be introduced this spring by the Hatheway School of Conservation Education. The Series consists of 9 lectures starting March 16 at 8 p.m. and continuing each Thursday evening thereafter for 9 weeks.

Charles H. W. Foster, Commissioner, Department of Natural Resources, will open the series on March 16 with a discussion of "Natural Resources." Massachusetts is rich in conservation raw material with 65% of the state lying in natural woodlands, 132,000 acres in some 1,300 lakes and ponds, a profusion of plant and animal life both in numbers and varieties of species, and over 2,000 miles of salt water coastline. Mr. Foster will present his thoughts on how we can best preserve these natural resources.

Additonal subjects to be dealt with are: The Sudbury Valley Trustees, Inc., soil Conservation, Regional Planning, Water Resources, Wetlands and Wildlife, Salt Water Ponds of Martha's Vineyard, Pesticides, and Conservation Education.

Meetings will be held in the Nature Center building at the Society's headquarters in South Lincoln. For further information and registration contact Mrs. G. A. Baxter, Registrar, Hatheway School, Drumlin Farm Wildlife Sanctuary, South Lincoln or phone CLearwater 9-9500.

Thanks Given By UNICEF

To the Editor:

The many residents of Weston and Wayland who helped the world's needy children by sending UNICEF Greeting Cards last season will undoubtedly be gratified to know how much their generosity helped accomplish.

Through the efforts of the Village Book Stall, 172 boxes of UNICEF Greeting Cards were sold in Weston in 1960. (The Town Crier sold over 250 boxes). In terms of the aid given by the United Nations Children's Fund to over 55 million needy children and mothers in 104 countries, this can represent one of the following:

enough BCG vaccine to protect 8,600 children against tuberculosis.

enough penicillin to cure 3,440 cases of crippling yaws

The U. S. Committee for UNICEF is proud to express its heartfelt gratitude to the residents of Weston and Wayland to the Village Book stall and to the Weston-Wayland Town Crier for this public service help.

C. Lloyd Bailey
Executive Director
United Nations, N. Y.

Shoppers' World To Present Easter Parade

FRAMINGHAM -- Shoppers World will be the scene of a gala Easter Bunny Parade on Saturday morning, March 18, starting at 9:30 a.m. The parade route will be along the inner-ring road, and access to and from the center will be kept open at all times.

Bozo the Clown, the Magic Princess, and Miss Jean of TV's Romper Room will distribute chocolate Easter eggs to the children as they circulate through the crowd and then return to the parade. Many musical organizations are scheduled to participate, including the present state champion drum and bugle corps, the Cambridge Caballeros. The spectacular Omar Grotto Band, and the one and only Clan MacPherson Kiltie Bagpipe Band are among the outstanding bands which will be included in this dramatic parade.

The climax of the Easter Bunny Parade will be the arrival of the Easter Bunny himself in his gaily colored easter basket. A fitting finale to the parade will be the appearance of the original Barnum and Bailey calliope.

An outstanding collection of interesting animals will make their home on the mall from March 18 through April 3.

Wayland Town Meeting Finishes Its Work In Second Session

WAYLAND -- In a second session ending at 12:10 a.m., March 15, the town meeting considered the remaining 26 articles of the warrant. The adjourned meeting in the Senior High School was well attended although not perhaps as well as the initial Junior High School session on March 8.

As in the past, residents tended by and large to follow the Finance Committee's recommendations on the articles. The notable exceptions to this were the removal of a proposed $11,000 water main extension project on Draper Road, between Glezen Lane and Sears Road, in Article 8; town purchase of a lot on Sycamore Road containing a submarginal camp, despite a Finance Committee recommendation that it be approved in Article 14; and of all road projects in Article 21 with the exception of Sears Road.

Conservation Commission

The town voted to establish a conservation commission, as provided by the general laws for the promotion and development of natural resources and for the protection of watershed resources.

On a motion from the floor, the commission was expanded from three to seven members, one each from the planning board, finance committee, and water commission plus four members-at-large. Stressing the limited powers of such a commission, Allen Morgan of the planning board stated that the commission could do only one more thing than the planning board. It could ask for reimbursement by the state for money spent in the purchase of wet lands and marshes, and that it does not have the power of eminent domain.

Also, the town voted to authorize the selectmen to petition the state legislature to require the Boston Edison Co., to place any new high-voltage wires underground. In this effort, the town counsel will represent the town. However, Frank Kilburn, the town counsel said that it would be futile for the town to act alone, but that if it were to join other communities in the fight, an appropriation would be asked for

Scott Kendall Fund Reaches First Plateau

$1,000 Contributed

WAYLAND -- Funds to defray hospital expenses of Scott Kendall, the five-year-old Wayland boy who suffered severe burns in an accident last November, are pouring in from every corner of the lad's home town. Spearheading the drive the Kiwanis Club of Wayland reports that checks and money turned into the Wayland and Cochituate branches of the Newton-Waltham Bank & Trust Co., totaled some $1,000 as of last Saturday, March 18. Goal is $15,000.

An exact figure was unattainable as other money remained to be collected from containers throughout the town.

Is Route 117 Bridge To Cause Detour During Rebuilding?

WESTON -- Will the Route 117 Bridge over Route 128 be torn down all at once, thereby dumping its traffic - or at least some of it - onto the country roads of Weston?

This was the crux of a matter discussed March 16 by Weston and Waltham officials, representatives of the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, and other interested parties.

Widening of Route 128 has caused many a knotty problem for the towns through which the highway makes its way. One of the knottiest was discussed, but not settled, during the Thursday meeting at DPW headquarters.

Two alternatives exist, explains J. Ward Carter, executive secretary of the Weston board of selectmen. One, is that the present bridge will be demolished in such a manner that two-way traffic might continue while a new bridge is being constructed.

Alternate Routes

Two, the present bridge would be completely torn down. This, of course, would necessitate traffic's seeking alternate routes until the completion of the new bridge. The DPW has indicated that the latter procedure might be the more acceptable of the two for all concerned in that it would facilitate the construction of the new bridge.

West of Route 128 on 117 stands the Esso tank farm. It has an important stake in the handling of the bridge situation. Should the bridge be torn down and the detour eventuate, moving North, South, and East oil trucks would be forced onto Bear Hill Rd. in Waltham and onto Church St. and Route 20 in Weston.

ESSO

During the summer, Esso officials estimate that only about 25 Esso-owned trucks would be involved daily on all routes. While it is hoped that the vast majority of vehicles would use routes 20 and 30 as the prime arteries for the detour, enough drivers are familiar with secondary country roads to make it necessary for the DPW to repair all roads utilized as designated detour routes. In ad-

SPRING IS HERE ALRIGHT -- of course it may still be hidden by snow in some spots, but according to the calendar it's here. Green things will soon be erasing the grays and browns of winter and hued petals will spring forth from a moist and warming earth. In Weston, the Case Estates of the Arnold Arboretum will again be a handsome showcase for the new-born beauties of spring.

Award Won By Garden Club Of Wayland

WAYLAND -- The Wayland Garden Club is among the winners in the Bay State Civic Beautification Contest, sponsored by the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts and Sears, Roebuck and Co.

A small wildlife sanctuary and wetlands arboretum to be located in the boggy "bowl" directly in front of the Wayland Junior High School is the project planned by the Wayland group.

Technical procedures, dredging, etc., are to be carried out under the direct supervision of the Middlesex Soil Conservation District Soil Conservationist, Christopher Moustakis. Plans were prepared under the supervision of Egbert Hans, consultant in conservation to the Mass. Dept. of Natural Resources.

TECHNICAL DESIGN

Henry Ritzer, U. S. Government soil technician on loan to the Middlesex Soil Conservation District, with which the Wayland Garden Club works created the technical design which was rendered by landscape artist John Freeman.

Let's Keep Town Meeting From Bogging Down

Budget hearings were held in Wayland on March 2 and in Weston on March 13 for the purpose of explaining in detail proposed expenditures to be voted upon at town meeting. Finance committees in both towns worked long and hard - without pay - to prepare the budgets and to have them in such a form that they could be readily analyzed and understood by any citizen taking the time.

Manifestly, the overriding purpose of this preparation is to provide every opportunity for every citizen to be thoroughly informed on the budget. The time for voters to become conversant with the reason budget figures are what they are is at these hearings.

Town meeting is neither the time nor the place for voters suddenly to become interested and demand to be educated.

As population grows, as town meetings deal with larger and larger sums of matter there is proportionately greater need for the meetings to be handled with dispatch. The voter who holds up proceedings to be briefed on information he should have gathered for himself unnecessarily prolongs the meeting and hastens the day in which proportional representation might have to become a serious consideration.

Therefore, we sincerely urge that when pre-town-meeting hearings are held next year, ALL voters take their stand for our cherished form of free expression by attending these programs and coming to town meeting informed. Let us not be herded into proportional representation. That would be at best a second-class freedom.

'Core' Curriculum Takes Ribbing

All worthwhile activities take a goodly share of ribbing. In an educational world where "norms" and "team learning" are part of the everyday lexicon, the "core" curriculum finds itself joshed by the following definition. It was received by the Council for Basic Education in Washington from a school superintendent who says its author is unknown:

"A core curriculum is one in which the children bring apples to school and eat and plant the cores in the school grounds. They watch them sprout and grow into leaves and blossoms and then fruit. This is Science. They paste pieces of bark and twigs and leaves on paper and they paint pictures of the apples in a dish. This is Art.

"The children sit around under the trees singing 'In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree.' This is Music. The story of Johnny Appleseed is told them. This is Library Study. They climb up in the tree and pick the apples. This is Physical Education.

"They count the apples, 'taking away' the wormy ones. This is Arithmetic. In their own words, they tell what a tree is and what they felt when they saw the cores turn into trees. They also write letters to the National Apple Growers Association. This is Language Arts. The gifted children do enrichment research by reading Kilmer's Trees' or by finding out about Isaac Newton, the Apple of Discord, the Garden of Eden, William Tell and other apple-y events.

"They learn such words as arbor, l'arbre, apfel, Baum, manzana. This is Foreign Languages.

"The boys build boxes to store the apples. This is Industrial Arts. And the girls bake them and sauce them and pie them. This is Homemaking. Then everyone eats them and learns about their nutritional value. This is Health Education.

"These activities have been performed without a textbook or a workbook.

"When all the apples are gone, they take the cores once again and plant them in the school grounds and watch them grow and flower and fruit. Pretty soon, you cannot see the school for the trees. This is called The End of Education."

Letters to the EDITOR

Missile Sites Are Opposed

To the Editor:

We wish to call your attention to the plans of the Air Force to establish 150 Minutemen missile sites here in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine. Without a question they will guarantee that New England will become a prime target for giant megaton hydrogen bombs.

We believe that the only hope for a stable peace and human survival is through disarmament in stages under international agreement with inspection. The establishment of these weapons of mass destruction here in New England merely increases the state of tension and mistrust, and makes this goal more difficult to achieve.

Rev. Donald W. Lothrop, Pastor, Community Church of Boston.

David E. Kennell, Ph. D., Chairman, Boston Committee for Disarmament and Peace.

Rob't Charnock Thanks Voters

To the Editor:

I would like to thank those in Wayland who voted for me and worked for me in the recent election.

I would also like to compliment you on your willingness to devote the space you did to the news of the various candidates and to the coverage of the election period.

The town needs this service more than ever, just like it needs the participation of the townspeople in their local affairs. Without these things we are hastening the day when we must have elected town meeting members. I hope that day never comes.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

How Long Can Our Valley Wait?

The snows back in the Hopkinton and Westboro woods have been melting. Once more the floods have overspread the Sudbury River meadows. Eight thousand acres there are in all, of marsh and lowland, before the river splashes over the falls at North Billerica. This is the area which is proposed for a Federal lowland park.

It will be a couple of months before the water recedes entirely into the banks that it occupies during the dry part of the summer; and about four times in a century unseasonable rains bring summer floods in August or September also.

The greatest floods in the last century came in 1880, 1936, and following the hurricanes of the 1950s. In these, the waters rose from seven to ten feet above the usual flood level, and reached far back into all the tributary streams. Pelham Island in Wayland became an island in fact, with communication solely by boat.

Flood Control

These meadows are in reality a tremendous natural flood-control basin. Hemmed in by hills, and dammed by a ledge rising in the river beds at North Billerica, floods have been descending and silt accumulating here through thousands of years.

But what causes the flood water to spread so widely, and to stay so long? It is the almost level valley floor. In the 23 miles between the Pelham Island bridge and the falls at Billerica, the river level drops only two feet, barely enough to keep the stream flowing in dry weather. Down into this nearly flat plain each spring rushes the runoff of over 400 square miles of snow and March and April rain. Eventually the excess drains off, the valley floor turns green, and the river shrinks to a ribbon only a few yards wide.

Winter Feed

It was this green expanse, at that time filled with nutritious grasses "as high as a man's head" which attracted the original Sudbury and Concord settlers. It promised winter feed for an abundance of cattle; and ever since, until the last few decades, the hay has to some extent been stacked and fed.

Now the grasses themselves are found only in scattered bays. Not only are the cattle mostly gone, but changed conditions have kept the meadows wet longer. Chemicals from industry and sewage effluent, have upset the natural herbage and fish life.

Dissatisfaction with the wetness of the meadows is no new phenomenon, however. Sudbury was settled in 1638. When 1644 came, Elder Jones and a group of the settlers, discouraged with the excess of water on the meadows in some seasons, and with the poor results of farming on the dry, sandy, upland, headed for the more promising intervales of the Connecticut Valley.

Canal

Then began the first numerous attempts, lasting right down to this day, to secure public assistance to improve conditions. The General Court appointed three "Commissioners of Sewers," as they called them, for "the better surveying, improving and draining of the meadows." One scheme of the early days was to drain the Sudbury into the Charles by means of a canal.

The raising of the height of the dam at North Billerica, back a little over a century ago, for industrial purposes, brought the most determined battle by the people of the valley a large number of whom were farmers, to get rid of the river's excess more promptly. Eventually the riverbed was dredged and straightened. Later, the upper reaches of the Sudbury became the water supply for growing Boston.

It is Boston's Sudbury reservoirs, now kept only as an emergency reserve, which are such a pleasant feature of the Worcester Turnpike. An aqueduct from these reservoirs is one of the two that pass through Wayland and Weston.

Sewage

Down river from the waterworks, unfortunately, the river became the avenue for discharging the sewage effluent of Framingham and Natick. Now, this source of injury to the valley is being corrected by connection of both towns with the South Metropolitan Sewer System.

A comprehensive modern study of the Sudbury Valley was made by the Commonwealth's Sudbury Valley Commission a decade ago (you may read it at your library). The whole floor of the Valley the Commission declared, should be owned by the public: they recommended that the state acquire it. But the recommendation has so far slept. Now it is proposed that the Federal Government take it over.

The Sudbury Valley lies there waiting, a great potential resource for the million people of Middlesex County and the three million more in the eastern part of the state. But fingers are stretching out toward it and into it: industry, housing, private recreation, soil stripping, dumps.

How much longer can the Valley wait!

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Peepers Piping Prettily

As the water warms in the swampy areas, and the Skunk Cabbage starts to unfold its leaves, then is the time for the Spring Peepers to unlimber their pipes for the Spring serenade. This is indeed one of the true signs of Spring, a sign we have all been awaiting.

These Spring Peepers are really Tree Frogs, and hop around under the unlikely name of "Hyla crucifer." You will seldom see a Peeper, except in breeding season, but if you don't mind wet feet, wander into an area where the brush stands in the water. After you have been there, and quiet, for awhile, they will start to sing again and be easier to spot.

The type found around here are about one and a quarter inches long, light tan in color with an indistinct brown cross across the back. They also have tiny suction cups at the ends of their toes to help them climb.

When these Hylas call in large groups they sound like sleigh bells at a distance. Their voice is a high piping whistle, which comes from an air sac under the chin, and they sound off at one second intervals.

P.S. If you are interested in checking the ducks and geese that rest up in the Sudbury marsh at this time, walk out behind the tennis courts at the Wayland High School for a good view, but you'd better bring your binoculars.

Weston Scoutorama

WESTON -- The Weston Scoutorama will be held on March 25 at 1 p.m. at the Junior High School gym. A Court of Honor will be held prior to the competition with Scout officials present to make Eagle awards to several Weston Scouts.

This is the highest rank available to Boy Scouts and a significant achievement to which most boys aspire but not all attain.

There will also be star and life awards at the same time. Following the Court of Honor the competition will start with a Cub Scout tug-of-war followed by competition between troops 51, 52 and 53.

The events will include compass relay, fire by flint and steel, first aid, artificial respiration, signaling, knot tying, fire by friction, and water boiling.

Crackdown

WAYLAND -- Ernest H. Damon, chief of police in Wayland, announces that there is a severe crackdown in effect on all speeding on the roads of the town. Recent accidents have made this action vital, says the chief.

COACH CHARLES LAW of 31 Brook Road, Weston, assistant professor of physical education and director of athletics at Suffolk University, has been selected one of two coaches for the New England Collegiate All-Star Basketball game set for Boston Garden the week of March 20.

The other chosen is coach Charles NcNulty of Worcester Tech.

Coach Law, former athletics director at Weston High School, has produced many successful teams during his coaching careet there.

This past year marked the 15th consecutive basketball winning season for Suffolk University, all under Coach Law, and this despite the fact that Suffolk must play 90% of its games "on the road," as it has no home court of its own within the college facilities. During the decade and a half it has won 157 and lost 91 basketball games.

Hubbard Trail Plans To Open On Saturday

WESTON -- The Hubbard Trail, which meanders between Oak St., and Ridgeway Road, is opening its fifth season Saturday, March 25 with a general invitation "work day".

This trail was given to the Weston Forest and Trail Association by the estate of Charles W. Hubbard in 1956. In April 1957, at the instigation of Edward Balch Hubbard, the New England Wild Flower Preservation Society was invited to make use of it as their official sanctuary for flowers and birds -- an invitation which they gladly accepted.

Volunteers are urgently needed to help with the trail's "spring cleaning". Anyone interested in spending a pleasant Saturday out of doors and helping to spruce up one of Weston's beauty spots is asked to contact Mr. Hubbard. He is chairman of the Weston Forest and Trail's Nature Trail committee and also of the New England Wildflower Society's Hubbard Trail Committee. His telephone number is TW 3-7853.

Town Meeting—

at a later date.

Opposition

Both the conservation commission and the high-tension-wire measures were opposed by some citizens who mistakenly thought they were similar to urban redevelopment proposals.

Article 2 was reopened to approve the setting up of a committee to determine sidewalk location construction from the Senior High School to Wayland Center and Cochituate. The five-man committee which will consider sidewalk policies, type of construction and costs, will be composed of the Road Commissioner, a member of the School Committee, the Planning Board and the Finance Committee. The fifth member-at-large will be selected by the other four.

Article 1 was reopened to secure approval of the town report and to admit resolutions commending George F. Lewis and Joseph A. Decatur for their long service to the town.

Finance Commission

A motion to require the Finance Committee to submit more detailed reports and requiring it to provide reasons for additions or deletions in town budgets was turned down. Robert Morgan, Finance Committee chairman, explained that the committee works without pay and holds frequent sessions especially before town meeting. He termed the motion an imposition and hoped it would not pass. The town meeting supported him.

Other residents took the floor to explain that hearings are held to discuss the town budget previous to town meeting and that citizens ought to inform themselves at these hearings instead of taking time at the town meeting.

A motion to raise the price of a lot fronting on Claypit Hill Road from $6,000 to $8,000 in Article 16 was turned down. The lot is a portion of the Claypit Hill School tract and is being sold as not necessary for school purposes. Under Article 15 the town approved the purchase of a portion of the Elizabeth S. Woodward property on which the Claypit Hill School addition may be more conveniently built.

Road Projects

Article 18 proved to be one of the most contentious items in the warrant consuming nearly 30 minutes before it was approved in the form recommended by the Finance Committee. This called for expenditure of approximately $25,000 in road projects under the betterment act, including Maguire Road, Charles Street, Grace Road, Gage Road and Pleasant Street extension in Cochituate.

Recommendations that the Sunset Road and Bent Avenue projects be turned down provoked considerable discussion, much of it due to their linking with the Urban Renewal Authority. A motion to have these two streets included in the article was ruled out of order by moderator Roger Stokey because no plans for the two roads had been submitted to the town seven days prior to town meeting.

Town support of the fight to compel the Boston Edison Company to locate new power lines underground in the town (article 25) was secured by two-thirds passage. This approval will permit the town to employ town counsel and pay his fee, if required.

A proposal that the meeting be adjourned and reopened at a later date was voted down when the chairman of the finance committee pointed out that there were only three more articles left on the warrant and that the committee recommended that the three be turned down.

Palm Sunday Music At Trinitarian Church

WAYLAND -- The Trinitarian Congregational Church of Wayland, Dr. Donald S. Ewing, Minister, will present a Lenten Service of Sacred Music, Palm Sunday, March 26, at 4:00 p.m. Under the direction of Oliver Chamberlain, director of music, the choir will sing Johann Sebastian Bach;s Cantata Number 78. "Jesus, Thou My Wearied Spirit", and the "Requiem" of Gabriel Faure, to be sung in English. Passages of scripture, in keeping with the season, will be read by Dr. Ewing as part of this third sacred music service of the year.

The prelude will be the organ "Chorale in A Minor" by Ceasar Franck. Church Organist, Walter Gray, will also play Handel's Organ Concerto, Opus 4, No 6 as the offertory.

A major feature of this service will be the contribution made by the church organ which has been completely rebuilt and expanded as part of the recent building program of the church. Although incorporating many of the components and pipes of the previous organ, these have been carefully reworked and revoiced. The present instrument has been enlarged more than three-fold and is capable of far greater variety in tonal color and musical effect.

This versatility, so essential to the works of the Romantic period, will be aptly demonstrated in the Franck Chorale and in the accompaniment to the Faure "Requium."

Nonetheless, care has been taken to keep the organ faithful to the classical tradition as will be heard in the Bach Cantata and the Handel Organ Concerto. The work of rebuilding the organ has involved many months of planning and over a year and a half of painstaking work and adjustment.

Episcopal Mission

WAYLAND -- A covered-dish supper will preceed the regular Thursday evening Lenten service of the Wayland Episcopal Mission tonight (March 23) at 7 p.m. at the Wayland High School.

The Executive Committee of the Wayland Episcopal Mission wishes to publicly thank the members of the Unitarian Church for their most kind and generous offer in making their facilities available to the new mission for worship.

Trinitarian Music Is Traditional

WAYLAND -- Music has played a part in the services of the Trinitarian Congregational Church for about 150 years. Even when the church had as few as fifteen members and the minister travelled out from a Boston theological school, there was someone to sing or play sacred music. Early church records show the use of stringed instruments as part of church services. In 1902 the church had a double quartet of singers.

When the old church burned in 1922, the original organ burned with it, and it was not until 1928 that a Hook and Hastings organ was installed. Within the past three years this organ has been rebuilt, and the choir has moved from its small loft under the belfry to new accomodations in the chancel.

The church has, in addition, a youth choir under the direction of Irene Ewing, and is establishing a second choir for the early church service on Sunday mornings.

WAYLAND TOWN HALL

PLANNING BOARD

The planning board met March 20 to organize for the coming year. Robert H. Charnock was elected new chairman of the committee and Alan H. Morgan, clerk. Other members of the committee are L. William Bertelsen, George F. Bowers, Jr., Edward F. Thorburn, and Mrs. Katherine Hodges.

Discussion was held on who the planning board's members might be on committees established by the town meeting. It was decided that Mr. Beterlsen would serve on the sidewalk committee and Mr. Morgan would be recommended to the selectmen for the post of planning-board representative on the conservation committee.

Further, the board set a deadline of two months for reviewing and revising the planning-board subdivision rules. Similarly, it set a two-month deadline in which to formalize a master plan for the town.

A tentative schedule for completion of review of a master plan was discussed. Also, the nature of engineering for town roads came up for preliminary discussion.

FIRE

An insight into the assistance a fire department renders its community in areas above and beyond its main purpose of protecting property and personnel from fire is to be found in the items on this week's list of calls.

Wayland's fire department was called when a child locked itself in a bathroom and when a cat got stuck in a tree, when an older person fell from bed and needed assistance and when a dog stumbled into a pond.

Only two calls carried the department into areas having to do with fires. On Saturday, the 18th members of the department investigated smoke in a house on Winthrop Terr., and on the same day a grass fire on East Plain St. required attention.

POLICE

Late Tuesday evening, March 14, a suspicious car at the Red Coach Grill on Route 20 was checked out but was found to be alright. Also, on the 15th, icy roads caused hazardous conditions. The department went to the aid of two cars which had skidded on Stonebridge Rd. and were hanging over a cliff.

Occupants of both cars were able to get out of the vehicles without assistance and the autos were towed to safety by Cochituate Motors.

BOARD OF SELECTMEN

At the March 20 meeting of the board, John Eric Nelson was reappointed moth superintendent, William J. Hall was reappointed as veterans agent and Warren F. Lawrence as inspector of animals.

About 1648, persons chosen to conduct the affairs of the town were first called "selectmen." The number varied.

WESTON TOWN HALL

POLICE

One of the most time consuming duties of the police department took place Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Members of the department delivered town reports to each house in Weston.

Dogs, singly and in packs are chasing deer in the Cat Rock area. As game wardens are being called in to handle the situation, the police warn that some dogs may be shot and therefore caution dog owners to restrain their animals.

On Monday, March 20, Chief Frank O. Shaw and Officer Lawrence Tierney investigated a traffic incident in which a 12-year old boy was struck by a car near his home on Plain Rd.

FIRE

It was a quiet week for the department. Members investigated a fire in a chair at 49 Hubbard Rd., early in the morning of March 15 and aided a family on Sudbury Rd., March 16 in repairing its water pump.

The fire department points out that it has received an executive order cautioning it against using the narrow bridge on Conant Rd.

BOARD OF APPEALS

On April 17, the Weston Board of Appeals will hold a public hearing on a petition of the Massachusetts Broken Stone Co., regarding the zoning aspects of a request by the company for permission to construct a trunk line between its property and the Boston and Maine Railroad. The proposed sidetracks would cross a strip of the company's own land which is located in residential district.

A request that the Taylor Medical building be permitted to function as a general office building rather than solely as a medical building has been filed with the Board of Appeals. Hearing on the petition of Grantley W. Taylor, M.D., Phoebe A. Taylor and Samuel S. Dennis 3rd, trustees of the Taylor Medical Realty Trust, will be held April 10 at 8:30 at the Town House.

BOSTON -- It is unjust to Massachusetts motorists to call for a continuation of the temporary federal gasoline tax while one billion, seven hundren million dollars a year in highway user taxes is being spent for non-road purposes, says James N. Do You Know . .

The most prevalent causes of deafness are upper respiratory infections, hereditary, accidents and occupational hazards.

Thousands of children are relieved of hearing losses by removal of their tonsils and adenoids.

Today, babies (three months old) are being fitted to hearing aids to hear and learn speech patterns.

The two surgical operations performed in selected cases today are called Fenestration and Stapes mobilization, and many people, today, having conduction deafness are being restored to normal hearing through means of surgery.

If you or your loved ones have a hearing problem, why not write for the free booklet "Hearing" that will better acquaint you with this problem.

Weston Police Force Takes Pride in Its Record

WESTON -- "Do you look one way crossing the street?" asks the police officer of the roomful of elementary school children? "No," they shout in chorus.

"Do we look just both ways?" he asks again. "No," comes the unisoned retort.

"Well, how DO we look?" he queries and the quick response echos: "We look both ways and we KEEP looking both ways all the way across the street."

This short vignette is a part of a broader scene acted out in the schoolrooms of the Weston school from time to time all year long.

Lawrence Tierney is safety officer in addition to being a full-time patrolman in Weston. His safety activities are of necessity carried on whenever he can find a half-hour or so of relatively free time during his work day.

OFFICER FRED PERKINS of the Weston Police Department at work during the busy school-hour rush. Over 35 man hours a week are absorbed in school-hour work by the department.

Ounce of Prevention

Nevertheless, Officer Tierney's safety program complete with visual aids had been presented to all public school students from kindergarten through the sixth grade last year. And by the end of the current year it is planned that the upper grades will have received a similar although more advanced course.

Chief Frank O. Shaw believes that the old bromide "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" has particular application to a police department. To this end, the juvenile officers of his force investigated 34 cases involving a total of 80 youngsters from 7 to 17 last year.

They concern themselves with information pertaining to the youngsters situation, and frequently engage in conferences with the parents, teachers, and clergy of th child.

The chief says he and his men will always take the time to listen when a youngster wants to come in and discuss a problem.

Better Radios

Another source of pride to the Weston police force is the anticipated upgrading of its radio system. At present, the police, fire, and highway departments all operate on the same frequency. Rulings by the Federal Communications Commission have made this system obsolete. The system expected to be installed soon will permit the police department to handle its communications on a separate frequency but close enough to the other frequencies to allow their being tuned in at will.

Also, in the field of communications, the Weston police have recently joined an inter-system network that will allow Weston to speak on a station-to-station with several surrounding towns as well as the state police. This is of particular importance in reducing the necessity of live pursuit of speeding cars on Weston roads.

The budget-conscious chief proposes to take an obsolete radio set from one of the cruisers and use it to establish hitherto-lacking radio communications with neighboring Wayland.

Stepped-Up Potroling

Utilization of this old equipment will represent a savings of some $200 to the town.

Early in his administration, Chief Shaw made a significant step-up in the patrol functions of the three station wagons.

"In a community such as ours, I feel it is vital to have a patrol operation under way constantly," he points out.

It has been effective. In 1958 before Chief Shaw took over there were 17 dwelling breaks. Last year, eight dwellings were reported broken into. Three of the burglers wee apprehended at the scene or in the immediate vicinity by the town's constantly patrolling cars. These on-the-spot arrests accounted for five of the eight breaks.

During the investigation, it was brought out that a friend of the burglars, who was not involved with the Weston incidents had told the men it was foolish to try a series of breaks in that town because its system of continuous cruising was so efficient.

During 1960, the program which has paid off so highly in apprehending burglars accounted for 129,000 miles on the cruisers' odometors.

Understaffed

The many functions of the department, only a few of which have been covered here, point up the fact that the force is understaffed.

Including the chief, there are eleven men on the force. Two vacancies exist and are being partially filled on a part-time basis. While two full-time men were requested to fill the vacancies at the 1960 town meeting, and the money was appropriated, two such men have not become available to date.

The regulars work a 48-hour week.

There is a 12-man civil defense unit which serves as an auxiliary police force. These men log some 4-500 man hours a year by serving as addition traffic-control personnel during Sunday morning church hours, on Halloween, and at such other times as unusually heavy traffic or concentration of people is anticipated. They attend all of the training sessions maintained for the regular force.

A quick glance at statistics indicates the changing nature of the Weston community and stresses the need for increasing police coverage. In addition to the town streets, there are four numbered routes passing through. Some 80,000 automobiles travel in Weston on an average day and in the summer and on holidays traffic is even heavier.

To patrol this busy complex, the Weston police have three station-wagon type cruisers, two with signs and lights indicating their usage and one without the external trappings of a police vehicle. All three are equipped with rescue and first-aid equipment and the two marked cars carry resuscitators.

Gasoline for motorists who run out of gas in Weston is also standard equipment for the cruisers.

While the chf is quick to give the greater percentage of praise to "Lady Luck" it must be mentioned that despite the excessively heavy traffic load carried by Weston roads, there has not been a traffic fatality since Dec. 20, 1958.

Thrift Shop Sale by Middlebury Alumna

WALTHAM -- Mrs. William E. Maxson, 68 Lunda St., in Waltham is Area Chairman for Waltham and Weston of the third annual Thrift Shop Sale of the Boston Middlebury Alumnae Association to be held at the Shady Hill Thrift Shop, 19 Brookline St., Cambridge, from March 16 through April 11.

Weston To Vote On Equal Pay For Teachers

WESTON Perhaps the most controversial issue to be faced by Weston voters on March 27 is the issue of equal pay for women teachers. The question appears on the ballot as the result of a 1960 state statue ordering such action by all communities which have not voted on the measure since its inception in 1947. It was voted down at that time in Weston.

Proponents of the equal-pay concept have this to say:

1) The principle of equal pay for men and women performing the same work is morally right and desirable;

2) Weston is one of the last four or five communities in Massachusetts that still does not have equal pay for school teachers;

3) As a referendum question, it is a pure form of self determination by a community's electorate - a helpful guide to the school committee;

4) Pay differentials between men and women teachers doing the same work today are so small that they no longer are real factors in attracting and holding men teachers;

5) Equal pay "holds" a young women to teaching - it encourages her to regard teaching on a career basis rather than as a temporary job;

6) State law in Massachusetts forbids a pay differential based on sex in private employment;

7) Equal pay boosts the morale and efficiency of women teachers who comprise the large majority of the teaching force.

Home Rule An Issue

Opposition to equal pay is directed almost entirely at the provisions of the referendum law, and not to the principle of equal pay itself.

The Weston School Committee states that adoption of this referendum will endanger the town's merit pay plan for teachers and recommends a "no" vote for this reason.

The committee explains that the law, when accepted by a community, requires that a woman teacher receive the same pay as any man teacher in the same grade, doing the same job and with the same preparation and training. The committee has been advised that these provisions can, possibly, prohibit merit pay differentials as "discriminatory". However, there has been no test of the law in the courts as yet.

School committees in neighboring towns where the equal pay question was voted upon this year also objected to the merit pay limitations of the law. Additionally, they urged rejection of the referendum because:

1) Once accepted, it locks the town into an irrevocable and comparatively inflexible teacher pay program;

2) It waters down the traditionally broad local autonomy of the school committee in personnel matters;

3) The real need for equal pay is doubted; school committees can adopt equal pay programs on their own and a number have. Others that haven't, though, claim they've had no requests to do so in recent years.

Scholarship Fund To Benefit By Weston Concert

WESTON -- A pops concert to benefit the David A. Perry Memorial scholarship Fund will be held at the Weston Town Hall at 8:30 p.m. on May 5 and 6.

Kimball A. McMullin, representative of the Boosters club which sponsors the concert, announced that the success of the "pops evening" held three years ago prompted the decision to repeat the benefit. Proceeds will assist a Weston high school student to attend college.

The Westonnaires, the Kitchen Canaries, and the Chamber Music Society of Lower Newton Street have agreed to perform. These choral and jazz groups are composed of Weston residents.

The committee for the concert is: Mr. and Mrs. Kimball A. McMullin, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. McMullin, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Garland, Mrs. Owen C. Howe, Jr. Mrs. Robert G. FitzGerald, Mrs. Richard P. Berry, John L. Duffy, and Alan M. Campbell.

Eleftherakis To Direct Concert In Wayland

WAYLAND -- The vitality and quality of the performing arts talent which abounds in the Boston area, will be stressed in a new series of concerts to be presented this spring under the sponsorshlp of the Boston Arts Festival.

In a dramatic innovation and experiment, the Boston Arts Festival will channel the talents of some of New England's most outstanding performers into a series of programs to be staged in outlying communities. Chosen to introduce the series in Wayland on Sunday, March 26, is the Fine Arts Chamber Orchestra, under the direction of Eleftherios Eleftherakis. The evening concert will be open free to the public.

The Series is being launched this year as part of the Festival's Tenth Anniversary Celebration and will be carried into four communitles between now and June 9th when the Festival starts in the Public Garden. Other communities on the schedule will be Newton, Lexington, and Concord.

Fairy Queen

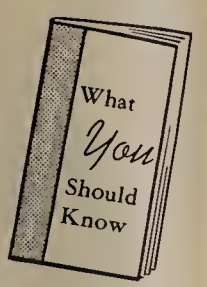
The Small Theater of the new Wayland High School will be the setting for the opening event, when Mr. Eleftherakis and his group will present a program including a suite from Purcell's Falry Queen; the Haydn Horn Concerto No. 2 in D. with Ralph Pottle as soloist; Five Pieces of Hindemith; the Adagio for Strings by Samuel Barber; Triptych by Tansman; and Bach's Third Brandenburg Concerto.

Conductor Eleftherakis, who attended New England Conservatory and Boston University, is a faculty member at the Longy School and Supervlsor of Music In the Winchester Public Schools. He is a former member of the Kansas City Philharmonic and Minneapolis Symphony, has spent two seasons at Tanglewood, and is active as a violist in solo and chamber music appearances.

Earlier Appearance

The Fine Arts Chamber Orchestra, directed by Mr. Eleftherakis, appeared earlier this season at the museum of Fine Arts in a program devoted to works of contemporary composers in the New England area.

The horn soloist, Ralph Pottle, is currently on the faculties of Boston University and the New England Conservatory of Music, and is engaged in chamber music recitals as a member of The New England brass Quintet and the Fine Arts Woodwind Quintet. In 1953, he was awarded a Fulbright Grant for study at the Staatsakademie fuer Musik in Vienna, and during the following years participated in tours to Iceland and South America under the auspices of the U. S. State Department.



Last spring he accompanied the Boston Symphony on its tour to Japan and the Far East area. Other events scheduled In the Festival's Spring Series will Include a second performance by the Fine Arts Chamber Orchestra; chamber music recitals, dramatic reading, and a Shakespeare comedy.

Fine Arts Concert Truly Fine But Poorly Attended

by ANNE S. HOCKING

WAYLAND -- Wayland embarrassed Wayland Monday evening, March 26. It failed to attend in respectable number the Fine Arts Chamber Orchestra concert conducted by Elaftherios Elaftherakis at the little theatre of the High School.

The concert was one of a series of scheduled events to be given in Wayland, Lexington, Lincoln and Concord in the weeks preceding the presentation of the 10th Anniversary Festival in Boston.

The Haydn Concerto No. 2 in D for Horn and Strings, which is rarely performed (and I can't understand why unless its demands of virtuosity on the part of the horn soloist are too strenous to be undertaken lightly) was to me the evening's high point. Ralph Pottle Jr. on the horn gave the impression of being as amazed an delighted and at the same time relaxed with his instrument as a four-year-old on Christmas morning on being presented with a puerile fascimile thereof; only in this case the result was as delightful to the audience as the performer. Usually in these horn pieces I devote so much empathy to the musician that I have little to spare for the composer. Not so with Mr. Pottle doing justice to Haydn.

The Simple Symphony by Britten was most easily digestible for a first hearing (my first, that is) and played by the group as though for their own entertainment and relaxation. But to be honest they went on to swish through the second Brandenburg Concerto by Bach in exactly the same manner so one got the suspicion that they were truly enjoying their work.

The balance of string tone was impeccable and the acoustics in the Little Theatre perfect for per-

Construction To Begin On Rt. 117 Bridge

WESTON -- Thomas F. Hanron, district highway engineer of the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, has advised the Weston board of selectmen that the department "agreed to permit the contractor to start demolishing the Main St., (Route 117) bridge (over Route 128) on Monday, April 3.

"The contractor in turn has stated he would complete the construction of a new bridge by Sept. 15."

Mr. Hanron stated in a letter to the Weston officials that his department "would do everything

Scott Kendall Fund Has $1,200 of its $5,000 Goal

WAYLAND--Merchants are joining private citizens in upping the Scott Kendall Fund. As of March 24, some $1,200 to defray the hospital expenses of the five-year-old Wayland boy who suffered severe burns in an accident last fall, has arrived at the Wayland and Cochituate branches of the Newton-Waltham Bank & Trust Co., earmarked for the fund.

The Kiwanis Club, spearheading the drive, wish to remind all people, who may have lost or mislaid the return envelopes for contributions sent to them by the club, that contributions may be mailed to the above mentioned bank in regular envelopes. Checks should be made out to the Scott Kendall Fund.

Goal is $5,000.

Weston Town Meeting Short And Sweet; Downs Equal Pay

WESTON -- Thank you and good night. It took just an hour and three quarters Monday night March 27 to settle town financial affairs for the coming year.

As a result:

1. Weston will spend $2,580,922.
2. The tax rate most likely will be $63.80 -- up $3 from 1960.
3. About 80 town workers, other than teachers, will receive a 2.4 cost of living pay increase (cost $8617).

And the controversial proposal for equal pay for men and women teachers, opposed by the school board, was defeated 429-105.

In a period of rising costs, the town will spend but $255,373 over last year's expenditures.

This represents a rise of only nine percent, the smallest since 1953 and about half of the 18.6 percent increase of 1960.

Approved

The town budget, representing $1,980,712 of next year's costs, was approved almost before a few stragglers among the 350 could make it to their seats.

But as in most town meetings where major appropriations whisk through, there is one unpredictable article which hangs on like a spring cold. This time it was Article 16.

For nearly 45 minutes questions popped from all over the hall about the authorization of $3,000 this year (and probably $3,000 more in 1962) for 4.22 acres near Bogle street (in the southwesterly corner of town) for a future playground.

The general idea: get the land now before land costs rise and wait to develop it as needs arise.

No one really objected but it took more than a little explaining and philosophizing by J. M. Bradley, chairman of the Recreation Commission, other town officials

THAT THE SUDBURY RIVER FLOODPLAIN is very much a part of the Wayland countryside is indicated in this aerial photograph taken by Allen H. Morgan of Wayland at an altitude of 3,000 feet on Oct. 8, 1960. The Ten Acres restaurant is to be seen in the lower left corner and the Raytheon plant two-thirds of the way up the right margin. Roughly the upper third of the picture shows the Pelham Island area of the floodplain. A plan to maintain the marshlands in their natural state as a means of flood control and wild-life preservation is now before the Massachusetts legislature.

Youth Canteen Serves Junior Town House

by SALLY BILLIG

WAYLAND -- Some 200 Wayland teen-agers turn up at "school" each week-end, to relax and join their friends in a game of ping-pong, chess or a mean cha cha.

"School" on these occasions is the Happy Hollow School, where the Wayland Junior Town House has been sponsoring a Youth Canteen since the spring of 1959.

Offered as a place where young people can spend an evening with their friends, the Canteen hosts high school students on Fridays from 7:30 to 11 p.m., and junior high students on Saturdays from 7 to 10. Admission is by membership, which costs $1 and extends for a six-month period.

The self-governing body of the Canteen is a representative council of student members, with delegates from each year of the junior and senior high schools. Together with paid director Bob Holland, who is a teacher in the Needham school system, the students legislate and administer their own rules and programs.

The subject of food, ever present in the teen-age mind, has posed some problems over the years. At one time, Town House rented a machine dispensing radiant-headed food. It proved an interesting but unsuccessful experiment due to the uncertainty of each week's attendance figure.

At the moment, a soft drink dispenser does yeoman duty. However, according to Mr. Holland, an application has been filed with the school committee, requesting use of the Happy Hollow kitchen for heating pizzas, frankfurts, etc., in full deference to teen-age gastric requirements.

Chaperones, to aid Mr. Holland in supervising the goings-on, have been culled from the list of Town House trustees and directors to date. However, Mrs. Richard Dunham, Town House secretary and Mr. Harry Barrett, chairman of the Town House Youth Center Committee, have announced that chaperone calls will be going out to parents in the near future.

South Pacific Huge Success At Wayland HS

by ANNE S. HOCKING

WAYLAND -- As an antidote to Hollywood's corn-laced version of Rodgers and Hammerstein's South Pacific, we recommend the High School Arts Center production of the same. The town of Wayland has suddenly been presented with not one but two toasts and hard put the male population will be to choose betwixt them.

If you like your women mature and a trifle earthy, but hauntingly articulate in song, you'll enjoy Bloody Mary as played by Valerie Costa (a comer if there ever was one). On the other had, if you veer toward a magnetic pixie warmth, Meredith Hatch in the role of Nellie Forbush is your girl.

Keeping pace with these two paragons was no easy task, but it was done and more than adequately by Gary Longtine who played Emil, the French planter, with all the dignity the role demanded; and by Stephen Garry as Luther Billis, who compensated in his bumptious abandon and charm for what he might have lacked in refinement.

In short, a study in the power and appeal of contrast was the keynote to the production's success. Contributing further to this theme was rock-jawed Capt. Brackett (Lamar LeMonte) with his me-too-ist C.O., William McElwee; the planter's Polynesian progeny convincingly sung by Agnes McCann and Joseph Perrell; and the urban sophistication of Lt. Cable (Eric Jones) as contrasted to his naively sensuous love, Liat (Karen Eckler). In the chorus the men were MEN and the girls provocative.

What more can you ask? Only that Director Elinore C. Fisher of the B. U. School of Fine and Applied Arts and the producers Barbara Newhouse, Edward Belliveau and Mr. Frank Mclellan, also of B.U., try Wayland again when they've time and spirit to mold more clay.

Speaking of clay, there was none of it in the fingers of the indefatigable accompanist Peter Neuendorffer. His selfless contribution from overture to finale was the evening's backbone.

Sets, make-up and costumes - all three were handled with taste and simplicity. What's on the schedule, Mr. Fraser, for your next little exercise in coordination?

Business-Type Effeciency For Today's Schools

School systems such as the first-rate ones maintained by Weston and Wayland, take a giant step forward when they come to grips with a truth -- they are "big business" and should operate with the cost-saving techniques inherent in good business procedure.

On this score, it is interesting to note that in Weston the school committee and school administration have worked out this year's budget through new approaches furnished by Price, Waterhouse & Co. Thus, the school committee is now enabled to identify more specifically the costs of individual parts of the school program. It can thereby make better decisions on the allocating of funds to maintain various areas of school functions.

Formerly, the committee had to compile lists of requests from widely divergent sources and subject them to individual analysis.

The new system should eventuate in increased efficiency and accurate cost analysis.

Why do school costs go up? According to comparative figures published in the reports of the Weston selectmen and finance committee, in 1950 there were 1,186 dwellings which could be taxed to support 795 school children. However, in the short span of 10 years the gap between dwellings and school children rapidly closed until now the ratio is virtually one to one: 1,998 dwellings, 1,932 children.

There has been an increase of only 68 per cent in the number of dwellings in the past 10 years while the school population has truly burgeoned at 143 per cent.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

A Truly American Sweet

Here and there along the roads in Weston and Wayland on these sharp March mornings you may see tin cans or small pails hanging against the trunks of maple trees. The folks in the house are planning to have some fresh maple syrup on their griddle cakes.

It is the tall wide-branching native rock maple which provides the sweet sap; not the imported Norway maple, planted so often as a shade tree. Some other maples, even birches, can be made to yield sugar also, though it may be very dark and sometimes bitter. The sugar or rock maple is much more plentiful in western Massachusetts and in the mountain states north of us than here near the sea. It prefers a climate even colder than ours. This sugar maple and a couple of others are the trees which give New England its most brilliant fall foliage.

Indian Know-How

We sometimes think that the Indians didn't have much to teach us, but maple syrup is only one among many foods that the European never enjoyed until he came here. Yet the redman in western New England and in Canada had celebrated the spring with maple syrup and sugar for centuries.

The sap begins to rise in the maple tree very early in the spring. It runs best when bright days follow sharp nights. The Indians cut a notch in the trunk of the tree and drove in a long chip. The sap dripped down from this into a pail made of birch bark, or a gourd. When this was full, they gathered the sap, took it to their sugar camp, and poured it into a vat hollowed out of a log, or into a large birch bark tub.

Sap as it comes from the tree is thin and watery. It must be boiled hard to become syrup and sugar. The Indians had no metal kettles. Some tribes made kettles of green birch bark, and hung them over the fire, but above the flame. The syrup boiled inside, yet the kettle didn't burn. Other tribes heated stones red hot, and dropped them one after another into the wooden vat that held the sap. They kept the sap boiling until the excess water went off in steam, and the syrup was thickened.

Favorite Foods

Maple syrup and sugar were favorite foods of the Indians wherever the sugar maple grew. After they made their whole meal of it. They also mixed the sugar with fine ground parched corn, to form a tasty mixture similar to one of our cooked breakfast cereals. Some present-day Connecticut Indians once gave me a jar of this. It had a delicious fragrance: and they said it made equally delicious ice cream.

After boiling the sap down to syrup, the boiling had to go on further, if sugar was to be made. When it was done, small candies for the children were hardened in the bills of ducks and geese, or in hollowed out reeds after the pith was removed. For presents, sugar might be put in little white birch bark baskets, decorated with porcupine quills dyed red or green or yellow.

White Men Learn

The white men learned from the Indians how to tap the maple trees and to make syrup and sugar. Some towns in western Massachusetts where there were lots of maples made as much as 50,000 to 100,000 pounds of sugar in a single year. That was a century and a half ago, before white sugar made from sugar cane and beets became so plentiful and cheap.

Like the Indians, we still think that maple syrup and sugar are among the nicest things that spring brings us. At our house we like the syrup especially on French toast.

Most of our maple syrup now comes from Vermont and New Hampshire. But if there are sugar maples handy, you can make it yourself, as some folks in our towns still do: it takes plenty of patience, though.

What a lot we owe to all the people who have lived in New England before us - including, certainly, the Indians!

Letters to the EDITOR

Kendall Boy Visits Home

To the Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to let all those who have been so very thoughtful with various kindnesses to us and to our son Scott, know that he is home with us for awhile.

Although he is limited in the use of his arms and must go back to the Massachusetts General Hospital in the near future for further grafting and plastic surgery, it is wonderful beyond belief to be a complete family unit as before.

To see our little Scott once again doing the things that are so important only to a five year old boy, fills us with joy, gratitude and much happiness.

To all of you, our deepest and most heartfelt thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Kendall

Association Plans Drive

To the Editor:

On Sunday, April 9, 1961, young men and women participants of the high school athletic program, on behalf of the Wayland High Association, will make a house to house canvass throughout the town.

Residents will be asked to donate to this annual drive to support the program of the association. Each donor will receive a family membership card which we hope will encourage wider participation in activities. The association, in close cooperation with the high school, sponsors the annual All-Sports Banquet entertaining all athletes who have participated in the Interscholastic program at the High School.

This year, 193 boys and girls will be our guests, both for the banquet and the several recognition awards as well as the presentation of jackets to qualified Juniors and Seniors.

The Association further supplements the athletic program through movies of home football games and special equipment needs.

The members wish to express their thanks for the generous support of the townspeople and welcome all to our regular meetings held on the second Wednesday of each month at the high school.

John W. Arnold, president
Arnold Bradley, vice president
Harold Barnett, treasurer
Domenic Ferrante, secretary.

Complaint About Coverage of Civic Group

To the Editor:

Your coverage of the March 20 meeting of the Wayland Civic Association was not only inadequate, but also would tend to discouage any further interest in it.

We were formed to defeat the aims of the Wayland Renewal Authority because we do not believe in the necessity for it in this town. Conflicting statements by members of the Authority, given to the press and told us directly, added to accounts of what Renewal Authorities have done in other communities convince us it does not belong here.

We invite anyone interested not only to check the Dudley Pond area, but also to investigate the seven points required by the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency before considering an area "suitable" for Federal aid.

The Boston Globe, March 22, contained an extensive article outlining our purpose. Is it too much to expect the same from our local paper?

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

About Salamanders

In this area probably the most common of the Lizard type creatures are the Spotted and Red-Backed Salamanders. These small animals are usually found under wet rocks and old logs in wooded areas that stay damp most of the time.

In fact, you can probably find them right now as they are still in hibernation, but will be coming out soon to lay their eggs.

The Spotted Salamander is the largest of the two, being six or seven inches long. They are slate gray on the tummy and a darker gray on the back, with large orange spots top-sides.

Red-backed Salamanders are somewhat smaller, running from two to three-and-a-half inches. They have a straight reddish stripe down their backs and are mottled black and white on the undersides.

Some of these will vary in color, and not have the red stripe at all, but be gray or black on the back. This is all very confusing, but probably they have their reasons.

Now these Spotted Salamanders belong to the Mole Salamander family and they lay their eggs in ponds. The eggs float in clusters or are attached to sticks under water.

The Red-Backed type lay their eggs in old rotten, damp logs and moss - these belong to the Woodland Salamander family.

Both of these species eat small insects and worms, but if you must keep them as pets you can also feed them tubifex worms purchased from a tropical fish dealer.

Books to Read

"A Man and His Dog"
By Anthony Richardson

One foggy night early in 1940 a French plane was shot down beyond the German border and the pilot badly wounded. Before setting out on their perilous journey to the French frontier, Gunner Bozdeck crept to a nearby ruined house to kill a dog whose plaintive cries might lead the enemy to the escapees. Instead he left the ruins with a tiny puppy inside his coat. Through all the following war years these two friends were inseparable. Jan facing death or disgrace several times by refusing to give up his dog, while Antis repaid him a hundredfold.

If the reader is a dog lover, this book will go to his heart; if not, he will become one before reaching the last page of this true story.

"A Living Bill of Rights"
By William O. Douglas

"To our high school pupils from Alaska to Puerto Rico, from Maine to Hawaii". So reads the dedication of this "booklet" which adults will also find thought provoking.

Afte clarifying the meaning of each guarantee of our liberties, the Supreme Court Justice examines cases which have come before the Court, many within the last decade, and explains why each case was or was not declared constitutional. In the last few pages he discusses thought control of teachers. Justice Douglas suggests that the teaching and text books of some public schools are dry and dull because the teachers are not free to start discussions, express opinions or implant new ides in the minds of their pupils. "Is this the kind of education we want?"

A Living Bill of Rights is what this "booklet" calls for.

"The Man With The Miraculous Hands"
By Joseph Kessel

The unbelievable but nevertheless true story of a doctor who through the magic of his fingers won the confidence of Hitler's demon, Himmler, and so saved the lives of thousands of doomed men and women. One of the most gripping stories to come out of World War II and stranger than any mystery.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- Mrs. D. B. Hill, Wellesley St., reports a pair of Red-shouldered Hawks in a pine tree near her home on Mar. 16. Probably they were looking the situation over for a nesting site, as white pines are favorites with these birds. On the same day another hawk report came from Mrs. R. L. Davis of Cochituate, who saw a Sparrow Hawk in her yard.

On Mar. 17 Billy Lawson saw five or six Woodcock in a swampy area near Loring Rd. These birds have been migrating in good numbers for the past couple of weeks.

Fox Sparrows (A few migrants have arrived as of this date -- Mar. 22) were first heard singing on Mar. 21(Smith), and migrant Robins are now arriving in small flocks.

Watch now for Bluebirds, Phoebes, and Tree Swallows. Reports of these birds will be particularly welcome, because of their scarcity during the past few years.

On Mar. 9, Mrs. S. E. Bissett had a large flock of "blackbirds" in her yard - 60 Redwings, 30 Cowbirds, and a few Grackles.

Adventures In Music Series Winds Up

WAYLAND -- Adventures in Music culminates its regular season on Saturday, April 1st with an all-family percussion special concert. Shown above are children selected from each of the towns participating in AIM, rehearsing with conductor Kalman Novak in preparation for their big moment as solists with the orchestra during the first performance of "Ambush and Chase" by Boston composer Nicholas Van Slyck, commissioned especially by Adventures in Music.

Following the traditional Eastertide "Overature to the Messiah," by Handel, the rest of the program will be keyed to percussion instruments. In addition to Mr. Van Slyck's composition, the program includes "The Toy Symphony," Haydn; Excerpts from "The Carnival of Animals," Saint Saens, and Concerto for Percussion and Orchestra, Milhaud, featuring as soloist, Charles Smith of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Late ticket inquiries should be directed to Mrs. James Graham, EL 8-7416.

Town Meeting –

and six or seven questioners to get this settled.

On every question, finance board recommendations were followed.

This newer type town meeting which confounds the cartoonists who like the old stereotyped "I object", slow-moving type is a tribute to well-run day-to-day operations and repeated pre-meeting hearings attended by civic agencies and other interested individuals.

Most objections had been aired at these previous sessions, and although many of the chief objectors attended Monday's session, no serous objection was raised.

Conservation Commission

Chief among the approvals granted in the 23-article warrant were:

--Authorization of a conservation commission to look after town conservation needs and to make use of state funds where possible.

--Appropriation of $6,500 for a study of general drainage conditions so as to prevent undue flooding conditions from new developments.

--Appropriation of $8,000 (and maybe another $8,000 next year) for a revaluation of property.

--Prepare for a division of the town into two voting districts. (Most likely division apt to come up at a special town meeting in May would utilize the town hall and the new high school as polling places.)

--Appropriation of $6,000 to repair the Conant Road bridge over the Boston and Maine tracks to make it possible for it to be rated safe for 15 tons.

(Future repairs and complete relocation of the bridge and road at this point are contemplated but not before another five to six years when town debt services and other costs are lower. Probable cost : about $70,000.)

Also other minor expenditures as recommended by the finance board and printed in the town report.

Glenn N. Lempereur served as moderator, assisted by Selectman Chairman Edward M. Dickson and Selectmen Douglas Mercer, Edward R. Langenbach and Leonard H. Dowse, retiring chairman of the finance board and newly-elected selectman. Dr. William Elliston of the Open Areas Committee spoke on the need for a conservation group.

formances of this nature, which brings me back full swing to my gripe about how we have spent all this money for this neat little theatre and are treated to this rarity in art for nothing - and no one shows.

Conductor Eleftherakis is a member of the faculty of the Longy School and Supervisor of Music in the Winchester Public Schools. He is a former member of the Kansas City Philharmonic and the Minneapolis Symphony.

Mr. Ralph Pottle, the horn soloist, is currently on the faculties of Boston University and the New England Conservatory of Music. In 1953 he was awarded a Fulbright Grant for study at the Staatsakademie fuer Musik in Vienna and during the following years participated in tours to Iceland and South America under the auspices of the U. S. State Department.

Bridge –

possible by way of publicity, advisory signs placed at various locations, etc., to persuade traffic to use alternate routes for the purpose of reducing the volume (of traffic) that might otherwise be tempted to use Weston Streets."

This resolves the question of whether the Route 117 bridge should be torn down completely and another built immediately or whether one lane of traffic should be kept in operation on the old bridge during construction of the new one.

It is the consensus of opinion that the program decided upon by the DPW would be the more expeditious of the two plans.

Background On Conservation Bill

WAYLAND -- On Sept. 14, 1960, all planning board members, selectmen, and conservation commission members of the towns within the Sudbury and Concord River Valley watersheds, plus other interested local and state officials, were invited by the Mass. Department of Natural Resources to a meeting on cooperative planning for the area.

It was established that: (1) These wetland areas should be preserved in public ownership for their scenic, historic, recreational and conservation values, (2) A broad cooperative effort was necessary to achieve the desired results, (3) the individual towns needed technical assistance and guidance.

(4) Leadership from the state was vital for overall planning, and (5) the individual communities should provide the detailed planning and local support necessary to implement the acquisition and preservation of those portions of the regional plan that fall within their jurisdiction.

To provide information on the wetland areas, the Massachusetts Wetlands Committee was asked to cooperate. Subsequent meetings of this committee stressed necessity for a broad regional plan with a threefold acquisition responsibility:

Federal -- the expansive river marshes of the Sudbury-Wayland and the Bedford region to be acquired on a reservation-of-habitat basis.

State -- largely in the form of expansion of present holdings to conform with natural flood-plain levels.

It would consolidate within wetland planning the holdings of member state agencies, and acquisition of certain river marshes to establish continuity between proposed federal and local holdings and to maintain a high level of recreational potential.

Local -- with few exceptions, the proposed areas for local acquisition are not contiguous with the main river marshes, but they are equally important in that most of these upland marshes serve as headwaters of the feeder brooks emptying into the Sudbury and Concord Rivers.

Others are important as town water supplies or in providing continuity of control in the river marsh system.

As outlined, the preliminary report plan was discussed at a meeting held on Jan. 4, 1961 with the planning boards of the communities involved. General approbation to the plan was given at that time by the planning-board members.

Henry M. Parker, president of the Sudbury Valley Trustees, Inc., announced last week his organization's wholehearted support of the recommendations resulting from this study conducted by Charles H. W. Foster, commissioner of the Department of Public Works.

Mr. Parker pointed out that he hoped the present study would receive the prompt legislative action it deserves, since it proves the usefulness of the marsh in the broad areas of flood control, water supply, and recreation.

Inaction and delay will result only in gradual deterioration of the river and its surrounding marshes. The ever-increasing pressure on land can whittle it away in the name of economic progress, he indicated.

The federal government is ready to purchase 3,200 acres of the marshland to preserve the wildlife refuge and protect the water supply. Purchase by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service would not include high ground, nor endanger nearby property. Only recognized marshland would be usable as a wildlife preserve.

Redevelopment Committee Discusses Areas

WAYLAND -- It is premature to worry about which area in town might be affected by urban redevelopment action, the Wayland Urban Redevelopment Committee said at a special meeting of the committee in the Town Building Monday evening, March 27.

The committee assured questioners that it "does not now have specific areas selected nor does it have specific plans on what it shall do as yet."

The meeting was conducted by three of the five Redevelopment Committee members, Harvey C. Newton, George V. Devereli, and Laurence S. Fordham. They met with a group of 10 townsfolk, most of whom were officers and members of the newly formed Wayland Civic Association.

Hear Reports

Purpose of the meeting was to hear reports from Fire Chief Francis J. Hartin and Building Inspector Homer MacDonald on what the town has done in the past about urban renewal. A representative of the Department of Health had also been invited, but did not appear.

The group was told that the town has had a renewal program in effect for the past 14 years and that over 115 "unsafe" dwellings have been removed or destroyed as a result of the program. About 24 have been eliminated under its condemnation procedures in just the past three years.

70 Dwellings

Properties are candidates for condemnation when they are found to be structurally unsound, or to have inadequate sanitary facilities or to constitute a fire hazard.

It was estimated that there are about 70 dwellings in the town now considered unsafe, mostly for sanitary reasons. Most of them are unoccuppied and can be found in locations ranging "from the North Wayland line to the Natick line."

In the course of the meeting, the Wayland Civic Association extended a formal invitation to the Redevelopment Committee to participate in a general meeting it will sponsor on April 10 on the subject of urban redevelopment in Wayland. The three committee members present accepted and promised to attend. Meeting place is to be announced later by the Civic Association.

Police Department

The police investigated two minor automobile accidents. The first, on March 22 on Route 20 involved automobiles driven by Adolphe Alexander of Pleasent St., Bridgewater and Gene Meyer, of Carey Court, Framingham.

On March 24, on Route 20 by-pass, the second accident involved Barbara Bradley, of Sudbury Rd., and Winifred Martin, of Wellesley St. in Weston.

Fire Department

Brush fires kept the fire department hopping this week. The department wants to remind citizens that permits must be obtained from headquarters by people desiring to burn anything in open areas. They can be picked up either in person or by writing. No burning is allowed after dark.

On March 22, the department contained a brush fire on Conant Rd., one on South Ave. and Route 128 on March 23, another on the 25th at the Riverside Recreation area, and two on March 27. One of these was on Bakers Hill Rd., and the second in back of Bob King's garage.

Board of Selectmen

The building inspector and the board of selectmen of the Town of Weston have acted to enforce the town's zoning by-law. They have obtained from Middlesex Superior Court a final decree by consent enjoining the lessee and owner of the property at 269 South Avenue from use of the premises for the storage of motor vehicles or other property outside of the structures located thereon.

Such action became necessary because storage outside of the buildings was not in compliance with the terms of the variance granted by the Board of Appeals. Use of the buildings on the premises for storage for hire in compliance with the terms of the variance, which will expire on December 31, 1961, is not affected by the court order.

Hearing

The Middlesex County Commissioners will hold a second hearing on a relocation of Concord Road from Merriam Street west for some 2,000 feet on April 14 at 10:30 a.m. at the County Commissioners Office, Superior Court Building, East Cambridge.

The plan is based upon a recommendation by the town officials which takes into consideration the needs and comments of a number of residents abutting on Concord Road. It follows the existing lines insofar as acceptable engineerings standards are concerned.

WAYLAND TOWN HALL

Park Commission

The Park Commission has announced that the town beach at Lake Cochituate will be for residents only this summer due to the increase in population entitled by residence to the the beach facilities.

Police Department

In the current crackdown on speeders, the Wayland Police Department booked some 50 vehicle operators for court appearances. The drive began on March 11.

The department is investigating damage to the Russell crossing railroad gates apparently caused by an unidentified truck which demolished the gates March 27 and left the scene without the driver making a report.

The department recovered a set of auto plates stolen from a local citizen. They were discovered March 27 in Ashland attached to a stolen automobile.

On March 21, officers investigated reports of prowlers on Lincoln Rd., and looked into the report of a missing person who subsequently returned home.

Fire Department

It was a busy week for Wayland firefighters, who found themselves heavily in the grass-fire-fighting business. Chief Francis J. Hartin wishes to stress the necessity for people who have to do some burning in open areas to obtain permits from his office.

He explains that permits are issued on days when weather conditions are right for burning and that extreme changes in such conditions may void a permit. Permits may be obtained verbally by calling EL 8-7951.

Weston High Journalists Go To Columbia For Conference

Four representatives of Weston High School rediscovered Manhattan Island where they attended the 37th Annual Columbia Scholastic Press Association Conference on March 9, 10 and 11.

Phil Comeau, editor of the '61-'62 yearbook, Carol Harrison, assistant co-editor, and Tim McGettigan, business manager, were sent by the Junior Class. Barbara Arnold represented the Smoke Signal staff. The group was chaperoned by Miss Dorothy Deisher and Mr. Robert Clawson.

Professionals There

Journalism teachers on the college level, publishers, and students reviewed topics on all phases of high school publications from the yearbook to the school newspaper. The classes were held in the college buildings on the campus of Columbia University. Each representative attended a different class, thus enabling them to attend five classes at the same time. In the whole time they attended twenty-five classes. The subjects of the talks ranged from the cropping of pictures to the writing of editorials. Among the speakers was Marie Torre who told of her experience of being put into jail for a slanderous remark she had published about Judy Garland. The convention climaxed at the luncheon at the Waldorf Astoria with convention speaker Mr. Paul Hoffman, the director of the special fund at the United Nations.

Look at Look

Mr. Clawson arranged a tour of LOOK MAGAZINE which was headed by Mr. Cammeron Sanders, of the education department. They walked through the photographic department, the art department and the layout room where they saw the April issue being put together.

After classes, they visited a common spot of interest, the United Nations Building. They heard the representative from the United Arab Republic speak on the problem of Angola. (Dag Hammershold and Adlai Stevenson were also there.) The Guggenheim Art Museum also received Weston's patronage. The group saw Ionesco's new play "Rhinosceros."

Science Fair Competition Draws Projects From 7th - 12th Grades

WITH A MOUSE BY THE TAIL John Petrick and Mr. Irving C. Keen try out a maze which John is constructing for the Science Fair.

Computers, salamanders, and a homemade car with gas and electric engines are among the more than eighty student projects entered in the annual Weston Science Fair to be held on April 7 and 8 at the high school.

The projects will be assembled in various classrooms on Friday, April 7, and will be judged that evening. The public is invited to see the display of projects from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 8, and to attend the Awards Assembly at 3:00 that afternoon in the high school gym.

Cash Awards

Awards given to the first three places in Class A projects for students in the tenth through twelfth grades are $30., $30., and $25. Class B awards for students in the seventh through tenth grades are $15., $10., and $5. The contestant with the best project in the medical field will be given a prize of $35. The first and second place winners in Class A will compete in the Massachusetts State Science Fair held at M.I.T. near the end of April.

Judges in the fair include several prominent Weston citizens and teachers from surrounding schools. Three judges will examine each project and confer with other judges on Friday night to reach a final agreement. The Weston science faculty and judges will served dinner that evening by students from Mrs. Raymond's home economics classes.

Sponsors

The Weston Science fair is sponsored by the combined junior and senior high school science faculties headed by Mr. Sawyer and by the Science Club. The money for the cash awards has been generously donated by local industrial corporations.

Weston's Drivers Education Antidote For Motor Mania

Those who have driven through the maze of highway surrounding Boston know that driving today is more complex than ever. This is why Driver's Education is an important part of Weston High School curriculum. Teen-age driving has been under fire recently as the Commonwealth of Massachusetts considered some new legislation.

1. Changing the driving age to 18.
2. Having night curfew on drivers under 18.
3. Enabling 16 year old girls to have the same insurance fees as persons over 25 years of age.

At present none of these bills have been passed.

What is the advantage of taking Driver's Ed? One advantage concerns the deduction of the additional insurance fee on the driver's license until you are 26 years old, or for ten years after you receive your license. If a person receives his license through a Driver's Education course, this additional insurance fee is cut in half.

Classroom periods of Driver's Education explain the technical side of driving, including insurance conditions as well as driving regulations. However, through these classroom periods and the driving time on the road, one major idea is continually stressed to the students, responsibility to your city, your parents, and to yourself.

Weston has had a fine Driver's Education course for the last four years. According to Mr. Cronin, Weston's driving instructor, almost everyone who tries for his license through Weston's program, gets it. Also Weston High students have a low automobile accident rate.

The Driver's Education course has been the best protection for teen age drivers in getting their licenses early, making them safe drivers, and in keeping insurance rates down low.

Girls' Sports Planned For Spring Season

As April rounds the corner a promising season of girls' sports is awaited. Miss Butera, the head of girls' athletics, is pleased to announce that the winner of the volleyball tournament has been invited to compete in the Sports Day at Newton High School.

LaCrosse is scheduled to start April 1st. Competition will be limited to four or five informal games with Wellesley, Newton, and three private schools. Miss Butera urges all girls to come out for this sport, for it is highly enjoyable and no experience is necessary.

Tennis will also begin around the first week in April and continue through May. Although most of last year's talent will be back, there are a few openings for qualified players. Only a few matches have been scheduled so far.

Last but far from least is the organization of a varsity softball team which will commence also in the first few weeks in April. The team is scheduled to play approximately eight games this season.

Business Club Hears Leeture On Insurance

William Read, from the Savings Bank Life Insurance Council of Boston, addressed the Future Business Leaders of America and the Future Homemakers of America.

Mr. Read's topic was "The If in Thrift." He presented the group with information concerning the many different kinds of life insurance and about procuring life insurance. Mr. Read has had a great deal of experience in the business world and as a speaker. His appearance was sponsored by the F.B.L.A.

Among the people present were the sponsor of the F.B.L.A., Mrs. Hoyle; sponsor of the F.H.A., Mrs. Raymond;; principal of Weston High, Mr. Willard Smith; and members of the F.H.A. and F.B.L.A.

Weston Scientists Crush Wayland

EINSTEIN'S SUCCESSORS? Those who helped to overthrow Wayland on T.V. last Friday night were Mr. Wallace W. Sawyer, John McKenzie, Robert E. White, Keppler Stone, Arra Avakian, Robert Shaw and Mr. Irving G. Marsden.

On Tuesday of last week, Weston High School competed with Wayland High School in the annual Science T.V. Quiz sponsored by the American Chemical Society. Weston won by a score of 130-65. The questions covered all phases of science, from Geology to Physics.

Dr. Aslmov, a professor of biochemistry at Boston University made up and presented the questions to the two teams on the taped broadcast. The questions had various point values depending on their difficulty. Mr. Sawyer, teacher of chemistry and head of the science department at Weston High School, said that he felt, "The questions could have been much harder."

Weston's team consisted of Kep Stone, the captain, Robert E. White; Arra Avakian; Robert Shaw; and John MacKenzie, who acted as a substitute. Wayland's team was made up of Susan Mohl, Joan Lucey, Donald Cassidy, and Larry Smith.

The show was presented on tape on the WHDH, Channel five, program, "Dateline Boston" at 6:00 on Friday, March 24.

Weston Musicians To Play in All-State Concert

On the 13th of April, six lucky musicians from our school will begin three full days rehearsing for a concert with the All-State Orchestra in West Springfield. Many people have no idea what this means. Every year in every high school throughout the state, the music supervisors, like Mr. Corley, pick students who have shown superior musicianship to be allowed to try out for this All-State Orchestra. After auditions of all the students are completed the cream of the crop is chosen to form a symphany orchestra of about 100 members. This year Weston High is honored to have six pupils participate. David Greenlie and Louise Cutter are enjoying their first year in the cello section. Carol McFarlin is a member of the second violin section. All three of these students are only sophomores. Dick Cutter and Edie Wypler are second year members. Dick is a second violin and Edie is a first. Erik Hoagland is also in his second year as first chair in the trombone section.

They will perform An Outdoor Overture by Copeland, Air for the G String by Bach, The Last Spring by Grieg and Symphony No. 4 in F Minor by Tschaikowsky, the third and fourth movements.

How Much Are Marks Worth ?

"Co-operate and graduate." This motto is practised and accepted more and more today by students who know it is wrong to cheat.

Some of the methods of cheating are ingenious. Sleeves, hands, erasers, desks and pocketbooks are great places to write yourself a "helpful" little note. Then there are those who dare to slip crib sheets or even the book into the desk for further reference. For those who are downright lazy why not just look on with the "friend" sitting next to you? Who loses out in this game? Only the cheater in the long run.

There are two groups of cheaters. Some students think they have to cheat because of pressures from home and colleges for good marks. These feel resentment and guilt because they have to cheat - yet they do it! The second group are those who just don't know any better. Their reasons are that you can't be in "the group" unless you're a "brain" or everyone does it so it must be the thing to do.

How can this be stopped? Certainly the pressures can't be removed. Maybe the solution is stricter supervision by the teachers. The essay test at least stops students who depend on a neighboring paper. Open book tests would give the honest students an equal opportunity to make higher marks. Perhaps the Student Council could propose a student honor system. I think cheating has become enough of a problem to be worth some consideration.

B.B.

Comment: Principal Mr. Willard H. Smith
"I wish that we could educate young people to realize that when they cheat they are only hurting themselves and are doing a shabby trick which they will regret the rest of their lives, if they have a conscience."

Easter Customs Handed Down Through Years

Have you ever heard of an Easter Kiss? Such a ceremonial and joyful as this was observed by many during the beginning centuries of time. It was thought that a new day was always to begin with a sign of happiness.

Happiness for children occurs when it is time for the coloring of eggs. This tradition originated in Egypt and Persia. Eggs were then considered to be a sign of new horizons and life. Another tradition concerning eggs takes place in Washington D.C. where thousands of children gather at the White House to roll eggs on the front lawn. President Hayes started the custom and it is assumed that Caroline K. will want to continue the custom.

Another custom is the appearance of the "hare" or rabbit at Easter time. People once believed that the hare which if often seen in the spring came to give children these beautiful eggs since children, eggs and rabbits were all associated with the beginning of a new life.

One custom still plainly existing is the use of lillies which are adorned about the Church. The lillies suggested signs of purity. Some ancient customs have ceased while others are still practised around the world. Still others will be developed to grow into old traditions.

Sholda duCryon

Dear Sholda,
I've heard that Pat Boone is coming to the Junior Prom, and I'm just dying to dance with him. How can I get him to ask me?
Dying to Dance

Dear Dying,
First: be your most attractive self. Dress to please him. I hear he likes white bucks, so by all means wear a pair. Second, have some little conversation starters handy. Tell him your name is Bernadine, or that you've read his new book and think it's too divine for words. Wait. On second thought, don't say that. He might take you literally. I think you get the idea from this -- good luck. Oh yes, and forget the whole thing if Mrs. Boone comes along.
Sholda

Dear Sholda,
There is a boy I like very much. I think he likes me very much, too, but he takes this other girl to all the dances at school. We go out often and our date usually consists of a movie and an hour of drifting around on a nearby lake. (His father owns several boats.) When he is with me he says things that lead me to believe that he likes me. How can I make him realize that I want him to take me to the school dances, not the other girl?
Wanting to Dance

Dear Wanting,
The next time you're at the lake throw him back. There are other fish in the sea.
Sholda

Dear Sholda,
How can I make my boyfriend realize that I don't wish to go parking after a date? He won't listen to me when I try to explain why. I think that it's rather degrading considering he drives a motorcycle.
Boots

Dear Boots,
Actions speak louder than words sometimes.
Sholda

Finery For Easter

Easter is an important occasion - a day when Weston females shed their holey sneakers and faded dungarees. By divesting themselves of this prestige apparel and adopting the humble, simple raiment of the city they reflect the solemnity of the day. This quaint custom leads to happiness. The women are happy because women are always happy when they wear new clothes; the men are happy becuase the women finally look like women instead of faded dungarees and holey sneakers.

But Easter is truly a holiday for children. On this day they seem to make a special effort to bring their new clothes to the same condition as the old. This is easily accomplished by rolling Easter eggs on soggy New England lawns, and by tightly clasping chocolate Easter bunnies in warm, eager hands.

The unanswered question about Easter is what happens to all of the finery afterward? The disposition of the children's garments has been explained. But looking about the town one is inevitably drawn to the shocking conclusion that our thrifty New England ladies store their Easter outfits to be worn again next year on this happy day. We can only hope that the religious significance of the day is not stored away with them.

Disagreement Over Student Time Off

There has been much disagreement over what times are best for school vacations. Public schools differ from private schools and colleges in the times that they hold their vacations. There are many good arguments for both sides of the question.

Public schools usually have four notable vacations during the year: at Thanksgiving for four or five days, at Christmas for a week, in mid-February for one week, and in mid-April for one week. On the other hand, private schools, like colleges, have only three such vacations: the same few days at Thanksgiving, two weeks at Christmas, and one to two weeks at the end of March and the beginning of April.

For the most part, the actual vacation times are the same for public and private schools. The question is how this time should be apportioned; whether to have more shorter vacations or fewer longer ones.

In defense of public school vacations, it should be said that the intervals between vacations are shorter than those for private schools, thus relieving some of the strain and bogging down students get after studying continuously for long periods of time. Students also say that they would be bored if vacations were longer than one week. Furthermore, if a family goes on a vacation to a resort, two weeks would usually be too expensive.

On the side of private schools there is also good argument. If one does go away on a vacation, two weeks is a far easier and more comfortable time to make the trip. Some students also say that they have just begun to have fun when their vacation ends after one week.

April vacation is a controversial subject. Proponents of private schools may say that their vacation at the end of March still allows time for some winter sports as well as the annual exodus of college and secondary school students to the sunny southlands. Some contend that a mid-April vacation is no good for skiing and is almost too close to the end of school.

On the other side of the coin, public school students say that they would like a week of nothing to do but loaf. For others the vacation would give them a chance to work on term papers and projects. Also, with the vacation different from that of the colleges, college bound juniors and seniors have a chance to visit campuses while classes are in session.

There is no real answer to the question of vacations. It seems to be a matter of personal preference.

Ann Scans... Humor Records

The last two years have brought a rise in the popularity of humorous records. Humor, however, cannot be dated. Older people will remember Mark Twain and Will Rogers, while today has its own comedians.

Several comic artists combine their humor with music. Spike Jones characterizes his compositions as 'the dandruff in long-hair music'. His band is a curious conglomeration of instruments, store-bought, homemade, and otherwise. Victor Borge is both a concert pianist and humorist. His Phonetic Punctuation is a favorite with certain English teachers.

A few artists travel as a team. Homer and Jethro are the country and western music's contribution. Their approach is to change the lyrics of well known songs. 'What is a Wife?' and 'What is a Husband?' are their most famous works.

"Hang by your thumbs and write if you can get work" is the byline of Bob and Ray, radio's funnymen. Among their spectacles are Grub-the Story of Food and Mary McGoon, who tells the audience how to make gingerale salad.

Today's recorded humor is branded as sick. But is it really sick? The humor is based on experiences that really can and do happen. The speaker shows you through exaggeration how silly you are. He helps you laugh at yourself. Bob Newhart, Mort Sahl, and Shelley Berman are the foremost alumni of this school of humor. They are not professional funny men nor are they the chatter-and-patter men. They find comedy in everyday situations - a frustrating conversation with a child who keeps hanging up the phone, a stewardess who insists on doing her duty even though the plane is on fire, and the griping of a soldier in Washington's army.

Although Tom Lehrer is not perhaps as well known as Sahl, Berman, and Newhart, he has recorded many fine selections. I especially recommend "Poisoning the Pigeons in the Park" to the sentimental birdfeeders at the Boston Public Gardens and "the Elements" which is the 102 chemical names set to the tune of the Pirates of Penzance (a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta) to aspiring chemistry majors.

Although humorous records are entertaining, after the fifth playing, the jokes become a bit stale. The records are a help to the gay party giver but a waste of money to serious students.

Monitors: Viewed From Outside

Something new has been added to Weston High, namely the Monitor System. This system has been adopted not only in the corridors of W.H.S. but also in the study halls. The main purpose of this system is to give more responsibility to the Juniors and Seniors and at the same time to relieve the strain put on the teachers.

Many of our students and teachers have varied opinions on the present system and we all realize that it needs many improvements, but the fact that we have come this far is something definitely to our credit.

The following statements are some of the varied opinions mentioned above. We have tried to question students from different "walks of life."

Roger Carney (Basketball player): "Effective. The study hall monitors should enforce it more strictly and the hall monitors do not walk around enough."

Bob Harlow (Sophomore): "The monitors in the hall visit too much. In the study halls it gives too much power to the Juniors and Seniors and their heads are getting too swelled."

Mrs. Bucuvalas (Latin Teacher): "The study halls are very effective. In the corridors I wish something could be done to keep the top corridor clearer before school. It is very difficult to move along."

Mr. Kellet (Math Teacher): Mr. Kellet is the Student Council advisor and is somewhat responsible for the monitor system. His comment was: "So far so good. I think and know it is going to be better because there is room for improvement."

This Is Your Life

A cheerleader for 3 years, a member of the tennis team for a year, and a secretary of the Student Council for 2 years, this bright-eyed little girl was also vice president of her class in the eighth grade.

Little Miss Bright Eyes was born in Covington, Virginia on January 23, 1943. Her family lived in a red brick house with a swing in the backyard. She went to kindergarten there, where she developed a habit of always being late, since she wanted to wait for her friends every morning. Once, when she was in kindergarten she spilled some milk on the floor beside her desk. Rather than mop it up, she simply picked up her briefcase and moved to another desk.

When she was six she moved to Garden City, New York, where she eventually became vice president of her class in the eighth grade. She used to run along the streets there and invite anyone she met to her home for dinner.

In the ninth grade she moved to Weston. She has two brothers, Dick and John. Her favorite color is red, in keeping with her colorful personality. She also enjoys swimming and tennis.

She is the vice-president of the Youth Fellowship of the United Presbyterian Church in Newton and counselor at Camp Good News on Cape Cod.

Her varied activities mirror her varied life both north and south of the Mason-Dixon Line. Sue Petrick, this is your Life.

First car to ever climb Mt. Washington, New Hampshire in high gear was an Essex Terraplane Eight, driven by Chet Miller in June of 1933.

Resurrection Explained At Christian Science Services On Easter

WESTON -- The vital importance for all mankind of the resurrection of Christ Jesus will be stressed Sunday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Weston and at Christian Science services throughout the world.

Scriptural selections will include accounts from Matthew, Mark, Luke and John of incidents in the life of Jesus, including the betrayal in Gethsemane, the crucifixion, and his resurrection.

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy these passages will be read ((pp. 292,293):

"Truth will be to us 'the resurrection and the life' only as it destroys all error and the belief that Mind, the only immortality of man, can be fettered by the body, and Life can be controlled by death ...In his resurrection and ascension, Jesus showed that a mortal man is not the real essence of manhood, and that this unreal material mortality disappears in presence of the reality."

Conservationists Making Strides

WAYLAND -- Events of recent days have proven that conservationists, working in unison can resist elements seeking to destroy the beauty of Massachusetts' countryside.

In Concord, the Save Walden Committee won the last of a three-year long parade of court cases to preserve the beauty of the Concord pond which inspired Henry David Thoreau and Ralph Waldo Emerson to the writing of some of their best-known works.

Judge David A. Rose of Middlesex Superior Court ordered the county commissioners permanently enjoined from "violating any more of the provisions of the deeds in which Walden pond and its environs were left to the commonwealth."

The final decree climaxed a campaign by conservationists and literary friends of Massachusetts two best-known writers. Several thousands of dollars were raised from sources across the world to provide funds for the court cases.

The dispute began when the commissioners removed trees to construct a beach for water safety classes. This was Emerson's land and his decendants who gave the land to the state did not stand by mutely. In the deed they had stated the area must be preserved as it was during the days of the Concord authors.

In his decision, Judge Rose ordered "Within limits of funds available from time to time. (the commissioners must) do replanting, landscaping and erosion-prevention work to reduce the damage already caused to the Walden pond area and adjacent woodland so as to comply with the purposes of donors."

He ordered the commissioners "to preserve the Walden of Emerson and Thoreau in its state of natural beauty."

The court retained the jurisdiction of the case and the parties for the purpose of supervising the execution of the decree.

Secondly, land owners in Lincoln and Concord who own land taken by the State Department of Natural Resources have worked out a comprise with the departmnt which demonstrates the lengths the department will go to cooperate with communities and individuals.

Proving that the department's aim is not to take away land but to aid in land preservation, an amendment has been filed making it possible for the townspeople to retain all rights to their land. However, they are expected to give easements, first-bid rights, or work out a variety of other arrangements which keep control in their hands but guarantee the land will be kept in its natural state and will only be sold to the town or the local land conservation trust.

A year has been granted for the community to work out its arrangements.

Weston's Meadowbrook School: From the 90's To The 60's

VW's Have Replaced Horses and Carriages

WESTON -- Located on Old Farm Road in Weston there is a rambling one story building; to the left of it is a swimming pool, to the right, a pond, used for skating in the winter.

This is the home of The Meadowbrook School of Weston, a non-profit school for boys and girls from nursery school through the sixth grade.

An outgrowth of Miss Bridge's School in Waltham, Meadowbrook can trace its beginnings back to the nineties. A former pupil of Miss Bridge's told us something of those early days recently.

From the beginning, it was intended to be (and has been kept) a small school, with small classes; it also has always been coeducational.

In Miss Bridge's days, Weston pupils drove to the Waltham location by horse and carriage; and when, in 1905, the trustees decided to move the school to Weston because they wanted a more rural atmosphere, they chose the Pigeon Hill area of Weston because Wayland pupils could reach that location by train.

In 1925, the trustees felt that the school needed more space, both in building and in grounds, and the school was then moved to its present location on Old Farm Road.

Today, the horse and carriage transportation of those early days has been replaced by an efficient fleet of Volkswagens, busses, but according to Charles Goodwin, the school's headmaster, the aim of the school in all things is to combine the best of both the old and the new educational approaches.

"If stressing the three "r's", the fundamentals in education, makes us old-fashioned," he said. "Then we are old-fashioned, and make no apologies for it. On the other hand, we believe in flexible classrooms - when a child is ready, in any given subject, to move into the class above, he does so. At the moment, we have a second grade child taking reading with the third grade, and a fourth grade childing taking fifth grade math. We also have had referred to us this year a very gifted child, an 8 year old who is doing fifth grade work in all subjects."

FIFTH GRADER Sheppy Barrows shows Charles Goodwin, Meadowbrook School headmaster, algae collected for science class.

SCHOOL'S OUT! Transition teacher Mrs. Lizbeth Diman checks out first grader Christopher Welles of Weston on his way to the bus.

The school teaches what was considered, a few years ago, the "old-fashioned" phonetic method of learning to read, a variant which uses phonetics combined with spelling, which Mr. Goodwin feels is the most effective method he has discovered.

"We believe healthy competition is good for children", he continued, "not only in the classroom, but in the field of athletics. These children will eventually go out into a competitive world, and we hope the lessons they learn here, both in the classroom and on the soccer field, will make it possible for them to meet the competitive situations of their adult life with courage and maturity."

The school roster includes children from Wayland, Weston, Wellesley Hills, Waltham, Dedham, Framingham, Concord, Cambridge, the Newtons, Auburndale and Sudbury.

Incidentally, it is interesting to note that the school numbers among its pupils at least three children who are third generation of their families to attend. They are Philip and Kathy Trumbull and Elise Winsor, all three of whom live in Weston.

Headmaster Charles Goodwin was graduated from the Gilman School in Baltimore, and took his A.B. in History at Harvard in 1947. Upon graduating from Harvard, he returned to Baltimore, where he taught for the next ten years at Gilman. During the summer vacations he did postgraduate study at Harvard, Cornell and Northwestern University.

He returned to Harvard to take his master's degree in elementary education in 1957. After receiving his master's he came to Meadowbrook as headmaster.

In addition to his Meadowbrook responsibilities, he is chairman of an evaluation committee of the Independent School Association of Massachusetts, and is delegate at large for the Massachusetts Association of Non-Profit Schools and Colleges.

Foreign Students Made Welcome

WESTON -- Students from the International Student Center and from the Harvard School of Public Health will be guests of Weston residents for the afternoon and evening of Saturday April 8th.

This will be the spring gesture of hospitality toward the many visitors from overseas who are students in this area, and the final date of this years program arranged by the Women's Community League, that has brought more than 100 visitors to be welcomed into Weston families. Anyone interested in taking part in the program should call Mrs. John Mathews, CE 5-5138; Mrs. L. Whitman Smith, TW 3-0247; or Mrs. William Elliston TW 3-6844.

A Panel Discussion On The "Under-achiever"

WESTON -- Parents, faculty and friends of the Meadowbrook School of Weston gathered at the school March 29 to hear a panel discussion on "The Learning Problems in the Elementary School." The discussion was conducted by a Harvard research team of counselling psychologists, Ronald P. Dutton and John A. Stout, specialists in educational guidance.

The discussion explored a learning problem in which Mr. Dutton and Mr. Stout have done much research - how to help the academic "under-achiever."

HEARING TIPS

by George Hanna
Certified Master Acoustician and Registered Optician

If you have reached the stage where you should, or must, do something about your Hearing problem - DO IT NOW!
Make sure you select a Hearing Aid Specialist, as you would your own Physician, on the basis of his reputation, experience and his sincere eagerness to be of help to you, and most important, ask him for referals from satisfied wearers in your community. If possible, select a well known Hearing Aid Specialist who has been in business in your area for a number of years. My advice is
1. If you have a hearing problem - admit it!
2. If you admit it - Resolve to do something about it!
3. If you make the resolve - visit a Hearing Specialist!
4. If he advises a hearing aid - Buy it!
5. If you buy it - Use it! - Enjoy it!
Remember - Better Hearing means a Better Life For You and Those Around You. Happy Easter To All!

Weston LWV Plans Visit To State House

WESTON -- Members and guests of the Weston League of Women Voters will travel by chartered bus from Weston to the State House on Wednesday, April 12. The tour, which will leave Weston Town Green at 9:30 a.m. and will return to Weston at 3:30 p.m., is being planned by Mrs. E. W. Marshall. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Marion E. Hines, TW 4-8889.

Upon arrival at the State House, the group will take a guided tour, then will meet with Senator Leslie B. Cutler of Needham who will discuss the process by which a bill becomes a law.

Adjourning for lunch at 12:30, League members will be hosts to Senator Cutler and Representatives Donald J. Manning and Henry A. Turner of Waltham. The luncheon will be held at the Women's City Club of Boston, which is located in two historic houses at 39-40 Beacon Street.

Tickets for the day, including transportation and lunch, are $3.00.

League members assisting Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Hines are Mrs. Glenn O. Neimeyer, Mrs. Henry F. Owens, Mrs. Robert F. Rader, and Mrs. Riensi B. Parker, Jr.

Bridge Work Starts: Detours Outlined

WESTON -- Demolition work began as scheduled April 3 on the Route 117 bridge over Route 128.

The span will be ripped out and replaced with a longer one in connection with the widening of Route 128. Charles Capone Construction Co. of Dedham has set Sept. 15 as the target date for reopening of the overpass.

Closing of the bridge will provide a major problem for the 11,000 motorists who use it every day, and now must find an alternate route. Route 20 is expected

IN THE DAWN'S EARLY LIGHT of Wednesday, April 5, demolition crews were at work taking down the Route 117 bridge over Route 128. Work began Monday, April 3 and is scheduled to continue for 5 1/2 months, or until Sept. 15.

Development Groups Meet Questioners

WAYLAND -- That flying saucer known hereabouts as urban renewal has been identified, as of Monday night (April 3).

At a freewheeling session of the planning board, urban renewal authority, and some 13 residents of the Dudley Pond area, it developed:

--Renewal in Wayland will be primarily an upgrading operation, designed to bring up to standard neighborhoods or properties regarded as unsafe or unhealthy.

--No West-End-type bulldozing operations will be tolerated by the newly-organized Wayland Redevelopment Authority (WRA).

--No plan, no planner and no basic facts upon which to act. That's about where the WRA stands today, despite rumors of imminent actions.

--Property condemnation (the closest thing to urban renewal up until now) has cost $35,023.24 over the past three years for the condemnation of 24 houses or acquisition of property. About $1500 per property.

Can Save Money

--At that rate, it would take another 9-12 years to clean up the 75-100 houses regarded now as substandard, and approximately $150,000.

"Renewal can speed up this process and save the town money," Planning Board Chairman Robert Charnock pointed out to one questioner.

--As for the so-called Harris report, made for the planning board and submitted to the WRA: It was a guide upon which the foundation of an authority was called for. WRA will start anew with a fresh report.

--In terms of physical changes under renewal, the town looks to: improve streets, realign winding streets, improve utilities (larger water mains, for example), install storm drainage, as well as curbs and sidewalks where feasible.

--All sections of the town will

Houses Need Numbering

WAYLAND -- Thomas F. Linnehan, chairman of the Wayland Board of Selectmen, wishes to request all residents who do not as yet have a number displayed on their houses to do so as soon as possible. Mr. Linnehan points out that the postal authorities as well as the police and fire departments have urged that this action on the part of home owners be taken at once.

The town has been promised house-to-house mail delivery within one mile of the post office when the numbering process is complete, according to the selectman.

Educator Awarded Hay Fellowship

WAYLAND -- Mrs. Lucille G. Champagne, teacher of social studies, Wayland High School, Wayland, has been selected to participate in a unique intellectual experience at the Summer Institutes in the Humanities sponsored by the John Hay Fellows Program.

A total of 118 secondary school teachers and 60 school administrators have been awarded Fellowships. Each participant will receive $75 a week, plus $15 a week for each dependent up to four, and in addition travel expenses and tuition.

Dr. Charles R. Keller, director of the John Hay Fellows Program, announced today that the Summer Institutes will be held from July 1-29, 1961 at Bennington College, Bennington, Vermont; Colorado College, Colorado Springs, Colorado; and Williams College, Williamstown, Massachusetts. He pointed out that these Summer Institutes enable educators to study in the humanities for a month with a view to enriching teaching and to stimulating creative, imaginative, contributions to American education.

Cat Shelter Case To Be Heard On May 10

WAYLAND -- Legal action to prevent the construction of a cat shelter in a Wayland residential district is scheduled for hearing on May 10 in Middlesex Superior Court, Cambridge.

It is the contention of the town that the shelter, already partially built, was started with an improperly issued building permit. Construction has been halted upon the agreement of both sides of the dispute.

The town also maintains that regulations have not been complied with and that revocation of the permit was carried out properly.

On the other hand, the Ellen M. Gifford Sheltering Home Corp. asserts that any improper issuance of a building permit is not the fault of the home and that it did everything the town asked it to do.

The dispute erupted late last year when neighbors objected that the sheltering home would prove a nuisance. Officials of the home maintained it would not.

The sheltering corporation's home for cats currently is in Brighton. It was established under a $100,000 bequest of Ellen M. Gifford after her death in 1880.

WHAT COULD HAVE been a serious tragedy had a somewhat lighter side - at least for some 100 youngsters in Weston on Thursday, March 30. When a Melrose Ice Cream truck went out of control on Route 117 at Lexington St. the resulting collision with a tree caused minor injury to the driver. It also scattered nearly 1,000 boxes of ice cream over the countryside. Officials of the company ordered the delicious cargo turned over to neighborhood youngsters who joined in the clean-up operation with gusto. The driver, Salvatore DeMarco, of 149 Webster St., Malden, is under treatment for multiple cuts and bruises at Waltham Hospital.

Thomas H. McFarlin Asked To Serve With NEA Group

WESTON -- Thomas H. McFarlin, senior elementary school principal in Weston has been invited to serve for three years as an advisor on the Educational Association.

Members of this group are leaders selected from all interests and levels of education and from all parts of the nation.

The Educational Policies Commission (EPC) is responsible for identifying significant educational problems and issues, studying them, and publishing policy recommendations concerning them. It is composed of twenty experienced educators, men and women who represent a wide variety of educational interests and backgrounds.

EPC is an autonomous, deliberative body that may act as an independent voice on behalf of education. Speaking for itself only, the commission examines educational issues in an atmosphere free from the pressures involved in satisfying a constituency or meeting periodic deadlines.

It does not make policy for the organizations which sponsor it, nor does publication of EPC recommendations constitute formal approval by those organizations. The inestimable value of the EPC lies in the contributions its studies make to thinking on major educational issues.

WAYLAND TOWN HALL

Board of Selectmen

It was a busy meeting on March 3 for the selectmen. Appointed to the newly formed Conservation Committee were Allan H. Morgan representing the Planning Board, Fern A. Taylor for the Water Commission and the following members at large: Clifford Gladu, William Young, Mrs. Samuel Cutler, Charles Eckerline. The member of the Finance Committee to serve on the Conservation Committee has not yet been named. George K. Lewis was selected to represent the selectmen on the Condemnation Commission.

Ernest Damon was reappointed dog officer and George Bogren reassigned to a three-year term on the Board of Appeals. Kimball Powning was made a member of the board. Frank Kilburn was renamed town counsel and Homer MacDonald as building and wiring inspector.

It was decided to try for 30 days beginning April 15 to make Pelham Island Rd two ways from Cochituate Rd. to Route 20. There will be no parking on the South side and 15 minute parking on the North side.

A bid by Cochituate Motors for two new police cruisers was accepted.

Fire Department

In addition to crocuses, springtime brings brush fires. The department answered four during the past week, one on Wednesday, March 29 at 77 East Plain Street and three on Friday March 31. The latter were at 42 River View Ave., at the Sandy Burr Golf Club, and on Pine Needle Rd., respectively.

Police Department

On Sunday, April 2, the Wayland Police Department picked up a vehicle that had been abandoned in Weston after having struck another car on Route 20. The driver of the alleged hit-and-run car will appear in court. Mrs. Lydia Dilbarian of 14 Rich Valley Rd., was the operator of the car which was struck. Her baby daughter sustained slight bruises.

The remainder of the week was less eventful. On Tuesday, March 28, the department was called upon to deal with three incidents involving dogs being struck by automobiles and also captured a horse which had wandered away from home on Old Conn. Path.

On Friday, March 31, a cruiser and ambulance were dispatched to the Villa restaurant where Gary Phillipo, 17 of 26 Dudley Rd., had fallen and sustained a broken leg. He was taken by Patrolmen John Brady and Thomas Murray to the Leonard Morse Hospital.

Saturday night found the department answering a resuscitator call at the Ten Acres restaurant.

On Monday, Apr. 3 vandalism to a power shovel parked at Mansion Inn building site was investigated.

You Can Fight City Hall

With all the talk these days of ethics, conflict of interest and corruption in government, there are those who feel and say that we can do little about such conditions, that the ordinary citizen is helpless to act.

It is a shame and a mistake to give up like this. In reality there is much that each one of us can do - and must do - to guarantee that we shall be governed honestly and effectively. And like anything very worthwhile, it takes hard work, know-how and quite often, some old-fashioned courage.

Where do you start? What can you do? Elsewhere in this issue, the Crier has reprinted an article by Paul L. Schultz, state house reporter for the Worcester Evening Gazette. Mr. Schultz offers a number of excellent, common sense suggestions. We urge you to read them.

When you are ready to act, a good place to start is right here at home. There are selectmen's and planning board meetings (not to mention all the others just as deserving) that need attending by interested citizens.

Then in both towns, there are the Democratic and Republican town committees, the League of Women Voters, and the Weston and Wayland Civic Associations. These, too, invite and cannot help but thrive upon your understanding and active support.

Why should you do this? We think the newly-formed Wayland Civic Association said it best in that portion of its recently published statement of aims which read:

"The purpose of this association shall be to bring about an awareness in the citizens of Wayland of their responsibility in town government, and therefore, of their responsibility to themselves."

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Fishing Season Arriving

On April 15, the fresh water fishing season opens in Massachusetts and the streams and ponds will be crowded as usual with hopeful anglers. The water will be high and cold so probably the best bet will be pond or lake fishing.

Trout will be the choice of most fishermen, and the legal limit on them is 6 in ponds and lakes and 12 in the local streams. There is no size limit on Trout, but it seems a shame to keep them under 8 inches.

Among the local waters that are stocked by the State are Stony Brook in Weston, Landham Brook in Sudbury and Lake Cochituate in Cochituate. Probably the best bait in the early season will be worms and spinning lures, but a good fly fisherman may do well on Nymphs or Streamer flies.

The only trout that is native to this section of the country is the Eastern Brook Trout, although through stocking the Rainbow and Brown Trout have become somewhat established.

The Eastern Brook Trout is a beautiful fish with a mottled green back, yellow and red spots on the sides and the lower fins are red with white leading edges. They usually live to about five or six years if they are lucky, and will grow to about twenty inches in that time and weigh around four or five poinds - this is when they live under ideal conditions as to water temperature, food, etc. Seldom do we find fish of this size around here, but I do know of an eighteen-inch Brook Trout that was caught two years ago within 200 yards of the Town Crier office, and that's no "fish story."

Trout is probably the finest eating fish there is. The usual way to cook them is to remove the innards and gill rakes, shake them up in a paper bag containing flour, cornmeal, salt, pepper and a pinch of oregano, then fry slowly in fresh bacon fat until golden brown. My favorite method is to broil them, basting them frequently with a mixture of melted butter and white wine. Do not scale or skin trout, as the scales are so fine that they are edible.

Letters to the EDITOR

Minute Man Missile Bases Defended

To the Editor:

I should like to reply briefly to the letter written by Rev. Donald W. Lithrop and David E. Kennell, Ph. D. in the March 23 issue of the Town Crier stating that the proposed 150 Minuteman missile sites will make New England a prime target for "giant megaton hydrogen bombs."

Are we not already a major target by virtue of our concentrated population centers and profuse industrial areas? Judging from failures in past attempts at negotiation how can we really expect the steadfast Communists to abandon their line.

As for the Minuteman missiles, it is imperative that we maintain a secure military standing, because the Communists, according to intelligence data, would not hesitate to start a war if they felt that they had a distinct advantage. Instead of taking an idealistic point of view why not be practical and face the bare facts.

Welcome Home Minuteman Says Writer

To the Editor:

As I read the letter headlined "Missile Sites are Opposed" that appeared in the March 23 issue of the Crier, I thought to myself, "How strange are the parallels of history".

Like so many others some years ago, I heard the rattle of the aggressor's sword. Those of us who flew off the Bunker Hill (a name well known to this area) heard this sound as clearly as did those Navy pilots who searched out the enemy from carriers that resounded with names well familiar to all American History and all enemies of this nation - Lexington, Ticonderoga, Belleau Woods, Bataan, to name a few.

A parallel? I believe so, but only the first. In October of 1774, the revolutionary convention in Massachusetts provided for the organization of militia which would be ready to go on the "shortest notice" to take up arms and go where needed. Out of necessity, the birth of liberty sired the birth of the "Minuteman".

In another day and another age, to defend against any threat to our hard-earned liberty, the "Minuteman" has returned to its place of origin. I say, "Welcome home, patriot".

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Home Thoughts From The South: Sobering

Suppose you stand with Mrs. Russell and me on The Battery in the handsome old city of Charleston, South Carolina. Here it is spring already. The Battery park is green, the birds are singing, and the children play about in the soft air.

We are in Charleston because it is an anniversary, one that means much to Weston and Wayland in Massachusetts, as well as to this proud southern town.

Do you see that low dark line, across the waters of the harbor, three or four miles away? No? Look a little more to the right. This big cannon on the green is blocking your view.

Oh, you see it now! Do you realize that that low shadow on the horizon is Fort Sumpter? Here, on April 12, just a hundred years ago, the Civil War began. It was these great guns on The Battery which the South Carolina Secessionists turned on the island fort, when Major Anderson doggedly refused to haul down the Stars and Stripes at the demand of South Carolina's General Beauregard.

Where Civil War Started

So this is where the Civil War started! All that dreadful carnage: thirteen died out of the 73 young men who served from the little town of Wayland alone; twelve from Weston, out of the 126 who answered the call of duty.

At least one in ten from all over New England was lost in battle, or died of wounds, disease, or in prison camps! Much worse it was in the South, where they lost not only their precious youth but, in so many places, everything else as well.

What were these Southerners thinking of, to bring on such a holocaust! Do you suppose that the charming, high principled Charleston people whose hospitality we have enjoyed can be descendants of any of those unthinking zealots who started that awful war?

But wait a moment: our friends took us to one of the city's handsome mansions, preserved as a historic monument. It was built by a Russell, they said. He was a shipowner and merchant who came down from Newport, Rhode Island, in the early 1800s.

Would a South Carolina Russell have fired on the Russels from Massachusetts who defended the Union?

You say he was a shipowner? Haven't I read that ships out of Newport and Providence, occasionally one from Boston, were once in the business of bringing over black Africans to slavery in the West Indies and here in the South? Dreadful stories, too: New England rum to Africa, and a hold full of slaves on the return voyage: Its hard to believe.

Fiery Southerners

So those fiery Southerners left the Union; seceded over slavery and states' rights. They deserved to lose the war!

But what about that Hartford Convention in 1815, called by the Massachusetts legislature: delegates from all the New England states, when the unpopular War of 1812 was ruining New England's business. The Convention resolved that "in cases of deliberate . . . infractions of the Constitution, affecting the sovereignty of a State to interpose its authority for their protection in the manner best calculated to secure that end." Of course, the War of 1812 ended soon after, and nothing came of the Convention. But didn't they have states' rights, maybe secession in mind?

Boston Mob

And, speaking of slavery, didn't a Boston mob, only twenty five years before the firing on Sumpter, drag William Lloyd Garrison, publisher of "The Liberator", advocating freedom for the slaves, through the streets, intending to lynch him?

And what about that Connecticut country town where about the same time the people compelled a school for negro girls to close, and drove the teachers out of the village.

This is a warm bright spring day. Here by this pleasant Battery Park, alongside the harbor, both negro and white children are playing in thin dresses. Back home in Massachusetts, it is chill, the snow is only just going.

But don't the warm-blooded South and the cool-blooded North need to cease casting stones at each other? Instead, shouldn't we all, North and South, in the new century just opening, strive to bind up those of the nation's wounds that still fester after the hundred years; and seek especially to do justice toward those citizens of darker color, for whose presence our ancestors, both north and south were accountable; but for whose future our whole nation, north and south, black and white, must accept a responsibility which cannot be shirked.

Happier View Of Concert's Attendance

To the Editor:

To an incurable optimist, I take a rather rosier view of the attendance at the charming concert given in Wayland last Sunday by the Fine Arts Chamber Orchestra under the auspices of the Boston Arts Festival than does Mrs. Hocking in her interesting review.

When one remembers that the final performance of "South Pacific" had taken place the previous evening, that two of the churches in town had afternoon activities that day and that in New England the arts are often neglected in favor of duty, it seems to me that a really gratifying number of people took advantage of the generous opportunity given us by the Arts Festival.

I am sure that word-of-mouth publicity will make the next concert on April 26th even better attended.

Thank You, Letter Writers

The Town Crier would like to express its appreciation to recent writers of Letter-to-the Editor for keeping their letters close to 100 words. We want our readers to know that the 100-word limit imposed by the publication is not arbitrary but based upon the press of space considerations. We feel our purpose is to present the brief views of many rather than the more lengthy views of a few.

In general, the response to our request that such letters be written with the 100-word maximum in mind has been more than satisfactory and proves once again the willingness of the majority of people to respect a policy when they understand the reasons behind it.

It is far more difficult to write a short story or a short letter than it is to compose a longer one. Thus, we particularly appreciate the results of the time and thought expended by the writers.

URBAN

be surveyed by WRA as to urban renewal needs, not just the Dudley Pond region as commonly supposed.

The greatest concern of property owners in the pond region was expressed by one unidentified questioner Monday:

"It looks to me as if you're going to come over and tell us you're going to take our house. Or we need to put a road right here. Or you fix it up or we'll have to take it from you."

"That would be an extreme case," was the answer.

The reply came from James L. Harris of Harris and Freeman of Cambridge, author of the Harris report. To him most questions were directed from all quarters.

Harris explained that in most communities contemplating renewal of the type Wayland officials seem interested in, neighborhood improvement comes about through neighborhood cooperation, most properties felt to be substandard are improved by their owners and easier improvement loan terms are provided by banks, once an area is given Federal renewal aid.

Land Taking

Most of the questioners Monday seemed to feel that town officials and Harris didn't understand their area. Guy Newhall, president of the newly-formed Wayland Civic Assn., answered the charge of pollution of the pond from inadequate sewage disposal facilities with this counter-charge:

"Many of the cesspools that were too close to the pond in past years have been moved a safe distance away - but the town officials haven't been kept informed on this."

Newhall pointed out that he has taken water samples over the years and had favorable reports as to pollution from state authorities.

Other questioners were alarmed at widening of road ways and the taking of property for town improvements.

A general fear of widescale taking of property was expressed by many before and after the meeting.

At a preliminary organization meeting, WRA passed the following motion submitted by Laurence S. Fordham:

"There are two basic techniques of urban renewal: 1, the bulldozer technique of clearance and redevelopment employed, for example, in Boston's West End and 2, the technique of neighborhood improvement.

"The Wayland Redevelopment Authority is unalterably opposed to the bulldozer technique in the Town of Wayland."

This was passed unanimously, according to newly-elected chairman Harvey C. Newton.

Considerable criticism of the map accompanying the Harris report was voiced by many questioners who maintained that it showed several pieces of private property still owned by the town. Federal officials viewing that, objectors felt, might feel more disposed to grant Federal renewal aid because of the large amount of town property indicated on the map.

Harris denied this would be so. And in reply to several questions he said his survey of the pond area had been made with the assistance of Norman Fair of the Board of Health, plus on-the-spot external surveys by him and his staff prior to submission of the report in mid-1959.

As of now: no Federal government approval has been given for renewal aid in Wayland.

None will be given until WRA has made its new survey and complied with stiff Federal regulations.

Where some of the confusion may have stemmed from is this:

Usually renewal efforts are begun by town planning boards, as here. The Harris report helped this board in recommending to the 1960 town meeting that an authority be set up. This was done. And on Feb. 27, 1961, the Harris report was given to the authority for its guidance.

Now that WRA is organized, the next step is up to the Authority.

Newton said the board voted against appointing Morton Braun of Planning Renewal Associates of Cambridge as renewal planner for the time being.

Meanwhile, it wants to learn from Fire Chief Hartin, Building Inspector Homer MacDonald and Health Agent Norman Fair the location of homes all over town that are structurally unsound or which have inadequate sewage disposal.

Attending Monday's meeting were Edward F. Thorburn, L. William Bertelsen, Allen H. Morgan and Mr. Charnock of the planning board; George V. Deverell, A. William Rowe, John R. McEnroy, Mr. Newton and Mr. Fordham of WRA.

to get the brunt of the traffic.

Especially affected will be the industries along that area of Route 128 and in Bear Hill Valley. The Associated Transport Truck Terminal and the Esso Standard Oil depot will also be hit.

The state has set up a series of detours. Weston officials obviously do not relish the thought of more than 10,000 cars being channeled through their residential streets each day.

Signs will be erected at Banks Square directing eastbound traffic up Route 20. If motorists slip by these signs they will be greeted by another one farther up Main St. directing them over Stow St. to Route 20. A large barricade will be set up at the bridge itself.

Motorists who wish to get back on Route 128 as soon as possible can swing off Route 20 north on Route 128 to Winter St. where they can double back to Main St. via Second Ave. and Bear Hill Rd.

Traffic headed further west will be directed to stay on Route 20 until Weston Center, and then proceed across Church St., Weston, a mile and a half to Route 117 at Kendal Green.

An alternative is to continue on Route 20 to Route 126 in Wayland and cut back four miles on Route 126, picking up Route 117 in Lincoln.

The same detours will be in effect for eastbound traffic.

Signs will be placed at strategic points. The problem is complicated by the fact construction is also underway at the Winter St. and Weston St. bridges.

Officials are fearful of overloading Church St. in Weston, which is basically a residential street. One of the alternatives, however, Bear Hill Rd. and Second Ave., which may bear most of the industrial traffic headed to and from Route 128, are service roads.

Canvass Apr.9 To Benefit Athletics

WAYLAND -- Final plans have been announced for the Wayland High Association's annual house-to-house canvass to be held Sunday April 9, 1961.

Through the success of past drives, the Association has been able to supplement the high school athletic program with equipment such as movies of all the home football games, a seven-man charging machine and an electric scoreboard for the new Physical Education Center.

The highlight of the spring program will be the annual "All Sports" Banquet which will be held at the Wayland High School Physical Education Center on Saturday, April 29.

The Association, through the support of the townspeople, sponsors the banquet. This year, 193 members of the various high school athletes will be honored, jackets will be presented to 36 qualified Junior and Senior boys and girls as well as the awarding of the Wayland High Association "Best Athlete" trophy and the Sullivan Award. Among those to be feted are the members of the 1960 baseball team which won the Eastern Massachusetts Class C championship and this year's basketball team which won the Dual County Championship.

All donors automatically qualify for membership in the Association and it is hoped that they will take an interest in the aims of the Association and its program, and become active members. Anyone who is not contacted the day of the drive and wishes to contribute may send his or her gift to Harold L. Barnett, Treasurer, c/o Wayland High School, Wayland, Mass.

WaCo Schedules Registration

WAYLAND -- Registration for all boys and girls who wish to participate in the 1961 baseball and softball program will be held on Saturday April 8. For Cochituate residents the registration will be at the Cochituate Grammar School from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. The Wayland boys and girls can register during the same hours at the Junior High School Annex.

All boys between the ages of eight and 18 as of June 1 are eligible to play. Girls ages are from 10 to 16.

It is earnestly hoped that the fathers who wish to help as managers, coaches or umpires will also register with their sons and daughters during the same hours. According to Mr. William M. Young, the Acting Commissioner of the program, the turnout of parents at the last meeting was disappointingly small. Mr. Young said "The WACO Program has always provided a place on an organized team and an opportunity to play for every interested young person. This year, for the first time it is possible that the program may have to be curtailed because of the lack of volunteer help. It will all depend on the number of adult volunteers we get on April 8."

Weston Scouts Win Eagle Awards

WESTON -- The coveted Eagle Award, the highest award for Boy Scouts, was presented to three boys at the Weston Scoutorama on Saturday March 25th.

Benjamin Bean, Westwell District Advancement Chairman conducted the Court of Honor and presented J. Manton Bradley who as Master of Ceremonies conferred Eagle Awards to Louis Ulm of Troop 53, Douglas Downing of Troop 51, and Robert McIntosh of Explorer Post 28.

Each boy after receiving his award presented a pin to his mother indicating her son's award.

Rev. Krug of St. Peter's Church opened the Court of Honor with an invocation.

Star Awards were presented to Tom Heffernon of Troop 53, David Warren of Troop 52, and Mike Doherty of Troop 52.

The Scoutorama featured Troop exhibits and the building of a monkey bridge by Explorer Post 28 with the acid test of a boy walking over the bridge.

The events started with a Cub Scout Tug-of-War won by Pack 54 followed by seven scout events.

The Scoutorama was won by Troop 52 with a total of 37 points giving them the Legion Camping prize and two legs on the Scoutorama Plaque.

Railroad Month For Cub Scouts

WAYLAND -- Phil and Dave Spokouck, Steven Williams, Dean Wilson, Michael Hutchinson, Steve Hanson, Will Dix, Gary Schofield, Hubbie Cutler and their mascot Walter Spokouski with their Den Mother and her assistant took a train from Waltham to Boston, where they were met by Mr. MacPhee, who took them by train out to the yard, turned them on the turn table and drove into the round house.

There were two men explaining everything as they made a tour of the round house. They were taken through a Diesel Engine, then rode back to the North Station to the dispatchers office to see how the switchboards work and try some of the switches. They were interested in seeing that a man in a tower out in the yard wrote "Pack 1 Wayland" on a piece of paper which showed in 12 different places in the station all at once.

The boys then had a hamburger and pop and left by train at 12:30 back to Waltham.

Better Government For Citizens Of Massachusetts

The Town Crier thanks The Worcester Evening Gazette for permitting the reproduction of the Gazette's article written by Paul L. Schultz on ways in which the average citizen might take part in gavernment.

BOSTON -- Is all the recent talk about lack of integrity in Massachusetts state government a false and fancy tale created out of white cloth to embarrass honest men?

One might think so the way certain members of the General Court are beginning to howl publicly about how that honorable body is being abused by widespread criticism in recent months.

But is the Legislature or state government in general being unjustly accused?

What is being talked about does not apply solely to the Legislature, but to certain agencies of the state government, and to any private citizens who may be involved. "It Takes Two to Tango" is as true of political corruption as it is of dancing.

Here are some reports that the increasing number of critics of the present unsavory conditions in Massachusetts are talking about:

Indictments

1. A situation in which the owner of a product is led to understand that he can do business with some public agencies if he pays to a go-between or bagman a set fee (so much a barrel, drum, 100 pounds, etc).

2. This kind of a case - where a go-between paid (out behind a car in the dark of the night) $900 to a politician for a "favor performed."

3. This kind of a case - where a legislator tried to hold up the sponsor of an important bill for money in exchange for his favorable vote in the committee which had to report the bill out to the floor.

4. The kind of situation in which a prominent member of the House of Representatives bluntly asked the proponent of a bill just how much it was worth to him to get his bill through the House.

5. The unsuccessful attempt of three members of the House to hold up a group interested in a certain piece of legislation.

Mahoney's Experience

6. A case like the one in which Judge Charles F. Mahoney, shortly before he was confirmed as a judge by the Executive Council, was about to learn certain council members councillors had indicated he would have to reward them for their favorable votes in support of his nomination.

7. The case of the Storrow Drive Tunnel which was built with a "calculated risk" according to an official of the Metropolitan District Commission. He conceded - when he was pinned down on it - that no waterproofing agent had been included in the concrete sides of the tunnel. For several years after the completion of the tunnel, lucrative repair contracts - just under $1,000 each - were let for attempts to waterproof the seams as the waters of the Charles river seeped through.

9. The efforts to place unqualified people on a certain state board, where the appointees could then do the bidding of the politicians who were sponsoring them.

10. The attempt of a prominent legislator to bully a state agency to do his bidding or suffer "investigation."

Governor Volpe, who is a former commissioner of public works, apparently found the situation so nauseating that he felt compelled to make "honesty and integrity" the cornerstone of his administration.

He has even proposed a formal code of ethics for state employes and public officials. He got little open support from the Legislature and has spent the last couple of weeks urging the public to support his code and demand that state representatives and senators pass it.

This is the atmosphere which has bothered Mrs. Donald N. Zwiep of Worcester since she moved from Colorado to Massachusetts in 1958.

When she wrote to us the other day, she said she had lived in four other states and has found the adjustment to Massachusetts government "a bit difficult."

She does not want to appear unduly critical of Massachusetts, for there is much here that she admires and enjoys.

She found it frustrating, however, to hear the complaints on all sides and to note a certain apathy at the "apparent corruption all about us."

She asks how one can take a more active role in political life.

Place To Begin

There are many ways. Most people don't know where to begin. A good place to begin would be at the State House. It is a safe bet that the vast majority of Bay State citizens have never set foot inside the State House.

A visit to it would be worth while. One could soon know where the House and the Senate chambers are, might catch a debate in one or both branches, could see the governor's office, attend a public hearing, and see the Executive Council in action.

The state government is no vast and nebulous agency sprung from the head of Zeus to govern us without our consent. We, the voters, created it by the marks we made (or did not make) on the ballots at election time.

If we have created a Frankenstein's monster who is to blame? The citizens of a democracy get the kind of government they deserve. If they are apathetic, it is almost a rule of human affairs that they will get bad government. If they want good government, they [illegible] eternal vigilance is still the price of liberty.

Ways To Participate

What can one do?

1. Run for office. If you are able and honest, you might be surprised at how far you would get in a political campaign. The more men and women of integrity who get elected, the greater will be the support for responsible government.

2. Actively support someone who is running. Get fired up over some candidate of unquestionable integrity and go out and make speeches and ring doorbells for him.

3. Write to your senator and representative. Let them know how you feel about a proposal before them. Legislators are hungry for true reflections of public sentiment. In Massachusetts, they seldom hear from their constituents, except for those seeking jobs or looking for favors.

4. Go to a public hearing on a bill before a legislative committee in one of the hearing rooms in the State House. Argue for or against the bill. Do research on it. Have plenty of facts and strong convictions.

5. Write to the governor. He won't read it? Try him. He is going around the state telling the people that his "corner office" can be lonely and he would like to hear from the people. He wants letters from the public, whether they agree with him or not.

6. Join a political committee - a town or city committee of your party.

7. Join a citizens' group (taxpayers, professional, etc.).

8. Vote. The thousands of citizens who seldom vote could change the complexion of many elections.

9. Take the trouble to find out who is a worthy candiate for public office. Thousands vote for people they know nothing about. As a result, irresponsible candidates often get elected and subsequently rise to positions of power.

10. Educate the young to the importance of being active in some phase of public affairs.

Democracy (from the Greek - power of the people) is not a flower that will grow without care. It can be choked and its beauty marred by the weeds of neglect and dishonesty.

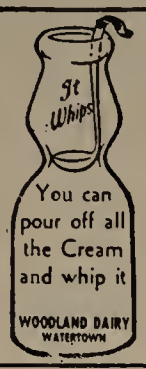
Renewal, Civic Groups Plan Panel



WAYLAND -- Members of the Wayland Urban Renewal Authority will participate in a panel discussion at the next meeting of the Wayland Civic Association, April 10 at 8:00 P.M. in the Happy Hollow School. Police Department

On Tuesday night, March 28, two Newton juveniles were picked up by the Weston Police Department and preliminarily triggered a suspicion that they were bicycle thieves. An investigation conducted by the Newton police brought to light some 28 cases of stolen bicycles and several small larcenies from schools attributed to the boys.

An open safe was found on the same date by a resident who reported it to the police. Investigation pinpointed the safe as belonging to Henry Couper of Littleton. It had been stolen from his premises on March 30 and looted of several thousand dollars in bonds and other valuables.

Board of Selectmen

The Board of Selectmen were scheduled to meet Tuesday evening, April 4 for the purpose of making their annual appointments. As this meeting took place during this paper's publication, the appointments will be published in the April 13 issue.

Fire Department

On March 28 the department answered calls to contain a brush fire on Shady Hill Road and a chimney fire at the Weston Convalescent Center. On the 29th members of the department cleaned up gasoline and oil spilled on Route 117 at Lexington Street.

The department investigated a fire on MDC property the morning of March 31 and also handled an automobile fire at 239 Merriam Street the same morning. In the evening, it answered a call to remove a wire from the street on Route 30 at the Natick line.

April 2 found the department assisting a person inadvertently locked out of the house on Kendall Common Road and on April 3, firefighters put out a brush fire on South Avenue.

Starting a new lawn this spring?

1. Don't worry about poor soil. You don't need to go to the trouble and expense of bringing in topsoil. Any soil—even subsoil—can give a satisfying lawn with regular feedings of Scotts protein-building TURF BUILDER®.

2. Don't be taken in by seed "bargains." You want a good lawn, not a hayfield. Cheap mixtures contain wild grasses that will plague you for the life of your lawn. Scotts seed is all good grass, perennial and weed-free.

3. Don't plant the wrong kind of lawn. Be realistic. If you need a lawn that stands up to the punishment of children and weather, choose Scotts PLAY seed. If appearance is paramount, Scotts FAMILY® or CLASSIC®.

Save 5.00—Turf Builder (reg. 4.95) plus Scotts Spreader (reg. 16.95) both only 16.90

Bring your lawn problems to our Lawn Program Advisors. They have the know-how and the experience to help you achieve the kind of lawn you want.

Ask us about the Scotts guarantee... a better lawn or your money back!

Christian Science Service

WESTON -- Those attending Christian Science services Sunday April 9. will hear a challenging call to overcome sin and sickness of every kind through wholly spiritual means.

Highlighting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is this Golden Text: "The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give" (Matthew 10).

One of the selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "God is as incapable of producing sin, sickness, and death as He is of experiencing these errors. How then is it possible for Him to create man subject to this triad of errors, -- man who is made in the divine likeness?" (p. 356).

"The Southern Belle"

SUDBURY -- Our Lady of Fatima Guild will present a musical "The Southern Belle", written and directed by Marion Houghton of Wayland, Friday and Saturday, April 7 and 8 at 8:15 p.m. at Sudbury Town Hall.

Tickets may be purchased in Wayland by contacting Carol Ives at the Co-op Super Market.

A Reminder

May we again remind those persons handling press relations for the various churches that church listings sent to the Town Crier should contain only the announcements of actual church services and name of the clergy.

Notes on choir rehearsals, scout meetings, etc., should be submitted as seperate news items .

International Art Exchange

WESTON -- The Weston Arts and Crafts Association invites all Weston school children to participate in an international Art exchange program. An exhibit of Weston work will be sent in exchange for a similar one from the participating country.

The purpose is to stimulate the children's art interests and to offer Weston an opportunity to enjoy this contact with other lands. The exhibition, opening the week of May 8th at the Woodland School, will consist of paintings and other graphic art.

Art work should be submitted no later than May 1, either through the art teacher or to the Woodland School.

WALTHAM NURSING HOME

" 24 Hour Nursing Care "
TW 3-6944

91 Summer Street

The Waltham Nursing Home, formerly the residence of Congressman Luce, is an immaculate home which offers 24-hour professional nursing care. Located at 91 Summer Street it rates highly with the State Dept. of Public Health and with the doctors who care for its patients. Being one of the few well established nursing homes around since its beginning in 1948, its ownership has remained within the same family.

Unlike a great many nursing homes throughout the state, the Waltham Nursing Home is unique. Every one of its patients, regardless of their condition, is of a desirable type. When one enters its front doors there is a clean and pleasant atmosphere about. There is not that institutional look that is usually expected. In passing through the corridors and looking into various rooms one does not see sickness and discomfort, but rather friendly and happy faces. Those patients are given excellent nursing care and are kept clean and comfortable at all times, whether they are convalescing, aged, diabetic, or post operative.

Many things make the Waltham Nursing Home one of the very best of its kind because it is immaculately clean and free from odors, the care is kind and professional, there is excellent food and along with every maximum safety requirement, everyone is happy. If you would like, please visit us, inspect our facilities, have a friendly chat with the nurses and patients or inquire of your doctor who is our best reference.

Testimony Favorable During Hearing On Wetlands Measure

BOSTON -- "This is the first time in my 20 years as a town planner that I have seen owners of private property standing up one after another and offering their land for the general use of the public. Generally, people ask the state to protect their holdings as a private sanctuary. It is indeed heartening and shows a great awareness by individuals of the pressing need for preserving our wild areas under public domain."

Allen Benjamin of Wayland, speaking in behalf of House Bill 2953 concerning the acquisition of land in the Sudbury and Concord River Valleys joined many interested parties in expressing his observations before the Committee on Harbors and Public Lands at a state house hearing on March 6.

Whatever opposition to the bill was presented came in the form of requested clarifications or minor revisions and guarantees. There was no opposition to the bill expressed on the basis of principle.

House Bill 2953 is based upon a report by the Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources, calling for a cooperative program with towns, state, the federal government, and private individuals sharing responsibility for preservation of the wetlands bordering the Concord and Sudbury Rivers. The bill would give consent by the state to the United States to take such areas "by purchase, gift, devise, or lease . . . for the establishment of migratory bird reservations."

Immediacy

Assent of the Commonwealth is necessary before the federal government can acquire land under the Migratory Bird Conservation Act.

Rep. James DeNormandie of Lincoln, speaking in favor of the bill, suggested greater consideration be given to local zoning boards in deciding land use, that no existing industrial plants be taken by the government, and that lands such as the Raymond Farm area be expressly excluded from

Civic Group Holds Meeting With WRA Members

WAYLAND -- No big decisions by the Wayland Redevelopment Authority can be expected for about a year.

This was the assurance given Monday night (April 10) to about 115 homeowners of the Wayland Civic Assn. engaged in a tug-of-war over what is fact and what fancy in Wayland urban renewal.

The meeting in the Happy Hollow School also witnessed a three-hour resignation by President Guy Newhall and an internal row over policy.

The latter was cleared up with Vice President Clifford Goodnoh's assertion that "we are firm in our aim of defeating urban renewal in the town of Wayland."

Earlier, the association's guests (four members of the renewal authority) learned that the group was hiring an attorney to determine what, if anything, could be done to dissolve the authority.

Assurance that no big decisions would be made for now came from WRA Chairman Harvey C. Newton who told one questioner that if the WRA "is not part of determining what is substandard, then I won't be on this committee any longer."

Substandard

Just what is substandard, the primary concern of most members of the 241-member association, was not precisely defined. Nor were a number of other touchy terms.

The biggest decision to be made, of course, is the location. And WRA members said this would have to wait upon findings of a planner. No such decision has been made yet.

What members, mostly from the Dudley Pond area, did learn was this:

--Remodel if you're planning to do so. "The type of house we're interested in," said Mr. Newton, is the type that can't be re-

Weston Educators At NEA Meeting In New Jersey

At the meeting, Mr. McFarlin was leader of section one, group seven which analyzed current issues in elementary education.

Under discussion were such problems as: Should there be departmentalization in the elementary school? Should foreign languages be taught in the elementary school? Should reading be taught at the kindergarten level?

The convention was broken up

Scholarship Fund Rising

WESTON -- During the last meeting on Weston's American Legion Post 214 held March 23, a final report on the Blue and Gray Centennial Ball was made, and steps to transfer the proceeds from the ball were made.

Post treasurer John Kempster stated that the net income realized from public response to the post's invitations amounted to $481. This figure brings the Scholarship Fund up to $2500. A cursory comparison of past seasonal dances revealed that the Centennial Ball inspired more interest and response than any preceding activities of similar nature.

The membership of the post voted its thanks to the committee and expressed its sincere appreciation for the enthusiastic support received from the residents of the town.

School-Bus Contracts Cancelled

WAYLAND -- School-bus drivers employed by Oswald A. Garvey but unpaid by him since March 13 dramatized their situation on Thursday April 6 in a one-hour cessation of work at 7 a.m. Temporarily stranded and consequently late for school were some 2,000 Wayland school children.

Mr. Garvey reportedly has been away from his Cochituate home since the March 13 date. Not only have the drivers been unpaid but it has been necessary for the town to purchase gasoline for the vehicles.

Emergency Meeting

At an emergency meeting of the school committee on Wednesday evening, April 5, the committee therefore voted to cancel the existing school-bus contracts between Mr. Garvey and the town. These contracts were for the operation of 10 of the 13 school buses. Three school buses have been leased since September 1960 and were not affected by the termination of the contract.

On April 5 and 6 arrangements were made to locate 10 buses as quickly as possible and with the minimum of interruption in service.

Business as Usual

Six of the 10 buses were operating Thursday morning and by Thursday afternoon all bus operations were back to normal. School bus drivers previously employed by the contractor have been employed by the schools. The required 10 buses were rented from bus companies in Framingham and Natick.

Salary for the drivers will be paid from April 3 until the end of the school year by the school committee.

'Metropolis'

WAYLAND -- William A. Waldron of Draper Rd. highlighted constitutional reforms needed to make the Massachusetts Governor more effective, during Channel 2's "Metropolis" Friday, April 7 at 9 p.m.; repeated Sunday, April 9 at 5:30 p.m.

It is impossible to work from two standpoints. Mary Baker Eddy

President's Cup Won By Weston Nurseries

WESTON -- Weston Nurseries again won the coveted President's Cup for "The most meritorious exhibit in the Show" at this year's Boston Spring Flower Show for its naturalistic New England Garden. The Massachusetts State Flower, the Mayflower, the multitude of every colored Primroses, and the crowd of sunny, daisy-like Doronicums were but a few of the harbingers of Spring.

Mrs. John Russett, Winter St., Weston, landscape architect, assisted in setting up the exhibit with the aid of her son Peter who leaves for active service in the Navy soon. The Russett's other son Glenn missed this year's work at the exhibit, but came home on leave from the aircraft carrier Lake Champlain to see the show.

Both young men studied electronics and are graduates of Weston High School as is their mother and uncle Edmund Mizitt.

Edmund Mezitt, landscape architect, and Peter Mezitt designed the winning exhibit. Both were long-time residents of Weston before moving to Hopkinton. The Mezitts and Mrs. Russett are executives of the Weston Nurseries.

All operations have now been moved to Hopkinton where there is an acreage of over 1,000 with the Weston Nurseries Garden Center on Rt. 135, offices and other facilities on the hill above.

In the 1920's limited space at the Weston Airport on Winter St. there was never a dull moment as the "aeroplanes" plopped into the planting beds, sheared the trunks of good-sized trees, nose-dived into the wild flower section swamp, took off the tops of chimnies, tested parachutes to land on small circles marked out and once cracked up at night off the rockiest section of Wellesley St. when out of fuel - but no one was ever seriously hurt.

After a disasterous fire, the airfield was taken over entirely by planting with greenhouses put up where the hanger had been, but even with much additional land there still was not enough. It was a hard decision to make but there was decided the move to Hopkinton for acreage was needed.

Who's On First?

In recent weeks, one of our communities has had an opportunity to observe the disturbing effects of what appears to be a two-way lack of communication between town agencies and the community itself.

In this instance, the bone of contention happened to be urban renewal. But it really was not to blame for the ensuing controversy - what it did was to bring the true difficulty into focus.

Finger-pointing is neither the aim nor the province of this editorial. We simply wish to stress the fact that a serious communications problem exists. And up to now, there has been little interest among either town officials or residents to do something about it.

Here, for a start, are some of our suggestions for improving the exchange of information between all groups interested in good local government:

First, let us repeat that citizens are not only allowed but welcome at every board of selectmen's meeting. This holds for the meetings of all other town agencies as well. A law of the Commonwealth makes all such meetings, with the exception of an occasional executive session, open to the public.

Obviously, not everyone could be expected to attend every hearing or meeting. The picture of some 5,000 voters converging on town hall for a session with, for instance, the cemetery commissioners jars the imagination. The important, hopeful thing is that more of us show up for such sessions than have in the past.

The written word is another area where a great deal of improvement is possible. The Crier has a stake here. We know it and we are doing our best to step up our coverage of all aspects of town government. However, as with any individual citizen, complete coverage is physically beyond our capacities.

Thus, it would be tremendously helpful to everyone-the Crier included - if more town officials would make available brief, written reports of their departments' meetings and activities. Very few do so now.

Legislators elected to federal office frequently keep in touch with their constituents through periodic newsletters. School interests in Weston and Wayland have been using this method. Perhaps other town departments also would find newsletters a useful means of reaching townsfolk.

Better communications cannot help but improve relations between townspeople and their government and, incidentally, between town departments as well.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- A male American Widgeon (Baldpate) was seen at the Duck Feeding Area on Mar. 22 (Koe); and all three white-winged gulls were still present to Apr. 5.

The first, and so far the only, really warm days (Mar. 27-28) brought a flood of migrants:robins, rusty blackbirds, cowbirds, a few flickers, and many more redwings and grackles. Mar. 30 was "Fox Sparrow Day" with large flocks reported.

Charlotte Stevens, Warren Ave., saw the first Weston Phoebe (Mar. 26); and it is good to be able to report six others since then (Gorely, Hayes, Adams, Dee, Smith and Gates) -- a marked increase over last year. Only one Tree Swallow report so far (Smith); and NONE of Bluebirds.

A Hermit Thrush was seen on Mar. 28 by W. Lawson; and the Tufted Titmouse present on Westland Rd. since Oct. 27, was last seen about Mar.20. Mrs. C. P. Gorely, Jr., Boston Post Rd., saw a small flock of Pine Grosbeaks recently -- the only Weston report this winter. "Last seen" dates of Evening Grosbeaks will be much appreciated. A Cooper's Hawk was noted on Mar. 27 (Lawson), and a Sparrow Hawk on Apr. 3 at Kendal Green (MacLeod).

Woodcock have been singing on North Ave. (Foote) since Mar. 28. If you have never seen and heard this remarkable performance, try to do so this year. Many people believe it is the most wonderful spring sight and sound in Nature.

Open Letter To Merchants Of Wayland

To the Merchants of Wayland and Cochituate:

For several years the Wayland High Association has sponsored the Annual All-Sports Banquet for the participants of the athletic program at Wayland High School. This sponsorship has been made possible, in great part, through the financial support of local business men.

On Saturday, April 29, 1961, in the new Physical Education Centre at the High School, the Association will entertain one hundred ninety-three young men and women, review their accomplishments for the year, present jackets to qualified juniors and seniors, and announce the recipients of the Sullivan Award and the W.H.A. Award.

During the week of April 16, members of the association will call on the merchants to solicit their support.

Any donation will be appreciated and to encourage a wider interest, we would like to suggest a few ways which may appeal to the merchants.

1. A donation of $10 would provide two tickets for students as well as one ticket to the donor for the banquet.

2. A donation of $20 would do twice as much as the above and provide two tickets to the donor.

3. A donation of $14.50 would underwrite the purchase of a jacket.

4. Or, if circumstances preclude a donation, we encourage you to purchase a ticket or two for yourself and come to enjoy a very pleasant dinner and inspiring evening with a bunch of kids you can be very proud of at all times.

Wayland High Association.

Conflicting Reports Seen By Writer

To the Editor:

In a recent Crier (March 30) we read the following statement credited to the Urban Redevelopment Committee at their meeting of March 27 -- "It is premature to worry about which area in town might be affected by urban redevelopment action". Further "the committee assured questioners that it "does not now have specific areas selected nor does it have specific plans on what it shall do as yet."

It is difficult to resolve these statements with the following quoted directly from the Finance Committee's discussion of Article 18 of the 1961 Town Warrant which was published prior to March 8. "With respect to Sunset Road and Bent Ave., since both streets lie in the general area which the Urban Renewal Authority is now studying, the Finance Committee feels that the decision on these should be deferred ---".

This would indicate to me that it is not only time to start worrying about what areas might be affected by urban redevelopment but also what is wrong with the communication link between the various committees composing our town government and how reliable is the information which is finally passed on to the voters.

Until as late as 1841, town meetings in Wayland were held in the meeting house. Sometimes they were held in private homes, and sometimes in the "ordinary." (tavern).

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

Our Minutemen Were There

April 19, which comes next week, is a great day hereabouts - or at least it used to be. For that is the day of the Battle of Lexington in 1775, or, as the saying used to be, "The Battle of Lexington, fought at Concord, by the men of Acton"; for it was the Acton Minutemen who were in the front line at Concord Bridge.

In my boyhood, everyone in Lexington and Concord who could walk took part in the town parades - and everyone else went to see them. Thousands from other towns came on bicycles, or by carriage and train; and the villages were jammed, with flags everywhere.

Most old time families all over Middlesex County had ancestors who had been at the fight (my own forbears came from Lexington) and to us who grew up hereabouts the battle was not at all an ancient event, but just 'round the corner, a subject of common conversation. Old folks, greeting each other after an interval were likely to say, eyes twinkling, "Why, I haven't seen you since Concord Fight."

Paul Revere

In the town where I grew up, Arlington, Paul Revere had ridden right up the main street, and the British had marched over it both ways. In the house where my father was born, the mistress was melting the family pewter into bullets when the redcoats entered. The pottage over the fire was for her sick husband, she told them; and there he was in bed upstairs - until they had passed by. But he was outside with the bullets in his pouch when, tired from 30 miles of marching, they returned.

To us children, there was only one side to that struggle. We would have been astounded to read the soberly balanced accounts of modern historians, giving considerable weight to the English point of view, and calling our Battle of Lexington a mere skirmish!

Weston and Wayland were in the thick of the day, too, not at the beginning, but on the return march of the redcoats. In East Sudbury, now Wayland, the patriots had organized two military companies, one of 40 minutemen under Capt. Cudworth, and a militia company of 75 commanded by Capt. Joseph Smith.

Other east-siders were included in the west side company of 75 foot militia and the troop of 22 horse, for Sudbury was one of the most populous towns in the Bay Colony. These were among the men who harassed the British from the heights and the stone walls on what is now Route 2A in Lincoln, and followed them toward Boston.

Weston's company numbered a full hundred, under Capt. Samuel Lamson. They started toward Concord, but learning that the British had left and were on the march back toward Boston, they headed for the Lexington road to meet them.

Into the Woods

No account could be more vivid than that of Weston's historian, Colonel Daniel S. Lamson, descendant of the Revolutionary commander: "The news that 'The British are coming!' passes from town to town with the speed of a modern telegram. Parson Woodward of Weston sends his family into the woods for safety, and they drive their cow with them. Mrs. Woodward seizes a skillet as she leaves the house, telling the children she may need it. The Weston company gathers at the house of Captain Samuel Lamson, then situated where now stands the farm house on the Richardson place, and Parson Woodward after a prayer takes his gun and falls into the ranks with the men . . . "

Echoes

Companies like Weston's and Sudbury's were hastening toward the Lexington road from every town between Sudbury and the sea, on that nineteenth of April in 1775, and the reverberation of their tread still echoes today, as other peoples over the world seek freedom.

So the American Revolution began: a few thinly spread farmers and traders and sailors scattered through thirteen colonies, against the might of Great Britain. That they won their freedom remains today a matter of astonishment. And even after the tremendous events of the two centuries that have intervened, April 19, Patriot's Day remains a day worth celebrating.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

A Turtle Is To Race

When we were young we always looked forward to the time when the Eastern Painted Turtles came out in the spring to sun themselves on the rocks and logs in the Mill Pond. Our turtle-hunting expeditions usually included a good dunking.

We almost always waded too far out and filled our boots, or slipped from a log, but with the help of a long handled net (usually made from a net orange bag) we were able to bring home a few of these fast creatures.

After six or seven of us had caught what we thought might be the fastest turtles, we would all go to the back lawn where we would scratch a twenty foot circle in the grass, then we would put our favorite turtles under a wash tub in the center of the circle -- each turtle bearing its' name in chalk on the top shell.

At a given signal the tub was raised and we all ran out to the edge of the ring to cheer for our turtle. As in horse racing, we had our fast starters, and some that were good in the home stretch -- but usually it was the largest turtle that won, having crossed the circle line first.

Of course this was only the first race, and sometimes the winner of this race had to race against some other turtles from the other side of town, but in the end, one of us owned the "Town Champion" and we all lost interest and back went the turtles to the Mill Pond to rest and eat bugs 'til it was time for them to bury themselves in the mud for the cold winter ahead.

Now these Eastern Painted Turtles don't get much larger than seven inches, and are quite colorful, having yellow spots on their heads and bright red edges on their top shells with yellowish bottom shells.

They live on aquatic vegetation, insects and sometimes they are caught when bottom fishing with worms. This species is fast, both on land and in the water (for a turtle that is), but they seldom will bite as do their meaner cousins, the snapping turtles.

Weston JHS Studies Bike Safety

WESTON -- The sight of the first Robin may or may not be the first sign of Spring in Weston this year. As part of a "responsibility program", Principal Philip Wye of the Weston Junior High School has pushed the development of a bike safety program which may well become a model of operation for other schools throughout the Commonwealth and perhaps the country.

Under the leadership of Industrial Arts teacher, Mr. Galen Green, Weston J.H.S. students are learning the fine points of good and bad "bike management". The loose or missing fender or reflector which might cause an accident is covered. The alignment of handlebars and their proper adjustment is taught. The lack of a chain guard, as it applies to torn trousers and possible accidents is covered fully in Mr. Green's classes.

To make the course "hit home" on a working basis, Mr. Wye and Mr. Green secured a number of bicycles in need of repair. During the classes, students actually make the repairs which are required to put the equipment in proper operating condition.

New Bike Law

WESTON -- As of July 1, motorists will be required to slow down to 15 miles an hour and to sound their horns when approaching a child on a bicycle. A state law signed by Gov. John A. Volpe on April 4 says motorist must stop if the youngster signals him to do so.

Weston Police Chief Frank O. Shaw says he considers it a dangerous law in that it will result in youngsters "sticking out their hands and closing their eyes," thereby causing accidents. People may not pay much attention to the law, he points out and sites the schoolbus law.

"It took years to get that law passed and still it is grossly violated by motorists."

In Wayland, Ernest H. Damon makes a like observation. "If a youngster a few feet in front of a car suddenly signals for the car to stop, there are going to be plenty of accidents," he says.

Wayland Teachers Elect President

WAYLAND -- Francis J. White has been elected president of the Wayland Teachers Association. In addition to his duties in the Wayland school system, Mr. White is director of the reading clinic at Concord Medical Center.

Mr. White has taught at both the elementary and high school levels within the Wayland system and has served as chairman of the salary committee.

He holds an A.B. degree from Boston University and a masters degree and advanced certificate in education from Harvard University. He has for the past several years worked with both children and adults in the reading program at Concord Medical Center.

Christian Science

WESTON -- The oneness and supremacy of God will be emphasized at Christian Science services this Sunday, at First Church of Christ Scientist, Weston and at branch churches throughout the world.

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon. The Golden Text is from the first chapter of II John: "He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son."

The opening selection to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "Jesus taught but one God, one Spirit, who makes man in the image and likness of Himself, -- of Spirit, not of matter"

Youth Concerts

WESTON -- The Saturday morning Youth Concerts at Symphony Hall, Boston, which have been sold out for the past two years, attracting young people from public, independent, and parochial schools from 97 Massachusetts communities, will be offered again in the 1961-62 season.

Tickets are now on sale, for the series only, at $4 for three concerts. All seats are reserved.

In Weston, Mrs. Leonard Baron and Mrs. Abbott Rand are Co-chairmen of tickets.

Mrs. Charles L. Smith To Lead Bird Walk

WESTON -- The 18th annual State-wide bird walks sponsored by the Massachusetts Audubon Society will take place Saturday, May 6th.

As in former years, the walk will be enjoyed simultaneously by hundreds of persons from more than 60 towns throughout the state at a time when spring migration will be at its height. It will also be the culminating event in Audubon Week which by official proclamation of Governor Volpe, will start April 30th.

Mrs. Charles L. Smith will lead the walk in Weston. Interested participants should meet at Jericho Town Forest entrance, Gun Club Lane at 8:30 a.m.

Veteran Actress Enjoying Role In 'Mousetrap'

WESTON -- One of Weston's most accomplished actresses, Helen Wheeler, returns to the stage in the Friendly Society's production of "The Mousetrap" by Agatha Christie, on April 28 and 29.

Mrs. Wheeler's first appearance was in 1916 in the old Sears Theatre in Weston. Since then she has appeared in countless plays and musicals, including "Blithe Spirit" and "Arsenic and Old Lace". She finds her current role as the thoroughly disagreeable Mrs. Boyle one she can "really sink her teeth into".

Appearing with Mrs. Wheeler in this chilling thriller which has kept audiences spellbound in London for nine years, is Nancy Leghorn, whose dancing was a hit of last years Wellesley Junior League Show, Sarah Clawson, Peter Partridge, Jim Cook, John Durant, Ed Hebditch, and Bill Williams.

The play committee consists of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hebditch, Chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cocks, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKearney, Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Underhill, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Talbot, and Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford.

Area Coverage is the formation of councils serving larger populations to be known as Area Councils, and to include all towns and present councils within their area. At present there are many lone troop towns that find it difficult to get the help and materials they need to carry on Girl Scout activities. These area councils will adjoin each other so that any group, any potential leader, any girl from Maine to California will have a place to which to turn for information and help in forming a troop.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts

In the Year One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-One.

AN ACT RELATIVE TO THE ACQUISITION OF LAND BY THE DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

SECTION 1. Consent of the commonwealth is hereby given to the acquisition by the United States, by purchase, gift, devise, or lease, of such areas of land or water, or of land and water, in the commonwealth, for the establishment of migratory bird reservations in accordance with the act of congress approved February eighteenth, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, known as the migratory bird conservation act, and acts in amendments thereof and in addition thereto or in substitution therefor, reserving, however, to the commonwealth full and complete jurisdiction and authority over all such areas not incompatible with the administration, maintenance, protection and control thereof by the United States under the terms of said act of congress, said area bounded and described as follows:

1. Approximately three thousand two hundred acres of flood plain marsh and such contiguous upland as fall generally within the one hundred and thirty foot contour interval above mean sea level, located in the towns of Sudbury, Wayland and Lincoln extending from Stone Bridge road in said Wayland and South Great road in Lincoln;

2. Approximately one thousand three hundred acres of said flood plain marshes and such contiguous uplands as fall generally within the one hundred and thirty foot contour interval above mean sea level, located on either side of the Concord river within the towns of Carlisle, Concord, Bedford and Billerica, between the southern tip of Greenbugh pond in Carlisle and the northern boundary of the now existing United States Great Meadows wildlife refuge.

SECTION 2. For the purposes of fish and wildlife management the division of fisheries and game, in the department of natural resources, is hereby authorized to acquire by purchase, gift or transfer from other agencies of the commonwealth:

1. Approximately one thousand seven hundred and fifty acres of wetlands known as "Cedar Swamp" and located generally between Flanders road in Westborough and Hopkinton road, Westborough and North and Fruit streets in Hopkinton, including therein such undeveloped and wetland areas within these boundaries together with such upland areas as may be required for access.

2. Approximately five hundred acres of wetlands in the town of Sudbury contiguous to the present Pantry brook management area under control of the said division and bounded by Lincoln road and North road.

The director shall have all the authority to make rules and regulations regarding the use of said areas as is vested in him under section twenty-five of chapter one hundred and thirty-one of the General Laws.

SECTION 3. The commissioner of the department of natural resources, with the approval of the board of natural resources, is hereby authorized to acquire by purchase or gift approximately one thousand acres of flood plain marshes located between Route 117 in Lincoln and Route 2 in Concord and including all marshes and lands at or below the one hundred and twenty foot contour interval above mean sea level on both sides of the Concord river. Chapter one hundred and thirty-two A of the General Laws, as amended, shall govern the use of said areas.

SECTION 4. The division of fisheries and game and the department of natural resources is hereby authorized to expend such sums as may be appropriated for the purposes of this act; provided, that the funds appropriated for that portion of acquisition by the division of fisheries and game shall be appropriated from the fish and game fund.

SECTION 5. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Amendments To H.B. 2953

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by authority of the same, as follows:

SECTION 1. Consent of the commonwealth is hereby given to the acquisition by the United States, by condemnation, purchase, gift, devise or lease, or such areas of land or water, or of land and water, in the commonwealth, for the establishment of migratory bird reservations in accordance with the act of congress approved February eighteenth, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, known as the migratory bird conservation act, and acts in amendment thereof and in addition thereto or in substitution therefor, reserving, however, to the commonwealth full and complete jurisdiction and authority over all such areas not incompatible with the administration, maintenance, protection and control thereof by the United States under the terms of said act of congress, said area bounded and described as follows:

Approximately three thousand two hundred acres of flood plain marsh situated at or below elevation one hundred and twenty feet above mean sea level, located in the townsof Sudbury, Wayland, Lincoln and Concord and extending from Stone Bridge Road in said Wayland to South Great Road in said Lincoln,

Approximately one thousand three hundred acres of flood plain marsh situated at or below elevation one hundred and twenty feet above mean sea level, located on either side of the Concord River within the towns of Concord, Carlisle, Bedford and Billerica, between the southern tip of Greenough Pond in Carlisle and the northern boundary of the now existing Great Meadows National Wildlife Refuge in Concord.

Consent of the commonwealth is hereby further given to the acquisition by the United States under said migratory bird conservation act of such contiguous areas of upland and wetland within said towns and above the one hundred and twenty foot elevation as shall be necessary for the operation, maintenance and development for the purposes of said conservation act, provided that in the event of acquisition of said lands above elevation one hundred and twenty feet, consent thereto shall be subject to the approval of the board of selectmen in any town in which is located the land proposed to be acquired. If such board fails to approve or disapprove within thirty days after receipt of written notice thereof from the United States or the appropriate agency thereof, such board shall be deemed to have approved thereof,

Nothing in this section shall be construed to empower the United States to acquire by condemnation any dwelling houses and structures accessory therto, any lands used or under construction for use as a golf course, or any municipal lands, provided said lands were so used, owned or under construction as aforesaid on or before April 1, 1961.

Presbyterian Church Organizing

SUDBURY -- "The United Presbyterian Church of Sudbury, which has been meeting since October 16th, 1960 in the Martha Mary Chapel is now entering upon an active period of organization, according to the Rev. A. William Simmermon, organizing minister of the new church.

Beginning on Easter Sunday, and continuing until sufficient names are enrolled for the church to be officially organized by the Presbytery of Boston, there will be a "charter roll" for all interested people to sign. This roll is an expression of intent to unite with the new church.

The "charter roll" will be open for approximately six weeks. All people signing this roll will then become charter members. An invitation is extended to all interested people in the area to become charter members. The new church meets every Sunday in the Martha Mary Chapel by the Wayside Inn. Church School is conducted each Sunday at 9:30 a.m., with Morning Worship at 11:00 a.m. For further details about this new Presbyterian church call the Rev. Mr. Simmermon at Hilltop 3-2692.

Morgan, DeNormandie Speak Before LWV Planning Group At Brandeis Seminar

WAYLAND -- Allen H. Morgan of Wayland and James DeNormandie of Lincoln, member of the state House of Representatives representing Wayland spoke at the April 6 seminar at Brandeis University sponsored by the League of Women Voters Metropolitan Boston Planning Council.

Addressing the "Open Space Problem," Mr. Morgan scored the fact that there has been too much "planning," per se without the needed "impiementation." He pointed out that it is impossible now to do the implementing that planning had outlined many years ago because areas that were available 30 years ago for open-space planning have been lost to metropolitan expansion.

Mr. Morgan, the executive secretary of the Massachusetts Audubon Society, observed that the next few weeks or months would decide whether the state legislature would make an effort to set aside the flood-plain of the Concord and Sudbury Rivers in public ownership.

He warned that "reai estate pressures (may have) already made the vested interests too strong."

Salesmanship

Professional planners must unite in selling the idea of open-space acquisition, he made clear, and emphasized that there are two major obstacles to overcome. First, was the inability of Americans to measure anything in other than monetary terms and to recognize that there may be a conflict between future and present benefits.

Secondly, Mr. Morgan saw the image of conservationists - being against "progress so-called, and desirous of maintaining the status" - as putting conservationists on the defensive.

To overcome the first obstacle, it was suggested that public education backed by efforts of research determining economic values for present-day esthetic resources and projecting profits and losses into the future would be effective.

Big Business

A direct and positive appraoch to open-space planning rather than a negative, defensive one - plus concerted salesmanship - would be helpful in the second instance, he maintained.

"As ardent as we may be in the defense of our free-enterprise system, it becomes increasingly obvious that, as our population increases, and the face of the globe becomes progressively more crowded, our present ideas of private enterprise more and more often result in depriving future generations of very important values."

Continuing, Mr. Morgan said conservationists must "make the general public recognize that 'pursuit of happiness' is basic to everyone, yet estheticaiiy, at the same time, it is 'big business' and that it is utterly dependent upon the basic natural resource of 'open space,' in many, if not most, of its application."

Rep. DeNormandie

Rep. DeNormandie declared in his discussion on "Local Atonomy" that the only reason a higher area of government takes over a power is because the lower area of government was unable or unwilling to handle it. If communities are able and wiiing to handle their responsibiiities, these responsibilities wiil not shift to the state or federal government, he said.

Rep. DeNormandie said that in talking of "home rule" it should be remembered that cities and towns derive their power from the General Court or legislature.

He stressed that one of the most important tasks ahead is to educate communities to work with one another. He cited a recent meeting at Lincoln's DeCordova Museum attended by representatives of six towns where mutual problems were discussed.

The towns of Concord and Sudbury, working together on the proposal for a Sudbury-Concord River Valley is another example of town cooperation, Rep. DeNormandie said.

Domination

He added that local groups sometimes fear Metropoiitan planning because of possible domination by Boston but, he said, "I don't think the Commonwealth will force Metropolitan government on us - Boston or otherwise."

Now that towns are aware of their responsibilities to the city, "it's going to be easier for those of us who represent smaller towns to take a broader view," he said.

The question of Authorities, which have been established by the Legislature to do a job - e.g. turnpike, transit etc. was one of several subjects discussed following introductory remarks by Rep. DeNormandie.

Turnpike Authority

These authorities have been set up with power and the local authority "can't do a thing" about them, he said. In the case of the Turnpike Authority, once the bonds are issued nothing can be done to change the terms of the act under which it was set up, unless the Legislature itself takes over the bonds. This would mean the Commonwealth taking over the toll road for a freeway.

Asked about the influence of public opinion, he said it "may be worth something, but not much." Gov. Volpe, he feit, mustered public opinion on behalf of his freeway plan.

Other speakers on the program were Ralph Kaminsky, deputy director of the Greater Boston Economic Study Committee; Charles A Coolidge, president of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce; John E. Powers, president of the Massachusetts Senate; Daniel Ahern, executive secretary of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce; and Donald Graham, chairman of the Boston Planning Board.

Blue Sky and Statistics

There must be no apology for the esthetic or "blue sky" approach in selling these vaiues, but they must be backed up by some hard facts of economics both in terms of recreation and in terms of water supply, pollution, flood control, fishery resources decline, real estate values, etc., he stressed. "What is needed is less planning and more selling - at least in relative proportion."

Metropolitan planners and metropolitan residents must recognize their basic dependence upon "the country" for many recreational opportunities, and that there won't be any left much ionger. We must, observed Mr. Morgan, recognize our interdependence between country folk and city folk. The legislator from the city sneers in derision at the idea that he should vote to make a power company put their wires underground, because why should his constituents pay higher electric rates to preserve the scenery for people who live elsewhere?

Yet the city legislator never thinks of the fact that his neighbors in the country have been subsidizing putting power lines under ground in the cities for many years for reasons of safety, and that those scenic values out yonder in the country are pretty important to the city folk as well.

THE ANNUAL Weston Girl Scout Rally in February marked a double anniversary for Mrs. David Kellogg of Weston. As the Girl Scouts of Weston celebrated founder Juliette Low's birthday, Mrs. Kellogg, the Juliette Low chairman, celebrated her fortieth year in scouting. Mrs. Kellogg began her scouting at the same time that her son did in Montclaire, New Jersey. "I learned to tie knots just as well as he did," she said. When she moved to Wellesley Hills she served for many years on its Council and for thirty-five years gave service to Girl Scouts as a member of the Cedar Hill Committee, directing the affairs of the Camp. She was also a member for several years of the Massachusetts State Board. In 1930 Mrs. Kellogg moved to Weston.

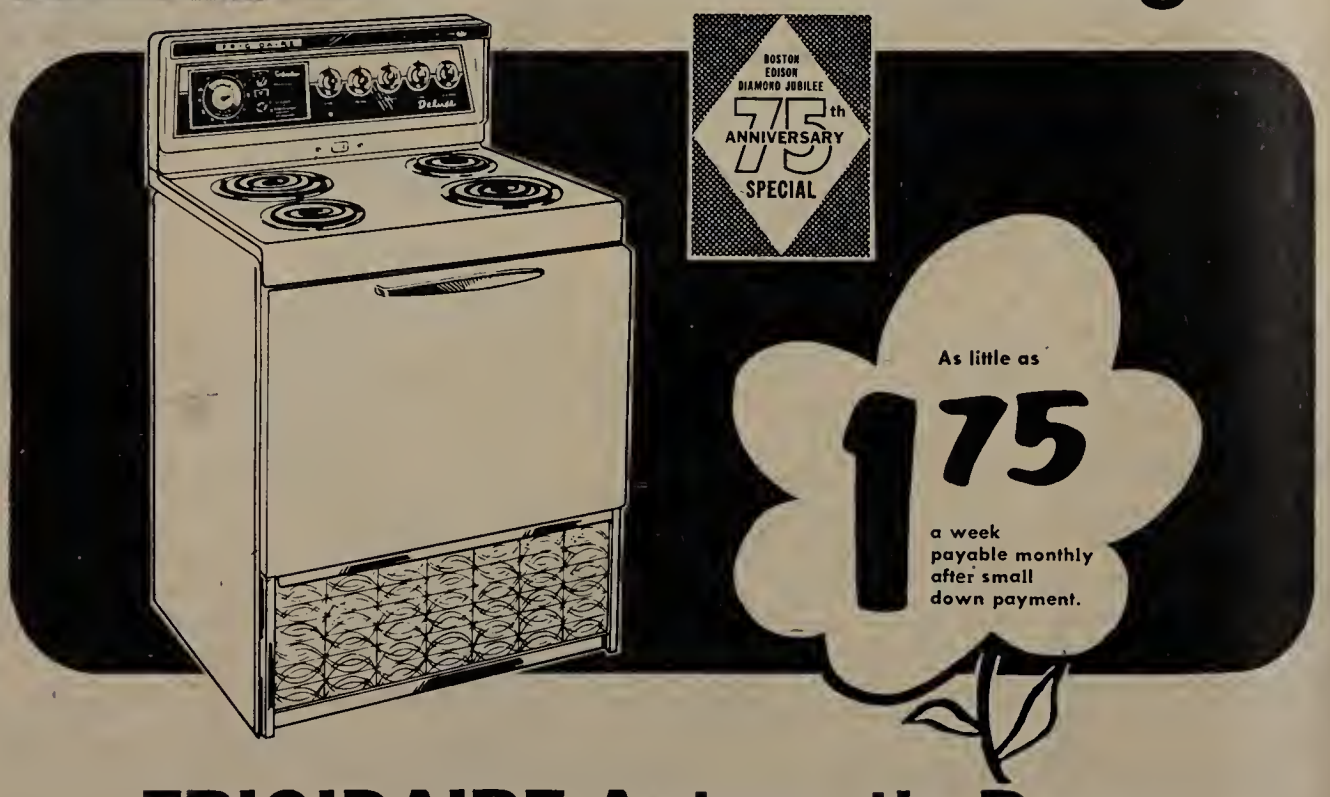
'Twister' In Cochituate

WAYLAND --Ever wonder what you'd do if you found yourself in the path of a western-style "twister?" During the unsettled atmospheric conditions which prevailed Monday, April 10, a small whirlwind developed and grew to somewhar alarming proportions in a lot behind 238-240 Main St., in Cochituate.

According to Mrs. Francis J. Hartin of 238 Main St., two small children, her son Edward, six-years old and William Young, 4 1/2, directly in the path of the twister, became transfixed with the strange sight and were unable to move.

A neighbor, Lars F. Brynild of 244 Main St., ran from his house, forced the boys to the ground, and covered them with his body until the swirling core of wind, leaves, and dirt passed.



Eventually the twister blew itself out.

land-taking procedures.

Robert H. Charnock, representing the Wayland Planning Board, said his board and the Sudbury Valley Trustees were in favor of the measure and that a recent survey by the League of Women Voters in Wayland indicated that some 80 per cent of the townspeople favored adequate conservation of the lands in question through public ownership.

Frank Kilburn, Wayland town counsel, registering the selectmen as in favor of the bill, suggested that the "within 120-foot" contour standard be amended to give selectmen the right to vote upon all lands before any condemnation proceedings can be carried out by the federal government.

Allan H. Morgan of Wayland told the committee of land acquisition and preservation carried on through private means by the Sudbury Valley Trustees and stressed the fact that all towns in the area are dependent upon ground water stored in the flood plain area for long-term water supply.

Charles H. W. Foster, Commissioner of Natural Resources, advanced arguments in favor of the measure on the grounds that preservation in terms of flood control is of overriding consideration and that because of increased urbanization and industrialization it is vital to begin preservation immediately.

Inherent Safeguards

The commissioner pointed out that four major studies in the last decade all stressed the necessity for placing the marshlands under public management. He declared that there were inherent safeguards in the bill such as any federal land purchase above the 120-foot level having to be sanctioned by local boards of selectmen. He pointed out that immediate action would cost the commonwealth nothing now and that local communities would be reimbursed up to 50 per cent.

Howard S. Russell of Wayland supplied the committee chairmanned by Sen. Charles Olson of Ashland with a history of the Concord and Sudbury Rivers floodplain and pointed out that any obstructions caused by building along the rivers would bring about a consequent rise in the water level.

This, he said, would make it necessary to spend millions of dollars for dams and other flood control measures in the future. Having the area free from the encroachments of private building and under public ownership was the only way to prevent future flooding conditions, he stressed.

Further, Mr. Russell requested that the bill be written in such a manner that the federal government could not use any land for purposes not acceptable to local zoning laws.

Philip P. Farina, owner of the Wayland Golf Club, spoke "with mixed emotions" against the bill. He very much favored it in principle but wished to see the area managed not only by the bird and wildlife agencies but by those agencies primarily interested in flood control. Further, Mr. Farina pointed out that there should be clear-cut knowledge promulgated concerning the exact areas in which hunters can operate.

"The hunting interests are putting up much of the money for the purchase of these lands (through duck-hunting licenses) and they will want to have lots of room." Mr. Farina indicated that while he, himself, enjoyed the sport, he did not want hunters operating in the vicinity of his golf course.

Opposition

Private citizens from Westboro, the chairman of that town's board of selectmen, Rep. Nathan Rosenfeld, and Arthur Gilmore, a leading industrialist, registered opposition to the bill until certain safeguards are written in.

It was explained that Westboro is essentially an industrial town and dependent in large measure upon industrial taxes. Some one-sixth of the town land is now held by federal and state agencies and thus this percentage of the township produces no income for Westboro.

Cedar Swamp at the headwaters of the Sudbury River in Westboro, contains the only land in the town usable by the Bay State Abrasives Corporation for expansion. Some 225 acres in the swamp have been earmarked for usage by the company which currently contributes some $100,000 in taxes to the town.

Rep. Rosenfeld sought to clarify the issue by pointing out that no land was to be taken in Westboro by eminent domain.

Representatives of farm groups wanted the bill to assure farmers that no farm land would be taken.

Other Wayland residents registering in favor of the bill were John Gregory of the school committee and Miss Leila Sears, speaking for the Elbanobscot Foundation.

CIVIC GROUP

modeled."

--A sanitary engineer will be hired by the board to determine standards for sanitation in any area that may be selected for renewal aid.

--Inadequate sanitation, poor structure and a fire hazard are basic in finding a house substandard, but to get a clear picture of this, Mr. Newton told the meeting, WRA will obtain information from town departments, employ a professional planner and eventually ask Washington for Federal funds.

"(We will then) make a detailed study of areas affected and if this study indicates a need for urban renewal," Mr. Newton stated, "we will prepare the preliminary plans.

"This is the time when we will need your assistance and suggestions to improve these preliminary plans. We will especially at this time require meetings directly with the people residing in the areas so affected.

"Assuming a reasonable solution is accomplished, we would then prepare final plans, followed by necessary approvals and funds to do the job."

Also learned:

--Forty-foot roads are not necessary and a road circling Dudley Pond is out (Mr. Newton) and "irresponsible" (Lawrence Fordham).

"Paving of present roads, as is, and one-way traffic might be a solution," Mr. Fordham stated.

One Dudley Road resident interjected: "You make Dudley Road one way and once you get out to the point, you've had it."

--Appraisals would be made by one WRA-appointed appraiser and one chosen by the Housing and Home Finance Agency and would likely be made by local persons. Homeowners could choose an appraiser of their own if they decide to fight the price offered for their property before WRA or in court.

--Current market value would determine the price offered.

--In reply to a question by Mrs. Mary Elliott, Mr. Fordham referred to an anti-bulldozer resolution passed unanimously by WRA as indicative of board policy.

If among 10 houses, four were substandard, would all 10 be demolished, she asked. "I would think the board's vote put it on record as saving those six good houses," Mr. Fordham replied.

No definition of substandard was offered and one questioner stated:

Attorney Retained

"This disturbs me greatly that a group in charge, such as this one, can't tell me what is substandard in Wayland. After all, my fate is in your hands."

Most persistent critic of the authority was Mrs. Pauline Leeland who said at one point:

"If this authority continues, they'll be our landlord. They'll tell you when you should shovel snow and when to rake your leaves. And they'll do that for 20 years --"

Mrs. Leeland also differed with the authority over road requirements, zoning laws and details of a "workable program", citing as her authority the Massachusetts Urban Renewal Assn., a private group, and government pamphlets.

The association voted to retain Atty. John Kimball of Hale & Dorr for $150 to look into possibilities of dissolving WRA which was set up at the 1960 town meeting.

Also, to retain Mr. Kimball at $100 a year for legal advice, not including any court appearances.

Theodore Magoun resigned as treasurer of the month-old organization. Mr. Newhall also resigned after the panel session but was given a vote of confidence and returned to office. Mr. Magoun has not been replaced.

Paul Poirier demanded to know what caused the split among the officers and asked that the association hold off any judgment on urban renewal until all the facts were in.

Vice President Goodnoh, then in the chair, denied any split existed and pointed out that the association had unanimously taken a "stand in opposition to the need for urban renewal" in Wayland.

Mr. Goodnoh then asked for and got a vote of confidence for Mr. Newhall who was returned to office.

WRA members on the panel were John McEnroy, George V. Deverell, Mr. Fordham and Mr. Newton.

GEORGE F. BENOIT of 17 Bayfield Road, Cochituate, has been named director of engineering of the Sanborn Company in Waltham. Mr. Benoit was former manager of the surface-radar department of Raytheon. A graduate of the University of Massachusetts, Mr. Benoit is married and has five children.

DR. JAMES K. MATHEWS, resident bishop of the Boston area of the Methodist Church, will be principal speaker and guest of honor at a fifty-dollar-a-plate dinner given by the Weston Methodist Church on Thursday, Apr. 27 at 7 p.m. in the parish hall.

The occasion represents a determined effort on the part of the church to effect a significant reduction of the present mortgage indebtedness and thereby pave the way for the next phase of the 167-year-old church's development program, the building of additional church school facilities and the enlargement of the present church sanctuary, to meet the growing needs of the parish.

Co-chairmen of the Building Fund Committee planning this fifty-dollar-a-plate dinner - Aimo Teittinen and Robert Loesel have indicated that pledges, as well as cash, will be received at the dinner, for the calendar year 1961. They are asking that reservations be made through the church office by April 17.

On April 7 the department investigated a larceny. A new dish washer was delivered to a home being built on Robin Road and it was stolen on the day of delivery. The rest of the week found the department, in addition to its regular traffic and school duties, concerned mainly with the removal of dead cats, dogs, and a raccoon.

In addition, there was a brush fire on April 4 at 1:24 p.m. at 179 Church St., and one at 1:18 p.m. on April 8 at 300 Conant Rd.

'New Frontier' For Women In Weston

WESTON -- The Suburban Society for the Prevention of Mental Stagnation romped through its second meeting recently with great zest. After a lively game of "touch football" in Mrs. William Melone's kitchen (which indirectly took care of the political discussion for the evening) the group adjourned to the living room to consider the plight of muddled mothers.

Thusly, the April meeting will take place at Sammy White's Bowling Paladium, and May will find the group conducting a wienie roast in the Ken's Steak House Parking lot, if dining room prices are too high.

FREEDOM FROM FEAR
by O. A. Sherrard

"Slavery has existed from the beginning and will last in one form or another as long as men lust after power."

To prove his statement the Author outlines the history of slavery down to the present slaves from countries seized by Russia and China, negroes under the apartheid policy, peonage existing in Spanish America, trade in slaves still found in some Moslem countries.

But the engrossing subject of this unusual history is the involvement of England in the highly lucrative traffic in slaves for more than two hundred years and the long, heart-breakingly slow struggle, begun by Quakers, to put an end to the nefarious commerce. The victory was won at last and in 1808 the slave trade was abolished by the British government. Twenty-four years later all slaves in all British dominions were emancipated.

APRIL MORNING
by Howard Fast

The publication date of this book was well timed for the "Morning" was that of April 19th, 1775, and the characters bear such names as Parker, Harrington, Hodley, the Reverend, and Major Pitman. Long before sunrise on that memorable day the entire village was arroused by flying hoofbeats coming up Menotomy Road followed by shouts from the rider as he drew rein before Buckman's Tavern.

Among the anxious crowd who hurried across the common was Adam Cooper. A boy of fifteen, at odds with his family, restless, misunderstood, sulky, without ambition -- this was Adam that April morning. But before he slept after that long and ghastly day, the boy had become a man and had voluntarily accepted heavy responsibilities.

NIGHTMARE
by Anne Blaisdell

If you are a person who does not derive sheer delight from a hair-curling mystery or who fails to consider a mystery an excellent escape from worries or boredom, this book is not for you! To all others it is highly recommended.

It was reported in the Washington paper, that Prime Minister MacMillan was Mr. Kennedy's guest on his pleasure cruise.

Police Department

On April 10 at 7:15 p.m. the department investigated a collision between automobiles driven by Edward J. Hackenson, 2 King St., and Wayne H. Lewis, 11 Bayfield Rd., both of Cochituate.

Under investigation is vandalism which took place at the Lake Cochituate beach house last Sunday night. Although nothing has been reported stolen, there is evidence that prowlers entered through a cellar window and went through baseball equipment.

In addition, members of the department have been kept busy with a series of dog-chicken incidents. In one instance, 20 chickens were killed by a pair of dogs and in another, 27 were destroyed by two different dogs.

There have been many calls relating to people showing up at the dump without the dump stickers.

A youngster's pocketbook with a small amount of money and a picture in it is in the possession of the police and the owner can obtain it by making proper identification. Also, a pair of glasses found on West Plain Street are available to the rightful owner.

Fire Department

It's spring! The department found itself involved with 11 brush fires this past week, five of them on Sunday. Other than that, it was called upon to carry out emergency pumping at the Loker School on Thursday April 6 and to remove a chimney obstruction on Rice Spring Lane during the evening of Monday, April 10.

Planning Board

At its April 10 meeting, the planning board discussed proposed subdivisions. One is off of East Road and the second is off School Street near Joyce Rd. Only preliminary examinations were involved. The board also talked with new tree warden Eric Nelson to discuss types of shade trees to be planted in subdivisions if any are required.

The board also voted to hold their meetings the first and third Mondays of each month beginning in May. They now meet every Monday.

Town Clerk

Dog licenses are now ready at the office of the town clerk.

Who'll Pay School Bus Drivers $1370?

WAYLAND -- The case of the wayward buses isn't over yet.

And take it from the 12 school bus drivers - $1370 ain't hay.

Right now these men, feeling abandoned by their boss Oswald Garvey, want the town to recognize its obligation to them for back pay they haven't collected while they kept the buses running for three weeks.

They got the impression the town was taking on the responsibility. Then, all of a sudden, the impression evaporated, according to Atty. Norman Ross of Wayland.

Some substance. That's what they want.

"No one is more concerned than we are that a way could be found to pay them," said School Board Chairman Gregory B. Wolfe this week. "But we have no direct obligation to them. Our contract is with Garvey."

Mr. Ross said the protesting drivers expected to be camped on the board's doorstep next Monday . . . to see where they stand.

As they stand now: The board canceled Mr. Garvey's contract "forthwith" on April 5 and agreed to pay the drivers from Apr. 3 onward.

But the drivers' concern grew acute when they discovered that the town wasn't assuming any obligation for non-existent pay from Mar. 13 to Apr. 3.

As they tell it: Schools Supt. Edward J. Anderson showed up Monday, Mar. 13, when they couldn't find Mr. Garvey, an assistant nor the keys and made it possible for the buses to operate and told them: operate, we'll take care of you.

Later, Richard J. Lavin, business manager told them they had the wrong idea: Mr. Garvey was their boss. He'd have to pay the back wages. He hasn't returned yet.

Somehow or other, the men say, they had been operating the buses

Beacon Hill Eye Opener From Weston LWV:

WESTON -- Got time for a little eye-opener?

Twenty members of the Weston League of Women Voters got an inside view of the State House on a special tour Wednesday, Apr. 12 - that's the day of the second joint constitutional convention of the two houses.

Listen to one account (anonymous):

"You could see that day the need for the electric roll call. Mr. (Senate President) Powers managed to take well over an hour of time when it came to the vote on a four-year term for the governor's councilors. Government moved slowly that day."

It wasn't that this Leaguer was for longer terms for the councilors. Just the time - the lack of efficience all around. Many others

2-Way Traffic Draws Fire

WAYLAND -- Two-way traffic on a midget section of Pelham Island Rd. in Wayland Center drew heavy protests at a Monday meeting of the Board of Selectmen which had instituted the change last Saturday.

At the end of a 90-minute session, Chairman Thomas Linnehan and Selectman George Lewis said further consideration would be given when Selectman Frank Tarr was available.

Primarily the protestors pointed to the hazards of double left turns, difficulties with bulky school buses, lack of parking space and the increased hazard in the narrow roadway that would arise from two-way traffic.

Until last Saturday the short road span had been one-way running west. A no-parking ban was instituted on the south side and a 15-minute limit on the north.

All business protestors said the limited parking was a detriment to their trade or the doctors and lawyers offices, since clients could not find parking space.

Mr. Linnehan said the changes had been made to alleviate traffic bottlenecks arising from parking on both sides and to increase safety.

Atty. Charles Brennan said two-way traffic was always more hazardous and the increased patroling would be a hindrance to the police department.

Most abuttors felt limited parking on the south side and an hour limit on the north might be helpful.

They also protested that this had been done without adequate warning and study.

A traffic improvement plan for Wayland Center, done by Wilbur Smith and Associates of New Haven in 1959, makes no mention of two-way traffic for the road, The Crier learned.

Two additional difficulties were listed: So-called "rushers" in rush hour traffic speed from the west into Pelham Island Rd. and are apt to create a smashup soon.

Motorists from the west seeking to park on the north side (only legal side) must turn left at Rte. 126 and again left at P.I. Rd. -- a double hazard. Under the one-way setup no sharp lefts were called for. Merchants felt they would lose considerable business.

Lack of parking facilities, they felt, would mean motorists would park in front of private homes and stores on Rte. 126.

Wrangle in Board of Health, Fair's Dismissal Bring Demand For Opening Up of Town Affairs

WAYLAND -- It was watchdog night Monday at the Board of Selectman's meeting as the row over a Board of Health dismissal exploded in the Town Hall.

Just how far can a town board go in refusing to cite reasons for dismissals or to explain its actions?

That seemed to be the question as the selectmen looked into the "firing" of Norman G. Fair as Board of Health agent after 12 years Tuesday, Apr. 11.

Dr. John G. Freymann, a board member in a sharp letter to the selectmen, had asked for a probe of the B.O.H's action in skipping over Mr. Fair and then falling silent as to reasons.

What particularly burned Dr. Freymann Apr. 11 and again Monday night were these responses to the "why" question:

"We don't have to give any reason at the present time," said Dr. David R. Corey.

"Because I don't want him. That's my reason." stated by Fred Perry Sr.

Other gripes:

--By refusing to reappoint Mr. Fair, the board had left the town without a health agent, and that this was a more important lack than officials realized.

--Only promise so far had been to find someone "as good as" Mr. Fair, a matter which Dr. Freymann said was not easy because of the complicated nature of the job.

But Dr. Freymann's objections met with many criticisms and his effort to get the selectmen to probe the move failed. Chairman Thomas Linnehan and Selectman George Lewis said they would wait until the job had been filled before checking over qualifications of any applicant.

John McEnroy of the Urban Renewal Authority, a former member of the health board, was Dr. Freymann's most frequent critic:

--Why work to keep Mr. Fair in the job?

--Any member of the board could do the job for now, and if not, he (Mr. McEnroy) would accept the post.

--As at the town meeting, he indicated that Mr. Perry might be a good man for the job and questioned Mr. Perry as to whether he could put in the same hours (65 a month at $2.05 an hour). Mr. Fair could.

(Mr. Fair said he had resigned from the board earlier this year when it was pointed out that he could not legally hold both jobs. An article in the warrant, allowing dual jobholding in this department, was voted down.)

--To Dr. Freymann's assertion

He Called Cab for Getaway But Weston Police Got 'Fare'

WESTON -- First he burgled the house, then he called a cab, but what picked him up on Oak St. Monday afternoon was a police cruiser.

It was a pickup that Arnold Kurland, 28, of Chelsea, won't forget when Officer Fred Perkins offered to give him a lift with those overnight bags - all women's.

Turns out they were stuffed with about $2900 worth of furs and jewelry taken from a house on Hawthorne Lane.

Chief Frank O. Shaw said the man admitted breaking into the same home in February.

Kurland was bound over to the grand jury in $2500 bail when arraigned in Waltham District Court.

As police told the story in court Tuesday morning, Kurland apparently finished his inside work, called a cab to meet him on Oak St. and left with the overnight bags.

An area resident noting a man with several overnight bags called police and Officer Perkins met his "fare" on Oak St.

Oh -- the cab? It arrived ...a bit late.

Wayland Boy Quits School Bus For Favorite Bike, Foot Crushed

WAYLAND -- A bike is more fun than a school bus. That's how Donald "Biff" Ahlman, 12, came to be seriously injured last Thursday leaving school.

Doctors at Emerson Hospital, Concord, are striving to save the crushed left foot of the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Ahlman of 9 East Rd.

Ordinarily Biff takes the school bus to his classes at Wayland Junior High School, but last Thursday was the second time he had used his bike for commuting, a recently-won privilege at home.

What happened was this:

A school bus driven by Russell Bowles, 48, of Sycamore Rd. turning from the school driveway into Pelham Island Rd., with cars on both sides, ran over Donald's left foot.

No one on the bus saw the accident. The bus drove on.

Police say the bus apparently struck the boy with its rear wheels. The driver of a following bus noted the incident and called police and Dr. James Burke whose office is nearby.

Dr. Burke treated Biff at the scene and the boy was taken to the hospital in the police cruiser ambulance driven by patrolman Fred Perry.

Donald also suffered cuts and bruises along the leg and was in a state of shock.

His father said Biff had usually taken the school bus but had just won permission to take his bike to school the day before the accident.

It is not yet known whether the boy was on his bicycle in the school driveway or standing when struck.

Registry inspector Paul Bruning of the Framingham office assisted in the investigation.

The bus is owned by Myer Goodwin of Natick.

Biff has three older sisters and a brother.

Awarded "outstanding performance" pins for contributing either 100 hours or one year of service were: Mrs. Frederick D. Keep Your Left High

Had you noticed? The hunt is on for offbeat open spaces in land-hungry New York - for apartments.

Skyscraper apartments are expected to rise soon on the site of the Polo Grounds, Ebbets Field, Jamaica Race Track and over the approach to the George Washington Bridge.

And soon - now get this - it's expected some far-seeing developer may be looking at the water around Manhattan as "undeveloped acreage."

Made us feel uneasy . . . but right at home. Within the past month, just across the Rte. 128 barrier, Newton has considered applications for apartments on the Commonwealth Country Club site and for a replacement of Norumbega Park with multi-storied apartment and office buildings. Pretty close.

No, we're not saying apartment houses will be casting their sooty shadows over quiet Weston and Wayland homes in the next decade. But we do insist the population is growing (see Bits & Pieces) - and moving. And that has some implications.

1 -- Greater expenses. Long before 1970 Weston, for example, will be expanding its fire department. Another station. More permanent men. So many homes to protect. And Wayland's youngsters will soon be bursting the seams at its bubble-top high school. Nothing wasteful in these two instances. Just life.

2 -- Space is at a premium. If this means anything, we think it means this: we should all give careful consideration to the preservation of open space here. The wetlands along the Sudbury River, for example. We haven't a Polo Grounds or a Norumbega Park. One has fallen. The other may in time. The pressure is on.

If the time ever comes when we have to get in the car to drive "out in the country", we will have had it. And it will be too late to do anything more than say I'm sorry.

Someone to Look Up to...

You hear a lot about basketball scandals, Some players are becoming known as doliar-a-point men. So it's a pleasure to see recognition to one team and one coach for playing the game right.

We're referring to Harvard and its coach. Floyd Wilson of Weston who jointly received the annual Sam Schoenfeld Sportsmanship Award from the College Basketball Officials Assn.

This means that Harvard and Mr. Wilson are rated tops among 137 eastern colleges and universities. Good.

And even better for our money is the fact that Mr. Wilson, leader in Weston Little League baseball and Boy Scouts, thereby stands out as a good example for his young friends. Congratulations on the award - and thanks, Mr. Wilson, for making it mean so much locally, too.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Voice of the Turtle

For lo, the Winter is past the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land.

This is a pretty timely quotation from the Bible, the Song of Soloman (2-ver. 11 & 12). The "turtle" referred to in this verse was the Turtle Dove, quite similar to the Mourning Dove we hear around here in the spring.

The Mourning Dove is a rather drab bird and is a soft warm-brown in color. He is about ten inches long, and his tail is a long V shape, with a white band that shows in flight. They do nest in this area, and usually will form an area into a sort of "Rookery" where they go in flocks in the evening, and leave the next morning to feed.

A number of years ago we had just such an area in a stand of large Hemlocks in the Tower Hill section. In the evening close to 100 birds would move in, circle four or five times, then be absorbed in the foliage for the night. These birds seem to be on the increase in this area, and some spend the entire winter here.

The Mourning Dove indeed has a mournful call. Its' coo-coo-coo is probably the saddest of all bird calls, but never-the-less, it is a sure sign that Winter is over, if you don't believe it just look in the Bible.

Letters To The Editor

Let's Have A Few Facts On Wayland

To the Editor:

Wayland will be a better town in which to live if the town officials heed the editorial in the Town Crier's past week's edition and if the voters of the town heed the previous week's editorial. The town government which fails to communicate with the people is as irresponsible as are the people who fail to participate in their town government. Town officials must keep the people informed, and it is possible to fight city hall.

The Town Crier is to be commended for these editorials and for its coverage of the recent Wayland Urban Renewal Authority panel program sponsored by the Wayland Civic Association.

Memorial Day: Don't Forget Flag

To the Editor:

With Memorial Day approaching, it seems most appropriate to make the public more aware than ever before of the true meaning of the day, and it's symbol - the American flag.

We feel that, now more than ever, the flag of our country should be displayed everywhere, with care, reverence, and devotion. Many people have neglected to display their flags. Still others may have one to display for the first time. We think it should be noted that the flag properly should be displayed from sunrise to sunset.

Would you call this to the attention of the public?

Roy J. Van Wart, Adjutant

Ed - Yes, we're glad to do it.

Thinks Unity Helpful to All On Health Board

To the Editor:

What does one have to do to get any action from the Board of Health in Wayland?

Last Fall I called the agent to report a pile of manure in the yard next to ours. The flies and odor made it impossible to enjoy our back yard. We felt the rats were dangerous with so many small children around. When a rat died under the porch where my mother sleeps, the smell was horrible, to say nothing of trying to get our meals with the odor of horse manure penetrating the house.

I'd hoped that with the coming of spring we'd see some signs of the owners removing the pile, but as yet, no hope. This past week I've called every member of the Board of Health and the run around is worse than that of the Urban Renewal.

I believe we have a legitimate complaint. Upon calling a second time, I was informed the sanitation engineer had been contacted.

Does it take a sanitation engineer to look at a pile of manure that has collected since last August to determine it is a health hazard?

If the Board of Health is having internal problems and differences, as it seems from talking to the various members, I feel they should either settle them, or rise above them and get to the business they have been elected to.

Just this week I have been told that the manure will be removed by a landscape gardener, Mr. Perry located him.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

April 1676 — They Died Bravely

When we talk of possible war in Laos, Asia seems a long way off. But bitter war came close home to Sudbury, Wayland and Weston on an April day back in 1676, and left right here its bloody wake of slain, and its widespread desolation.

A young woman who grew up in Weston told me the other day of cellar holes in the woods off Sudbury Rd, which mark the eastern-most destruction by King Philip and his warriors on April 20, 1676, before they were forced back across the Old Sudbury Bridge into what is now Sudbury, there to wreak greater havoc still.

Trouble had begun in June 1675, when Philip's Indians, stung by continuous loss of their lands, and by bad faith on the part of the whites, attacked Swansea in Southeastern Massachusetts. The war came closer when the Nipmucks, in whose traditional territory our towns lie, attacked Mendon, to our southeast, on July 14. Later that summer, Captain Lathrop and "the flower of Essex County" were wiped out at Deerfield, coloring with their blood the stream ever since sknown as Bloody Brook. Retaliating, in the Great Swamp Fight at Kingston, Rhode Island, that December, the whites burned a Narragansett stronghold, with several hundred Indians , largely women and children, inside.

Amid that winter's snows Philip's men destroyed Lancaster to our north, and Medfield to our south, and killed or carried away their people.

A frontier town, Sudbury recruited 80 fighting men to meet the thrust..In March 1676, mischief began here. As Netus, the Nipmuck chief, and a band of his braves assembled to pounce on the town, forty Sudbury and Marlboro men caught them asleep and routed them, killing nearly all.

Now Philip himself came, with a larger force: some say 500, some say 1000 (both perhaps exaggerated). At dawn on April 20, they began to set afire the scattered farms on the west side of the Sudbury river. The people fled to the strong garrison houses. Then the Indians streamed across the bridge to the east side; down Giezen Lane and Plain Rd., over the Watertown line into what is now Weston, setting buildings afire. The East Sudbury people fought bravely and with help from Watertown drove them back across the bridge.

They attacked the Haynes garrison house on the west side with fire as well as bullets, without success; but wiped out a dozen of Concord's young men who had hurried south to help Sudbury. Their bodies lie in a unknown grave near the river bridge.

That night more help was on the way. Captain Wadsworth and a company of Dedham men arrived at the Marlboro garrison. Learning of the Sudbury attack, they hastily turned east, and next morning were well into South Sudbury, when pursuing a party of Indians they ran into an ambush just east of what is now the village. Meeting the attack manfully, they drew aside and secured themselves on the crest of Green Hill. There they coolly and successfully fought off the Indians.

Now Philip used a more deadly weapon. The woods were dry, though it was April, and full of last year's leaves. His braves set them afire in a wide circle. Wadsworth's men could battle Indians, but they were no match for a roaring spring forest fire. Forced from their height, they headed for the nearest strong point, the mill on the brook at South Sudbury. You can still see the bed of its millpond between Route 20 and the B&M railroad track. Surrounded by howling foes, most of Wadsworth's company never made it to the mill.

When a relief company from Charlestown entered the field next day, the foe had vanished. It was their sad task to pick up and bury the dead, nearly thirty in a single grave: fifty probably lost in all in the two day's destruction.

Though successful in the Grenn Hill fight, Philip's fortune was on the wane. He was killed not long after. His wife and little son and many of his followers were sold into foreign slavery by the Plymouth Colony authorities, in complete violation of the terms agreed upon when they surrendered. King Philip's War was a harsh and cruel business on both sides.

The victims in the Green Hill fight he buried with Captain Wadsworth in the cemetery named for him on Concord Rd., South Sudbury. You may see there the monument erected by the state. The Concord boys who came to Sudbury's rescue sleep beside the quiet river at the Old Town Bridge, no one knows precisely the spot. The stone memorial, gift of the D.A.R. is close to the old abandoned Four Arch Bridge, Wayland.

When you look at these chiselled stones, take off your hat; for though these brave men perished three centuries ago, to them you also owe a debt today.

Will Junior Drive Us All Off The Road?

To the Editor:

Your current note regarding the new schoolboy/girl bike law effective July 1st is important. The state law signed by the governor should be repealed. It is unsafe, as indicated by Weston's Chief Frank Shaw.

In addition to being unsafe, it is not logical. Carrying this thing to its extreme, autos could be stopped by:

a. Pregnant women wearing purple dresses.

b. Men over 49 wearing brown shoes.

c. All citizens wearing red hats.

Let's keep law enforcement in the hands of the police, law respect in the minds of the drivers.

Heart Fund Thanks

To the Editor:

The officers and directors of the Greater Boston Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Asso. have given me the pleasant duty of expressing our gratitude for your publication's support of the 1961 Heart Fund campaign.

Once again, our Heart Neighbors received a warm and sincerely interested response throughout their door-to-door canvass through your committees of Weston and Wayland. We believe that this speaks clearly, not just for the vital importance of the fight against cardiovascular disease, but for the manner in which your newspaper supported our cause.

Weston Cancer Drive Set for Tuesday Evening

WESTON -- Volunteer workers for the 1961 Cancer Crusade in Weston expect to end their month-long activities with an all-inclusive door-to-door campaign next Tuesday evening.

The primary purpose of these calls, according to Mrs. John Glover, Weston chairman, is to alert the residents of the town to the importance of periodic check-ups and ways of recognizing cancer's symptoms in its early stages. Literature on the subject is to be left at each home and if residents prefer, contributions to the Fund may be made at that time, instead of mailing them.

Blame The Architects

by JUDY PRATT

I am beginning to think this school was designed by a crew of woman haters. At first this sounds as if I were passing a snap judgement on some poor, innocent, little men. But if you look into the matter, you begin to see why I say this.

First, the school is built on a river plain. This seems harmless enough at first, but just try walking from the Art Center to the Science Center on a windy, wet, cold March day. If you don't link arms with about ten others and battle your way step by step, you are apt to get blown right through one of those lovely plate glass windows into a startled English class. Now how can you look pretty and feminine while grimly battling your way across the wind tunnel, with your skirt whipping madly about your legs and your carefully done hair (you spent an agonized night on spiky curlers) blowing out at right angles to your head?

The walks are made of some kind of concrete which, when at all damp or cold, become as treacherous as glare ice. If you walk slowly and carefully, your hair gets ruined and your nose gets red, but if you walk any faster, you are very liable to land flat in a tangle of skirts and books. Either way, you look nothing like those lovely models in "Seventeen".

After you have finished your battle with the elements, and are safe in a nice, warm, comfortable building, you naturally want to repair damages. But the Ladies' rooms in this school are worse than the cafeteria - excuse me, the commons - at rush hour. Again the Architects are to blame. Approximately fifty girls definitely do not fit in an area six feet square.

You battle in, dodging lipstick and elbows, balance on one leg and look between four or five heads to comb your hair, and then you fight your way out again. This battle re-ruins your hair and leaves a streak of "Persian Melon" across your cheek, where you didn't dodge quickly enough.

Those who take Chemistry are familiar, I'm sure, with those stools in Chem-Lab. If you sit in a ladylike position for very long, both legs fall asleep causing you to fall flat when you try to stand up.

Of course these things are added to the old de-feminizing agents of lunch and gym and trying not to snore too loudly in classes. In closing, I would like to say to all masculine inhabitants of this school, "Please excuse the way we look!"

Vacation Fever

by SUZANNE CROWELL

Classes we're embroiled in,
Marks cause most concern,
For "Pirates" we are toilin'
Yet no break can we discern.

Baseball, track and tennis call us,
For typing, driver ed. we stay,
The studies we must do apall us,
Where's vacation anyway?

Peace Takes More Than Marching

by ROY FLANDERS '61

We are all aware that there was a march on April first from Lexington to Faneuil Hall protesting the arms race. I was fortunate enough to be able to ask some questions of the marchers. It was good to see such a demonstration of public interest in a major problem of the day; my only question is, do these people really understand what their goal requires? My impression was that they do not. Their professed goal is "total, universal disarmament," and they hope to accomplish this through more "brotherly" trust and Western initiative.

There seems to me to be a great contradiction in our philosophies. If we ever could achieve a world of complete mutual trust, it would be an achievement of major proportion. There would be no need for inspection; there would be free migration and trade. Does not this seem to be in complete opposition to the tendency today for more and more government intervention and control? Also with this centralization of government the opportunities for evasion of treaties is greater.

Any of us who view this situation realistically cannot help but stress its dangers and difficulties. But this should by no means suggest that arms control policies should be abandoned. On the contrary, it would be impossible for us to rationally seek an effective policy without knowing what control and inspection really require. We cannot continue to ignore or underrate the difficulties, like many of those in the march, or we are doomed to further disappointments and, even worse, to becoming tools for those who seek to "busy" us.

This is a challenge to our generation - it is ours to solve. There are numerus areas of information which are available to us all. I would suggest that each of us develop his ideas after sound research and then that each let these ideas be heard. Somewhere between the ends of destruction and surrender lie peace and understanding. This is what we strive for, perhaps imperfectly, sometimes inadequately, but with the fire of hope.

Bi - Phi - Chem

The Bi-Phi-Chem Club, two bus loads strong, headed for Boston's Hayden Planetarium on April 8. Mr. Raymond Regis, club advisor, and several other faculty members accompanied the group on their tour through the science museum and the planetarium.

In addition to an impromptu study in child behavior provided by an amusing group of grade school youngsters who were visiting the museum for the first time. The club members saw a snake demonstration, the invisible woman, a step-by-step appendectomy, and many other demonstrations and exhibits. The most exciting part of the trip was the show in the planetarium. The audience was "rocketed" to the ice planets for a study of their make-ups.

The club hopes to take another field trip soon, but specific plans have not yet been made.

The State of Wayland Parties

by GAYLE ZAGORAN

All the etiquette books tell you the main ingredients of a good party. These are to select guests who mix well, usually having at least one new person for them to meet, and to prepare adequate refreshment, both liquid and solid; and to limit the number of guests according to the type of party planned and to the size of the room in which the party will take place.

What a laugh!! You kids must be holding your sides at this point, unable to control the guffaws and giggles. Instead of laughing, stop and think for a minute. Think about that last party you went to, or even better, think about all of them. Let's take those ingredients, one by one, and compare them to the average Wayland party.

The first and biggest laugh on the list is to "select guests." That's really funny, isn't it? No one gets to select guests. No one even bothers to invite them anymore. Why should they, when all of Wayland comes, invited or not? It's really a shame that those with limited space, but lots of ideas can't risk having a party for intimate friends only. Sure, they can try it once. After that first gang of kids walk in, BOOM! That's it.

The next rule is one that is followed regularly by WHS'S parties. There's always someone new to meet. Usually, there's even a whole crowd of new people to meet. More often than not, the host is confronted with meeting a strange group thoroughly enjoying his party. I can hear you saying, "But it's not our fault if those kids crash our parties." "They don't mean any harm?" THINK AGAIN. Would our parties be deluged with unwanted out-of-towners if we put our foot down? If we didn't just laugh it off, but instead informed them that they were uninvited and unwanted, would they then keep up the crashing?

Here's another big laugh; adequate refreshment, both liquid and solid. First of all, in the field of solid refreshment, it would take a millionaire to be adequately prepared to feed the multitude of uninvited kids that arrive. It's impossible even without the monetary problem, because no one knows how many will arrive. As for the liquid refreshment, why bother to prepare any? No matter how much coke or punch is put out, the boys always drink their own. That's being good guests, huh! Instead of bothering their host for something to drink, they bring their own. They bring it, though, not out of politeness, or consideration, but out of greed. And, in thanks to their host for his kindness, they ruin his house, strew cans all over the lawn, and just completely let loose. They don't care whose mother will be upset, or who will get into trouble, all they care about is themselves. And, what's more there is no exception to this. At every party they just naturally act this way. It's expected of them. After all boys will be boys!

As for limiting the size of the party, that's a lost cause. It would be nice to have a party that would fit into your rumpus room, but no, that's not possible. Instead, you'll find your guests all over the house, irritating your parents to no end.

Can you blame the parents? Think about it, and while you're at it, maybe you can figure out why there have been less and less parties lately in Wayland.

Welcome

Have you noticed the new blue-eyed blond Junior girl? Our newest Wayland High student is Susan Nagel, better known as "Sukey". Sukey comes from Westport, Conn. where she attended school at Staples High. She feels that Wayland "is a lot different from Westport" and that "it will take a little while to get used to it". While Staples High had 1,800 students, Wayland has only 600. However the biggest difference between the two schools is our three-class system of small medium and large groups.

Sukey enjoys horseback riding and loves all kinds of music (her favorite singer is Frank Sinatra). At Staples she was a member of the girls' basketball team and also served on the Prom Committee.

We all wish you the best of luck, Sukey, and hope that you'll like Wayland!

Remember When?

1. Wayland High School became a country club? . . . or a used car lot?
2. Sadie Hawkins caught her man at the dance?
3. Someone's large foot went through the ceiling of the Art Center?
4. The seniors took a morning hike around Walden Pond.
5. Age didn't matter.
6. Judy P. liked only one.

The newly designed Wayland High School ring, shown above, is rich in appearance and is set with a golden saphire.

Yearbook

This year is the first year the senior class has completed the yearbook before the day of its deadline. Good luck to the staff of next year. We are sure they will do as fine a job. The two co-editors are Pat Osmond and Paul Baker. The business manager will be Sue Mohl.

Beginning a Tradition

The junior class rings have just arrived from the manufacturer. For the first time Wayland High School has a school ring, not a class ring. Since it was designed especially for our school, it is unique; no other school has one like it. Furthermore, it will establish a tradition. A ring will represent the school as a whole, not just a particular class.

We're all delighted with the design - mainly because it's our own.

Sports Windup

Calls were issued a few weeks ago for baseball candidates. There are now many enthusiastic boys practicing in the cool breezes of the open field. Their first game, which was to be held Tuesday, April 11 with Ashland was rained out. The junior varsity went ahead with their game inspite of the weather and came through with an outstanding victory over Ashland. It was a shut-out, Wayland winning 7 - 0.

Coach Bowers is hopeful for a very successful season. He naturally hopes that his team will defend the class D Championship which last year's team won.

But baseball is not the only sport now in progress. Calls have been issued for tennis, track, and girl's soft ball. The intramural program is also in full swing. It includes basketball for all grades and a ping-pong tournament.

Plans are also being formulated for the annual Sports Banquet. This event will be in the Field House on Saturday, April 29. Tickets are $3.50 per person and may be purchased from Mr. Salvati at the High School. With the awarding of letters and jackets, a really good meal, and an interesting speaker, this promises to be a very enjoyable evening.

Sob! Sob! Sob!

You say you've got troubles, brother? . . . you dropped your teeth in public? . . . your girl crawled up a wall? . . . your teacher bugs you? Believe me, kid - you ain't seen nothing yet.

If you thing YOU'RE bad off, you should see the Senior Play, GOLD IN THE HILLS. It doesn't matter whether its May 4, 5, or 6, as long as you are in the Little Theater at 8 p.m., you are bound to forget your own petty problems.

As the curtain rises, you'll be enveloped in the sad, sad, (sob) story of sweet and innocent Nell, a poor country girl by birth. You'll wipe your eyes as the wicked Murgatroyd pursues her. You'll weep a little weep as the hero is apurned. You'll cry unashamedly as the dark cloak of villanry engulfs our heroine.

But no! I can't go on. The remainder of GOLD IN THE HILLS must be left for you to discover alone.

Note: The management recommends that all those who are sentimentally inclined come prepared with at least ten strong handkerchiefs.

Sadie's Day

The Wayland High School commons could have been a barn in the hills of Tennessee, or a cabin in Dogpatch on the night of April 7. Arrayed with rustic decorations, and wired for Stereo, the commons provided the perfect atomosphere for one of the most colorful dances of the year. Burlap sacs, pigtails, and freckles were the most popular "get-ups" for the evening. Boys wore the traditional vegetable corsages.

Mr. Raymond Regis, (Regis, as everyone knows, means "king" in Latin), of the Science department was disc jockey for the evening and was assisted by Miss Rogette Abizaid of the French department. Also in attendance from the faculty were Mr. and Mrs. Forsythe, Mr. Smith, Mr. Malcasian, and Mr. Mazza.

During intermission entertainment was provided by Steve Garry, Liz Woodsum, Jim Henderson, Bill McElwee, and Pete Fink: "The Mainstone 5." The audience sat on the floor and sang along with the performers. A good time was had by all.

Awards for the best corsage were given to Bruce Keary and Kenny Houghton by Daisy Mae and Mammy Yokum. The best costume prize went to Gayle Sawyer.

What a shame that Sadie Hawkins day, like Christmas, comes but once a year!

Not Guernseys – Folk Singers

The Mainstone 5 is an enthusiastic folk-singing ensemble made up of Wayland High School students. Originally a trio, they now boast 5 Mainstones, personal manager, and booking agent.

I visited them after a performance for the Bi-Phi-Chem club on April 7. I was surprised to find a rehearsal in progress. "Well," said Dave Large, the group's manager, "we still have another performance tonight."

"We rehearse when and where we can," added Steve Garry, resting on his 5-string banjo. "And lately with four of us in "South Pacific" and Liz in "Gold in the Hills," the Senior play, our sessions have been scanty and mildly chaotic."

"We try to be as original as possible without spoiling our material," offered Liz Woodsum, who "plays anything with strings." "So far Steve and I have done most of the arranging. We try some interesting twists. For instance using lemmie sticks as sea chanty rhythm, and polyrhythmic Caribbean Calypso chants over traditional English ballads.

The other members of the group were tuning up. Bill McElwee, "our answer to Nick Reynolds," in addition to keeping practices on an even plane of frenzied hilarity, also plays ukulele and doubles on rhythm. Concentrating on rhythm and hitting the low notes is Pete Fink, while Jim Henderson plays 4-string and 6-string guitar and often sings around the key of D.

I asked Pete Fink if two performances in one day wasn't a bit trying. "This first one has been unusually so. Liz was minus a finger pick, Steve broke a string necessitating an emergency trip home, Bill's mother had to rush him his uke at the last minute, and Dave, our calm manager, turned completely inside out several times before we went on."

I sat down to listen and watch. "This next song musically depicts our defiance of socialogical traditions," noted Bill in his Lone Star drawl, "we have five leaders and no followers, three Sophs and two Seniors, four boys and one girl, two rebels and three yankees, and none of us can vote." With this they swung into "Michael Row the Boat Ashore." I left them to their singing.

That night at the Sadie Hawkins dance the Mainstones were given a rousing reception, a hearty vocal assistance in two of the numbers, and were calling back for two encores. If the rumors are correct, we may be seeing more and more of this group. Let's hope so!

Curtain Going Up Again

The curtain was drawn for the last time and then it was over. South Pacific was finished after four successful performances. What was ahead of us now? We tried to tell ourselves we were glad; glad all the work was over. All the tiresome rehearsals were finished, and our hoarse throats would have a chance to recover, and yet we missed it. We missed the people we worked with; and most of all, we missed those tiresome rehearsals and the thrill of each performance.

Then came that announcement We weren't finished! We were just beginning. The Wayland High School drama department is now organizing the production of Gilbert and Sullivan's Pirates of Pensance . We hope that this operetta will receive the same enthusiasm that South Pacific did.

You Didn't Do Your Homework?

"I had a splitting headache"
Real reason - "I didn't get my thesis done"
I had heart trouble"
Real reason - "My boy friend broke up with me"
"My family went to visit some relatives"
Real reason - "I took my girl friend to the movies."

A "Regis" sized set with a majestic sound.

Opera Conductor Fiedler Makes Bow

BOSTON -- Arthur Fiedler will make his debut as an operatic conductor next week when Sarah Caldwell directs the Opera Group, Inc., presentation of Johann Strauss' lilting Viennese comedy Die Fledermaus. Performances will be given on Wednesday April 26 and Friday April 28. In the merry mix-up Metropolitan Opera stars William Olvis, Margaret Roggero and Jeanette Scovotti will sing the rolls of Eisenstein, Prince Orlogsky and Adele, respectively.

Others in the stellar cast are Gloria Lind as Rosalinda, Thomas Hayward as Alfred, and Mac Morgan as Falke.

After the premiere performance on Wednesday night, Prince Orlofsky will be host at a GALA on stage at the Donnelly Memorial Theatre to salute Mr. Fiedler and distingulshed guests whose contribution will, it is hoped, swell the coffers of Opera Group's Production Fund.

For those who would appreciate the convenience of reserving their opera seats locally Mrs. Welles at TW 4-7132 or Mrs. Garrison at EL 8-2870 will take telephone orders.

M.I.T. Turns To Wayland HS For Lab Space

WAYLAND -- Well, it had to happen. The new Wayland High looks good to college professors, too.

In fact, several M.I.T. professors this week asked the school board for permission to rent laboratory space there this summer - to develop a new junior level college course in electronics.

The request is under advisement, according to Chairman Gregory B. Wolfe.

Use of the labs is another recognition of the versatility of the campus-type school with up-to-date facilities.

Those seeking the rental include Prof. Richard D. Thornton of Wayland and J. R. Zacharias, pioneer in the new approach to high school physics.

Protests over the intensity of the traditional freshmen initiation by seniors led the board to request a report from the high school administration and the student council after which it may act on future initiation practices.

Drivers

for the town and the school children for three weeks under the impression, the town felt responsible for them.

What then? Sue Mr. Anderson? Sue the School Board? Petition the School Board to hold up the $5000 check for March which still hasn't left town officials' hands?

But if you do that, said Mr. Wolfe, "it's like not paying Jim the $10 you owe him because he owes Harry and you decide to pay Harry. Jim has a gripe."

Anyway, that's what's behind the hour of grace the drivers gave the school children on Thursday, April 6. An obligation - the town's, they feel.

And the next move? Drivers? Mr. Wolfe's? Mr. Anderson's? Mr. Garvey's? Selectmen?

Getting Castro to shave would be easier than finding the answer to that one.

Diabetes Testing April 24 - 29

WAYLAND -- The purpose of the Sudbury-Wayland Diabetes Detection Drive is to discover undiagnosed cases of Diabetes in residents of the two communities. Directors of the program point out the great strides made in dietary and medical treatment which make it possible now for a diabetic to live a normally happy and useful life.

All residents over 14 years of age are invited to "Be Safe, Be Sure, Be Tested." (younger children related to diabetics are also eligible.) Sponsors of the program, the Wayland and Sudbury Boards of Health, their respective medical advisory committees, the Sudbury Public Health Nursing Association and the Parmenter Health Center in Wayland particularly urge persons in the most susceptible groups - i.e., people with diabetic relatives, people over forty, people who are overweight - to avail themselves of the free testing service at the Parmenter Health Center, April 24 - 29.

Hours are Mon., Wed., Fri., 1-3 p.m.; every evening, Mon. through Fri. 7 - 9 p.m. and Saturday morning 9 - 11. There will be no charge.

Medical Advisory Committees have approved the following sample menu as being particularly useful for persons about to undergo testing. A suitable snack might include any of the following: (1) a large portion of cake or pie with one or two cups of coffee with sugar or a glass of milk; (2) two peach halves in heavy syrup and a glass of milk; (3) a generous serving of dry cereal, a glassful of milk and a banana; (4) a glass of milk and two sugared doughnuts; (5) two cups of coffee with sugar and milk and two large or three small doughnuts.

Science, Art Wires Crossed At Wayland

WAYLAND -- Science and art got their wires crossed at Wayland High - but it's all straightened out now with the holding of the Science Fair last Friday.

First things first -- Martin Benjamin won the fair with his exhibit "Regeneration of Planaria" which translated into language that even a six-year-old could understand and enjoy means he studied how flat worms snap back after someone has cut them up.

More than 350 parents, relatives and townsfolk attended the affair at the high school, according to George Carpenter of the science department.

Second prizes (tie) : Janet O'Leary and Anna Laura Strow on micro-organisms -- where do they come from? Also: Ronald Charles on African violet horticulture.

Third prizes (tie): James Henderson on biophysics of muscle contraction. Also : Dana Walston on magnetism.

Now for that mixup between arts and science. It seems that due to the prior scheduling of "South Pacific" at the high school in mid-March, potential scientists were too busy and the date conflict made it impossible to hold a State Science Fair preliminary.

All local fairs must be completed by Apr. 1.

So a science fair exhibit, preliminary to the state affair Apr. 28-30, was held and Walston and Henderson took first and second prizes respectively. They will represent the school at the state fair at M.I.T.'s Rockwell Cage.

Get it? Well, next year it is expected that a computer exhibit may outline how science and art crossed wires, if you don't understand.

At any rate, honorable mentions at last Friday's affair in which over 100 students exhibited: incubation and embryology of chicks - Diana Morse and Gail Sawyer; cocaine and its effects - Norman MacNeil; micro-organisms from the soil which live on a chemical nutrient - Lydia Karpinol and Vicki Alla; instinct or intelligence - Colette Cavanaugh; a home-made telescope - Robert Burke; a home-made rangefinder - Barry Kurth; rayon - Elizabeth Woodsum; electron brain - Donald Cassidy.

Friday's judges: William Abernathy and Robet Switzer of the Harvard University faculty and Donald Antonoli of Tufts University.

Talk about close shaves. Legislature nearly voted for amendment to abolish the Governor's Council, about three weeks ago and then it turned out the Council had treated itself to $10,000 in "atmosphere", to make its offices into a - well a . . . suite worthy of . . . of . . Well, anyway what if they'd been voted out? Who'd have gotten the use of the eight special offices, the special furniture, the special rug, the special private switchboard and the air-conditioning so essential to those long summer sessions? You just can't be too careful these days.

Mrs. Pauline Leeland bringing a roomful of laughs into a grim urban renewal meeting: "Sure they won't use a bulldozer on your houses. That's a promise. But a sledge-hammer will do the job just as well. Take a little longer, that's all." - Come to think of it, that humor is pretty grim, too.

At the same meeting with Dudley Pond residents, Renewal Authority member John McEnroy made as good an explanation as we've heard of why the town is in the business of leveling some substandard houses:

No business at all, certainly not "bad business" as a questioner put it, said Mr. McEnroy. Some of the earliest houses knocked over were on lots too small for subsequent use and the owner was left high and dry.

"So we went into the business of acquiring the entire property at a fair price, then leveling and selling off the cleared property to adjacent owners," said Mr. McEnroy who was then a selectman. But here's the point: "Many of these houses were attracting welfare cases from other towns, at great expense to Wayland. Ridding ourselves of this situation has saved the town considerable in welfare costs as well as heightened property values generally."

A look into the future, courtesy of the Greater Boston Economic Study Committee:

Population of area towns in 1970: Wayland 17,000 - Weston 10,500 - Lincoln 8000 - Sudbury 12,000 - Framingham 62,000 - Natick 36,000 - Concord 15,500 - Waltham 59,000 - Newton 95,000.

All of them growing communities. When you consider that Wayland's current population is 10,444 and Weston's 8261, you can guess what this growth is going to mean in the next few years.

And discounts don't come with this sort of thing, you know.

Wilkinson Leads Wayland Over Ashland 7-1 in Opener

ASHLAND -- Will it be last year again for Buzz Bowers' Wayland High Indians? It looked that way last Wednesday with their 7-1 opening win against Ashland High.

Last year's sophomore whiz, Bill Wilkinson, hurled a three-hitter and helped his own cause with a two-run double in the big second inning.

The 1960 Eastern Mass. schoolboy champions with a 21-0 record looked first rate in the first three frames as they overpowered their Dual County League rivals.

Wilkinson carried his 8-0 record one step further this year. He struck out nine but walked six.

Wayland wrapped up the decision early with four runs in the second inning. A single by Dwight Perodeau, a walk to Tom Linnehan, and another base on balls to Alan Arnold loaded the bases.

Steve Kruse popped a Texas League single to center field to score one and when the center-fielder fumbled, two runs scored. Wilkinson then doubled to center for two more tallies.

The summary:

WAYLAND	142	000	0 - 7
ASHLAND	010	000	0 - 1

Palsy Benefit

NEWTON -- The annual card party for the benefit of Cerebral Palsy Assn. will be held next Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at the Day's Stable at 170 Sargent St., Newton, according to Mrs. E. Lawson Adams, Weston chairman. Tickets are $1.25 each or $5. per table. For tickets or further information, kindly contact Miss Priscilla Schenck at LA 7-1135.

Of particular interest in this area, is the support of the Summer Day Camp, which has been conducted for the past seven years at the Newton Centre Playground. Under the supervision of trained counselors it provides a five-day program for children in the Weston-Wellesley-Newton area.

Wilson Winner Of Hoop Award

WESTON -- Floyd S. Wilson of Weston and the Harvard College basketball team he coaches are the fifth winner of the Sam Schoenfeld sportsmanship award of the College Basketball Officials Association.

The announcement was made by Tony Gentile, president of the association. Wilson will receive the trophy in New York at the organization's annual meeting.

The award is named for the officials' first president and is given for outstanding conduct and sportmanship. The example Wilson set for his team by his behavior was one of the big factors.

With his wife Mary and sons Brian 3, John 5, Jeffrey 10 and Danny 13, he makes his home at 26 Pigeon Hill Rd., Weston.

Mr. Wilson is active in Weston Little League Baseball, Boy Scouts and is the Director of Camp Massapoag, a Y.M.C.A. camp at Dunstable.

Wayland Garden Club

WAYLAND -- The annual meeting of the Wayland Garden Club will be held on Tuesday, April 25, at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Kemp Reade on Mellen Lane. The tea committee includes Mrs. Paul Rowan, chairman; Mrs. John Dunning, Mrs. F. Stetson Eddy, Mrs. Bruce Kingsbury, Mrs. Eugene Roberts, and Mrs. John Williams.

Health Agent

that he could not do the agent's job, Mr. McEnroy said this was "very, very strange. Chief Damon and Mr. Linnehan both used to carry on that function as board members."

Howard Smith and a Mr. Muller spoke up from the audience on several occasions to get more light shed on town affairs.

Much of the meeting centered around the argument for more open discussion of town affairs and the parallel dispute over the qualifications of Mr. Fair and his successor.

Smith joined Dr. Freymann in attacking Dr. Corey's and Mr. Perry's refusal to say at the Apr. 11 meeting anything specific about hiring a successor.

To most questions about explanations Monday Dr. Corey replied: "That's our own prerogatives. We don't have to give an answer."

At one point Selectman Lewis pointed out that he could see why so many spectators might be upset at the refusal to go beyond this no-comment reply.

"In their concern over open sessions and an answer to pertinent questions, I can understand their being upset," said Mr. Lewis. "It might be possible to give answers and allay doubts."

To Mr. Smith's charge that continued refusal to explain led to "suspicions" about the reasons for the action, Mr. McEnroy quickly shot back: "There might be some suspicion as to why so many are fighting to keep Mr. Fair on the job."

Dr. Corey and Mr. Perry indicated they had applications in hand and that they would meet to consider them.

Since the next meeting was the second Tuesday in May, Dr. Freymann asked if a meeting would be held sooner.

No direct reply was given but it was learned that notice of a special meeting need not be given to the public. Notification can be given to the town clerk.

League World Affairs Seminars Begin Monday

WAYLAND -- The Wayland League of Women Voters will study the state of the world economy, with a special look at India, at unit meetings next Monday to Thursday.

This is the second part of a two-month study undertaken by the Wayland League, under the direction of Mrs. Luther H. Davis Jr. and Mrs. John D. Quackenbos. The March units were devoted to an analysis of the U. S. economy.

Hostesses for the units will be: Monday at 8 p.m., Mrs. Richard Lincoln, Lincoln Rd.; Tuesday at 9:45 a.m., Mrs. Harold B. Goldberg, 78 E. Plain St., Cochituate; 8 p.m. Mrs. Henry P. Bruce, 18 Joyce Rd., Cochituate; Wednesday, 9:45 a.m., Mrs. Frank H. Carter, 3 Water Row; 8 p.m., Mrs. Raymond Parker, 38 Highgate Rd., Cochituate; Thursday Mrs. Donald B. Robertson, 8 Graybirch Lane.

noted the same. Said Mrs. Arthur Uhlir:

"The Legislature could use intelligent people's time to better advantage by speeding up the procedure."

Over and over Leaguers noted the wasted motion.

That might have been the reaction of any interested voter. The League made the visit especially to acquaint new members with State procedure. Later, they can pass the word along to many members of the public who are becoming more curious how State legislators carry out their assignments.

Said Mrs. Robert W. Danforth: "I was glad to see the Senate and House physicaliy so that I can visualize what is happening when I read about bills."

She, like her colleagues in general, was glad of the opportunity to talk to her senator (Leslie Cutler) and representatives (Donald J. Manning and Henry A. Turner).

Some members - looking at the scene as many a layman might - were amazed that all bills had to go through three readings in each house and that it's smart to do your politicking on the second reading.

Members had a complete tour of the building, watched the joint session and were briefed periodically by Sen. Cutler and Reps. Turner and Manning. In turn, they had the lawmakers to lunch at the Women's City Club.

Mrs. Drowne Winner

WESTON -- The final lesson of the arranger's course for beginners, sponsored by the Garden Interest Group of the Women's Community League, was held at the Forge on Wednesday, April 12. A table arrangement by Mrs. Edwin S. Drowne Jr. won first place; Mrs. Donald J. Geiger won second place and Mrs. Paul W. Redden Jr. won third piace.

The following new members of the Garden Interest Group were also enrolled in the course: Mrs. Richard A. Lamarche, Mrs. Martin V. Marshall, Mrs. Gordon M. Benedict, Mrs. Thomas Cooch, and Mrs. Willard W. Rice.

Tea was served in the lower room of the Forge. Mrs. Joseph Antell was in charge of hospitality, assisted by Mrs. Ford Waugh and Mrs. Carl G. Bergstedt. Mrs. Donald D. Sloan was in charge of arrangements.

The difference between failure and success is doing a thing nearly right and doing it exactly right.

School Board Finds Pay for Bus Drivers

WAYLAND -- Cash in hand. About $1348 worth. That's the happy ending to the school bus drivers' story.

Last week the saga of the wayward school buses read like this: Sorry, no cash, no obligations.

But at a special meeting convened last Friday by Chairman Gregory B. Wolfe, the School Board voted to pay $1348 to 13 bus drivers whose employer had left them in a sort of financial limbo.

Bringing the good news to the drivers at a special meeting Monday morning was business manager Richard J. Lavin whose hands had previously been tied in the pay matter.

A week ago, the committee could find no cash on hand to meet this emergency but Friday it looked under the counter and came up with the money from its transportation fund.

The drivers got their money Tuesday morning.

A spokesman for the drivers called this "a happy ending to a sorry affair."

The bus situation got off on the wrong street Mar. 13 when Oswald Garvey, school bus contractor, was reported missing and the buses inoperable.

Until Apr. 5 when the school board took over the pay account and canceled Garvey's contract, the men were working without pay -- and, as they discovered, without a boss of any sort who felt responsible for those payless days.

The town's obligations were nebulous since it was not dealing with any legal entity, until the school board decided last Friday to assume payroll obligatons from Mar. 13 to Apr. 1 and await future developments.

Now the big question asked around town is: Has anybody here seen Garvey?

FRIDAY the 14th — Just as Bad

Three Brush Fires in 15 Minutes: Mutual Aid Plan Rescues Weston

WESTON -- You can keep Friday the 14th as far as the Weston firemen are concerned. It might just as well have been the 13th.

Three raging grass fires in 15 minutes last Friday -- and without the mutual aid system that brought three trucks from Wayland and Waltham, it might have been a different story.

In all, close to 15 acres of brush was burned in the north end of town. The cause: sparks from a passing Boston & Maine engine.

One explanation: since the railroad's curtailment of maintenance, brush that was once burned off regularly increases the fire hazard along the tracks.

This time, according to Fire Chief Morris Upham, sparks from a diesel engine on the Fitchburg division set off the succession of blazes.

No. 1--Between Viles St. and 190 North Av., about five acres burned over. Called in 11:06 a.m.

No. 2--Between Conant Rd. and Stoney Brook and the Fitchburg division, about five acres burned over. Called in 11:08 a.m.

No. 3--At 11:21 a.m. on Merriam St., a brush and lumber pile burned.

Three trucks went on the first fire which brought Wayland forest fire truck equipment to the scene to cover the station, but when the second alarm rang in, the Wayland truck never stopped but kept on to the Conant Rd. site where Engine 3 of Weston was also sent.

Engine 4 left the first fire to help out on Conant Rd.

By this time Waltham Engine 4 equipment came in and was dispatched to the Merriam St. fire.

If you're still following, this brought another truck from Wayland to cover the Weston station.

This form of backstopping, called mutual aid, keeps the town

Here's One Parakeet They FOUND

WESTON -- Parakeets are always being reported lost -- but found? Never. Well, almost never.

Weston Police report this rarity and will gladly return a small blue female parakeet to any child who can identify same.

Sorry -- no word on what the parakeet says. The police don't have the bird but know the woman near the Wellesley line who found her and is keeping her. The bird is registered but doesn't take kindly to strangers so no one has been able to find out where she comes from -- yet.

$1000 Ring Lost — And Found

WAYLAND -- Police served as the unofficial broker for returning a $1000 ring to James Vallella of Woodland Rd. last Tuesday. Mr. Vallella lost the ring Sunday and Morton Langthorne, a neighbor found it Tuesday and returned it.

Wayland Woman Injured in Crash

WAYLAND -- One woman was hurt in a two-car collision at Stonebridge Rd. and Old Connecticut Path last Thursday.

Charlotte Piper of 10 Sycamore Rd., Cochituate was taken to Leonard Morse Memorial Hospital in Natick where she was treated for back injuries.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Doris Bigwood of 8 Morse Rd., Wayland. The other car was operated by John C. Donovan of 61 Woodland Rd., Ashland. Patrolmen Fred Perry and John Brady investigated.

Memo: Duck Weston's Rush Hour

WESTON -- Police Chief Frank Shaw warns local residents: stay out of Weston Center during rush hours. Find your own detour but stay clear of the traffic jams caused by the Rte. 117 detour.

Chief Shaw has had to add an extra man to the Rte 20 intersection with Wellesley St. during rush hours.

Wayland Youth Breaks Shoulder

WAYLAND -- Charles Simpson of Lake Rd. received a broken shoulder Sunday about 11:21 a.m. when he tried to stop his motor scotter at the intersection of Stonebridge Rd. and Old Connecticut Path, hit a curbing and overturned. He told Wayland police he was trying to avoid hitting another car in front of him.

Abuttors Protest Track For Weston Quarry Firm; Decision Due Next Week

WESTON -- A decision is expected next week in the controversial stone quarry case.

At issue: a request for a railroad spur track through a residential area to the Massachusetts Broken Stone Co. on Rte. 20.

Behind the controversy: For years many nearby residents of Weston and Waltham have expected that as the 60-year-old stone quary mined itself out, the company would move out.

But the long-established firm, with acquisition of quarry rights in Western Massachusetts, has asked to expand to the extent of putting in a spur track from the Massachusetts Central Division to its main plant off Rte. 20.

More than 150 persons from Weston and Waltham filled the Town Hall hearing room of the Board of Appeals at its Apr. 10 session.

Most of them opposed the latest move of the quarry to expand. Their arguments:

--Quarry operations are casting a dust pall over adjacent residential property.

--Rising of the water table from quarry operations and the backing up of a brook is making about 10 acres of adjacent meadowland (residential) into swampland.

--Residential property should not be cut up by commercial or industrial uses.

--It's about time for the stone firm to wind up its operations in

Gertrude Fiske Dies at 81, Prize-Winning Weston Artist

WESTON -- Funeral services were held last Thursday for Miss Gertrude Fiske, 81, of 39 Concord Rd., prize-winning artist.

Miss Fiske, also the first woman to be named to the State Art Commission, died Tuesday, Apr. 18 at home.

Services were held at the First Parish Church, Unitarian, with burial in Lynnwood Cemetery, Weston.

Born in Boston, she was educated in the Boston public schools and was graduated from the Boston Museum School of Art in 1913.

She won her first prize two years later, a silver medal from the Panama-Pacific Exposition for an oil painting, "The Shadow." In 1922 she was awarded a $300 prize by the National Academy of Design in New York for her painting, "Nude." She repeated three years later at the National Academy's 100th annual exhibit with another painting, "Sunday Afternoon."

For many years Miss Fiske had her own studio at 120 Riverway, Boston. In 1930 she was elected to the Academy of Design in New York. Earlier that year, Gov. Frank G. Allen had named her the first woman member of the State Art Commission.

Her works were exhibited throughout the country, including the Philadelphia Academy and the Corcoran Gallery in Washington.

She was a member of the Boston Guild of Artists and the Cosmopolitan Club of New York.

Jeannette Favreau Dies, Weston Town Librarian

WESTON -- Funeral services were held last Thursday for Miss Jeannette Favreau, 55, for the past 10 years chief librarian of the Weston Town Library.

Miss Favreau, a resident of Arlington, died Monday, April 10, after a two-week illness in a Boston hospital.

"The town of Weston and the library have suffered a great loss with the death of Miss Favreau," Mrs. Laura Dean Shaw of the library trustees commented.

A requiem mass was celebrated in St. Camillus Church, Concord Turnpike, Arlington, and burial was in the family plot in Worcester.

Miss Favreau graduated from Boston Latin School and Simmons College in 1931. She worked in the State Teacher's College Library at Keene, N.H. and the Mass. Division of Library Extension before coming to Weston.

From the time of her appointment in 1951 she devoted herself wholeheartedly to the efficient management of the Weston Public Library, while it was going through a difficult period of great expansion and change.

Her many interests in library science included membership in the Massachusetts Library Assn. and the American Library Assn., and the position of secretary-treasurer of the Charles River Library Club.

She belonged to the Arlington Winchester Simmons Club, and was an enthusiastic member of the Appalachian Mountain Club. Her interests, outside library work, in recent years included pottery and flower arrangements.

She leaves her mother, Mrs. J. Arthur Favreau of Arlington, and three sisters; Mrs. Josef Orosz of Watertown, Miss Lucille Favreau of New York City, and Mrs. Leonard Holvig of Richmond, Ind.

Little Virginia Reynolds, 5, of Knoxville, Tenn., full of life and pep, started up Mt. Washington on foot many years ago on a calm, clear day. So energetic was Virginia that she far outdistanced her mother and grandparents. When her relatives arrived on the more than a mile-high summit little Virginia had ordered and was eating a giant fish chowder -- plus steak!

Blood Drive Stepped Up In Wayland

WAYLAND -- On Friday, May 5, from 3 to 7 p.m. blood donors from Wayland will go to the Parmenter Health Center to help replenish the local blood bank which is now at a very low point.

The largest drive for donors in recent years will be staged in the next two weeks to make the community conscious of the extreme need to keep the blood bank up to par, and of the importance of each individual to consider the benefits which accrue to himself and his family from such a donation.

Last year in Wayland 48 pints of blood were given to one patient alone and the total for Scott Kendall has been 23.

If a member of your family should be so unfortunate as to be in an accident or fall seriously ill your friends and neighbors will be called upon to supply this need. Obviously all blood which is used from the bank must be replaced.

Many people seem to feel that giving blood will in some way affect their health, if only temporarily. In the case of people in normal health this is definitely not true and in most cases the supply of new blood which replaces the old is better blood.

A "Buddy" system has been devised by the local chapter whereby those contributing will go with a friend or neighbor thereby reminding each other of the time and place. Transportation will also be provided if necessary and Girl Scouts will be on duty for sitting. Mrs. Robert Emmons, EL 8-7476 Head of the Wayland drive, or Mrs. George B. Hamilton, EL 8-7079 Public Information officer, may be called upon for further details.

Thomas Cabot Linked To Anti Castro Radio

WESTON --Even Weston cannot escape this Castro business.

A Weston resident, Thomas D. Cabot of 31 Farm Rd., is involved in the island-based radio station that did its best to help the ill-starred invaders of Cuba last week.

The small but powerful station on Swan Island south of Cuba in the Caribbean, did its best to needle the Cuban premier before, during and after the invasion as well as aid the invaders.

The island from which Radio Swan broadcast its mysterious instructions is one of a group owned by the family of Sumner Smith of Sandy Pond Rd., Lincoln.

And Radio Swan is operated by the Gibralter Steamship Co., a New York concern that is reported to own no ships whatsoever. Its president is listed as Thomas D. Cabot, president and director of Godfrey L. Cabot, Inc.

Mr. Smith said he is not sure if he is a member of Gibraltar Steamship and said ownership had passed from him to his grandchildren.

Castro says it all doesn't matter: the whole thing is a State Department operation.

Mr. Cabot is in Europe on business and his present direct connection with the 50-kilowatt station on Great Swan Island is uncertain.

What are witness trees? The Massachusetts Audubon Society says they are trees referred to in old land deeds. They were blazed with a marking that corresponded to a nearby square corner post used in land survey.

PHILIP JOSEPH VANNELLI, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Vannelli, of 80 Dudley Road, Cochituate, is now undergoing recruit training at Great Lakes, Ill. He enlisted in the Navy at the Framingham Recruiting Office on February 9.

Philip attended Waltham Vocational High School and graduated in the class of 1961. Prior to entering the service he was employed by Howard Johnsons, Turnpike, Natick.

Cat Rock Ski Club Aids Weston Educational Fund

WESTON -- The Weston war Memorial Educational Fund, founded by a group of Weston High School Alumni of the Class of 1916, and later accepted by vote of the Town as a permanent memorial to the citizens of Weston who served in the Armed Forces in all Wars, has received from the Cat Rock Ski Club - a gift of $851.60.

This contribution represented the liquidation of the Cat Rock Ski Club, Inc., whose Articles of Association and by-laws provided that if the club wound up its affairs, any balance should be given to the Town of Weston.

The scholarship fund has continued to grow primarily due to the generous giving of recent graduating classes. The interest on the fund has provided one scholarship each year since 1958. The generous gift of the Cat Rock Ski Club has increased the principal to nearly $7000.

Double Loss for Weston

Sorrow is Weston's lot this week, with the recent passing of two of its most beloved citizens, Miss Gertrude Fiske and Miss Jeannette Favreau.

Miss Favreau's death on the 17th, followed by Miss Fiske's a day later leaves the town without a devoted and alert librarian and an artist of rare talent in Miss Fiske.

Both had lived a full life, giving much joy to others. We all know the dedication that went into the upkeep, improvement and general excellence of the Weston Town Library. Miss Favreau saw to that up to the last -- a short two weeks before her death.

Miss Fiske was a talented artist, as well as a warm human being, whom we will all miss. In addition to her many prizes, she had the added distinction of being the first woman honored by a post on the State Art Commission.

Weston will miss them both.

NATURE AROUND US by Will Ryder

Those Are Wood Ducks, Fun-But Watch Out

Those wooden boxes you see mounted on posts along the channel of the Sudbury River are wood duck nesting boxes put out by the State Division of Fisheries and Game.

The wood ducks (the male is the most beautiful of the local ducks) nest in hollow trees, and as many of the old apple trees have been cut down to make room for houses, and the hurricanes have done away with a lot of the other dead trees, man has had to step in and build suitable nesting places for these ducks.

You will note that on the newer boxes there is a square tunnel about a foot long leading into the four-inch hole in the front of the box. This makes it all but impossible for raccoons to reach down into the box and steal the eggs. Last summer I had a nesting box by my brook without the tunnel, and a 'coon reached in and killed the female duck, leaving a dozen eggs to rot.

Evidentally both the male and the female wood duck look for nesting places, and they are not always too bright in their selection as many times they will fly down a chimney, only to find they are unable to fly back up, and have to be liberated by the master of the house.

This happens in our towns almost every spring, and in some cases a soot covered duck in the living room has made quite a mess.

It's quite a sight to see a full grown wood duck fly into one of the nesting boxes, as they seem to fly full tilt into the hole, and I can't understand how they keep from beating their brains out on the inside back wall of the house.

When the small ducks are ready to leave the house they scramble up towards the door, and keep trying until they finally make it, and fall to the ground or water, where they follow their mother around learning the ways of the cruel world.

Something About Birds

WESTON -- A small flock of Red Crossbills was seen Apr. 8 by Mrs. M. T. Stantial, Kendal Common Rd., the only Weston report for the 1960-61 season. Over a dozen calls about Evening Grosbeaks from Weston and Wayland indicate than many which wintered to the south of us were passing through on their way back north between Apr. 12-14. The largest flocks reported were seen by Mrs. J. C. L. Shabeck, Wayland -- 30-35, and by Mrs. R. F. Woodman, Weston -- 20-25. Last dates seen will be most interesting.

Bluebirds were heard flying over on Apr. 12 by Mrs. F. A. Goodale, Concord Rd., and Mrs. H. P. Morton, Chestnut St., but only two reports of pairs -- Mrs. Stantial (Apr. 7 on), and Mrs. P. T. Gates (Apr. 19). A Tufted Titmouse appeared briefly on Apr. 12 at the feeder of Miss Laura Richardson, Conant Rd. A pair of Phoebes have been seen by Mrs. Morton, looking over a former nesting site (Apr. 10), and Mrs. E. St. Germain, Concord Rd., says her nesting pair is back.

Pileated Woodpeckers were reported by Mrs. S. R. Anderson, Winsor Way (Apr. 9), and the W. E. Johnsons, Pigeon Hill Rd. Mrs. L. S. Hayes, Gypsy Trail, says that one has been using the backboard of a basketball practice hoop in her yard as a drumming place. It has been said that with proper atmospheric conditions, the Pileated's drumming (usually done on a solid dead limb) may be heard a distance of two miles; so at close range and on such a resonant surface, this sound must be heard to be appreciated!

A migrating Osprey was seen flying north early in the morning of Apr. 7 (Smith); and Mr. Koe saw a Killdeer and a Belted Kingfisher at the Duck Feeding Area on Apr. 15. A Field Sparrow was heard singing and later seen on Apr. 12 (Smith).

When the wind shifted briefly into the southwest during the afternoon and night of Apr. 17, it brought in good numbers of Flickers, 5 Barn Swallows (W. A. Elliston), and Chipping Sparrows (Hills, 2; Nickerson, 1) -- all on the 18th. Mrs. Nickerson also saw a White-throated Sparrow on the same day. Where are the Weston Tree Swallows? C.E.S.

Letters to the EDITOR

One Accident Enough: Let's Halt Parking

To the Editor:

At least a year ago I had occasion to point out to the Police Department the unsafe parking practice which existed at the entrance to Pelham Island Road. The principal problem then was the school buses which parked in long lines narrowing the road to one lane. I warned them that a serious accident would surely occur unless parking was controlled.

A second appeal brought no improvement. The third appeal, made to Mr. Gregory B. Wolfe as a member of the School Board, finally brought correction of the school bus problem. Mr. Wolfe could no nothing about general parking.

We have row had a serious accident. I hope that something will now be done to control parking at the intersection of Pelham Island Road and Boston Post Road. Every morning Linde Gas trucks are lined up on the Boston Post Road up to the intersection, making it impossible to see traffic from Sudbury as one leaves Pelham Island Road.

I hope that illegal parking will be stopped in time to prevent another accident. The law permits no parking in an intersection.

A copy of this letter is being sent to the Selectmen.

Worse Than Paper Bag, But He Loves Us

To the Editor:

After reading the entire 4-20-61 issue, I could not ask for a finer content of a weekly regional paper.

Why does my copy have to look as though it were printed on a paper (type, inking, etc) of a lesser quality than the nearest grocery bag paper?

Is this the requirement of a $4 yearly subscription price. I don't know how the Weston High School paper won first prize. Is this dreary format really necessary? Maybe I could be convinced. I once saw a sample of the Concord paper, and that was pretty awful, too.

Roger Potter
Weston.

Ed Note -- Thank you for the nice things you said. As for our newsprint, we can't afford to use the glossy paper of an Atlantic Monthly or Life at our rates -- or anything approaching them. We hope you'll continue to like us for what we can do -- get the news of you and your neighbors to you weekly -- and make that the basis on which you judge us. P. S. The news won't be glossy either.

Senior Citizens Sought For Cochituate Jubilee

WAYLAND -- An outstanding feature of the Cochituate elementary school Spring Jubilee Friday, May 6, 11:30 to 3:30 will be a reunion of the senior citizens who attended school in its early days.

The committee is eagerly searching for these people and is urging local residents to contact Cochituate School alumni to help celebrate the 50th anniversary. An alumni table is being arranged and an award will be given to the person from the earliest class.

THE LIVING PAST by Howard S. Russell

An Ancient Custom - But A Bad One

It's an old custom, but not a good one, this urge to burn leaves and trash - and often the woods - in the spring. Setting an outdoor fire, except on a beach, is strictly against the law, unless you have a permit from the fire chief; and he is unlikely to give you one unless it is a rainy day. For he knows, even if you don't that a trifling blaze that starts in a few leaves set afire by a match or a cigarette may within minutes become a galloping forest fire, devouring hundreds of acres before night; perhaps somebody's house; maybe even someone's life; and a tremendously costly thing it is to put out.

So, if you want to be a good citizen, and if you want to keep taxes down, don't burn outdoors! The best use for leaves and trash is in a compost heap for your gardens; or take them to the town dump, where they can be handled safely.

Firing the Woods

Yes, burning is an ancient custom here. The Indians had been firing the woods for centuries before our ancestors came. One of their purposes was to clear the woods of brush and bull-vines, so that they could spot game at a distance, and chase it readily. Their fires also kept open great areas where grass and sprouts could grow "for the purpose of alluring the deer," as one early writer puts it. "Immediately after the fires -- firegrass springs up remarkably sweet, and eagerly sought by deer."

The Indians were also especially fond of berries. Hence they burned to give the blueberry bushes a chance, just as the blueberry growers still do, systematically, in Washington County, Maine, whence come most of our nation's canned blueberries. The Indians hereabouts enjoyed blueberry cake long before any rule for it appeared in Fanny Farmer's Cookbook. Besides eating great quantities fresh, they also dried the berries like raisins, and cooked them later in all sorts of tasty combinations.

All Indian tribes liked strawberries too, and these do better on open ground than in the woods. The early Sudbury settlers came upon such an open glade filled with berries and called it Strawberry Bank. That very name was given by the first comers to Portsmouth, New Hampshire to their village on the Piscatagua. The wide sunlit slope by the river, filled with berries furnished them an ideal spot to start their settlement.

It was to keep such clearings open, and to make the woods passable, that the Indians burned; usually in the fall when the danger of excessive spread is least. As a result of their fires, the early writers note that dense woods were confined chiefly to the swamps, in eastern Massachusetts. On the upland trees were usually widely spaced.

Woodlands Protected

The white colonists, to provide grass for their cattle took over the aboriginal custom; but they often started fires that got away, for lack of the precautions as to time and weather that the Indians took. This soon caused alarm, for strange as it may appear, timber was not too plentiful near colonial villages; and almost at once, the new towns took measures to protect their woodland. In Sudbury, the first restrictions on cutting trees were voted in 1645, within five years of the town's establishment.

Cambridge, which then included wooded Arlington, became disturbed when fires destroyed quantities of valuable wood already cut. Deerfield, a prominent cattle town, set up a committee to supervise the annual burning. Hadley, after it had lost much-needed bridges, prohibited fires altogether.

Finally the colony government of Massachusetts Bay forbade firing except between March 10 and April 20. From time to time ever since regulation has become more stringent and specific. Our present laws are the direct result of the disastrous Groton conflagration of a quarter century ago, which destroyed thousands of acres of valuable pine and numerous dwellings in its sweep. The still more widespread fires in Maine a few years later brought about interstate compacts for forest fire control, even including Canadian participation.

Newcomers

If you are a newcomer here, especially if you have come from the city or an inner suburb, you have little conception of the power for destruction of a forest fire, or of the heartbreaking labor of putting such a fire out. Fanned by one of our high southwest spring winds, an innocent little bonfire may within minutes become an uncontrollable monster, travelling faster than a horse can trot, and generating flames and heat that nothing living: bird, animal or man, can withstand. With so many of our Weston and Wayland houses built right in the woods, often among highly inflammable pines, none of us can be too careful on these fine spring days.

So stub out your match or cigarette; and think, not once, but at least twice, long enough to ask the fire chief's permission as the law provides, before you build an outdoor fire.

Dial-It-Yourself Diet Devised As Short Cut by Weston Man

WESTON -- So what do you want - a simple way to diet? You've got it.

No need to remember a thing -- except to bring along your paperback "Cal-Tally", the invention of a Weston man who's been thinking about the dieter who can't resist food.

No strain and no heroics, is the way J. L. Hobby of Shaylor Lane explains his method. In his book, "How to Stick to a Diet," Mr. Hobby points out:

It only takes a few psychological short-cuts, and he comes to this conclusion after sifting the experience of a variety of dieters and upon the advice of leading psychologists and nutritional experts.

Chief conclusion: Biggest trouble is sticking to the diet, so that's where the calorie counter comes in -- the Cal-Tally. With this mechanical midget, you dial the total calories consumed for whatever food you're eating. Keep right up to snuff, Behind this dialing arrangement on the cover of the paperback, are index-tabbed pages to eliminate constant reference to the table of contents. More than 1000 foods are listed.

Mr. Hobby's book offers the Nine-Day, No Hunger Diet (relatively full meals) as well as the "No-Planned-Diet" that eliminates the fuss and bother of a formal diet where this is not essential.

So if you can remember to stick the book in your pocket at mealtime, you're in free . . . if you can remember to dial the right number.

Bits & Pieces

SUBURBIA: Yes, there is a difference between town & country, as that cab burglar in Weston found out. In the city, flagging a cab for a getaway is almost standard. But not out here, brother. Not with women's overnighters under your arm.

* * *

TIP: Understand summer will be held on July 4 and 5 this year. Plan now.

* * *

KIDS: What's with high schoolers taking over the libraries, when the spirit moves them, for clubhouse purposes nightly?

* * *

TELL-US TWINS: That's what they're calling Howard Smith and Henry Muller of Wayland for their bird-dogging of town boards. Getting an idea of how the town operates that way.

* * *

KNOW-HOW: And speaking of watch-dogs. Anyone's free to do it. Here -- or at the State House. That's what makes the Weston League of Women Voters' visit to the State House noteworthy. They got facts -- and know-how. It doesn't cost. Just two eyes and two ears.

* * *

The John Birchers may have a few more grumblers with them in their fight against taxes: martinis, dinner and two on the aisle won't be for free any more when President Kennedy's tax program gets through with that little old expense account. No one KNOWS, you understand, but there is dark suspicion among martini-drinkers that President Kennedy is a manhattan man.

* * *

Just a thought, but . . .

If the legislators, sitting as arbiters of the constitution, can vote for an amendment limiting their legislative sessions to six months:

Why - can't these same people, wearing their legislative hats, prove to us they really mean it? You know, get busy now and limit that little old session to six months this year?

S. Figure Skating Team.

The goal set by the committee is $50,000 the income from which will provide room and board as well as full tuition for one student each year.

Scholarships For Wayland Students

WAYLAND -- At both Harvard and Radcliffe Colleges, there are scholarship funds specifically available for "needy and deserving" undergraduate students from Wayland.

Upon his death in 1921, Jonathan Maynard Parmenter of Wayland pointed up his appreciation of the value of higher learning by first allotting and subsequently increasing bequests for the assistance of deserving students, preferably residents of Wayland. In memory of his mother and sister, two $5,000 scholarships were established at Radcliffe.

For Harvard College, Mr. Parmenter transferred to the Harvard Trust Company, as executors of his will, $200,000 in securities. These were to be held in trust and the income used to aid students. Later put into the Cambridge Foundation, these grants are known as the Henry D. Parmenter and Jonathan M. Parmenter Scholarships.

To date, some 46 young women have been assisted toward graduation at Radcliffe and over 1,300 Harvard students have attended college with Parmenter aid.

Massachusetts Audubon Society says the black-eyed Susan traveled eastward, probably in shipments of clover seeds, and became the state flower of Maryland.

Junior Town House: Where 10,000 Had Good Time - Tradition Rolls on WAYLAND -- They're grown up now but they still haven't forgotten the Junior Town House.

And why should they? Many of those who grew up here can still recall their first bit of school or their first dance under Town House direction.

Since 1943 more than 10,000 youngsters have participated in its activities.

"We get letters from old members," says George R. Johnson, president of the organization devoted to the welfare of local youngsters.

"And of course, many of the toddlers of yesterday are sending their own children back to kindergarten here," he adds.

Moving into its 18th year, the Junior Town House is still known as a generator of good projects having to do with youngsters.

Seeking annual funds, as it is now, Mr. Johnson stresses that the private organization attempts to start worthwhile activities and to carry them on until some other group is formed to carry on.

That's how youngsters first got skiing lessons, tenn-age dance parties and certain arts and crafts studies in the summer.

On $22,000 this year, the center ran its varied year-round activities. Most of the funds came from pre-school tuition, instruction fees, membership dues, contributions, and receipts from its June Strawberry Festival. The United fund provided $500, about 2 percent of the entire budget.

More than 1000 youngsters have received kindergarten instruction there since its founding in 1943. The waiting list is always long. There is no public kindergarten in Wayland.

The Town House also provides a location for Boy and Girl Scouts, Brownies, Cub Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, all of whom receive adult volunteer supervision.

In July: a five-week program of activities that include dancing, nature study, dramatics, painting and crafts.

Senior and junior high, with parents as chaperons, enjoy Friday and Saturday night dances at either the Claypit Hill or Happy Hollow Schools. The Junior assembly (9th grade) holds four dances. The senior assembly (10th through 12th grade) hold Christmas and spring dances.

During the school year, a three-hour Saturday morning program of recreation (games, gym work, bowling and trampoline instruction) is supervised for junior high students. And 5th and 6th graders get their first training in basketball.

For adults the June Strawberry Festival is one of the town's highlights. Then, dancing on the green and outdoor dining, are the big features and to climax the day a Festival Queen is chosen. Youngsters, too, have a good time during an afternoon of games.

Officers of the organization, other than Mr. Johnson, are James Burgess, chairman; Robert Travis, treasurer, and Mrs. Ray Harris, secretary.

The installation of an individual dri-heat food system direct from the dietician to patient, maintaining temperature and food flavor, is the goal of the Board of Directors and friends of the Associates.

Weston Wins Opener, 7-1

HOLLISTON -- It was poke-and-run as Weston High's Wildcats singled their way to a 7-1 opening day victory over Holliston here Apr. 19.

Art King fired a four-hitter but was never far ahead until the four-run seventh for the visitors. He walked 10. He fanned 9.

It was a great day for the parkas. Members of both squads were huddled in parkas during most of this low-hit affair. No extra base hits.

Wayland Man Describes Dramatic Rescue at Sea

WAYLAND -- You can bet 25-foot waves in a raging snow storm at sea are nothing to play around with.

Elmer Powers, 45, of French St., in the Cochituate section, was in the middle of that kind of weather as members of the crew of the Esso Raleigh rescued 35 men from the foundering Liberty ship Marine Merchant about 5 a.m., Friday Apr. 14.

The fireman-water tender home for one day after the dramatic rescue in the Gulf of Maine, about 55 miles due east of Portsmouth, N.H., said the waves and the driving snow made the rescue in two lifeboats especially difficult.

Mr. Powers said many of those rescued were in a state of shock after the 300-yard pull through the waves. Some had their clothes in shreds from the rescue.

The tanker, nearly in Boston after 5 1/2 day trip from Galveston, Tex., received an urgent call from the Coast Guard about midnight Thursday and made its way through rough seas to effect the rescue. The stricken ship sank about three hours after the rescue.

But for Mr. Powers one rescue under these circumstances is enough.

Cochituate Troop 1 Camps Out in Sudbury

WAYLAND -- As scheduled, a two-night over-nighter was conducted Friday and Saturday, Apr. 14 and 15. Scoutmaster Brown of Troop 1, Cochituate, led a smaller than usual group to Ted Nurczynski's Farm on Hudson Road in Sudbury. As is frequently the case among outdoors-men, a goodly number of Scouts are A. A's - Avid Anglers - and remained at home to be better situated for welcoming the fishing season.

Accompanying Mr. Brown were: John Keaney, Jack Balben, Rennie Francheschi and Ricky King. Also leaving on Friday evening were Bob Sutherland, Craig Whitehouse and Ricky Davidson. Joining the group Saturday evening, were Assistant Scoutmasters Edward Messom and Greg Lynes and Scout Phil Lynes.

'Twas Knot Wayland's Day, 5-All

WAYLAND -- You can't say they didn't try. But after nine innings at junior high field, Wayland and Concord Highs were still on dead center, 5-5.

Concord jumped all over Bill Wilkinson for a 5-0 lead -- with the aid of three errors. The home team came to life in the seventh and in the ninth, Tom Linnehan started off with a double that led to the two tying runs. A called third strike ended the Indians' last-of-the-ninth threat.

Linnehan relieved Wilkinson in the seventh and kept the visitors scoreless with a well-controlled fast ball. He looks like Wayland's No. 2 moundsman.

Weston Girl Outlines Safety On Horseback

WESTON -- The Town Crier passes on to horse-consclous suburbia this example of first-rate reporting and helpful warning written by Pat Amadon of Weston, alert secretary of the 4-H Club:

At a Weston 4-H Horse Club meeting the leaders and members were honored to have the Weston Chief of police, Frank Shaw, as their guest speaker. He gave an interesting and helpful talk about riding safety on the roads. Several points were brought up which, if followed, would be a great help to motorists and horsemen alike. These were:

1. If riding on the road can be avoided, please do so.
2. If riding on the road is unavoidable, try to ride when the traffic is light (between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.).
3. Ride with the traffic - (the right hand side of the road).
4. Do not fool around; watch where you are going.
5. Stay off sidewalks, lawns and private property.
6. Stay off the roads after dark.
7. If riding after dark is absolutely unavoidable, wear light colored clothing.

Remember, the life you save may not only be yours and your horse's - but also that of an innocent motorist!

A NEW IDEA FOR 1961!

"LITTLE TREE WORLD"

FEATURING JUNIOR PLANTS FOR BUDGET GARDENS

In addition to our complete selection of landscape size nursery stock — we offer this new idea in gardening.....

Last year we made some new friends. We talked with lots of people. We weren't able to meet all requests or fill every order, but we tried to please... and you know we found everyone had a genuine interest in growing plants. We also found folks wanted top notch quality and true named varieties. There was a strong desire to buy and we helped round out many a landscape picture . . . but we also learned that folks would buy more plants if their budget allowed.

We held a council meeting to discuss this revelation! We even found the answer! . . . Give folks quality stock at budget prices and potted to insure safe transplanting, and everyone will start a plant collection. Needless to say we didn't shelve this logic, - we put it to work! Now a new era in garden shopping is underway at Arbor-Way - for folks who like plants the way we do. Come on over and see what our brand new "LITTLE TREE WORLD" has in store for you.

A complete selection of flowering shrubs, trees and evergreens - two and three years old. Every plant growing in a band or pot. No burlap, no bare roots, no drying or transplanting shock. And best of all -- we've reestablished the purchase value of a dollar billll! Sure the older plants may cost 2 dollars more or less, but your garden budget won't squeak after a day at Arbor-Way's Little Tree World! . . . cause here's a small idea of what's waiting here for you -

Don't Look Now — Another Fire

covered when several fires in this region strip the station of personnel.

What further complicates the situation is the fact that during the Rte. 117 bridge rebuilding, Weston's Engine No. 1 has the additional job of responding to Waltham calls west of Rte. 128.

This number of fires in one day and practically at the same moment bore down heavily on Weston's department which could stand extra men.

In other fire calls last week, Weston firemen found that lightning does strike twice in the same place -- more or less. During the Apr. 10 whatsis storm, lightning struck at 26 Perry Lane.

Firemen responded at 5:18 and then after handling another lightning call on North Av. returned to 14 Perry Lane where they discovered that lightning had struck and knocked out part of the electrical system.

Firemen reported nine runs in a bit over a week, including one brush fire (last Thursday) on Bear Hill Rd., Waltham.

But please -- no more Friday the 14th.

Approval Given For 10 Homes On Old Ct. Path

WAYLAND -- The way was cleared for the construction of 10 new homes on Old Connecticut Path adjacent to the Mainstone Farm this week.

The planning Board approved a plat of 10 lots for the Reeves Hill Trust at its meeting last Monday.

The lots range from a 60,000 square-foot minimum -- seven of them to four acres.

Allen Finlay is president of the Reeves Hill Trust. Mr. Finlay, as school committee man and for many years a member of the School Building Committee, has been a prime mover in the expansion of the local school plant.

One lot on Old Connecticut Path has four acres, another approximately three. Another situated at the turnaround of a new road approved with the plat has approximately two acres.

Present at the meeting: L. William Bertelsen, Edward Thorburn and Robert Charnock.

Mental Health Assn. Annual Meeting May 4

FRAMINGHAM -- The annual meeting of the Framingham Mental Health Asso. will be held next Thursday during the observance of Mental Health Week, at the new Millis Junior-Senior High School, off Rte. 115.

A catered roast beef dinner at 6:15 will be followed by the annual meeting at 8. There will be several group workshops, developed around a central theme of Prevention: A Community Challenge for Better Mental Health.

Quarry Decision Due

an otherwise residential area.

Actually, what complicates the problem is the fact that the stone firm, always in the Robinson family, antedates all Weston zoning ordinances.

After a court case in 1951, the firm successfully resisted efforts to turn some of its quarry property into residential land.

The present wedge of land at issue, next to the Central Massachusetts division tracks, is owned by the firm and is used for storage under a variance granted several years ago.

Further complicating the whole question is a series of agreements between the firm and the town about their respective rights as to property usage.

Many objectors on Apr. 10 pointed out that the firm could bring its stone from Western Mass. into Waltham and then back out on the Fitchburg line from which the company has two spur tracks.

But the answer: Too costly and time-consuming, when the company tried to carry out its plans for handling 40 cars of stone a day.

The quarry firm has limited the amount of crushing done at the site. Much of the stone from outside Weston would be processed before reaching Weston where it would undergo further crushing.

Atty. Norman Byrnes and Richard Robinson, firm president, presented the company's case.

Guy Garland, chairman of the Appeals Board, promised a decision on the complicated case next week.

Co-op To Award $2,000 Scholarship

The Co-op will again award a $2,000 scholarship to some deserving high school senior who shows interest in the general areas of business administration, public relations or retailing, and who would benefit from a college education. The student will be chosen from a high school in one of the surrounding towns serviced by The Co-op, Inc. These towns are Wellesley, Natick, Framingham, Ashland, Sherborn, Holliston, Dover, Wayland and Sudbury. This scholarship also applies to a son or daughter of a resident in the foregoing towns attending private school.

The purpose of the scholarship is to assist in developing more competent leadership in cooperative organizations and business firms in general.

The $2,000 scholarship will help pay for a 4-year course. Annual installments of $500 each will be paid to the bursar of the college selected by the recipient.

Applications must be made on a form furnished by our scholarship Committee. This committee will be responsible for the selection of the student. At the close of each school year, the committee will re-evaluate, with the student, his progress to determine his eligibility for renewal. To retain eligibility, the student must maintain a satisfactory school standing as well as good character development. Applications should be made immediately.

Candidates attending local and outside schools should contact their Guidance Director or the main office of The Co-op, Inc., 38 North Avenue, Natick, Massachusetts.

Arbor Day Program At Wayland High School

WAYLAND -- A program of flag raising, singing and the planting of trees will mark Wayland High School's annual Arbor Day program sponsored by the Wayland Kiwanis and Massachusetts Arborist Association will take place at the new high school at 8:30 a.m. April 28.

A dogwood tree will be donated by the Kiwanis and a flowering crab tree by the Taylor & Cox Tree Co.

Cub Pack Tries 'Space' Venture With 16-Ft. Balloon

WAYLAND -- Just stand by. Cub Pack No. 1 of Wayland will launch that hot air balloon. Not tonight, as planned but next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. from the high school grounds.

Don't worry, the stove providing the hot air will remain down here to lessen the fire hazard. The 16-foot balloon will be sent up 500 feet, according to Robert L. Boyles, pack committee secretary.

"With considerable luck," he adds with commendable modesty, "it could be recovered and launched again."

Weston Residents Studying Conservation

WESTON -- Residents enrolled in the spring courses in Adult Education at the Massachusetts Audubon Society's Hatheway School of Conservation Education in South Lincoln are: Mrs. Henri B. Atkins, Mr. Edward Gruener, Mrs. Alan M. Campbell and Mrs. Harold H. Johnson Jr.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society says that the Saw-whet Owl does not hoot, but emits a series of evenly-spaced mechanical repetitious whistles sounding like someone whetting a saw.

Country Evening Concerts Experience Steady Growth

WESTON -- In the autumn of 1950, Selene Howe of Weston and Phyllis Knox Carlton of Wellesley gave a two-piano recital in Weston. They performed selections from Mozart, Brahms Milhaud and other composers. When it was over, a member of the audience was inspired to say that it would be wonderful if Weston could have such music every year - and from this remark was born Weston's unique Country Evening Concert Series, which recently concluded its tenth anniversary season.

During that 1950 autumn, an enterprising group of music lovers organized a small committee, which sought the advice of Mrs. John W. Myers, founder and chairman of the Boston Morning Musicals, and Aaron Richmond, the Boston impresario. By early January three artists - mezzo-soprano Jennie Tourel, pianist Witold Malcuzynski and balladeer Richard Dyer-Benet - had been signed up for three Friday evenings in the following year.

It was a daring thing to engage these top-flight artists without a cent of money in the kitty to pay them with. But the committee had faith that in Weston, Wayland and neighboring communities there were enough people who liked really fine music to justify such a committment. And, sure enough, eighty generous sponsors, mostly in Weston and Wayland, contributed funds to the project. (This, by the way, was the only time that the Country Evening Concert Group ever had to "go begging").

Then the committee set out to sell space in a non-existent program book. The solicitors were persuasive, and merchants and service organizations had confidence. At last the enterprise was off to an auspicious start.

Thanks to the efforts of a sympathetic Weston lawyer, the group achieved recognition by the federal government as a non-profit organization, which was of financial help. Still, the first seasons were a struggle.

At a meeting of the committee during the fourth season the possibility of presenting lighter musical fare was discussed, with the idea that it might boost attendance and increase revenue. However, when a secret ballot was taken to determine whether to abandon the whole enterprise, change to more popular music or continue on the same high plane, the latter alternative won by a large majority. "Full speed ahead." said one optimistic voter.

The faith of the group was rewarded during the fifth season, when the Budapest String Quartet attracted a sell-out audience. It was in this year, also, that the organization gave its first scholarship, to a student at the New England Conservatory of Music. With one exception, this practice has been followed every year since then.

The Series' tenth anniversary was celebrated in January of this year with a large reception, featured by a speech by Henri Temianka, first violinist and leader of the Paganini Quartet, which gave the opening night concert.

So the Weston Country Evening Concert Series goes steadily forward. Advertising revenue, without which it could not have continued is up. Series sales are up. Single seat sales are up. Two of the events this winter were completely sold out, the third was practically SRO.

Meanwhile, next season is already arranged, with duo-pianists Vronsky and Babin, baritone Louis Sgarro and the Albeneri Trio signed for another series of three Friday evenings in the Country School Auditorium. And the happy lesson the committee has learned is that in communities such as Weston, Wayland and surrounding towns, although it may take long and arduous effort - if you offer the public only the best in music, the public will buy it.
